ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1948 NUMBER 1

Ice Storm Covers Wide Area

One of the worst storms of the century crippled travel, communications and business in hundreds of cities from Iowa to the Atlantic coast last Thursday, tied up the great metropolitan area of New York for the second time in a week and caused damage in the millions of dollars.

The storm affected more than 60,000,000 persons in the heavily populated 16 state area and a cold wave was following right on its heels.

The storm affected communities in Iowa, southern Wisconsin, Mo., Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Pa. New York, New Jersey, Connecticut Rhode Island, Mass., Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

It swept freezing rains, sleet, knocking out communications and essential services in many towns. It dirupted rail, bus and plane schedules, forced some businesses and factories to close, and isolated scores of communities.

Heavy Loss to Electric and Telephone Companies

The most extensive damage in De Kalb county was to electric and telephone lines. Many lines that had been replaced only last year with new poles and wire were laid flat again last week. The damage will run into many thousand dollars

No major accidents were reported but the service trucks and wreckers were kept busy pulling autos out of the ditch.

The time of day according to electric clocks in St. Joe and surrounding communities was six o'clock from that time Thursday morning to approximately nine o'clock Saturday forenoon. There was no great damage reported by restaurants, stores or homes due to the lack of electricity. A few, including the writer, who depend upon electricity to operate their heating plant, were forced to abandon their homes and take advantage of the hospitality of their neighbors or relatives for the duration.

Electric power off and on spasmotically from the time it was restored Saturday morning until Sunday night. Electricity was not restored to Spencerville until Saturday night.

Telephone service from St. Joe to all other towns and cities was disrupted early Thursday, and it is not Thursday morning and it is not known when it will be restored. Marjorie Ramsey, the local telephone operator reports that since the districts from which help was summoned last year is also affected this year, linemen will have to be sought from a much greater distance.

According to Mrs. Ramsey, the damage in St. Joe alone will reach an estimated $1,500.

Only 68 out of 157 phones are now usable. The damage to telephone lines in the Angola district is estimated to be $125,000.

Linemen, both telephone and electric, working day and night are exerting every effort to restore normal service as soon as possible.

Business Baron

Gustavus Franklin Swift, founder of Swift & Co., left school when he was 14 years old to work for his brother, a butcher, for $1 a week. At 16 he entered the business world with $20 borrowed capital. When he died at 63, Swift was head of the meat-packing firm which had a capitalization of $25,000,000.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Carl D. Carpenter will take part in a discussion on the "Farm Front" program over radio station, WLW of Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 11, 1948 at 8 a.m. central time.

Program will be broadcast from Everybodys Farm at Mason Ohio. The subject will be "Should the Cost of Production be Guaranteed."

Mrs. Margaret Hull, of Helena, Ohio, is here visiting with Lora Leighty and mother, Mrs. Loretta Hull.

Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Sennett, who went to Mississippi for the Holidays have been unable to return due to the illness of Mr. Sennett, who has been under the doctors care.

Miss Pat Carpenter who is a senior at Purdue University, has won the distinction of being placed in the "Who's Who" in the National Association of American Colleges. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter and sons took Pat back to resume her studies.

Mrs. Helen Randall of Russell Point, Ohio, spent the past few days here with Mrs. Jane Randall.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. DuWayne Kinsey of Englewood, Calif., on December 31, a son. This is their third child.

Carl Carpenter attended the Century Farms meeting Friday at Lafayette. During this meeting the Carpenter farm was recognized as having been in the family for 111 years. Others recognized were Clyde Hart in Spencer Twp. and Mrs. Nellie Farver in Jackson Twp. whose farms also have continued in the family for 100 years or more.

Word has been received from Pearl Shirts of Ft. Wayne, a former resident of this locality, that she fell and broke her hip last Sept. and has been hospitalized, but is now home and spends her time in a wheel chair, as to when she will be able to walk, is not known. She sends her best regards to all her old friends. Her address is 227 Darrow Ave., Ft. Wayne, 6, Ind.

Maurice Hurni, and Miss Doris Hosteler, of Westville, spent over Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Williard Hurni.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crothers and daughter, Shirley, entertained as guests: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Schultz, of Albion; Mr. and Mrs. Edwards and daughter, of Auburn; Mr. Don Myers, Auburn; Mrs. Frank Myers and sons, of Ft. Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Heitz and daughters, of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garman, of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crothers and sons of South Bend; Mr. and Mrs. James Crothers, of Markle; and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bragg.

Paul Crothers has accepted a position in the engineering department of the Bendix Corp. at South Bend, and will move his family there as soon as he can find a suitable house.

While Mr. and Mrs Harold Kagey were waiting at the R. R. station in Ft. Wayne Sunday morning for Karl Hart and his son Tom, Mrs. Kagey struck up a conversation with a lady who also apparently was waiting for some one. In the course of the conversation the lady mentioned that she was waiting for her son to come after her, although she couldn't phone him and he didn's know just when she was coming. It turned out that the lady was Mrs. Duker, mother of Mr. C.O. Duker of St. Joe. It was a lucky coinsident, although they did have to wait from one until eleven o'clock for the train.

U.N. Facts and Faces . . . . . NORWAY

Norway, a mountainous country extending from the frozen Arctic to the gateway of the Baltic Sea, is known all over the world by her merchant fleet. The sea, washing 12,000 miles of coastline, provides natural industry for Norway's 3,000,000 people, who are among the world's greatest sailors and fishermen. Her farmers live mainly along the famous fjords (inlets) and in valleys deep in the rugged mountains, which also furnish water power for electricity to run Norway's industries. The country is a Kingdom and gave the United Nations its Secretary-General, Trygve Lie. Its Permanent Representative at U.N. Headquarters is Finn Moe; its flag red with a white-bordered blue cross.

TIGERS WIN FIRST GAME OF YEAR; 32 TO 23 OVER SCOTT CENTER

The St. Joe High Tigers finally shook off the plague of defeats that have been trailing them since the season opened, to hang a 32 to 23 defeat on the Scott Center Bulldogs, at the St. Joe gym. Tuesday evening.

The game a somewhat loosely played game with numerous fouls called started off slowly, and was in a 4 all deadlock at the first quarter.

The Tigers took a 11 to 9 lead near the end of the second quarter, when H. Miller hit on a beautiful two handed pivot shot from quarter court, and split the net a moment later with a one handed hook shot from the sidelines.

The locals held the Steuben county five to just one foul line toss in the third quarter, while they were countering on a foul toss by D. Miller, and field goals by Lochner, Walters and H. Miller, to make the score read 18 to 10 as they entered the final period.

Both teams enjoyed a fairly good last quarter of scoring with the Tigers adding up 14 and Scott Centotaling 13.

H. Miller of the local squad, and Evans for the visiting five, ran neck and neck for scoring honors with Miller finally edging out his opponent 14 to 13.

The Tiger Seconds looked very impressive in their 31 to 22 win over the Scott seconds, with Wade, Dickman, Murphy, Fetters, Hanna and Kees, all adding fairly good in the scoring. The Tigers go into action again Thursday evening when they meet the Butler Windmills in the first varsity game of the county tournament to be played at Garrett.

SIX MONTHS OLD BABY DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Michael Lynn Harris, age six months, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Harris, of St. Joe, died of pneumonia while enroute to the hospital, Tuesday, December 30. The child was ill only six days and his condition was not considered serious until late Tuesday evening. The childwas being taken to an Auburn hospital to be put in an oxygen tent when he died.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. New Years Day at the Johnson Funeral home in Butler. Rev. Thomas Martin of the Milford Church of Christ officiated. Burial was made in the River View cemetery in Newville.

Surviving are the parents, two sisters and one brother.

SOME FARMERS TO PAY INCOME TAX AT DIFFERENT RATES

Hundreds of Indiana farmers, now preparing to pay their state gross income tax, may find it necessary to pay the levy on their 1947 receipts at three different rates.

"There has been no change in the state law, Walter L. Sturdevant, chief deputy of the tax division, told reporters here today, "it just happens that many farmers actually are wholesalers, retailers and wage earners."

Farmers who have no income other than that from the sale of their crops to grain elevators, produce and livestock dealers and others who buy for resale will qualify for the one-fourth of one per cent rate on all receipts exceeding the $1,000 exemption allowed by law.

However, Mr. Sturdevant pointed out, the current regulations provide that "the farmer who sells any farm products to a consumer shall be deemed to have receipts from retail sales taxable at one percent, unless the farmer qualifies as a retail merchant, in which event the sales are taxable at one-half of one percent".

If live stock is sold for either dairy or breeding purposes, the transaction then is considered as a sale of capital assets and is taxable at one per cent along with all sums realized from the sale of implements, equipment and household goods offered at either a public or private sale.

The farmer who has received money from the rental or the sale of land, rental of equipment, prizes or premiums, or payment for personal services is obligated to report such receipts and to pay tax on such income at the one per cent rate.

Mr. Sturdevant urged that all taxpayers, who received their tax forms by direct mail, use the preaddressed blanks in order to make credited to the proper accounts.

Other taxpayers will find the blanks available at all auto license branches and at most banks and trust companies throughout the state. These, accompanied by the correct remittance, should be returned to the Indiana Gross Income Tax Division, 141 South Meridian Street, Indianapolis, no later than midnight, January 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reidenbach.

Mr. James Rhodenbaugh died Friday p.m., January 2, at Wayne Co. General hospital. He had been ill for some time with bronchial pneumonia. Funeral services were held Monday at 8 p.m., at the Nixon Funeral home, Lincoln Park, Mich.

Mr. Rhodenbaugh was a former resident of St. Joe for a number of years.

The Coburn Corners church members all came over to the St. Joe Church of Christ Sunday morning and visited church and bible school there. They were unable to hold services because of no electricity.

SPENCERVILLE NEWS

The storm of Thursday, Jan. 1, was very severe - - with ice on the wires and ground. Mr. and Mrs. James Reed and daughter, Adair, were guests of Miss Ida Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kimes Sr. were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kimes Jr. and family, on account of the electric lights being out.

The Young Ladies Social Club was pleasantly entertained on Wed. evening at the home of Mrs. Bernice Wilder at Coburn Corners. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Bernice Wilder, Mrs. Cleo Reed, Mrs. Helen Koch and Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner.

Miss Peggie Koch and Miss Nancy Venderly who have been visiting relatives in South Bend returned home Monday morning.

School started on Monday morning with a good attendance.

The Lights were off on Monday morning causing the alumium factory to close.

The telephones went out on Jan 1. and it is impossible to use them.

LOYAL WOMEN HOLD CLASS PARTY

Fourteen members of the Loyal Womens class of St. Peters Lutheran Church as Spencerville, held their monthly class meeting at the home of Winifred Shook, Wed. nesday evening, Dec. 31. A very appropriate Christmas program was presented by the month committee, Flossie Rhoades. The new officers for the year are: President - Flossie Rhodes; Vice Pres. - Edna Goldsmith; Secretary and Treasurer - Pearl Goldsmith; Assn't. Sec. Treas. Leona Haupt; Teacher - Fern Walter; Assnt. Teacher - Charlotte Miller.

The contests that followed proved very entertaining. Prizes were won by Zelpha Steward and Pearl Goldsmith. Mrs. Flossie Rhodes received the door prize. The Christmas gift exchange was enjoyed by all. A greeting from Mrs. Eva Elson from Harvey, Ill., was greatly appreciated. The Christmas spirit was prevalent throughout the evening. A bountiful carry-in dinner was served. Many thanks were extended Mrs. Shook for the delightful evening. The January meeting will be held in the home of Flossie Rhodes.

CLYDE HART WRITES FROM PORT RICHEY, FLORIDA

January 1, 1948

To our Indiana Friends:

We arrived here on Dec. 24, and found a pleasant cabin awaiting us, also some friends from the North. Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Webb of Montgomery, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Myers of Hicksville, O.

The camp is located on the mouth of the Cotee river and about a mile from the Gulf of Merico. The weather is warm in fact we ran into warm weather in Central Alabama on our way down.

We came by the way of Louisville, Nashville, Birmingham and Montgomery, no mountains of importance are on this route. We started on December 22. We took about three days on the trip and and traveled twelve hundred miles.

The "For Rent" signs idicate that there are less people in Florida than formerly or more people are using house trailers.

The citrus industry is suffering from over production and their profits are mighty small, the processors are paying only twenty cents a crate in the grove for oranges. The fact is they pay more per bushel to the pickers than the grower gets for the fruit. Tangarine trees are loaded with fruit but they will never be picked becaus they are overripe. We buy grape fruit, "great big seeedless ones" for twenty cents per dozen. Things here except milk, butter and eggs are no higher than in the north. Sugar is much cheaper. Eggs are eighty five cents per dozen. Fishing is no good and no one seems to know why. The commerical fisherman have folded up their nets and quit for the winter. A few have gone down around the Keys to ply their trade.

We went to church last night, and "belive it or not" there was not one child present out of a crowd of one hundred or more, of course most of the people who are here are eldery people.

Wishing "you all" a happy New Year.

Yours Truly
Clyde Hart

Arden Inlow Home Destroyed By Fire

A furnace explosion was blamed for the blaze which swept through the Arden Inlow home, 2½ mile N. E. of the Newville U.B. Church early Thursday evening The blaze totally destroyed the farm home and all its contents.

Due to the sleeet storm, summoning of the Hicksville, St. Joe and Spencerville Fire Departments was delayed and the blaze was beyond control when the trucks arrived.

Mr. Inlow, first to arrive at the scene tried to enter the house but was forced back by the intense heat and smoke. All other attempts to enter the house to remove articles were useless. A wallet containing about $50, and other valuable papers were lost in the blaze. One of the two dogs that Mr. Inlow kept, also failed to escape.

Mr. and Mrs. Inlow had been at the home of the wifes parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Keener, about a quarter a mile away when the blaze started. Mr. Inlow had returned to the house about 45 minutes before the blaze was noticed, leading to the belief that the blaze was started by an explosion in the furnace rather than from overheating. The exact amount of coverage is not known at this time.

TRUSTEES, AND ADVISORY BOARD HOLD MEETINGS

Monday marked the first 1948 meeting of the county board of education. The Trustees met with Mr. Stallman in his office in the courthouse in Auburn.

Plans were made for the coming inspection of the rural schools of the county which will be held the week of Jan. 12. H. Ross Jackson of Indianapolis, assistant state school inspector, will call at rural schools. The township trustees were asked to be present when the inspector arrives at their school.

Foreign Candy

The total value of the 1,019,245 pounds of foreign-made candy sold across U. S. counters in 1940 was $210,523. Since then, foreign nations' candy sales have skyrocketed and in 1945 foreign candy manufacturers sent 62,575,000 pounds of candy to this country, valued at $9,722,000, according to department of commerce. In the meantime, U. S. confectioners have been exporting candy into these nations. In prewar 1940, candy exports amounted to 5,609,000 pounds valued at $1,037,000. In 1945, candy men exported 18,000,000 pounds valued at $5,000,000.

Uncle Sam Says

What did the Secretary of the State of Wyoming say to the Banking Commissioner when they met in Cheyenne in 1937? "I'd like to find a plan to assure a comfortable retirement for myself and my family," said the Secretary of State. "Why don't you do what I am doing, buy Savings Bonds regularly out of income?" his friend replied. Today they have begun the second 10 years of their retirement plan. The then Secretary of State is now Governor Lester C. Hunt, and the former Bank Commissioner is the present director of Savings Bonds sales. You, too, can emulate their example. If you invest $18.75 each month in a Series E Savings Bond of $25 maturity value over a period of 20 years and hold ALL the bonds to maturity you will receive an average yearly income of $700 for the ten years following.

NEWVILLE NEWS

Ralph Baughman who was injured recently at a factory in Spencerville, became worse last week and was taken back to the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wyatt and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Washler attended the funeral of Mason Wyatt at Angola Dec. 30.

The sleet storm disrupted power and telephone service and did considerable damage to trees, Newville was like a ghost town for several days.

Fire from a defective furnace chimney was the cause of the fire which occured about 7:00, Jan.1, destroying the home of Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Inlow, near the state line. The family were at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Keener, when the fire occured.

Feed the birds while the ice and sleet covers the ground. They like grain, sun flower seeds, bread, suet, cake crumbs and cracked walnuts and butternuts.

SERPENT SEEN IN BOSTON HARBOR

"Sea serpents" turned up again last month in Boston Harbor. John F. Ruhl, a Medford, Mass., piano tuner, sighted the first one off Lynn Beach, so say Pathfinder.

It was 50 feet long, Ruhl said, and writhed its black coils in and out of the sea like a rolling barrel. Its back showed above the surface at intervals of six feet.

"I know nobody will believe me," added the serpent spotter, "but I saw it and my daughters saw it, and I'm no fool."

Rural Gravure, an 8-page rotogravure picture section, will be an added feature of the St. Joe News, Starting in February. This feature, presented once a month, will be an informative and interesting addition to our regular publication.

It will contain photo stories on rural life, two pages devoted to modern farming, and a cook's corner with recipes which homemakers will find especially interesting. The cook's corner will contain a variety of new and different recipes for easily prepared meals with appetizing photos of some of the suggested dishes.

Subjects to be covered in the modern farming pages include "Calf Feeding" in the February issue and in the months ahead, "Planning and Planting", "Modern Hay Methods" and "Dairy Herd Improvement."

This exclusive picture section represents months and months of preparation. It is presented to subscribers as an additional service to the community by the News.

LIGHT PANCAKES FROM A MIX

If you want especially light pancakes you'll be better off if you separate the eggs and beat the whites very stiff. Then add the eyg yolks to the beaten whites and beat the whole business again. For especially tender pancakes, adding 2 tablespoons of melted shortening to every 2 cups of mix does the trick.

Grease the griddle lightly with a piece of soft paper dipped on shortening. All you need is a very thin film of fat on the surface, just enough to keep the pancakes from sticking.

Test the griddle for correct temperature by putting a drop or two of water on it. Little balls will form and dance around merrily. It is not hot enough if the drop of water foams up.

Drop batter on the griddle with a large spoon. Pancakes should never touch so don't put on too many at time or the batter will run together and the cakes will be more difficult to turn.

Turn pancakes when they are brown on the under side and before all the little bubbles that have formed on top break. If a griddle is smooth it will not need further greasing.

Presidents Arthur, Cleveland and Wilson were sons of ministers.

The Ohio river is nearly 1,000 miles in length is 1,5000 feet in width in several places and contains numerous islands.

According to Federal statistics the American farmer receives 52 cents of every dollar spent by consumers for his products.

The combined assets of the American farmers, according to Federal statistics, 111 billion dollars. Before the last war they were 54 billion.

AUTOS SHOULD BE WASHED IN WINTER

Automobiles should be washed frequently in the winter time to avoid damage from salt-abrasive mixtures extensively used to melt street ice and snow, according to E. L. Harrig, national service manager of the Chevrolet Motor Div.

Street brine when splashed on a car, Harrig said, may not only damage the body paint, but also is harmful to the chassis. A weekly car bath not only improves the appearance of the vehicle, but also will add to its life.

Salt is used by many highway departments, because it decreases the freezing point of water to approximately seven degrees above zero.

Exotic Delicacies

A mountaineer who came into town saw a bunch of bananas for the first time. He asked the dealer what they were.

"Bananas," he said; and then he good-naturedly added, "Try one."

"No, I reckon not," the man from the mountains replied. "I've got so many tastes now I can't satisfy, I ain't aimin' to take on any more."

After Santa Claus

Father was not greatly pleased by the school report brought to him by his hopeful. "How is it," he demanded, "that you stand so much lower in your studies for January than for December?"

"Why Dad," the boy replied in an injured tone, "don't you know that everything is marked down after the holidays?"

'TIS A GOOD WORLD

The knight of the road hit the lady of the house for a handout. As she passed over a sandwich she asked, "By the way, have you ever been offered a job?"

Identified

Discussing his epitaph, Sir John Strange said, "I want no fuss, nothing fancy. I simply want these words on my stone: 'Here lies a lawyer who always spoke the truth.'"

"But," a friend protested, "no one will know who rests there."

"Oh, yes, they will know," Sir John replied. "'All who read will say, 'That's strange!'"

Irreconcilable

Russia today is firmly opposed to almost everything and anything that America suggests. There is one possible exception, and that is: aid to Russia. Since Russia's cross-purposes with us are so evident, it is natural to ask why she got that way. Why does she find it convenient, ever to go out of her way, to oppose America?

It is not because we did not help Russia enough during the war. Matter of fact, we helped Russia then to the extent of $11,681,000,000. This was lend-lease, of which we will expect to get little or nothing in return. What we got from Russia in reverse lend-lease, compared with the more than $11½ billions that went her way, was little more than 1-500 of one billion — only $2,213,000.

Disguised Purposes

Then, when UNRRA decided to accumulate a big fund to help needy nations, America gave 70 per cent of the total. Our part was $2,279,000,000. The Russians did not put up anything. Yet Russia has helped to manage UNRRA. Actually, Russia has so manipulated the aid to several European countries that the people there thought they were being helped by Russia, rather than by America.

Now, the Marshall plan calls for additional help for European countries. It proposes that America use from $15 to $22 billions in an effort to get those countries on a self-sustaining basis. Not only does Russia oppose this aid, but she has inspired the creation of the Communist International. This organization operates in nine different countries and is dedicated to complete opposition to anything that resembles American policy in international affairs.

Good Neighbors?

Just why this continued opposition from Russia? In my opinion, it comes definitely from the fact that Communism is irreconcilable to the American way of life. If it be observed that Communism did not offer opposition during the war, it may also be observed that Communist leaders temporarily went underground while America was helping Russia stave off disaster.

As soon as the war was over, as soon as lend-lease quit flowing to Russia, the Communists began to oppose every move for peaceful stabilization. They wanted defeated countries to remain defeated. Peaceful and prosperous countries find Communism unattractive, indeed. But Russia has now solidified her opposition to peace. Russia offers long-range opposition to America's desire for peace, through her International.

This is the answer: Communism is antagonistic to almost every basic principle in the American way of life. It is opposed to religion, to the sacredness of marriage, to private ownership of property, to freedom of the individual, to freedom of the press and of speech. The Russians deny that we can be their neighbors. They fear a demonstration of the superiority of the American way — a brand of democracy that does not need to call up an International to protect itself.

The chief products of South Carolina are tobacco, cotton rice and textiles.

Massachusetts ranks first in the manufacture of textile goods and boots and shoes.

SLEEPLESSNESS

MANY people complain that they do not sleep at night, and that they are tired and peeless when they get up in the morning. These individuals actually sleep much more than they think they do. It is common to be wakeful on first going to bed, and this period often seems longer than it is.

The test of sufficient sleep is whether there has been enough to restore the bodily functions. Quiet, relaxed rest in bed may do just about as much good as sleep itself. Very few diseases cause sleeplessness or insomnia. These usually produce other symptoms besides insomnia.

Worry is the principal cause of inability to go to sleep. The mind especially of those who do desk work, is often too active at night and makes sleep difficult. People who get a lot of outdoor exercise suffer far less from insomnia. The problem is how to turn off the thoughts and worries of the day when going to bed.

Reading a book is often helpful. Many people find soothing music a relaxing pre-bedtime occupation. Handwork of some kind helps others. Warm milk or some other warm drink just before retiring is also relaxing.

The tendency of using drugs as a sort of crutch in getting to sleep should be resisted. Most sleep-producing drugs are habit-forming if taken over a long period, and after a while they do not even produce the sleep which is desired.

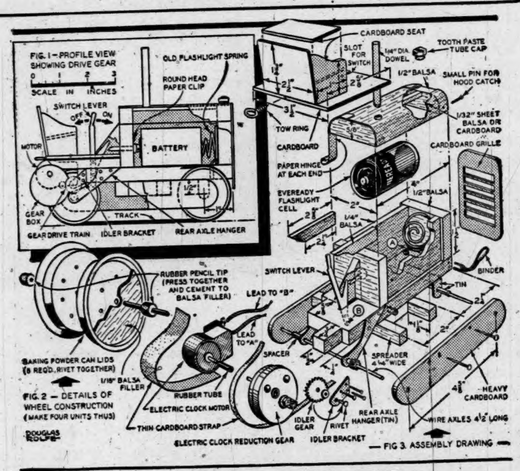
FATHER and SON



CATERPILLAR TRACTOR

Budget: Dad, $3.00 for motor — Son, 90c for materials.

Dear Dad:

This is a far more ambitious project than has been presented so far in the Father and Son series. Everything is built about the chassis. This member is a piece of ½" x 2" balsa, 6¼" long, slotted as shown in the assembly drawing (Fig. 3), to accommodate motor and gear box. Both these units are taken from self-winding clocks and in this case were drawn from war surplus stock.

Motor and gear box are connected with a short length of either rubber or plastic tubing. Pressed over the respective shafts this affords a flexible joint and makes exact alignment less important than a rigid connection involves. Perfect alignment in the gear train to the rear axle and also perfect alignment of front and rear axles is, however, a must. If the drive gear train is not just right the gears will either slip or lock. If axles are not lined up the tracks will tend to climb off the flanges.

One Eveready flashlight battery is specified but, in this case, I suggest the possibility of substituting two Eveready penlight 1½ volt cells for added power.

Best procedure in building this model is to make a full size drawing from the side view shown in Fig. 1. Then you have full size patterns for the axle hangers and so forth. Do not under any circumstances fix the motor and gear box permanently until an easy non-jumping, non-locking gear drive has been established.

Idler gear and drive pinion can be taken from old clocks but care must be taken here to ensure that gears selected mesh properly with the gear box pinion which comes with the gear box. Gears should be meshed as closely as possible without locking.

Wheels are made as shown in Fig. 2. As mentioned earlier, smaller wheels are desirable if smaller lids are available. If soldering facilities are available by all means solder the flanges together and to the shaft after first establishing dead center for the axles. If you do not have soldering means try the trick shown in the drawing, Fig. 2. Once the wheels are in place and the gear train is working smoothly fix motor and gear box firmly in place with plenty of cement and let it dry thoroughly before touching.

Bodywork details are thoroughly explained in the drawings and will be found quite easy to build. I used ½ inch balsa largely because it only took a single ten-cent piece to make most of the body parts. Cardboard, scraps and odds and ends can be used to complete this hard-pulling little tractor.

Tracks can be made from almost anything. Most dime stores carry bundles of rubber bands which sell for five cents a bundle and these are ideal for the purpose. Or pieces of inner tube may be employed. Garter elastic is also all right but if used will have to have lugs stitched to it at about every ¾ inch.

So, one last word, remember that whatever tracks you use, none of them will stay in place if the wheels are out of line so set up wheels and drive gear in good alignment before playing with the much easier body construction.

Sincerely,
Doug Rolfe

Mold Your Own The Modern Way

BUSY days ahead mean less time in the kitchen to prepare the evening meal. When you're out late shopping or come home tired from work there's nothing more satisfying than the knowledge that half the dinner is ready and waiting in the refrigerator. A molded salad or dessert is the answer.

Newest thing in molds is illustrated above . . . a refrigerator ice cube tray containing six molds made of Bakelite polyethylene. This wonderful plastic material is virtually unbreakable, will not stick to the refrigerator, or become brittle or warped. But perhaps the most important feature from the homemaker's point of view is the fact that these flexible molds require only a slight pressure of the fingers and out pops the dessert or salad.

Molded Fruit Salad

2 envelopes (2 tbsp.) unflavored gelatine	½ cup halved seedless white grapes
¼ cup cold water	½ cup diced orange
½ cup hot grapefruit juice	1 cup diced grapefruit
½ cup light corn syrup	½ cup diced canned pineapple
½ teaspoon salt	¼ cup broken walnut meats
1 pint Ginger Ale	1 lemon, juice

Sprinkle gelatine on cold water; dissolve in hot grapefruit juice. Add corn syrup and salt; mix well. Add ginger ale and lemon juice. Chill until syrupy. Fold in fruits and walnuts. Pour into mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until set. Serves 6.

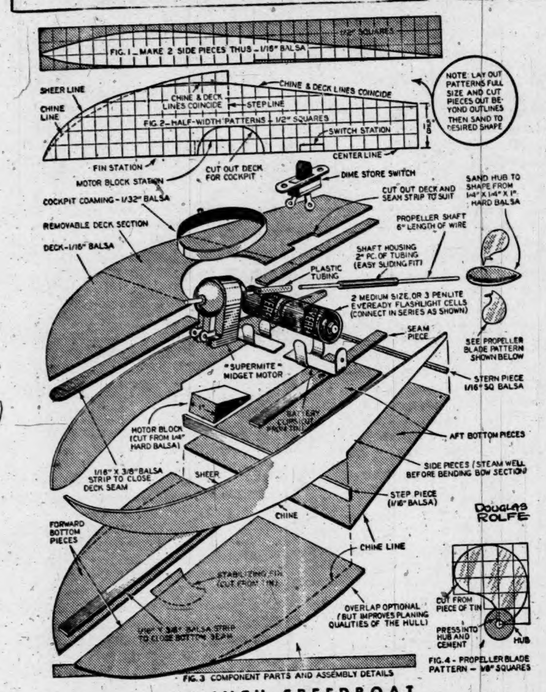
FATHER and SON



14-INCH SPEEDBOAT

Budget: Dad, $3.00 for motor—Son, 49c for materials

Dear Dad:

A featherweight hull can be produced from these same plans by substituting 1/32-inch sheet balsa for the 1/16th stock specified. Also, if 1/32nd stock is used the hull must be stiffened at chine and deck sheer with pieces of 1/16-inch-square balsa.

Start construction by making up full-size patterns of the various hull members (see Figures 1 and 2). Trace off these patterns onto balsa wood and cut out just beyond outlines Trim each piece to exact shape with fine sandpaper.

Soften the two side pieces and the deck and forward bottom pieces by boiling them for about ten minutes Bend to approximate shape and allow to dry before attempting to assemble the pieces. When dry, pin the parts together, first pinning the deck onto the top edge of the side pieces Set all pieces in plenty of waterproof glue except at the hatch section, which must be removable in order to change batteries.

When the glue has set fast, remove all pins and put in the shaft and shaft hanger by pressing through the bottom and cementing the joint. Make sure the shaft is lined up fore and aft before cementing.

Put in the motor block and the Eveready battery clips, cut to shape and bent from old tin can stock. Connect motor and propeller shafts with a short length of plastic or rubber tubing. Make the propeller as shown in Figures 3 and 4 and mount the propeller to the shaft with cement.

Connect Eveready battery, switch and motor terminals and oil the shaft in its tubular housing liberally. Motor can be either bolted down with small screws or held in place with rubber binders The latter method is preferable.

Put in the stabilizing fin or fixed rudder exactly 3½ inches from the stem, switch on the juice and watch her go.

Bottom pieces forward of the step may be flat, V-shaped or inverted V-shaped to suit. The featherweight hull with three Eveready Pen-Light batteries will give more speed, of course.

Sincerely yours,

Doug Rolfe

Part XVII

"Now where do we go from here?" young Gibbens smiled as he pressed the accelerator to the floor-board, watching the speedometer hand climb over past the seventy mark.

"I wish I could go straight home to Denver, but - -"

"If you say denver that is where we shall go," Billy firmly replied.

"No. Just take me down by the Broadway Church. Oh, I hope this doesn't get you into trouble, but I'm afraid it will," Nadine sighed.

"Anyway, you are taking no chances with that drunken man," Billy coolly remarked, as they sped down the mountainside toward the brightly-lighted pleasure - loving lights and tall buildings they could see the towering steeple of the Broadway Church.

"Is that the Broadway Church" Billy asked.

"It is what they call a church. I saw about all the young people's class up at that place dancing tonight," Nadine disapprovingly responded.

They pulled away from Deer Run and the roadster pulled up in front of the Broadway parsonage in record time. As the frightened girl was stepping from the running board of the roadster, after assuring her new friend that her sincere prayer and kindest thought of admiration would go with him, she was about to bid him goodnight when a sudden scream of police sirens let loose from somewhere.

Billy swung the roadster around and roared away. If only he could deliver the borrowed car back to the spot from which he took it he didn't care much what happened from there on.

So he calmly drove Darrel Loman's roadster back to the very spot from which he took. Here he found the half drunk, frantic owner and his two sullen, dejected friends waiting, not for the return of the car but for the screaming police cars now within hearing distance.

The young cowboy calmly stepped out of the roadster and drew back a few steps where he stood with his hands on his hips and a look in his snapping black eyes said, "And what are you going to do about it?"

The stupid sand-haired man, recognized Billy as the man whom he had found talking to Nadine sauntererd over toward him and growled, "Where's that girl?"

"It's none of your business where she is," Billy replied as he stepped toward the man.

"I'll show you whose business it is," the enraged man muttered as he hurled his right fist toward Billy's face. Billy dodged with but little effort.

"Who gave you permission to drive my car?" Loman burst out as he too stepped over toward Billy who was now standing between the two fighting mad men.

The treacherous, sand-haired man picked up a short piece of pipe and was creeping around behind the lone-handed cowboy while Lo-Blily quickly made a dive for the pipe as a crushing blow came from behind. He staggered backwards across the driveway in a painful daze while the two mad men crowded in on him. Billy grabbed for the pipe again which was almost ready to strike him in the back of his head and just then young Loman came with another terrific blow which struck the staggering cowboy above his right ear. The tremedous blow sent young Gibbens into a delirious whirl. He began to plunging headlong over the two foot guard rail between the driveway and the abrupt precipice, below, which a good two hundred and fifty feet, rolled the deep, winding Red Rock River.

In the darkness Darrel saw his victim rolling toward the precipice trying to get to his feet. He leaped over the rail and grabbed for the falling youth. But it was too late. With a moan the cowboy plunged below.

Karen had dashed back to the tavern to summon help, and a half dozen men, followed by curious dancers from the tavern, came out just as the police cars roared up.

Manslaughter was the crime they had committed, they felt sure. The horrible experience partly sobered the sandy-haired drunk and Loman, and but a few seconds and a hurried consultation, and they had their story: The coward ran and disappeared in the darkness after having returned the car he had taken to go on a wild ride down the mountain. That was all they needed to satisfy the people from the tavern and the police --- at least until the Judgement Day!

Sunday afternoon found Darrel Loman lying on the cot on the back porch of the Loman ranch house in a gloomy and distressed state of mind. He had heard his parents saying something about Grand wishing Darrel had not brought that roadster up there and showing off his money - - something about the ranch - -. It wasn's clear to Darrel why Grandpa should care how he spent his money. He was proud of the fact that he could show Grandpa that the old fellow had been wrong. But he did not waste much time on that topic. He was too worried about the outcome of the fight the night before.

He was sure his crime was covered well. The body of his victim would surely never be found if it were now in the bottom of the deep, rolling, Red Rock River -- and where else could it be?

His dejected mind reflected upon some possible turns in his hidden crime. Sandy Cummings could get to drinking too much and talk. The body could drift to shore somewhere down the river. He wondered if tracks could be found leading over the precipice if a search were to be made. Could somebody have been watching from any of the parked cars in the lot close by? The thought flashed into his mind that it might be best to go down to the police headquarters and confess, but this suggestion was not considered nor was it entertained any longer than it took to discard it from his thinking.

Darrel's thoughts were turned from his haunting experience of the night before as he watched the little black spider up in the corner of the porch roof. The little creature was winding its crafty web around and around. Larger and larger the cunning net grew until in a surprisingly short time the sly little fellow had his deceitful task completed. With apparent satisfaction and contentment the treacherous insect quietly setled down for a rest in the center of her web.

Darrel had chased a tantalizing fly away from his face a number of times and it finally decided to take its departure. He watched it soar around higher and higher and close to the spider's common little web, the like of which the fly had seen and jittered about carelessly many times. How foolish Darrel thought the little flying fool was, just trying himself to see how near he could come to the treacherous web. At last the indifferent flittering little insect flew a little too close and caught its buzzing wings in the cunning, tiny strands. The distressed little victim tried frantically to lift itself from the snare and fly away, but it was bound. The more it tried to fly, the more its weakening, tortured wings tangled with the little wings tangled with the little strands. The wise old spider sat quietly watching his victim tangle tighter and tighter in his newly made fetters. After a few minutes the captured fly ceased to struggle. He lay miserably bound with no hope of freedom again. The old black spider slowly crawled out to tantalize her helpless prey with painful torture. She gnawed the wings from its body and sapped his blood.

Worried, Darrel Loman turned his face toward the wall and sighed within his guilty heart, "Have I come too near the web? Am I coming to the end of the way that I once thought was right?"

At that moment Darrel heard his mother say she had overheard on the party line that Billy Gibbens' horse had come home last night without Billy, and no one had seen anything of him since. "He is supposed to have gotten into trouble," she said. "He's pretty wild. No one seems to know where he is. Too bad boys like that get into trouble all the time. When will they ever learn!" She smiled down at her son. "I'm so glad you're not like that, Darrel," she said fondly.

For the first time in many a moon Darrel Loman decided to atend the Sunday night service at North Zion. If officers were on his trail, they surely wouldn't thing of looking in such an out-of-the way place. Any way, criminals were not in the habit of hiding in Sunrise Valley.

The crowd was gathering early. Young Loman wondered, as his flashy roadster glided up in front of the church, if there was something special on. There was something very special on but little did he know about it. He had hoped the crowd would be small. He didn't care if there were none but the faithful few that he remembered seeing there regularly a year or two ago.

Grandpa Clark would no doubt be in the "amen corner" and Slim Boglin would be there, but perhaps a little late. Slim used to sit on the back seat but somebody said he sat up in the "amen corner" now since the last revival meeting. How long Slim would be worthy of an "amen corner" seat Darrel was not sure. He knew Slim's old mule was a terrible trial to him and he had remembered seeing Slim's old cow kick the milk bucket all the way across the cow stable one Sunday evening. Slim had not sat in the "amen corner" that night!

"Of course Betty May will be there with her pleasant smile - - a smile for everyone except me," Darrel thought.

The friendly old church was more than half filled when young Loman stepped into the vestibule. He quietly pushed one of the swinging doors in about an inch to locate a back seat near the door where he could be hidden as much as possible, but he did not get seated without the attention of the Rev. Mr. Stone, who was shaking hands with strangers across the aisle from where Darrel was seated. With a cordial smile the preacher reached across three or four others with whom he had already shaken hands and firmly gripped Darrel's hand, which had been bruised the night before, and greeted him with a hearty welcome.

Darrel did not know how the Rev. Melvin Stone knew about the bruised hand which he gripped to tightly, yet he felt at times that every one in the building knew of his crime as he sat in almost unbearable suspense. He wondered how soon the world would be talking about it while he was peering through prison bars. He imagined he saw some of the congregation nudging others and whispering something when he entered the church.

People were still coming in and the pews were filling. Darrel glanced back toward the door quite often. At last it was the one for whom he was watching. Betty May was dressed in light blue with a white rose in her beautiful brown locks.

Quite different she was from the sophisticated, made-up, cigarette-smoking blonde for whom Loman had left, when he thought she would be a cripple, using crutches the remainder of her life!

Darrel could hardly believe his eyes. She needed no crutches, but walked with her mother practically normally up the aisle to the front of the church where they found their regular pew waiting for them.

People were still coming. About all whom Darrel expected to see were present. It was two or three minutes before time eo begin the service. Mr. Stone was glancing toward the door as though he was looking for someone else before the service was to begin.

Just then he smiled as he looked at the opening door. Darrel glanced back at the door and then with almost a gasp he stared, turning himself part way around.

"No! No, it can't be," he gasped beneath his breath, with his staring eyes glued on the newcomer. With one arm in a sling and a bandage on the side of his head, he limped up the aisle where he was met about half way by the pastor who seemed to be acquainted with him. It was Billy Gibbons.

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

I'VE talked about conservation many times in this column, for it is a subject that's very close to my heart, but my good friend, Dr. H. H. Bennett, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has a new approach which I'd like to pass on to you.

"Misuse of the land," he says, "does not stop at any national boundaries, for conservation is a world-wide task." As chief of the Soil Conservation Service, Dr. Bennett "took a look" at the situation in the world and in the United States. He bases his survey on nutritional studies that show "we need at least two and a half acres per capita of good, productive land to furnish each person with a minimum nutritious diet."

In the world, he finds, there are only about four billion acres of immediately arable land for a world population of more than two billion people. This latter is increasing at a rate of about 20 million persons a year. On the two and a half acre per capita basis there is already a world shortage, he concludes.

In the United States, the situation is somewhat better. America today has about 460 million acres of high grade crop-land for a population of 144 million—about three acres per capita. But the population is continuing to increase; America grew about 2.2 millions in 1946. The margin above the two and a half acres is getting narrower, both as a result of increasing numbers of people and because of the destruction of good land by misuse, particularly by erosion.

"The three-acre figure," he points out, "allows a basic rotation of two acres per person in inter-tilled crops and small grain, and one acre in grass or other protective soil improvement crops." "It is essential," he continues, "that we have such a conservative rotation, because land cannot go on producing cotton, corn, tobacco and other such crops, year after year, without disastrous damage and depletion."

Many parts of the world are already beyond the borderline of this safe ratio of land to population. "For the United States," says Dr. Bennett, "the conclusion is plain. Time and land are running out, and we dare not delay, for a single unnecessary reason, in safeguarding the productive land which we have left."

Now more than ever, let's all do our part in conserving the "two and a half acres per stomach."

The first division to be brought up to its authorized strength since the end of the war is the 82nd Airborne Division with headquarters at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. The division's new strength will be approximately 16,000 men, the number allotted under the new airborne and infantry divisional unit reorganization plan.

About 17 percent of the total strength of the division will be made up of Negro troops, forming five combat units, including one airborne infantry battalion, one field artillery (155 mm. howitzer) battalion, one anti-aircraft artillery battalion, and one tank battalion at Fort Bragg, and the 1st Battalion, 25th Infantry at Fort Benning, Georgia. One service unit composed of Negro troops, the Quartermaster Field Service Company, will be at Fort Bragg.

MORAL TRAINING: Following General Jacob L. Devers' principle that "There must be positive integration of military and moral training during the recruit's period of adjustment to Army life", the Chaplain's School at Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, has begun publication of a weekly magazine known as "The Chaplain's Hour". The magazine contains material for non-sectarian lectures on citizenship and morality to be used as a guide for chaplains giving lectures to new recruits assigned to the training divisions throughout the United States.

IN MEMORY: The New Orleans Port of Embarkation and 29 Transportation Corps ships recently have been renamed in honor of Congressional Medal of Honor Winners who lost their lives during the last war. The New Orleans POE, through which thousands of troops embarked for combat duty, has been renamed Camp LeRoy Johnson in honor of a fallen hero from Oakdale, Louisiana, who sacrificed his life to save his comrades during fighting on Leyte in December 1944.

THIRD ARMORED: All veterans who served honorably in the Third Armored "Spearhead" Division, credited with being the first American unit to capture a German town and pierce the Siegfried Line, are eligible for membership in the newly formed division association. The association will hold its first reunion in Chicago, April 8th, 9th and 10th. The organization's secretary, Colonel L. L. Doan, can be reached by letter at Fort Monroe, Virginia.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 40:28-31; Matthew 6:9; John 14:8-14; Acts 17:22-31.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 33.

What We Know of God

Lesson for January 11, 1948

THE Scripture for Sunday's lesson is Isaiah 40:28-31, Matthew 6:9, John 14:8-14, and Acts 17:22-31, with Psalm 33 as the devotional reading.

Dr. Newton

"Hast thou not known? Hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? There is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. . . . They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

That is the passage from Isaiah. What a promise! In this hour when men are bending beneath the burden of a war-weary world, how it gives lift to one's soul to contemplate the words of this great and blessed promise.

God Our Maker

"HE GIVES to all men life and breath and everything," Acts 17:25. One of our daily prayers should be to thank God that he has let us open our eyes to the beauty of another dawn. We must not take it for granted. It is the goodness and mercy of God that permits us to open our eyes, to breathe, to have food, to think. He gives us life and breath and everything.

He causes the sun to shine and the tides to ebb and flow. He causes the rain to fall and the winds to bear their blessings. He holds the earth in its course. God is the maker of every good thing.

And He Is Our Father

NOT only is God the Creator and Sustainer of the physical universe; but he is also our Father. He knows us each by name. He cares for the sparrows, simply because they are sparrows. He cares for us because we are his children, made in his image, capable of fellowship with him. The end of man, as the Catechism clearly teaches, is to enjoy God and glorify him forever.

Read again the passage that describes Paul's visit to Athens, and how he observed that the people, though quite intelligent, were worshipping many different gods. Paul summoned them to worship the one true and living God.

When we acknowledge God as Maker and Father, we are then enable to serve him in conscious assurance of his love and care for us as his adopted children.

Show Us the Father

READ again John 14:8-14, and join with Philip in the prayer, "Show us the Father." Jesus answered Philip, saying, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." We come to know God as Father through Jesus Christ, and only through Jesus Christ.

Jesus goes on to say to Philip, "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." The greatest need of our day and generation is a fresh understanding of God—his nature and his will. We can know him through Jesus Christ. And we come to know him through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Enoch walked with God. Abraham was the friend of God. David was a man after God's own heart. And Jesus came to perfectly reveal the Father. The determining factor in knowing God as Father is our willingness to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Belief in God Today

THE Bible is a Book for today—any day, every day. It reveals the purpose of creation, both of the universe and man himself. It reveals the loving concern of God for every soul. It portrays his forbearance and his mercy and his exceeding kindness, even to sinful men and women who reject his love.

Best of all, the Bible tells us the sweetest story ever told — the story of how God gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

Religion, the Christian religion, is the most practical proposition in the world. Every man is constantly in reach of God, if only he will believe on the Lord Jesus Christ. God is yonder in the loneliest watchtower of the timberlands. He is yonder on the storm-tossed ship at sea. He is everywhere, waiting to own and bless any and all who will come to him through Jesus Christ.

COBURNTOWN

There were no services at the church Sunday, due to the lack of heat in the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Laub, of Bloomington, Ill., arrived at the home of the formers parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Laub, New Years Day. They had spent the Christmas Holidays with Mrs. Laub's parents in Baltimore, Md.

Karl Hart and son, Tom, arrived home Sunday morning after driving Mr. Hart's parents to Port Richey, Fla. They arrived in Fort Wayne about eleven o'clock, ten hours behind schedule.

COUNTY POULATION ON INCREASE; ESTIMATE SHOWS

According to an estimate prepared by the Indiana Economic Counsil, the population of DeKalb county was 24, 756 in 1940, 24,870 in 1943 and 27,713 on November 1, 1947. This shows an 11.9 percent increase from 1940 to 1947

Several counties in Indiana suffered a decrease, the report indicated. Clay Co. was hit the hardest with a decrease of 26.9 percent.

The report showed however, that most counties experienced an increase. Scott county showing the largest increase that of 47.4 percent for this period, jumped from 8,978 in 1940 to 13,230 in 1947. The population of the entire state has increased slightly, from 3,427,796 to 3,782,765 in the seven year period.

Mrs. Gace Sheffer and Basil Sheffer, of Hicksville, Ohio, called on friends here Tuesday afternoon.

"PUSH BUTTON FARMING" MAY NOT TOO FAR DISTANT

The day of "push button farming" doesn't seem too far off to American manufacture! On the drafting boards of many a plant today, and and in some instances actually in the testing stage if not in full production, are new implements which are one-man operated, yet accomplish the normal day's work of half a dozen farm hands.

Impliment makers are now moving to simplify the operation of their new equipment. Hydraulic touch control are appearing on one manufacturer's tractor and mammoth self propelled combines, enable the farmer to till and harvest more acres with remarkably less exertion than ever before.

Another manufacturer is stressing tools for the smaller farm — a "Cub" tractor designed for farms of 40 acres and under, appealing to the garden farmer, and as an auxiliary tractor on larger acreage. Orders have been pouring in, requiring two or three years of production to fill. An important line, too is the mechanical cotton picker, and specialized instruments for use in rought, hilly terrain, in water-soaked heavy rainfall areas, and in extra-tough hard surface farm lands.

Everyone reads the classified, so phone in your ad for that item you have been looking for or wanting to sell.

FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Join the MARCH OF DIMES

JANUARY 15-30

MARCH OF DIMES CAMPAIGN TO GET UNDER WAY

The annual March of Dimes, spearhead of the fight against infantile paralysis, will be held throughout the nation January 15 to 30, it was announced by Stanley Woodcock of of Auburn, 1948 March of Dimes chairman for DeKalb county.

"The cost of fighting polio has skyrocketed", Mr. Woodcock said in pointing out that rising prices and mounting polio incidence have placed a tremendous burden on the resources of the National Foundation for Infantil Paralysis, which this year celebrates the tenth anniversary of its founding by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Woodcox's March of Dimes committee is setting up the machinery that will make the 1948 appeal a record demonstration of DeKalb County's active interest in America along the road to health.

"Every phase of community life will participate in sending a ringing message of hope to the unfortunate victims of this crippling disease, which has stricken 80,000 American in the past five years," Mr. Woodcock said.

Every community in the nation is being geared to make this the greatest March of Dimes drive in history.

"When the 1948 March of Dimes goes into action on Jan. 15, Mr. Woodcock says, "more than 500,000 volunteers from every walk of life will be translating American ideals into terms of active assistance. This is the democratic way of fighting a humanitarian war against disease. Every man woman and child must enlist in the fight by joining the 1948 March of Dimes."

The Auburn Business and Professional Women's Club will sponsor a concert to be given January 20, at 8:15 p.m. at the Alumni gym, and will be presented by the Senior and Junior High Bands of the Auburn schools. The program will feature a coronet solo by Joe Kleeman, a clarinet duet played by Pat Friend, Mary Alice Schooley and Marian Browand And a quartet of twirlers, Joan Palmer, Betty Vallieu,, Pat White and Jane Griffith.

There will be no admission charge for this concert but a free will offering will be taken, and given to the March of Dimes Drive to combat infantile paralysis.

WIIL JOIN HUSBAND IN JAPAN

Mrs. W. D. Squires, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Storer, and small son Dennis, left on the B. & O. Railroad from Garrett, Thursday morning at 5:27 for Seattle, Washington, from where she will sail for Japan to join her husband, Capt. W. D. Squires. Mrs. Squires will arrive in Seattle, Saturday morning. She doesn't know exactly at this time when she will leave the U.S., but she will go by ship and will be on the water for approximately twelve days and will land at Yokahoma.

Capt. Squires, a ground officer in the Army Air Corps, is a member of the occupational forces at Kokura, Japan. He has been in the service six years, two of which were spent in the China - Burma - India - theatre. Mrs. Squires expects to remain with her husband in Japan two years.

Miss Ruth Ann Kelley, who resides near St. Joe, will be one of 36 nurses at the St. Joseph's hospital in Ft. Wayne to be capped at 2 p.m. Sunday in the hospital chapel. The new group is composed of the class of 1950 at the hospital. Miss Kelley is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Kelly, who resides near St. Joe. and a graduate of the Spencerville High school, with the class of '47.

The St. Joe Post Office receipts of 1947 show a 13.3% increase over 1946. The total receipts for 1947 were $3,111.31, an increase of $232. 65 over the preceeding year. The number of money orders issued was 3,863, amounting to $66, 741.09. The amount of money order fees collected was $438.90.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Will Henderson, at Ashley.

Miss Janalyce Rouls, of West Lafayette, Ind., was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole. Miss Rouls assistant supervisor of the Home Management at Purdue University, and attended a meeting at Auburn.

DeKalb Conservation Officer, George A. Milks, of Ashley, reported Tuesday that Jesse McClugen, a farmer residing near Ashley, was startled Monday morning when a deer traversed a field back of his barn. The animal, a buck, disappeared over a fence toward Ashley, the farmer said. McClugen's farm is northeast of Ashley in Stuben township, Stuben County.

TRI TWP. FARM BUREAU

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 6, the Tri-Township Farm Bureau met in the music room of the Concord Twp. School. Chairman Carl Carpenter presided. The group sang a number of old Favorite songs, several members quoted scripture from memory, Brooks Trenary offered prayer, and Carl Carpenter read the poem, 'Fear of God".

When asked to tell "Something I would like to see our local Farm Bureau do this year", the members offered the following suggestions: 1. Have a rally month; 2. Have better programs; 3. Start and stop on time.

During the regular business meeting the Chairman appointed as Directors: Lester Anthony, Spencer Twp.; Floyd Roberts, Newville Twp. and Carl Carpenter, Concord Twp.; He also appointed the following S. and E. Leaders: Mrs. Anthony, Spencer Twp., Mrs. Roberts, Newville Twp.; and Mrs. Carpenter, Concord Twp.

Carl Carpenter mentioned briefly some of the things that interested him at the State Convention, at the National Convertion, and at the Century Farms meeting in Lafayette. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Shull gave their report of the State convention.

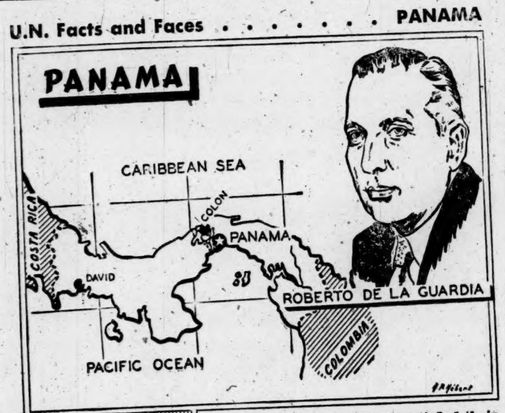
Mr. Trenary announced that Sam Miller is Concord Township's member of the County Co-op Resolution Committee to report at the annual Co-op Stockholders meeting to be held Feb. 19.

The main feature of our February meeting, Feb. 3, will be the "Co-op School". Come with all the baffling questions concerning Farm Bureau and Co-op that you wished answered. Many, who attended this school last year will recall that they went home wondering whether the pupils or the teacher received the education. It was really fun.

Two contests were conducted, a True and False concerning the American Penny, and an A-1 contest.

Mrs. Carpenter, S&E leader served cookies and coffee.

U.N. Facts and Faces . . . . . PANAMA



Explorers of the New World satisfied their quest for a short overland route across the Americas in 1513 when Vasco Nuñez de Balboa sighted the Pacific Ocean from a hill in what is now Panamá. Today, the Republic of Panamá still furnishes the quickest ocean-to-ocean route by the United States-operated Panamá Canal. From the ten-mile wide Canal Zone can be seen Panamá's varied land, from jungles to high mountains. Many of her 640,000 people work in agriculture and forest industries in her 33,660 square miles. Her Representative at United Nations headquarters is Roberto de la Guardia. The Panamanian flag has white, red and blue squares and a red and a blue star.

GARRETT RAILROADERS AGAIN DENY RED RAIDERS FROM COUNTY BASKETBALL CROWN

For the second consecutive year the Garrett Railroaders denied the Spencerville Red Raiders the DeKalb County basketball championship, when they turned back the Raiders 28 to 20 in the tournament final Saturday evening at the Garrett gym.

The Raiders were all primed for revenge from last years defeat, and for a while appeared to be taking it.

After a low scoring first half, in which the lead changed hands several times, the Raiders had managed to hang on to the much taller Garret but fit and had dead ocked the game at 12 all at that time. Timmerman made it 13-12 shortly after the third period had begun, with a free throw and that was as close as the Raiders ever came to victory. All but one of the Garrett five came thru for field goals in that third period and the Raiders were held to just four points. In the last period the home five continued to outscore their visitors and held their 28 to 20 lead at the final gun.

It was a double victory for both their second team as well as their varsity teams stepped out to receive the trophys at the end of the game. The Garrett seconds had eliminated the good Butler five earlier in the evening.

The St. Joe High Tigers went down under a 34 to 20 barrage at the hands of the Butler Windmills, early in the tournament play.

On Friday evening the Tigers will play the Harlan Hawks at Harlan taking on both the varsity and the second team in games.

On Thursday, January 15th the Junior High team of Concord Twp. School will swing into action in their first game of the season when they play the Garrett Junior High team at 6 p. m. on the local court. Coach Tatlock has been working with the youngsters in the hopes of building some valuable material in the coming years.

WILL SEEK NOMINATION FOR GOVENOR

Lieutenant - Governor Richard T. James will seek the nomination for Governor at the Republican state convention in Indianapolis in June he announced today.

"In announcing my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor, I wish to make certain points clear", Mr. James said.

"I am not and will not be the candidate of any one group within the party. Only when a political party is unified and united can it rendal the high type of public service expected of it.

"I am concerned only with being the nominee of a Republican party,

Lt. Govenor Richard T. James

a party controlled by no one group or individual within it, but dedicated to the best government for all citizens and to conscientious, intelligent service to those citizens.

"My obligation, if nominated, will be to the entire Republican party. My responsibility, if elected, will be to all the people of Indiana."

The Lieutenant-Governor declared that he would issue a more detailed statement of his program in the near future.

One of the youngest men to hold major election office in Indiana, the 37 year old Lieutenant - Governor was elected to his present position in 1944.

His first campaign for public office was in 1934 when he was elected to the Indiana House of Representatives from his native Jay Co.

From 1938 to 1940 he was deputy secretary of state and chief corporation counsel for the State of Indiana.

In 1940 he was elected Auditor of state and was re-elected to a second two-year term in 1942. As state Auditor, Mr. James effected economies in the financial operation of the state government and reduced the state tax levy from 15 to 11 cents.

NEWVILLE TWP. HOME EC.

The Newville Township Home Economics Club met Wednesday, Dec. 17, to an all day meeting with Mrs. Blen Moore, with Mrs. Lucile Nelson and Mrs. Grace Robinson as her assistant Hostessess. After a bountiful dinner our president, Mrs. Leah Thomas opened the meeting. Song: "Joy to the World", followed by Christmas Hymn "Hark The Herald Angels Sing", Mrs. Moore had charge of devotions, followed by prayed. The song, "O Little Town of Bethlehem was sung, and the club creed was repeated by all.

43 answered to roll call, one child and 3 visitors were present, a good program was rendered with a beautiful tree full of presents each one was handed a gift and their own Cheer Sister revealed. The Club presented our Pres. with a gift.

SPENCERVILLE

On Sunday morning many members of Concord Sunday School and church attended the Methodist church. The recent storm made it impossible for them to have church at Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beams spent Sunday at Auburn. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith and family were guest of the Beams home.

ENROLLMENT FOR INDIANA UNIVERSITY NOW OPEN TO HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

DeKalb County high school principals have been notified by William H. Strain, Indiana University admission officer, that the University for the first time since the war, will be able to accept and house all qualified unmarried students desiring to enroll for the semester opening Feb. eleventh.

"We are asking your help at this time especially so we can reach students who have not been thinking of college, and students who have supposed there was no room for them at their state university," said Mr. Strains letter to the local high school

"Many very fine young men and women quite generously gave their places a year or two ago to Veterans Now we want them to know that their state university can give them their turn."

All subjects needed by beginning freshmen will be offered by the university for the February semester, Mr. Strain advised, adding that "in fact February is in some ways a particularly good time for a freshmen to enter the University, since counsellors and teachers have fewer new students at that time and can give maximum attention to the proper adjustment of each student.

With housing for married students still difficult, the University through its Southeastern Center at Jacksonville is able to provide housing at the nearby Pleasant Ridge Housing Project and the first two years of study at the center, where applications are being taken by Floyd I. McMurray, Center director, for the semester opening February 9.

DEPEWS DRY CLEANERS PLAN $40,000 ADDITION

DePews Cleaners, located in Garrett, Indiana, will construct an addition to it's plant costing an estimated $40,000, O. K. DePew, proprietor announces. The work is expected to be started next week, weather permitting, and it is to be completed by April 15.

At the present time, DePew's occupies a building having 4,500 square feet of floor space. The addition will be constructed on the east end of the present building. The front portion facing on King street will be 60 x 22 feet in size and there will be a T-shaped structure on the end 80 x 23.

The addition will contain an office 24x23 feet in size and a fur storage room 43x23 feet. The office will have a modernistic front and lobby All of the furnishings will be modern.

Mr. DePews states that the fur storage department when completed will be the finest in northern Ind. It will have a capacity of 3,000 fur coats as well as automatic refrigeration humidity and fumigation control. The doors will be comparable to those in a bank and the room will be 100 per cent fireproof. There will also be complete fur cleaning, glazing and fumigating equipment.

The Walter Hartel Corp. of Minneapolis designed the addition and is also supplying the fur storage equipment. K. P. Sithen of 920 S. Cowen street is the general contractor.

Mr. DePew started in the cleaning business in 1925 in the room where the license bureau is now located at 102 East King street. He moved in 1928 to his present location in a 26x20 building. He made addition to the plant in 1929, 1937, 1944, and 1946. At the present time DePews have 32 employees, operates 4 trucks and serves an area within 60 miles of Garrett. The concern processes 8,500 garments a week.

FACTS 'N' FIGURES: We've heard of tagging pheasants, Quails Waterfowls, and fish but here's a new one. Scientists of the Department of Interior have put metal tags on the flippers of nearly 20,000 seal pups in the north Pacific in their investigation of the migration routes and food habits of the Alaskan fur seal herd - - - Here's a change-of pace from the over-gunning reports. Michigan says that not enough of th abundant crop of racoons are being taken. Too few good coon dogs, not the price of skins, is given as the answer - - -From Michigan, also, comes a release which refutes the opinion that deer were larger in the "good old days" as the saying goes. A check of records at a cold storage plant disclosed the deer average about the same as a decade ago - - In 1938 they averaged dressed and ready for storage, 116 pounds; the 1940 average was 112 pounds, and 113 pounds in the St. Joe, Clearwater, and Selway areas of Idaho. About 9,000 hunters were reported in the area - - - A few guides in British Columbia will take you on a spring grizzly hunt on a "no bear no pay" basis. Spring hunting in B. C. is the best. Pelts, also, are better then.

ON THE CONSERVATION FRONT: Enforcing the regulations that protect our waterfowl resources is a tough problem. Upping the federal duck stamp to $2, with the extra dollar going to enforcement agencies, would help. Another method might be the expansion of a program recently launched in the Chesappeake Bay erea. A new Piper Cub Cruiser seaplane has been given the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service by the Wildlife Management Institute for use in the Chesapeake area for apprehending waterfowl trappers, poachers and other violaters. Funds for the plane were contributed by citizens interested in the future of American waterfowl.

With the use of a rental plane on floats, federal enforcement officers already have broken up some of the commercialized duck trapping operations.

Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

WE OFTEN have heard the expression, "Will wonders never cease?" Just recently we almost got the answer to the question, and it was, "They never will." The answer was supplied by the gathering of scientists in Chicago during these past few weeks, marking the first time in the history of our country that so many men of science have been assembled in one group. And many of their findings are of interest to the farmer.

They got down to an understandable language in their descriptions of some of the miracles yet to come. One scientist went so far as to predict that weeds which cost the farmer millions of dollars a year in crop damage may prove a valuable source of synthetic gas and oil. He also predicted that it may not be long before the average citizen may not know what a lump of coal in its raw state looks like.

This set us to wondering, for just a few weeks ago we conducted an interview on experiments made last summer of the use of 2-4-D on 20,000 acres of corn that virtually had been taken over by weeds. During this experiment it was revealed that 2-4-D did a weeding job at the cost of 60 cents an acre, figuring labor and material used.

Agricultural airs would have popped and agricultural eyes would have bugged if American farmers could have heard some of the predictions that were made for the future of agriculture — radioactive fertilizer, a flame resistant paint and a rat poison five times more effective than present poisons, yet repulsive to children, cats, dogs and other animals. Truly science is on the march.

Looks like the American farmer now will have to be a combination scientist, economist and agriculturist. But during all these discussions, I'm sorry to say, I heard no scientific control mentioned to prevent accidents on the farm. That is still up to the individual farmer. Let's cut the toll in 1948!

Motion Passed

In one of California's small coast towns a distinct earthquake shock was felt. When the municipal building rocked on its foundations, the city fathers, then in session, left quickly and without the usual formalities. The clerk, a man of rules and regulations, was hard put to give his minutes the proper official tone. Finally he evolved this:

"On motion of the city hall, the council adjourned."

Going the Rounds

Husband—No, you're wrong. I didn't get drunk in the first place, it was in the last place.

Diner — Waitress, the service is terrible. You gave that man at the next table a steak twice as large as mine. Where's the manager?

Waitress—That man is the manager.

On a heavy-duty job, give me new Advance-Design and here's a "load" of reasons why . . .

CHEVROLET TRUCKS

Only Advance-Design Trucks Have All These New and Finer Features:

- ★ Cab that "breathes"
- ★ Flexi-Mounted cab
- ★ Unlweld, all-steel construction
- ★ Larger, more durable, fully adjustable seat
- ★ 22% greater visibility
- ★ New, rear-corner windows
- ★ Stronger, new frames
- ★ Full-floating hypoid rear axles
- ★ Specially designed hydraulic truck brakes
- ★ Valve-in-Head Thrift-Master or Load-Master engines
- ★ More efficient loading (stake and high-rack bodies)
- ★ New, thorough sealing insulation
- ★ Standard cab-to-axle-length dimensions permitting interchange of bodies
- ★ . . . and MANY more!

Brother, how these stronger, new frames stand-up! Wheelbases are longer, too, for better load distribution. And the brakes are exclusively designed for greater brake-lining contact!

There's nothing like the cab that "breathes" for comfort! . . . fresh air is drawn in from the outside—heated in cold weather—and used air is forced out. The cab is cushioned on rubber—Flexi-Mounted—with 12 inches more foot room and eight inches more seating space. There's 22% greater visibility, too, they tell me. The seat is fully adjustable. Man, this is it!

CHEVROLET

Here's a special, heavy-duty job and an extra-special truck! Take your pick from 107 different models and eight wheelbases. There's one made for your special kind of job.

Look—rear-corner windows! Now it's a cinch to back up without jackknifing. Yes, sir, these trucks are brand new—really different with Advance-Design. And they're packed with power in the world's most economical engine for its size—Chevrolet's Valve-in-Head engine. *Fresh air heating and ventilating system and rear corner windows optional at extra cost.

Come in and see these trucks—today! There's a Chevrolet Advance-Design truck to meet your specific needs and offer you TRANSPORTATION UNLIMITED!

"Sun Rise Valley"

By Dwight F. Steininger

Part XVIII

Never before had old North Zion Church witnessed such a service as this one. Mr. Stone arose before the large congregation with a happy smile and began with, "I am happy to greet such a fine crowd this evening. We are going to open the service tonigh by singing the appropriate hymn, Number 195 - - "Coming Home, Coming Home, Never More to Roam."

The song was finished, leaving many with tears in their eyes as they recalled days when they had carelessly strayed away from God and later their happy return.

Darrel sat in utter bewilderment. He wondered how a dream could be so real. For fear he would awaken at any moment, he sat motionless and tense.

The minister stepped down between the altar railing and the platform and spoke as he motioned for Billy to stand. "I am sure that many of you have heard the good news and have come to hear the testimony of our young friend who a few hours ago after a very dramatic experience which we are all eager to hear. Billy Gibbens is probably a stranger to most of you. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gibbens, and his sister Mary Jean, have been with us more than a year but Billy has remained in the community from which his parents moved, until a few days ago. He was planning to return in a week or so to the ranch where he had previously worked, but," the minister continued with a smile, "he tells me he has changed his mind. I shall leave it for him to tell why. All right, Billy, give us your testimony and take all the time you want."

Billy stepped over in front of the altar near the center and proceeded a bit shyly in a deep, clear tone of voice which captured the attention of everyone present.

"Twenty-four hours ago things were much different with me than they are tonight. I was a sinner far from God last night, but --" as tears welled up in his dark blue eyes he calmly continued, "I am glad I can say I'm a Christian tonight. Had it not been for God my body would be floating down on Red Rock River tonight. I am a Christian tonight because of the prayers of my father and mother and Mr. Stone and also because of the fellows that knocked me over the cliff last night." Billy had not recognized Darrel in the service nor noticed his roadster when he came in. He therefore took the liberty to continue on his experience of the night before. "I guess I had it coming to me, but I hope the guy will find out some time that I don't hold a thing against them. I think they did me a favor for I would not have been a Christian tonight if they hadn't done it.

I heard this evening that I ran awayfrom them but I didn't. I just rolled or tumbled away from them I didn't know anything until this morning I awkened on the cliff after one of them hit me on the side of my head. It neary frightened me to death when I awoke and saw where I was lying. I was just about six inches from the edge of a cliff I looked over the cliff and it looked like a thousand feet straight down into the river. Somebody told me it was over two hundred feet down there. Then I looked up and it looked looked like about ten feet to the cliff from which I fell. I was afraid to move. My head was in a whirl. My arm began to hurt when I tried to move it a little.

"Before I called for help I tried to pray and I promised the Lord if He would help me back to safety again I would get right with Him. I think He asked me if I would be a preacher if he wanted me to."

That brought many smiles from the congregation and a pleasant "Amen," from Grandpa Clark who was sitting up in the "amen corner."

With plenty of evidence that Billy was being successful in his first talk in public, he continued, but with a bit of difficulty. His thoughts became a bit scattered for he at that moment happened to notice a young lady who very forcibly reminded him of one whom he had seen somewhere before. "But where?" his confused mind would keep asking. He earnestly endeavored to continue with his testimony with which he was doing well, until his eyes would helplessly keep wandering back to the charming girl sitting to his left, the second seat back. His quick glance in her direction and somewhat confused thoughts were becoming noticeable especially to the Rev. Mr. Stone and those few to whom he had already made known the strange and mysterious which was soon to be revealed to all the congregation.

Billy then, due to the request of Mr. Stone before the service began, started to say a few words about another experience which he had over a year ago. He had said but a few words about that horrible experience the outcome of which he had pondered many times since, when suddenly the young lady to his left straightened up in her seat, looked inquiringly from her mother's calm but somewhat mysterious countenance back toward the youth who was speaking and then to Mr. Stone who sat with what she thought was a peculiar smile. Then she looked back toward the young man who in bewilderment and confusion was bringing his testimony to an abrupt close.

Billy limped back to his seat and sat down. He felt sure he had made a complete failure in giving his first testimony. His apparent failure did not occupy his bewildered mind nearly so much as did the familiar look upon the face of that girl sitting in the second row.

Mr. Stone stepped back in front of the pulpit but had not spoken a word when Billy's curious eyes turned again toward the girl whose eyes were fastened upon him. It was at that moment like a flash of lighting from the clouded sky, that he remembered the mangled and bruised face half covered with bloody, matted hair, which he saw among the bushes.

Mr. Stone made but a few remarks when with a mysterious smile, Billy thought, he looked down at him and insisted, "Billy, your testimony was great but wasn't there more that you were going to tell us about the experience you had that time down by Denver?"

The face of the young convert turned red. He wished for a second he was almost anywhere else. He turned his embarraassed face toward his parents who were sitting to his left, to discover the same kind of smile on their faces.

"Just what is all this about?" he whispered to his mother realizing that there was something strange about the whole affair. Then he turned toward the pastor and continued, "I would rather not tell any more about that if it's all right with you."

Realizing that Billy might have recognized the girl dressed in blue, the pastor felt it wise to continue with his plan for this unusual service which he did with the greates. diplomacy.

Billy's mind was not the only one that was whirling in a cyclone of question marks. Betty May's sparkling eyes were darting back and forth from the strange young man whom she had never seen before to the queer smile on the face of the minister.

Exciting experience - -near Denver - - over a year ago. What can all of this mean? That grin on father's face as he glanced back at Uncle Joe.

Betty tried to recall the description which her nurse gave of the young man who came with a girl to call on her while she was unconscious, but she could remember only that he had wavy brown hair. Trying to hide her bewilderment she settled back in her seat without looking around although she was curious to see the expression on the faces of the other members of the congregation.

Mr. Stone asked Billy to stand. He reached for the right hand of the reluctant young man, lifted it slightly as he looked at his breathless audience, and continued, "You can see this scar on his hand. It was here that he was bitten by a snake while in a successful attempt to save the life of a young lady with whom all of us are well acquainted, except Billy himself, and now Billy," he said as he took a few steps to the left, motioning for Billy to follow, "I would like to make you acquainted with the young lady about whom you have no doubt wondered many times - - the girl whose life was saved by your brave and unselfish effort Betty May Baldwin."

Billy Gibbens stood motionless with a tense smile on his handsome face, looking into the deep blue eyes of the most beautiful girl he had ever seen.

Betty May shyly rose with her eyes fixed on the tall youth standing before her.

Both were glad their thoughts were not made known to that congregation, but neither could wait for the moment when they could make them known to the other, if such a moment could only be theirs!

The vocabulary of Milton or Shakespeare would have utterly failed to place in human language what was passing from those beautiful eyes to the steadfast brown eyes of the one who had saved her life. They stood with hands gently clasped for a few silent moments as though they were stunned by the romantic introduction and revelation which was a great and pleasant surprise.

It was pleasant to all but one. Darrel Loman forgot his great fortune and feeling of relief which he felt when he first saw walking down the aisle the man whose life he thought he had taken. The wayward youth sat watching the strange performance with hatred and jealousy, as though the pure girl in blue might still belong to him. With flaming fires of jealousy burning in his desperate heart he resolved that no distance was too far to go to win back the girl whom he had once thrown over when it appeared that she was doomed to be a cripple for life.

Since words were not needed to express their feeling of delight and gratitude, Billy and Betty used no words. For those first few precious moments they both forgot they were standing before a congregation with all eyes fastened upon them. They were completely lost to all but the thought of the mysterious fact that they were beholding tthe faces of the ones on earth whom they had wondered the most since the terrible catastrophe. "Can it be true?" Betty ventured softly.

"It must be," Billy replied with a smile. "Anyway, I'm very glad to meet you and know that you are alive," a statement which brought smiles and chuckles from many in the congregation as the astounded youth stepped back to his place by the side of his father and mother.

The service soon came to its usual order and was proceeding in the regular manner after this scene which many would never forget.

There were but very few in attendance that Sunday night who had heard who it was that sent young Gibbens over the cliff with his treacherous blow. The guilty man would have been the last one whom Betty May would have suggested. She knew Darrel Loman had drifted from God and the right but she had never dreamed of the depths to which he had fallen. About all she knew about Loman was that her love for him was now no more than a concern for his immortal soul.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

THE COMMON COLD

THE common cold probably causes more miserable days and more loss of time from work than any other single condition. If it could be conquered, the saving to individual earnings and to industry would mount into the millions of dollars.

Colds would be less prevalent if the victim would go home from work and keep away from places of amusement, and parties. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that the source of most colds can be traced to someone who has one already, who spreads the contagion to many of his friends and associates. Although getting one's feet wet or getting over-tired may be followed by a cold, the trouble probably comes because these events have lowered his resistance to germs or viruses.

All studies on colds reveal that people who frequent crowded places are more likely to get colds than those who do not. Resistance to colds does not seem to last very long. The person who has one cold can get another one very soon. In this respect a cold is unlike the diseases for which good vaccines have been developed, such as smallpox, diphtheria or whooping cough.

In most cases rest in bed, with the drinking of plenty of water, should shorten the course of a cold. Nearly everybody has a favorite treatment such as taking vast quantities of lemon juice, soda, hot toddies or aspirin. How much such things really help is anyone's guess.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

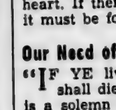
By LOUIE D. NEWTON, M. E.

SCRIPTURE: John 4:5-26; Romans 8:12-17, 31-39.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 103.

Our Relationship to God

Lesson for January 18, 1948

THE Scripture lesson for Sunday is John 4:5-26 and Romans 8:12-17 and 31-39, with the 103rd Psalm as the devotional reading.



Dr. Newton

The passage in John presents the dramatic story of Jesus meeting with the woman from Sychar at Jacob's well, and of her discovery of the Water of Life.

There is no more convincing evidence anywhere in the Bible of Jesus as the one and only approach to God. He is the Door through which one must pass into the Kingdom, whether bond or free, rich or poor, ignorant or learned, high or low. "I am the truth and the life and the way."

Jesus Teaches About God

IN THIS great story we see Jesus, wearied from the day's arduous tasks, sitting on the curb of Jacob's well, resting. The disciples had gone across the valley to the village to buy food. The woman comes to draw water from the historic well. She did not notice Jesus until he spoke to her. He is never too busy, never too weary, to seek to bring all men to a knowledge of God's love.

He asked for a drink of water. That was his way of making contact with her. She drew back, wondering why a Jew would speak to a woman in public. But Jesus got past the immediate wall which she threw up between herself and him, and soon was teaching her the way of everlasting life, to which she responded with gratitude.

How We Worship God

READ John 4:5-26 and see how Jesus led the woman of Sychar to understand true worship. Strangely enough, she knew a good deal about Jewish rites and ceremonies, but she had never known the basic truth that "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Included in the record of how Jesus taught the woman to worship was the necessity of confessing her sin, having five husbands, and living at the moment with still another man. We cannot worship God if there is unconfessed sin in our hearts.

We often miss the joy of true worship because we fail to confess our sins. God looketh upon the heart. If there is sin in our hearts, it must be forgiven.

Our Need of God

"IF YE live after the flesh, ye shall die," Romans 8:13. Here is a solemn truth that many seem to forget — apart from God we are dead. The young person who undertakes to live with eating food will soon discover that his body is wasting away and his mind is broken and dissipated. Just so with the spirit of man. We are spiritual creatures, made in the image of God. If we live by the flesh, we die spiritually.

In the preceding chapters in Romans, Paul has shown how sin worketh death. He sets forth the penalties that result from carnal thinking and behavior. But in the 16th verse he comes on to say:

"It is the Spirit himself bearing witness with our spirit that we are the sons of God, or children of God," Romans 8:16.

Strong in the Lord

OUR age has made much of might — might that expresses itself in speed. We think in terms of atomic power. This lesson would help us to understand that we may be strong in the Lord. All power is with him. "All power hath been given me in heaven and on earth," said Jesus.

And this leads us to the climax of Sunday's lesson, when Paul declares:

"For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord," Romans 8:38, 39.

Satan had the woman of Sychar completely in his power until the grace of God lifted her feet upon the Rock of Ages. She could then stand in the midst of the people of Sychar and declare that she had met One who had released her from the bondage of sin. That is what will happen in every heart that comes to God through Jesus Christ.

Uncle Sam Says

How many things have you had to forego because you did not save up money to pay for them? Perhaps in your own experience you muffed an unusual opportunity to get ahead or to make a dream come true. You simply didn't have enough money. Millions of Americans are buying Savings Bonds either on the partial payment plan where they work or on the Bond-A-Month Plan whereby your bank deducts the full amount of a Bond monthly from the money you have on deposit. They will be ready for opportunities, but how about you? U. S. Treasury Department

What is your dog's I.Q.

"Most bird dogs are NOT as brainy as Professor Einstein. Fact is, in many ways they're pretty dumb!" writes Mabry Anderson, veteran sportsman and dog-lover, in the current OUTDOORSMAN magazine.

The average hunter places too much confidence in his dog, according to Anderson, whose article tells hunters how to help their dogs by doing some of the "head work."

There are 16 other know-how features and 11 departments in the same issue, including a special 16 page section: "OUTDOORSMAN previews Small Bore for 1948".

Spencerville Man Loses Fingers in Punch Press

Beaty has only been working at the Spencerville factory for two weeks.

Mr. Beaty is the father of two children, and lives in one of the new homes just completed at the north edge of Spencerville. He was working temporarily at the Spenverville factory, while waiting to be called back to his former job in New Haven.

"Maid of Money"

"A three act comedy, entitled "Maid of Money", willl be presented by the Junior Class of Spencerville High School on Friday evening 8 p. m., January 23 in the Community Hall. Everybody welcome: Come and learn the story of Bonnie Day, a waif from the Good Hope Orphanage who inherits a million dollars. Others in the cast are, Jeanne Ulm, Jim Bowser, Joe Gerig, Donald Woodring, Gene Warstler, Ralph Baker, Marie Haupt, Pat Dove, Marylin Tustison, Ruth Emenhiser and Barbara Laux. It is truly a comedy of "All for fun and fun for all."

The St. Joe Firemen and their wives met Monday evening at the Town Hall. After a short business session a social evening with refreshments was enjoyed.

BABY GIRL SAVED. The life of eight-month-old Sandra Sue Fouch (above) of Circleville, O., was saved when the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis rushed a baby respirator to her in the nick of time at a Columbus, O., hospital. Many instances such as this are made possible by the dimes and dollars contributed to the annual March of Dimes appeal January 15-30.

LUCKY HORSESHOE—Fern Howe, 22 year old mother who spent six months in a respirator after being stricken with polio during the record epidemic of 1946, has made virtually a complete recovery, and once again she can pitch horseshoes with the best of them. He recovery marks a happy ending to the most expensive case on the books of the Hennepin County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in Minnesota, which spent $7.519 in March of Dimes funds for Fern's treatment. Ponio attacked some 10,000 more persons in 1947 in the fifth consecutive year of unusually high incidence.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Mr. W. Numan, of Willard, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Olen Waltz spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Zimmerman and Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Swartz, Jr., of Bluffton, Ind. Mrs. Zimmerman underwent a major operation at the Bluffton Clinic, Jan. 16, and is getting along fine. Mrs. Zimmerman is a sister of Mrs. Waltz, and a daughter of Mr. W Newman.

Mrs. Edna Jenkins returned home Sunday from Detroit, Michigan where she had been visiting her daughter for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs Jerry Briggs of Hicksville are the parents of a baby girl, Kathleen, born January 10 at the Community hospital at Hicksville. The Brigg's are former St. Joe residence and have three boys besides the newcomer.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Pearl Chambers, Saturday Morning, in Oak Park, Ill. The deceased will be remembered as the daughter of a former pastor of the Lutheran Church, Rev. Nelson.

The Knisely National Bank of Butler has re-elected the following officers and directors: Lyston C. Hardings, president; Henry C. Springer, vice-president; Otis S. Fisher, cashier, and Faye E. Alwood and George A. Miller, assistant cashiers. Directors are Mr. Harding, Mr. Springer, Mr. Fisher, Jesse O. Oberlin, Harold Coll, Charles I. Weirich, M. D. Oberlin and Clyde B. Oberlin.

SAYS THAT BUSY NEWSPAPER CARRIER BOY AVOID MISCHIEF

Police records show that boys who hold after-school jobs get into less trouble than any other group.

These are the words of Chicago's genial police commissioner, John Prendergast, himself a former newspaper boy.

He says serving a newspaper route is good for any young persons especially because such work does not interfere with schooling.

March of Dimes is Under Way

The annual March Of Dimes Program for St. Joe and Community was announced over the weekend by the local chairman, C. O. Duker.

Mr. Duker announced that infantile paralysis in the United States in the past five years has increased 150 per cent over the previous five year period, according to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which disclose that some 80,000 people were stricken by polio from January 1943 through December 1947. During the past seven years, the National Foundation point out, the number of children and young people crippled by the disease has increased almost 45 per cent.

Contribution to the 1948 March of Dimes help guarantee that no infantile paralysis patient need go without care for lack of money, despite the rise in cases and the increasing cost of medical and hospital care which places a growing financial burden on the National Foundation.

Locally there was no banquet to launch the campaign. The March of Dimes' transparent containers down town have become the emblom to the fine people of the Community, and their appearance was the "kick-off".

The school, as a unit, is participating in the drive, but the students are not encouraged to call from house to house.

The chairman announced that all Clubs, Churches, and local organizations were being sent letters asking them to participate in the drive ,by soliciting their own membership.

The boxes down town are for those few who are not organized groups, or for those who realize the importance of the Campaign and desire to give.

Last years proceeds for DeKalb Co. was $3,149.42, or .1272 per capita The treatment for Fern Howe, pictured in layout, cost Hennepin County Chapter, Minnesota, $7,519.00, but she has recovered. Let's build Our reserve up to be able to give the same treatment to our unknown victims.

St. Joe Tigers Win In Overtime Thriller

The St. Joe Tigers outscored Metz 7 points to 2 in the 3 minute overtime period, to climax a thrilling 37-32 victory over the Steuben County five in Tuesday evenings battle at the St. Joe Gym.

In a wild and wooly game that saw 61 personal fouls called, 34 of which were against St. Joe, the Tigers bested their opponents in a battle of the free throw line, by converting 18 out of 35 attempts; while the losers were making only 12 of their 30 shots.

The parade to the free throw line started early, and before the half had ended, Metz had lost one of their starting five through personal fouls. By the time the hectic battle was over he was joined on the bench by three of his teammates. On the Tiger squad, H. Miller, D. Miller, Freeburn, Richmond, and Walters all fouled out during the third and last period, and were watching the game from the bench at the final horn.

The Tigers held an 8 to 6 first quarter lead, but were trailing 15-14 at the half. By the end of the third quarter the locals had regained a slim 23-21 lead. The score changed back and forth in the final period. Metz led 30-29 with seconds to go, and then Walters hit on a free throw toss that sent the game into overtime. In the overtime period, Walters hit a field goal and one foul shot before he left the game, and charity tosses by Wade, Inlow, Yeiser and Lochner added the other 4 points.

Metz seconds won the preliminary game by a 29- 23 score.

Friday evening, January 23, the Tigers will go to Butler in an attempt to avenge the defeat suffered at the hands of the Windmills in the County Tournament.

LEGION TEAM DRUBS AUBURN Y. M. C. A. FIVE, 62-48

The St. Joe Legion basketball team displayed a flashy, sharpshooting brand of basketball as they did on the Butler floor last week, and again overpowered their opponents by a 14 point margin. Their latest victims were the Auburn Y. M. C. A. quintet who fell under a 62-48 barrage at the St. Joe gym Saturday evening. The Auburn aggregation were called in for Saturday evenings game when the Ft. Wayne Legion team was unable to play.

The Auburn boys all graduates of the Auburn high school within the last couple years, displayed a good floor game but could'nt keep up with the locals in the basket making department. Ridgway, who broke through the Auburn defense almost at will, for easy lay-up shots and rebounds, led the St. Joe team in scoring with 22 points for the evening.

Richard Davis followed in scoring with 8 field goals; Keller, Fetters, Kees, Shuff and Baker completed the squad.

The boys started hitting fast in the opening minutes of play and were leading 29-16 by the half-time.

Officials for the game were Salisbury of Spencerville and Elliot of Auburn.

This Thursday evening the locals will entertain another Auburn team the Auburn American Legion will be present for a single game, starting at 8 p. m. The Auburn Legion won out over the locals at the local gym, earlier in the season, by a two point margin, and again went down in an overtime game a Garrett to the same team several weeks later.

On Saturday evening, January 24, the Legionaires from Churubusco will visit the local gymasium for another single game engagement.

FARMERS PAY THE GOVERNMENT $40,000

According to word received from Culley Phillips, President of the organization, by Lloyd K. Mason, its DeKalb County field representative, farmers in this area took a big step on December 31 toward complte ownership of the Albion Production Credit Association.

Mr. Phillips says a check for $40,000 has just been sent the production Credit Corporation at Louisville to retire that amount of capital invested by the Federal government to help farmers get the association started. This is the 4th large retirement made by the association and all of them have been made in the last 18 months for a total of $205,000. As of December 31, farmers in Allen, DeKalb, Elkhart, Koscuisko, LaGrange, Noble, Steuben, and Whitley counties owned $329,155 of stock in the Albion Production Credit Association, which together with $168,000 in reserves, gives farmers 75 percent of the ownership of this credit co-operative.

Sanitation Pays

An average pig raised under the swine sanitation system weighs about 28 pounds more when four months old than a pig raised in an old hog lot.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

We may be accused of partaking of the old addage about "sour grapes" but, nontheless, we are launching a campaign to have the name of the Kamloops Rainbow Trout in Idaho's famed Lake Pend Oreille changed. And the reason for suggesting a change is simple. Every time we read about another giant rainbow of 30-odd pounds being hoisted from this western paradise it makes us a little ashamed of the two and three-pounders that we've been able to coax onto a fly.

We're open to suggestions on an appropriate name, but it should be a name that throws the Kamloops into a catagory where it will compete with the muskie or northern pike for weight honors. Do we hear any seconds for the campaign?

For the record, here are the latest facts on Lake Pend Oreille; During 1947, 366 rainbows were entered in the Pend Oreille Derby for awards. they ranged in weight from two to 37 pounds, with a gross wenght of 8165 pounds for an average of 22½ pounds per thout. Seven of the trout exceeded the former world record of 32½ pounds, with the 37-pounder, caught in the last week of the season, establishing the high mark and the new world's record.

We can't even catch a muskie that large, let alone a rainbow trout!

OLD ARGUMENT: We've heard sportsmen for many years argue the question: "How fast does a fish grow?" We don't profess to be an expert on this subject, but recently we ran across a report on the growth of a bluegill in an experimental lake in Ohio. This bluegill measured 1.1 inches in the first year, 2.9 inches in the second year, 4.4 inches in the third year and 5.2 inches in the fourth year. The growth of the fish's scales was used to determine the age of the bluegill and, according to the guys in the know, the scale-growth method is accurate in determining ages of fish.

CLYDE HART WRITES FROM SUNNY SOUTH

Port Richey, Fla.

To my Indiana Friends:

Our colony has increased by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart and Mr. and Mrs. George Monroe of Hicksville. Mr. Monroe was born on the farm now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Laughman. We were school mates in 1885.

The weather here remains clear and the thermometer around 70 in the daytime, and 60 at night.

It was thought that after the New Year the most of the apartments here would be occupied, but in traveling about you see many "For Rent" signs posted.

In coming to Florida most people are disappointed with the landscape until they reach Port Richey, this place is the beginning of the citrus industry. I am speaking of the west coast. The groves are much farther north on the central and East coast.

Florida is a big state, it is around seven hundred miles from the north line to Key West it has a shore line of at least twelve hundred miles.

The campfire for which this place is noted is surrounded each night by campers from this as well as other camps. Some tall fish stories are told each night. The moral tone of the people is high.

In conversing with Mr. Monroe he recalls many events which happened in the Coburntown neighborhood that I had forgotten. He told me of a transient, who lived with Mrs. Philena Maxwell on the farm now owned by Mr. Strombeck by the name of Ben Higbee. He made a huge sleigh by binding hickory poles for runners and a frame on top. It was capable of carrying twenty or more people. It was hauled to the hill just west of where the school house stood in Clarence Woodcox's pasturefield. When the snow came what fun they had, what thrills and spills.

Those good old days are passed and gone but never-the-less we get enjoyment thinking about them.

We would enjoy hearing from you.

Your Friend, Clyde Hart

PHEASANT AND QUAIL CHICKS WILL BE FURNISHED CLUBS

Day-old game birds will be supplied to conservation clubs this year without charge, Indiana Department of Conservation officials announced today.

Quail and pheasant chicks will be furnished to all clubs holding educational breeders' permits, but the state does not make payments for the rearing and liberation of birds. According to Donald R. Hughes, director of the Division of Fish and Game, dwindling income and higher prices make it impossible to offer clubs money for raising birds. This program was discontinued last year through economic necessity.

Pheasant chicks will be supplied to Parke, Putnam, Vermillion, Hendricks, Marion, Hancock, Henry and Wayne Counties, and all counties north of this section. Quail chicks will be furnished only to counties south of this area. March 1, 1948 is the deadline for chick requests. Chicks for two "E" brooders will be supplied each club with 120 birds to the brooder, Hughes said, and the Division of Fish and Game plans to send out pheasant eggs— while they last—upon request.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

FROSTBITE

Cold causes the blood vessels on the surface of the body to contract. The purpose of this is to prevent too much cooling of the blood as it comes in contact with cold. However, if the cold is too severe, the flow of blood at the surface is so greatly lessened that freezing or at least frostbite occurs.

Because they protrude, the tip of the nose, the ears, the fingers and the toes are particularly susceptible to injury from cold. Frostbite may come gradually or suddenly, the latter especially when the wind is high. First a stinging feeling is present in the exposed part, followed by a pleasant numbness often without pain.

Whenever frostbite occurs, thawing should be gradual in cool air or water. The practice of rubbing snow over the frostbitten part is dangerous. Nothing warmer than the heat of the body should ever be tried, and a person who has been frostbitten recently should not go near a fire or into a fully heated room until the circulation has been thoroughly restored.

After thawing, the skin and small blood vessels are not yet strong and there is special danger of infection. In severe cases, red or purple blisters filled with green fluid or blood may appear.

Prevention of frostbite can be accomplished by wearing proper clothing. Those who are exposed to the weather should arrange for frequent rests and warmth under shelter.

EMERGENCY APPEAL TO AID IN PREVENTING A CONDITION OF HARDSHIP BY GOVERNOR RALPH GATES

There exists in our state a very real shortage of fuel oil for household heating. Many hundreds of our Indiana Citizens face extreme discomfort and suffering from cold this winter.

This emergency is so serious and exists over such a widespread area that I feel impelled to ask that every user of fuel oil in any form immediately start on a fuel conservaton program in his own home, factory, apartment, farm or business, to cut down his fuel oil consumption by at least ten per cent.

At the present consumption rate there simply is not enough fuel oil to go around at all times and all places.

Public health and comfort demand that no household in Indiana be permitted to be cold-- which means that every fuel oil user will have to share with his neighbors and fellow citizens a part of the oil he would ordinarily use.

Selfishness and love of personal comfort MUST be forgotten in this critical period. No great sacrifice would be required, and adequate heating for all might be accomplished by cutting down by at least 10% the normal consumption of fuel oil by every heating unit.

RALPH F. GATES
Governor, State of Indiana

OPEN SEASON ON PHEASANTS MAY BE RESTORED THIS YEAR

The open season on pheasants may be restored in Indiana this year, if was indicated today by John Nigh, director of State Department of Conservation.

Because of the decrease number of these game birds, the killing of pheasants was banned in the state last year.

The present outlook, however, indicate a five-day open season in 1948, according to Nigh. This hunting period likely will begin November 10 to correspond with the opening of the quail and rabbit seasons.

Donald R. Hughes, state Fish and Game director, said his division plan to release approximately 10,000 hens and 2,000 cock pheasants in early spring, this liberation to take place in fifty northern counties.

These birds are reported to be in good condition and will be ready for release in March, unless some sudden disaster - such as heavy ice or winds striking their pens -- occur.

Incidentally, one of the poorest rabbit seasons in several years ended January 10. Hunters reported rabbits difficult to locate in practically all sections of the state.

With the closing of the trapping season at noon January 15, trappers were reminded by Conservation Department Officials that they have five days to dispose of their furs. The law provides also that dealers must dispose of their furs and submit reports to the state within sixty days from the end of the season.

Muskrats were scarce, but 'coons' were plentiful, according to statewide reports.

TOURIST AND VACATION ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN TO START NEXT MONTH

Inauguration of a national tourist vacation advertising campaign for the state of Indiana, next month, has been announced by Lieutenant-Governor, Richard T. James, director of the Indiana Department of Commerce and Public Relations, which is conducting the program.

First solicitation of tourist and vacation travel by the state in many years, the campaign will continue through June, Mr. James said.

Eleven general and special magazines and newspapers will carry advertisements featuring the state as a whole as well as specific recreational, historical, and scenic points of interest. Advertising will be placed by Pettinger-Harding, Inc., of Indianapolis.

The new campaign is part of the Department's over-all program designed to promote Hoosier industry and agriculture and to attract increasing number of visitors to Indiana.

WILMINGTON TWP. 4-H CLUB MEMBER RECEIVES PURDUE UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIP

The county extension office has been advisd by Harold B. Taylor, state 4-H club leader, that Lynn Fuller, 4-H club member of Wilmington Township, has been awarded a scholarship to the School of Agriculture at Purdue University. This scholarship has been awarded on his outstanding reocrd in 4-H club work. Such a scholarship is good on paying the tuition normally collected from students entering the University each of the eight semesters.

Lynn has been an active member under the direction of Albert Bess vocational agricultural teacher for nine years. He has majored in dairy and beef cattle particularly. He has developed a herd of Jersey cattle after starting with a young heifter in his 4-H club project. He has received many honors at local, district and state shows on his dairy and beef animals. This year he was one of the honor boys at the State 4-H Club Camp.

CONCORD TWP. HOME EC.

The regular monthly meeting of the Concord Twp. Home Economics Club was held at the home of Mrs. Edith Cole, Friday afternoon, Jan. 16th with the president presiding. The meeting was opened by reading the prayer song, followed by the song of the month, "Home on the Range."

Our county agent Miss Mary Moore gave a very interesting and educational lesson on "Feminine Hygene, Health and personality."

The Club voted to send $5.00 to the County Home Ec. Chorus. The flower collection was 44 cents. 12 members and one child was present.

Mrs. Laura Washler furnished the entertainment. Mrs. Myrtle Pugsley received the door prize.

The hostess served a very delicious lunch. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cora Fetters, with Mrs. Ross Watt, Mrs. Harriet Johnson and Mrs. Mary Krise assisting.

SPENCER TWP. HOME EC.

The Spencer Township Club met Wed. Jan 14 at the home of Mrs. Mary Stemen, with Mrs. Flossie Rediger as co-hostess.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Hazel Washler.

Mrs. Grace Laub, county president discussed goals for the clubs for 1948.

The Club voted to give $5.00 to county chorus. Mrs. Irma Allen auctioned the bazaar. Cards were sent to sick members.

Mrs. Lois Fisher baked a button in a large delicious white cake, each member paid 10 cents for a piece. Mrs. Irma Allen got the button and will bake the cake next month.

Twenty members responded with thousehold hints.

A delicious lunch, of open-faced sandwiches, tapioca pudding, pickles and coffee, was served.

The next meeting will be February 11, at the home of Miss Elizabeth Hart with Mrs. Jennie Walters assisting.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION TO BE HELD JUNE 4

The republican party's state convention in Indiana probably will be held in Indianapolis June 4th. That's the latest word from GOP state headquarters in Indianapolis where party officials say State Chairman Clark Springer has announced that date in Washington. Previously, a tentative date of June 11th was set. But Mr. Springer saye the change was made because of a time limit for certification of delegates to the national convention June 21st.

FIRST in PRODUCTION, in SALES and in REGISTRATIONS of cars and of trucks . . .

FIRST in Passenger Car Production in 1947—according to published production figures.

FIRST in Truck Production in 1947—according to published production figures.

FIRST in Passenger Car Sales in 1947—according to incomplete but conclusive sales records.

FIRST in Truck Sales in 1947—according to incomplete but conclusive sales records.

FIRST to Produce over a Million Cars and Trucks in a postwar year, 1947—according to published production figures.

FIRST in Total Passenger Car Production and Sales for the total 17-year period, January, 1931 to January, 1948—according to published nation-wide figures.

FIRST in Total Truck Production and Sales for the total 17-year period, January, 1931 to January, 1948—according to published nation-wide figures.

FIRST in Total Number of Cars and Trucks on the road today—according to official nation-wide registrations.

WE, YOUR LOCAL CHEVROLET DEALER—and every other Chevrolet dealer in America—are both proud and happy to make the following report to buyers and prospective buyers of Chevrolet products.

Again in 1947, Chevrolet built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker in the industry, just as Chevrolet has built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker for the total seventeen-year period, dating from January, 1931 to January, 1948—the modern period of motor car history.

Naturally, we as well as the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors are deeply grateful for America's outspoken preference for Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks; and we are determined to do everything in our power to continue to deserve this preference in the future as in the past.

We want to thank each and every person in this community for his friendship and goodwill for this organization. We solicit and appreciate your patronage. We are doing our level best to prove that, by filling orders for new Chevrolets just as promptly as we can—even under today's trying conditions—and we are deeply and doubly appreciative of the patience and understanding of all our customers who are awaiting deliveries of new Chevrolets.

Needless to say, you buy wisely when you buy the product of the world's largest producers of cars and trucks, for that is the way to maximum dollar value! Rest assured that we'll fill your order for a new Chevrolet just as soon as it is humanly possible to do so. Meanwhile, please let us help to keep your present car or truck in good running condition by bringing it to us for skilled service, now and at regular intervals.

The COPY CUB

"Most bird dogs are NOT as brainy as Professor Einstein. Fact is, in many ways they're pretty dumb!" writes Mabry Anderson, veteran sportsman and dog-lover, in the current OUTDOORSMAN magazine.

The average hunter places too much confidence in his dog, according to Anderson, whose article tells hunters how to help their dogs by doing some of the "head work."

There are 19 other know-how features and 11 departments in the same issue, including a special 16-page section "OUTDOORSMAN previews Small Boats for 1948".

SCRIPTURE: II Corinthians 5:20 to 6:10; Hebrews 11.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 12: 9-21.

When We Work With God

Lesson for January 25, 1948

DR. E. STANLEY JONES was in Atlanta on one of his several visits, and some of us were asking him about his notable and unique experience as a missionary in the Orient. "If you had it all to go over, Dr. Jones, would you devote your life to the peoples of faraway Asia, or would you choose to live in America with its abundance of good things?" he was asked. Quick as a flash of lightning he replied: "If I had a thousand lives to give, they would all gladly go to the wistful souls of Asia."

Dr. Newton

Paul would have been enheartened in the day that he wrote II Corinthians 5:20 to 6:10, and Romans 12:9-21, to have heard someone talk as Dr. Jones talked that afternoon, for in our lesson for Sunday, Paul is summoning every Christian to the highest possible commitment to the will of God as we go forth in the task to beseech all men to be reconciled unto God through Jesus Christ, who hath taken upon himself the iniquity of us all, "that we might be made the righteousness of God in him."

Thus we come to see the significance and the meaning of the memory verse for Sunday's lesson, "We are fellow workmen for God," I Corinthians 3:9.

PEOPLE WHO WORK WITH GOD

READ Hebrews' 11th chapter for a picture of some of the noble souls who really worked with God, by faith, as the writer delights to put it.

Abraham, for example, "went out, not knowing whither he went," but when he came to the end of life's day, he was accounted the friend of God. Moses, "choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season, esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt, endured as seeing him who is invisible."

HOW WE WORK WITH GOD

READ again that eleventh chapter of Romans to discover how the men and women named there worked with God. Two words will quickly come to light — faith and obedience. They believed God, and they obeyed God. Junior boys and girls will do well to recall some of the heroes of history — men like Washington and Lincoln and Lee—and in every instance you will discover that they, too, believed God and obeyed God. Remember the story of Washington kneeling in prayer in the snow at Valley Forge?

We cannot work with God unless and until we believe and obey him. "Can two walk together except they be agreed?" You cannot please your earthly father unless you believe him and obey him.

GOOD WORKMEN ESSENTIAL

WE COME now to the deeper implications of the lesson, revealed in II Corinthians 5:20 to 6:10. "We then, as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain; but in all things approving ourselves in much patience, in afflictions, in distresses, in watchings, by kindness, by love unfeigned, by the power of God. . . ."

Here is the acid test of doing the work of an ambassador of Christ — we must first be fully committed to him before we can persuade others to accept him as Saviour and Lord. We shall not have better homes and better churches until we first have better Christians. We shall not have better business until we first have better business men.

And the only way by which we become good workmen is through the redeeming, transforming grace of the Lord Jesus Christ.

JOY OF WORKING WITH GOD

WHY did Dr. E. Stanley Jones answer so quickly about giving a thousand lives to the benighted, wistful souls of Asia? Because he had discovered the unspeakable joy of working with God in reconciling men unto him. The largest, surest wages in this world is the experience of working for and with God. "What I kept, I lost; what I gave, I have."

Do you believe it? It is difficult to believe until you try it. Indeed, I would say that it is beyond all imagination to grasp the meaning of working with God. You have to take Christ at exactly what he meant when he said, "Come and see."

"When we walk with the Lord, in the light of his word, what a glory he sheds on our way!"

LEGION WINS TWO IN PAST WEEK; TO PLAY HOOK AND SONS SATURDAY NIGHT

The American Legion five added two more victories during the past week; whipping the Auburn Legion 43 to 34, Thursday night and then turning the heat on a powerful Castle Bar team from Ft. Wayne 43 to 36 Saturday evening.

Thursday nights contest with the Auburn Legion was an uphill battle for the locals until midway in the third quarter. The Auburn boys were leading 12-8 at the quarter, and still held a slim 23-20 margin at the half. In the third quarter, however, the local boys caught up with their opponents, and once they had the lead it was apparent they were never to be headed again, Fetters got all 3 of his field goals in that period to help the cause, so when the last period got underway Auburn was trailing 36-27. Ridgway got 10 points for the evening and Mavis got 14 for the losers.

Saturday nights game started off very fast with both teams showing some real sharpshooting in the opening minutes, and the Ft. Wayne club held a 17 to 15 first quarter lead.. The locals boys with Baker and Kees playing an outstanding defensive game held the visitors scoreless in the second period, while they were picking up 5 field goals and 3 points from foul shooting. Midway through the last quarter they held a 17 point lead, which the Castle Bar boys had cut down to 7 points by the games end.

Thursday Jan. 29 the Marshall Clothiers will make their first appearance in the local gym in a single game starting at 8 p. m. On Saturday evening, Jan. 31, the strong Hook & Sons team from Spencerville will be present for the main attraction at 8 p. m. to tangle with the Legion with a prelim scheduled for 7 p. m.. And then on Monday, Feb. 2 the Indiana University Extension team from Fort will be present for a single game.

LIONS START TWO MORE WORTHY PROJECTS

Two committees for separate projects received the go sign Monday evening at the St. Joe-Spencerville Lions Club meeting. One committee, Bill Wenninger and Maurice Hollabaugh, was instructed to waste no time in taking what steps necessary to have a sidewalk built along the south side of the street leading to the Spencerville school. Building a sidewalk should correct this great hazard created by children having to walk to and from school in a narrow street.

The second committee, composed of Derwood Ridgway, Bill Wenninger, Clyde Duker, and Everett Paschen, was put to work on plans for reviving some of the old, and using some of the new dramatical talent in the vacinity of St. Joe and Spencerville, to present a home talent play, Mr. Ridgway stated that he believed that with the local talent available, a program can be arranged that will meet with the same enthusiasm that was experienced by the St. Joe Dramatics Club a few years back.

The Lion's enjoyed a carry-in supper and an interesting film on Palestine, in the agricultural room of the St. Joe High School.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN EAST OF SPENCERVILLE

Defective barn wiring was the apparent blame for an estimated $15,000 blaze that totally destroyed the barn at the Miller residence, on the Merton Kimes farm, 2 miles east of Spencerville, early Tuesday evening

The barn located a mile south and approximately a mile west of Coburn's Corners was in flames when noticed by the family about 5 p. m.

The Spencerville Fire Department was immediately summoned, but removal of part of the contents was all that was possible at that time.

Lost with the exceptionally good barn in the blaze, which will reach an estimated loss of $15,000, were 5 head of cattle, 12 hogs, a dog and quite an amount of hay.

FAMILY LOSES FURNITURE IN HARLAN FIRE

A family of four lost half of their furniture when a fire destroyed the living quarters in downtown Harlan at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Forced out of their home was Harley Purk,50, and his wife and two children. They found temporary quarters with Mrs. Purk's parents near Woodburn.

Saturday morning the Spencerivlle fire department had been summoned to Harlan also to aid in fighting a fire which swept through the Pratt residence there. Tons of water was poured on the blaze by five nearby fire departments in a futile attempt to save the residence.

GLEN KINSEY HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

A fire which broke out in the rear of the Glen Kinsey home, Tuesday forenoon, resulted in approximately $200 loss. The local fireman were called and the flame which had a a good start in the attic over the kitchen, was soon extinguished. Smoke filled all the rooms and poured out of the siding in many places, but the flame was confined to the one corner. The fire apparently started from an over heated stove pipe. The Spencerville Fire Dept. was summoned, but the fire was well under control before they arrived.

What a coincident that Glen Kinsey, who has done probably more work on the installation of the water system, than any other St. Joe resident, should be the very first to use the new firehose and hydrant now at service to the public, however, he probably would have been just as pleased to have given the honor to anyone else.

Last Saturday the Fire Department was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler. After having a little chimney trouble, smoke appeared coming out from under the roof, but no sign of fire could be found.

AMERICAN LEGION TO HOLD PANCAKE AND SAUSAGE SUPPER

Committee members and officers of the local American Legion Post, Walter Whitehurst 283 have announced initial plans for a pancake and sausage supper to be held Feb. 19. Until the last several years, this has been an annual affair and many have expressed their desire for its return. There will be plenty of pancakes and fresh sausage and a continuous evening of entertainment has been plannd, and several outstanding entertainment features have been contacted for the evening. The supper will be held in the St. Joe Gym, and the affair will be open to the public. Advance ticket sale will start approximately Feburary 1st, and will sell at $1.00 each for adults, children under 14 years will be admitted at half price, ticket will entitle the holder to as much pancakes and sausage as they desire and to stay and enjoy the evening of entertainment. Proceeds will go towards remodeling Legion Home.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Staman, Wednesday, January 21, for Bible Evening. The meeting was called to order by the president. The collect was read by Mrs. Glen Cole.

The meeting was then turned over to the chairman for the evening, Mrs. Lora Leighty. The following program was presented: "Beyond the Sunset", was sung by Mrs. Allen Haller.

Scripture, remarks and prayer, by Mrs. C. C. Woodcox.

"The Lord is Our Comfort" was sung by Shirley Perkins.

Facts on the Bible were given by Mrs. Glen Cole, and Bible games were played

During the business session one new member was voted into the club. A collection was taken for Musical Pennies, and March of Dimes. The meeting was adjourned to meet February 4, with Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser; Mrs. Wm. Staman will be leader and Mrs. Vernie Monroe will furnish the entertainment.

BUTLER WINDMILLS OUTSCORE TIGERS IN LAST PERIOD TO NIP THEM 26 TO 23

When the St. Joe High Tigers returned home, late last Friday night they were wishing they had never heard of one Ed Gengnagel, Butler High's sharp shooting junior. For he, with the aid of his deadly one handed push shot, almost single handed turned a seemingly tiger upset victory, into a 26 to 23 Windmill win at the Butler gym Friday evening.

The Butler squad, held to just 4 field goals until the last quarter, were finally sparked into life by young Gengnagel in the last three minutes of play; and before the fair sized crowd of local fans that made the trip to Butler realized it, had shot his team into a three point lead that held until the final gun.

The locals took the lead right from the start, in a low scoring affair, and with the aid of 11 out of 19 attempts at the foul line appeared to be more than holding own, until the last few minutes of play.

The Tigers held a 7-2 first period score and the Windmills with the aid of the first fielder of the game in the second period, had closed it to 11-8 at the half.

The locals 19-14 lead starting the final period still looked good enough for a win. Shultz and Gengnagel all hit early in that period and the Tigers held on to a slim lead at the automatic time period. By the time the gun had sounded, Gegnagel had hit two more of his push shot specialties and had collected a foul shot, and Abbot had also hit a field goal. Gegnagel making 7 for 7 attempts at the foul stripe led with point for the evening.

The strong Butler seconds were more than a match for the local reserves. The only consolation the Tigers returned with, was a 16-15 Junior High victory over the Butler Jr. High, early in the evening.

Friday night the Tigers will go to Spencerville for a two game engagement with the Red Raiders.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Joseph Baidinger, Jan. 21, with Mrs. Dewey White as co-hostess. Meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Baidinger. The club collect was read in unison. Mrs. Sam Armstrong, leader, had the members read from the Readers Digest. The following articles, "Epic Human Story of Brooklyn Bridge" and "The wonder of Wood", both were very interesting topics. Critics report was given. Special work "Fiction or Facts" was given by Mrs. Olen Waltz. Twenty members responded to Roll call.

Meeting was adjourned and all members will be notified as to where the next meeting will be held. The time of the meeting has been changed to February 11, instead of Feb 4.

The co-hostess served a tasty lunch of hot beef sandwiches, applesauce cake, mints and coffee.

MAGICIAN WORKS MAGIC AT LOCAL SCHOOL

"Stephen the Magician" appeared at the local school Friday, and the students contributed $82.95 to the March of Dimes campaign in appreciation of his performance.

Mr. Gubi, as Stephen the Magician, is an entertainer from Mishawaka, Indiana. By occupation he is a minister and his program is filled with lessons in personal conduct that is appealing to children.

Mr. Duker, local chairman of the March Of Dimes, announced that several clubs had already sent him checks as contributions to the campaign, and invited others to do the same, rather than wait for his letter of solicitation. Checks should be made payable to March of Dimes

Salisbury, pastor of the Methodist church at Spencerville, officiated at the rites. Burial was made in White City cemetery at Spencerville. Mrs. Rhodes died unexpectedly at 10 a. m. Wednesday at her home. Her death was attributed to a digestive disturbance following a short illness.

SPENCERVILLE LUTHERAN CHURCH PREPARES TO CELEBRATE IN 1949

The Spencerville Lutheran church has announced plans to completely renovate its building as part of its celebration in 1949, of the 100th anniversary of the congregation and the 60th anniversary of the dedication of the present building.

At the annual business meeting of the congregation last Sunday, Jan. 25th, two gifts totaling $1500.00 were announced in addition to the pledges of of the members. These gifts were from a man whose parents had helped to erect the present structure and they were given to help the congregation restore it to its original beauty for the 60th anniversary of the dedication. (1889) $500.00 of this amount will be used for permanent improvements which will be designated as a memorial to the donor's parents. It is anticipated that other families whose parents or grandparents likewise had a part in the erection of this building, will desire to memorialize them in a similar manner.

The first major step in renovating the church building for the double anniversary in 1949, was taken by the congregation last year when a new oil-burning heating system was installed and the basement was redecorated. The church building, regarded by many as the best in the county at the time it was erected, has stood these 60 years very well, but now there are many repairs and improvements needed to restore it to its original beauty as a place of worship, instructions, and fellowship. General repairs and redecoration work will begin as soon as the weather permits. Permanent improvement will be made and new furnishings will be secured as rapidly as funds are made available through memorial gifts or otherwise. Miss Margaret Chaney is the special treasurer and Mr. Ed Johnson is the recorder of all centennial gifts and contributions.

The donor of the $1500.00 was Mr. Ort Wearley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Greeley Wearley, who expressed the hope that an additional $1500.00 would be raised by the congregation to assure a thorough renovation of the building and furnishings. The members of the congregation present at the annual meeting pledged nearly $1000.00 and are confident that by the end of the year additional contributions and memorials will increase the anniversary fund to the $3,000.00 goal.

CLYDE HART WRITES FROM SUNNY SOUTH

Port Richey, Fla.

To Our Indiana Friends: It is raining hard, it usually does in Florida, as I look out of our north window. Two gray squirrels are playing about, gathering hickory nuts, then scurrying up a live oak. The hickory nuts are different here from those in the north, they resemble our pig hickory, only a few of the nuts contain a kernel. I watched the squirrels, they pick up a lot of nuts roll them around in their paws and then throw them down, I have watched them do this many times, and on examining them have found they are worthless. One day I scared one as he was climbing a tree. He dropped the nut and on examination I found it good. I am wondering how they tell the good from the bad ones.

In one of my letters four or five years ago, I predicted that the time would come when the citrus industry would be troubled with over production. That time has now come It is said that a box of oranges, containing one and one fifth bushels in the grove net the grower only twenty cents per box. With the thousand acres planted in 1944 and 1945, one can see what the future holds out to the citrus grower. The large corporation who own groves may weather the situation, but the small grower will probably be frozen out of the industry.

It is always easy to predict the weather here after a big rain, like we had yesterday. It is always colder and that is what we have. The radio says it is very cold in the north tonight, so that will add to the cold spell here in a day or so. The thermometer registered 45 degrees at noon today (Sunday)

To fisherman I would say, "Don't come to Florida to fish, you could catch more in the Coburntown creek than they are catching at the present.

Monday Morning: The cold has vanished and the sun is shining brightly. Last Wednesday a man died in a camp near us, and we attended the burial. The Greeks use one part of the cemetery and there we observed an odd custom. On each lot there is placed a miniature house, resembling a doll house. Inside each house is a candle burning, and other small articles. In one house there was a package of cigarettes and a few matches. The Greek are members of the Greek Orthodox Church, and they have the most beautiful church in Tapon Springs, I have ever seen.

All the people in the camp are well, and send their best regards.

From your Friend and Neighbor,
Clyde Hart.

SORE THROAT

SOME sore throats are a part of an ordinary cold. Others are simply tonsilitis or are infections which act on the throat without spreading up to the nose or down to the voice box and lower breathing tubes. In some cases sore throat is associated with diseases elsewhere in the body, like digestive upsets or gout.

Before the throat becomes thoroughly sore there may be a little feeling of uneasiness or difficulty in swallowing, or tickling, or dryness in the throat with a desire to cough and hawk. The person who has such symptoms could well stay home in bed for a short time, not only because this may shorten the course of the sore throat, but also because it will avoid infecting others.

Most cases of sore throat probably are caught from other people. Germs are usually responsible and are breathed in from someone who has sneezed or coughed. Severe cases may be caused by germs called streptococci which are present in milk or some other food in a severe sore throat chilly feeling and slight fever are common. A physician should always be consulted.

Occasionally a chronic sore throat may follow a number of acute attacks. This is especially common in someone who drinks alcohol to excess, or uses his or her voice often and hard.

THE SHEPHERD AND HIS SHEEP

The Shepherd Speaks

John 10: 14, 15, 16

I am the good Shepherd
And I know my sheep
And my sheep know Me
For My message they keep

As the Father knows Me
And I know Him, too,
I lay down My life
That My sheep may come through

And others I have
Which are not of this fold;
Them too I must save
And My message unfold

They shall hear My voice
And become as one flock
There shall be but one Shepherd
No image to mock

The Sheep speaks

The 23rd Psalm

The Lord is my Shepherd
This true, I'm His sheep
Through Him I'll not want
For His message I keep

My rest He makes pleasant
Where pastures are green
And my pathway He leads
Where still waters are seen

My soul is restored
And He leads me to take
The righteousness path
Yes, for His name's sake

Yea, e'en though I walk
Where death shadow assails
I still feel no evil
For Thy presence prevails

Thy rod and thy staff
Are real comfort to me
And my table is spread
Where my enemies see

My head is annointed
With oil, through Thy will
And my cup runneth over
Instead of the fill

So, goodness and mercy
Shall ever be rife
And follow me always
The days of my life.

And the home where I'll dwell
When at last my life's o'er
Is the House of the Lord
Yes with Him evermore.

PASSION PLAY TO BE PRESENTED IN FORT WAYNE

One of the most significant things about the Black Hills Passion Play, scheduled here February 8 - 12, at Quimby Auditorium, is the fact that it is universally accepted by almost all faith and creeds.

Josef Meier, portrayer of the Christus, and leader of the famed religious troupe, is justly proud of the manner in which his play has won even the most obdurate suspectors of things theatrical. In all his many years of producing the Passion Play, Meier has had only one member of the clergy fail to heartily endorse the religious drama after seeing the stage production.

The play is so universal in appeal that it not only attracts spectators from every religion, but the cast, itself, is diversified in theological belief. Meiser is a Roman Catholic Some of the men a nd women who came with him from Germany are Lutheran. Others represent various other faiths. Yet, Collectively, they are united in a common effort - the production of the world's oldest and greatest religious stage spectacle.

People invariably are curious about Meier. They want to know what happens to a man who nearly every day of his life, takes the role of Jesus Christ. They ask if he attempts to live the part offstage. He is, happily, less embarrised by the question than his interrogators.

"That is the way they usually put it," Meier says, half apologetically, 'but they don't mean what they say. It would be fatal for an actor to be vain about a role that must be played with humility to succeed. People really want to know what effect the stage business has on my private life, and that is hard to answer. Perhaps, because of it, I have a little more patience, a little better understanding of others, but that is all."

Matinee and evening performances will be given e very day, with the exception of Monday, February 10, when no matinee will be given. Mail order reservations may be addressed to Passion Play Headquarters, 111 W. Washington St., Fort Wayne. Prices are $3.60, $3.00, $2.40, $1.80, and $1.20, tax included.

3 Unions Block Labor Peace—Refuse Wage Boost Already Accepted by 19 Other Railroad Unions!

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union of North America, representing 125,000 railroad employes, have refused to accept the offer of the Railroads of a wage increase of 15½ cents an hour.

This is the same increase awarded 1,000,000 non-operating employes by an arbitration board in September, 1947.

This is the same increase accepted by 175,000 conductors, trainmen and switchmen by agreement on November 14, 1947.

Agreements have been made with 1,175,000 employes, represented by nineteen unions. But these three unions, representing only 125,000 men, are trying to get more. They are demanding also many new working rules not embraced in the settlement with the conductors and trainmen.

Incidentally, the Switchmen's Union of North America represents only about 7% of all railroad switchmen, the other 93% being represented by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and covered by the settlement with that union.

Strike Threat

The leaders of these three unions spread a strike ballot while negotiations were still in progress. This is not a secret vote but is taken by union leaders and votes are signed by the employes in the presence of union representatives.

When direct negotiations failed, the leaders of these three unions refused to join the railroads in asking the National Mediation Board to attempt to settle the dispute, but the Board took jurisdiction at the request of the carriers and has been earnestly attempting since November 24, 1947, to bring about a settlement. The Board on January 15, 1948, announced its inability to reach a mediation settlement. The leaders of the unions rejected the request of the Mediation Board to arbitrate. The railroads accepted.

What Now?

The Unions having refused to arbitrate, the Railway Labor Act provides for the appointment of a fact-finding board by the President.

The railroads feel it is due shippers, passengers, employes, stockholders, and the general public to know that throughout these negotiations and in mediation, they have not only exerted every effort to reach a fair and reasonable settlement, but they have also met every requirement of the Railway Labor Act respecting the negotiation, mediation, and arbitration of labor disputes.

It seems unthinkable that these three unions, representing less than 10 per cent of railroad employes, and those among the highest paid, can successfully maintain the threat of a paralyzing strike against the interest of the entire country—and against 90 per cent of their fellow employes.

The threat of a strike cannot justify granting more favorable conditions to 125,000 employes than have already been put in effect for 1,175,000, nor will it alter the opposition of the railroads to unwarranted wage increases or to changes in working rules which are not justified.

A glance at the box shows what employes represented by the Engineers and Firemen make. They are among the highest paid in the ranks of labor in the United States, if not the highest.

Compare these wages with what you make!

Here is a comparison of average annual earnings of engineers and firemen for 1939 (prewar) and 1947. Also shown is what 1947 earnings would have been if the 15½ cents per hour increase, offered by the railroads and rejected by the union leaders, had been in effect throughout the entire year 1947.

Part IXX

The service was over. Darrell was among the first to make his exit. He dashed for his roadster and proudly sped down the road, while three or four envious youngsters looked on. Like a wild man he flew down across the old stone bridge alone, raging within with an uncontrolable flaming fire of anger and jealousy. He slammed on the brakes and whirled around in the road and roared back toward the church. He slowly drove on past, expecting to see among the crowd filing out of the church, the beautiful girl dressed in blue. by the side of the cowboy who, he wished now, had never survived the catastrophy of the night before. But neither were to be seen around the scene of the departing men and women. The roadster spun on up the road. turned around and was soon parked in the dark, like a beast lying in wait for it's prey, where its driver could get a full view of everyone as they left the church.

At last, to his surprise, the wounded youth of whom he was so jealous, came walking out with Grandpa Clark. They shook hands with a few that were lingering about the door, and were soon out on the road, their forms blended into the darkness. Mr. and Mrs. Gibbens soon followed and went to the car.

At last from the few remaining, there stepped out, the girl for whom he was jealously watching.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin lingered behind visiting with the Rev. Mr. Stone and others who remained.

Having heard that Derrell was in the service, Betty was not too much surprised when his cream colored roadster pulled up at the steps where she was waiting for her parents.

"Why hello, Darrell," Betty said, as she stepped down toward the car. "I haven't seen you here for a long time. It seems good to see you back again."

"It surely seems good to be back again too. I've about decided I am coming back here to church," he replied, craftly.

"Oh, that will be fine!" she cried "I'm sure we would all be glad to see you coming back regularly again."

"Say, Betty, do you remember when you said that some time you would take a ride with me in my roadster? How would you like to ride home in it? I would be glad to take you," he slyly suggested.

Betty was by no means anxious to keep the promise which she had made a year ago only for courtesy's sake, but she felt that if the prodigal was considering coming back to the church and God again, she didn't want to do anything that might hinder him coming back.

"You will take me right home, won't you?"

"Just as straight home as this roadster will take us," he lied.

"Just a moment," she said as she turned toward the church door where Slim Boglin was standing "Slim, will you tell mother I am going to ride home with Darrell?"

"Sure thing," Slim replied.

They were soon on their way. But where?

The Rev. Mr. Stone was informed there was a donation in the shape of a nice ham and some fresh sausages waiting for him up at grandpa Clark's shack and that he should come up and get it before he drove back to his home in Shepherdsville. A little lunch was also prepared for him. The preacher needed no persuasion for he always enjoyed grandpa's "lunches", especially after two big Sunday services.

The pastor's car overtook Grandpa before he reached the bridge. Together they rode to the humble cabin up on the side of the mountain where they ate their snack and discussed the momentus service of the evening, and while the pastor explained for Billy's benefit, his plans for the new Boy's Home up near Shepherdsville. How he was going to finance the building of it, grandpa didn't know, but God was able he assured himself.

The pastor did well to hide his feelings of suspense, for neither Billy nor Grandpa must know what was weighting on his mind. Although Grandpa Clark did not notice that his pastor was in a greater hurry than usual, of course he didn't blame him for hurrying away. He thought perhaps he had a few words he would want to say to his young convert.

Billy decided he too must be going home. He was tired and a bit weak from the horrible experience of the night before, and the exciting happenings of the present evening. It seemed like part of a dream, a nice part. The peace of God filled his heart and brought to him much greater joy than he had ever supposed it would. He had always thought of religion as something for women and children, and it was nice for old folks, but for young people he had thought it would be dull and depressing. Now he was finding more real joy and true happiness than he had ever found at Deer Run or any other place of its kind. Why had he not learned of the greatness of salvation long before? It wasn't the fault of his mother and father, he was sure, for they had endeavored earnestly since he could remember anything, to point him to the way of salvation. This is what Billy Gibbons was discussing with his new friend and pastor as they rode along toward the lane which led from the Shepherdsville road back up several rods to the Gibbons home.

After a few words of advise and admonition from the pastor, young Gibbons got out of the car and started up the lane. The quietness of that still and peaceful night in Sunrise Valley was disturbed only by an occational call of the whipporwill over on the mountainside somewhere. He stood for a few moments at the foot of the lane watching the two red lights disappear around a distant curve as the fading purr of the preachers car gave way to the stillness of the dark, moonless night, and the lone whipporwill's call.

He was about to turn toward the house when he heard voices of a man and woman somewhere across the deep ravine on the other side of the road.

Through the stillness of the quiet night the sound of voices would carry for an unbelievably long distance. The tired youth stood tense in the darkness, trying to grasp what was being said and where the voices were, for the womans voice sounded distressed.

He was tired and he decided that it was none of his affair, anyway, and that he would probably be out of place if he were to interfere. He made his way on up the lane. He had reached the front yard gate when he halted again. He could still hear voices, especially that of the woman. He had no doubt now that someone was in need of help, and there was but one thing for him to do, regardless of his own weary and wounded condition. He lifted his eyes toward the clouded skies above and whispered a prayer for Divine help and turned back down the lane. He made his way across the wide ravine where he could hear distinctly all that was going on.

"Darrell, I'm glad you told me about Boulder City, and of course I forgive you for the way you treated me. Now, you know you promised to take me right home."

Billy heard the words and saw the outline of a familiar roadster on the ridge.

"Yeah, but it's not late. We're cozy here."

There could be no doubt in Billy's mind as to who were in the parked car. He crept slowly to his right where he found a narrow road leading up to the scene.

As he quietly made his way up behind the car he heard Betty say "Very well then, I'll walk home."

She struggled to get the door open. The top being down, Billy could see from behind her losing battle with the determined man at her side. She was frightened now.. "Darrell ! Let me go!"

As a brave warrior looking to his commander for last minute instructions before lunging into battle, Billy quick'y lifted his eyes again to the black skies above. He reached into his pocket and pulled out his small penknife as he crept close to the rear of the car. He leaped upon the back of the roadster and quickly pressed the point of his little knife to the back of Darrell's neck.

In a quick, low, gruff voice he sharply demanded, "Put your hands on the wheel at once or I will jab this knife through your neck."

Darrell's first reaction was to protest. But the sharp point of the penknife brought a little blood and assured him that the man behind him meant business.

Billy lay painfully upon the back of the roadster with his feet braced firmly upon the bumper, dictating his simple orders, very grateful that the point of a small penknife felt the same as the point of a long stiletto.

He lifted the point of his knife, leaving his captive well assured that it remained near the back of his head as he solemnly and gravely continued his orders. "Start the motor --- move slowly --- drive to the home of this girl at once."

The bewildered girl sat quietly and was thankful. She thought she recognized the voice but was afraid to look back. Could she ever explain how she got into this compromising situation, was the outstanding question in Betty's mind as she rode toward the lane leading to the Baldwin home. Darrell was sure he recognized the voice also, and with raging, wild indignation, he fully resolved that his ignominous capitulation must call for speedy revenge.

The cream-colored roadster finally reached the lane leading back to the Baldwin home, where a light was burning brightly in the front window. The driver was given orders to turn the car into the lane and drive up to the gate. They waited until Betty was safely within her own door, and then Billy told the driver to go slowly back down the lane. Creeping down the road, expecting further orders as to which way to turn, the driver presently muttered, "Which way?" but there was no answer from the rear. After turning his roadster toward the highway, he ventured to turn and look behind him to discover that his captor was not there.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 53:4-6; Matthew 1:21; 5:17; 20:26-28; Luke 19:1-10; Hebrews 4:15, 16.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 53: 1-12.

Lesson for February 1, 1948

PROFESSOR WILLIAM JAMES was once asked to give a definition of Christianity. He replied, "I doubt if there is a satisfactory definition of Christianity, but I can give you an example of it — Dr. Phillips Brooks."

Dr. Newton

Our lesson for Sunday tells us many things about Jesus, his work of salvation chiefly. But before we can understand what he does, we must look again at who he was and is. We begin with Isaiah 53:1-12. Who can read those majestic words without tears? And then we come to Matthew 1:21, "And thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins." Then go on to read Matthew 5:17-28, Luke 19:1-10, and Hebrews 4:15, 16.

The key verse, it seems to me, in Sunday's lesson is Luke 19:10, "The Son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost." Hold to this key, and every door will open in this lesson.

JESUS HELPS ZACCHAEUS

IN THE first ten verses of the 19th chapter of Luke we have the fascinating story of Jesus calling Zacchaeus down from the tree, forgiving his sins, and entering into his house. The disciples complained that Jesus had gone to lunch with a man that was a sinner. It was then that the Master declared, "The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Zacchaeus is but an illustration of what Jesus seeks to do for every man. He has not come to save a few, but "whosoever will." He will not force himself upon any man, but he waits in hope of saving every man.

The "worst" boy in your community may be saved — will be saved — if only he will do as Zacchaeus did, come to Jesus, just as he is, confessing his sin and believing on the Lord Jesus Christ.

HOW JESUS CHANGES PEOPLE

JESUS saved Zacchaeus by forgiving his sins and putting a new attitude in his heart. He had harmed many people, or at least they thought he had. They would not forgive him.

He may not have asked them to forgive him, but when he met Jesus and was changed by the redeeming grace of the Saviour, he proposed to restore fourfold wherever he may have wronged anyone. More than that, Zacchaeus offered to give the half of his goods to the poor. He gave convincing evidence that he was a changed man. So will every man who believes in Jesus.

But we must remember this, Zacchaeus bared his soul to the Saviour in repentance of his sins and believed on him as the Son of God before he manifested a changed attitude.

THE PURPOSE OF JESUS

RECALL again the words of the angel to Joseph, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins." It was to save sinners like Zacchaeus that Jesus came down from heaven and died on the cross. That was and is his purpose.

"He went about doing good, for God was with him," Acts 10:38.

We shall never understand the work of Jesus until we come to see him at work in every age and amongst all mankind to do the will of the Father in saving any and all who will come unto him in faith believing.

"SO SEND I YOU"

JESUS calls upon you and upon me and upon every follower of his to accept as the central purpose of our lives this mission of winning lost souls unto him. "As the Father hath sent me, so send I you."

I sat in a boat with two prominent business men, fishing in a private lake one afternoon last November. Mr. Asa G. Candler of Atlanta and I were guests of Mr. Carr P. Collins of Dallas. We were at his Wild Briar farm, a few miles from Dallas. We were talking about the plight of the world. Mr. Collins said: "What is money worth if we think of it apart from the purpose of God? Until we come back to the words of Jesus, 'So send I you,' we cannot hope to improve the sorrowful plight of our frightened day and generation. All men are lost until they come to know him as Saviour."

Let this testimony of one of God's gentlemen be heard and heeded by laymen and preachers alike, and fear will give way to faith, and the kingdoms of this earth will become the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

It's a-MAZE-ing!

Husbands, please note! The average housewife performs 70 different tasks in her normal day's work! (Frankly, women will think this figure far too low, but it comes from the U. S. Government's Office of Education!)

Yes, home-making is a big job—but dependable, time-and-labor-saving electricity helps a housewife skip through her maze of tasks. Electric service saves her steps, lightens her work, gives her more leisure, makes life healthier and happier for her and all her family!

And it costs so little! In an era of sky-high prices, that same average housewife is still getting twice as much electricity for her budget dollar as she got 20 years ago!

Yes, it is a-maze-ing!

More Heavy Loss As Result of Fire

SPENCERVILLE AND ST. JOE FIRE DEPARTMENTS BATTLE BLAZE ON COUNTY LINE

The Spencerville and St. Joe Fire Department proved to the people of the community that they presented adequate fire protection when they battled side by side to extinguished a blaze that threatend the Henry Lyons home on the county line, a mile south and 3½ miles west of Spencerville, early Friday evening.

The two departments, working in near zero weather, that threatened freeze up of hoses and equipment, fought the flame for nearly two hours that broke out in the roof and upstairs portions of the frame house. The roof fire that threatned to spread to other parts of the house was finally brought under control about 6: p. m.

The blaze, that broke out in the attice of the home, apparently from the overheated chimney, had a good start by the time the departemnts arrived; hoses were rushed upstairs where the fire was raging the worse while hoses from outside poured water on the scattered flames that constantly broke out on the outside of the roof.

The flames were confined almost entirely to the roof and upstairs of the house which were almost totally destroyed.

ALLEN COUNTY HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE, EARLY SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The outbreak of fires in the local community, continued with the recent cold wave that has grjpped the mid-west for several weeks, when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Miller, saouth of the county line was totally destroyed by a blaze which started about noon Saturday.

The house located in Rock Creek Twp., Allen County, about 2½ miles south and 4 miles west of Spencerville, was blazing from the roof when first noticed, and by the time the Grabill Fire Department, first of three to arrive on the scene, was notified, the flames were beyond control.

Much of the house hold goods was removed from the home before the flames swept through it.

Sparks from the chimney were thought to have been the cause. The St. Joe and Spencerville Fire Departments were also called to the scene.

LEGION LOSE TO HOOK & SONS DEFEAT BUTLER, AND I. U. EXTENSION; JR. HIGH ALSO WIN

The Hook and Sons basketballers of Spencerville put a screeching halt to the Legions five game winning streak, when they tripped the locals 55 to 50 at the St. Joe gym Saturday evening.

Their winning streak that had carried them through five consecutive wins since early in January, was shattered when the visitors broke into the lead in the last quarter, and then went on to their five point victory.

Spencerville took the lead in the close battle, where the lead changed back and forth constantly, and held a 12 to 10 first quarter lead. By the end of the half, the locals had got on top and were leading 22 to 20. In the third quarter the home boys continued their sharpshooting, and led by six points at one time, but by the end of that period were again trailing 40 38.

Storer, Blaine Kimes, and W. Akey played a fine game both defensively and in the basket making department, accounting for 30 of their teams markers. Roland-Davis and Ridgway paced the locals in scoring with 22 and 18 point respectively.

The previous Thursday the Legion had again upset the Marshall Clothiers of Butler by a 51 to 40 scoring, with 22 and 18 points recount.

On Monday, February 2nd the locals turned in perhaps their best performance of the season when they completely overwhelmed the Indiana University Extension team of Ft. Wayne by a 66 to 31 score, following the St. Joe and Butler Jr. High game at the St. Joe gym.

The boys racked up 25 points in the last quarter in avenging a previous defeat by the Ft. Wayne Club. Kees, Diederich, and Ridgway all did well in scoring with 13 points each, but had to relinquish top honor to Roland Davis, who piled up 16 for the evening. Other boys who saw action in the one sided contest were: Fetters, Shuff, Richard Davis, Fetters, Tatlock and Baker.

In the earlier game between the Butler Jr. and the local 7th and 8th graders, the local boys showed great promise of producing a good team in the next few years when they whipped their opponents by a 35 to 17 score. It was the Jr. Tigers 2nd win as against the same number of losses since they started play about 6 weeks ago.

Saturday evening, February 7th the David Parrish Post 296 of the American Legion from Ft. Wayne will be on hand for a single game engagement starting at 8 p. m. evening, and will be announced at a later date.

A week ago Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jarrett and family entertained Mrs. Laney Gee, Miss Gloria Ferguson, (the guest of Joan Curie), and Billy Hart (the guest of Bobby Jarrett.)

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jarrett and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs Roger Brown at Hicksville in honor of Harold and Joan Curie's, and Bobby Jarretts birthdays.

Amos Witmer, residing near Hicksville, Ohio, who is employed by the Myers Elevator of St. Joe has been doing quite nicely as a contestant in the Golden Gloves Tournament currently going on at the North Side gym in Ft. Wayne. "Dixie" as he is known around has scored a technical knockout, and a close decision in his first two appearances in the ring so far. According to latest reports his next bout which was to be Thursday evening will probably be moved to a later date as he has been down with the flu for the past few days. Most of us didn't know he was an entrant in the tournament, until we saw an action picture of his latest bout in the Friday morning editon of the Ft. Wayne paper.

To date he does not have a list of such groups complete enough with the proper officer so he has asked to have this column used as an open invitation to all such groups to send their contributions in to him in care of "March of Dimes."

The Phythian Sisters and Ladies Literary Club win honors for being the first two to do so.

SPENCERVILE RAIDERS WIN OVER ST. JOE TIGERS

The St. Joe Tigers suffered a disasterous second quarter in their return match with the Spencerville Red Raiders and went down to defeat by a 38-34 count.

With the exception of the 2nd quarter when the Tigers were held scoreless, the teams were fairly evenly matched. St. Joe was leading 7-5 with two minutes remaining in the first quarter. Ten minutes later when it was time for the mid-game intermission the Tigers were still clawing and holding on to their 7 points while the raiding Raiders had jumped to 17.

The final two quarters were played with numerous substitutions, but on relatively even terms with St. Joe collecting 17 additional markers while Spencerville added 21.

Hook with 14 points was the most consistent point maker for the Raiders with Laub, J. Bowser, B. Bowser, Paschen, Akey Hoover, Lake, and Timmerman contributing. Lochner with 10 points showed me... fensive spark for the Tigers.

The St. Joe 2nd team won a close one, 20-18, with Fetters scoring 12 of the victors markers.

Kenneth Ridgway, Bud Shuff, Joe Freeburn, Jim and Leon Kees left early Thursday Morning for Indianapolis. Leon Kees will enter the Veterans Hospital there, and the other boys will drive back Thursday afternoon.

ALL AMERICAN CHORUS FROM ANGOLA TO ENTERTAIN AT LEGION PANCAKE SUPPER

A men's chorus consisting of 24 voices have been obtained as part of the entertainment feature to be given at the American Legion pancake and sausage supper to be held in the St. Joe Gymnasium on Thursday, February 19.

Advance tickets for the affair, sponsored by the Walter Whitehurst Post 283 of the American legion have started, and adults as well as tickets for children under 14 may be obtained by contacting any members of the local organization.

The choir, known as the All American Choir is composed of 24 voices, and all of the men are members of Angola Post 31 of The American Legion, and many of them are students at the Tri State College there. Other entertainment features have been contacted for the evening.

FORMER LEO PASTOR RIDES ENGINE CAB ON CHICAGO RUN

The Pennsylvania railroad passenger train No. 215 carried an extran " crew member" Wednesday on its regular run to Chicago, when Rev. I. L. Pusey paster of the Main street Methodist church, rode in the lead locomotive of the 11 car double header, on its trip there from Logansport.

Arrangements for the trip were made after A. L. Hunt, superintendent of the Logansport division, gave permission. Joe E. Williams, engineer, Charles F. Bolen, conductor and William O. Galloway, assistant road foreman, as acting firement were other crew members. Williams and Bolen are members of the minister's congregation.

Dressed in the traditional railroad "uniform" of overalls, bandanna, neckerchief and trainmen's cap. Rev Pusey was allowed to blow the whistle and place his hand on the throttle during the 150 mile ride to the Windy City.

Rev. Pusey expresssed his appreciation to railroad officials and the railroad brotherhoods for allowing him to realize a boyhood dream and told of his application for a railroad job at the Ft. Wayne division following his graduation from high school and prior to his entering the ministry.

Rev. Pusey, now pastor of the Main street Methodist Church in Logansport, will be remembered by many, as a former pastor of the Leo Methodist Church.

"VALENTINES" AT THE NEWS OFFICE

By JIM MITCHELL

At the risk of being bombarded with verbal brickbats - - and maybe the real thing, too - - we'd like to put in our two-cents worth about upland game bird hatcheries. We don't believe that hatcheries are the answer in better gunning, and endorse it the reason is that if the same money expended on hatcheries was spent in improving the habitat we'd have more birds. Give the pheasants or quail or grouse a better habitat, more food, and a little protection, and natural propagation will take care of the rest.

Too many young birds taken from pens into a wild habitat fail to get by the weather and other elements that annually take a huge toll. And when you figure the cost of thousands of birds against only a few hundred that fall to hunter's guns, the cost is almost prohibitive.

"Back to the land" might be a slogan worth following, with 'hatchery' funds directed towards better farmer-sportsman cooperation, establishing feed patches and protective cover and improved farming policies.

FACTS 'N' FIGURES: What land animal is the best swimmer? We'll name the polar bear; theyve been seen swimming as far as 200 miles from land in the open ocean. The oldest record for a fresh-water fish is the yellow perch. Back in 1865 Dr. C. C. Abbot caught one that it stands today as tops for the speweighted 4 pounds, 3½ ounces and it stands today as tops for that species.

A GOOD SPORTSMAN: Most hunters come under the classification of a "good sportsman" and it is only a few whose acts give a black eye to the hunting fraternity. A "Good sportsman" makes these rules as much a part of his gear as the rifle or shotgun:

1-Observes the game laws and assists in their enforcement.

1-Is careful and does not jeopardize the lives of others.

3-Does not leave a wounded animal in the woods to die.

4-Does not waste wild meat.

5-Respects the rights, privileges, and property of others.

6-Does not let his match, campfire or warming fire start a blaze and thus destroy the homes of our wildlife.

7-Leaves a clean camp and a dead fire.

Uncle Sam Says

Benjamin Franklin said that it was not what a person earned but what he saved out of his earnings that counted. Millions of Americans who are buying Savings Bonds regularly know Ben Franklin was right. An allotment of $3.75 a week for Bonds for 10 years would provide you with $2,163.45. In your own interest, you should be as wise as millions of your countrymen today who are practicing what Ben Franklin preached—thrift gets results.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

THE PROSTATE GLAND

The prostate gland is a sex gland which lies at the outlet of the bladder. As many men grow older, this gland enlarges, and if it enlarges too much, it interferes with the free flow of urine and complete emptying of the bladder.

As a rule, the first sign of prostate enlargement which is noticed is delay or difficulty in beginning urination. This tends to increase slowly and leads toward incomplete emptying of the bladder. The bladder wall becomes thickened and the bladder, therefore, is unable to hold much urine. Consequently, the desire to urinate becomes more and more frequent. Distress is often aggravated by infection.

The amount of pain, irritation, and local discomfort caused by the enlargement varies from person to person. If, as is often the case, frequency of urination is worse at night, a sufferer loses needed sleep. There is also some danger of the development of kidney trouble because of the back pressure from the undischarged urine.

Enlargement of the prostate is probably a normal accompaniment of getting older. It really is not a disease, though it causes serious symptoms. At present surgery is usually the preferred method of treatment. There are several different ways of operating on the prostate gland wherein the excess tissue is removed and the patient obtains relief.

NO GEARS EVER SHIFT IN DYNAFLOW DRIVE*
In Buick's new Dynaflow Drive, sliding gear transmissions and complex gear-changers are made unnecessary. You simply set a selector lever and step on the gas. The power plant does the rest, adjusting itself to varying driving conditions with utter smoothness. You start up—accelerate—climb hills—cruise—stop—start up again—all without touching the selector lever.
*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models

Buick takes the bows—with ten sparkling models, a new Vibra-Shielded ride, sensational Dynaflow Drive, 30-odd new advances

The curtain's up — the show is on — and square in the spotlight of public favor is this fashion-plate Buick.

Getting applause for Safety-Ride rims, pillow-soft tires, all-coil springing — for bodies newly sheltered against disturbing noise — for no less than 30 new features.

And it's winning curtain calls on two major advances no other car offers.

One is the fabulous new Dynaflow Drive* where there is no gearshifting, even automatically. You just step on the gas — and motoring close to magic is yours.

Other star feature is the Vibra-Shielded ride. Here for the first time you're shielded against vibration build-up that brings on fatigue. Here no tiny tremors can harmonize into big ones. Here is living-room comfort and quiet.

Your Buick dealer is showing this fashion plate that's touched with magic. See it. Check it for spaciousness, for solid-feeling steadiness, for superlative finish, fittings and fabrics.

AVOID FIRE LOSSES THROUGH PREVENTION

Fire destroyed more than $100,000 000 worth of farm property in America during 1947. Farmers of Indiana are urged to join in putting fire prevention and protection practices to work vigorously this year, says F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University.

The only way to combat fires successfully in 1948 is to take all possible steps to prevent it and provide all possible protection against them. A glance at last year's fire loss record should convince all farmers that fires don't always happen to the other fellow.

Willsey offers a five-point program for farmers to use as a guide. The following suggestions have worked in the past, and can be used as a basis for effective protection in 1948

1. Keep your farm clean. Good housekeeping in and around all buildings will eliminate many fire hazards.

2. Make regular checks on all electrical equipment and circuits. Worn electricial wiring should be replaced.

3. Keep all heating units in good condition. Make sure chimneys and flues are free of cracks.

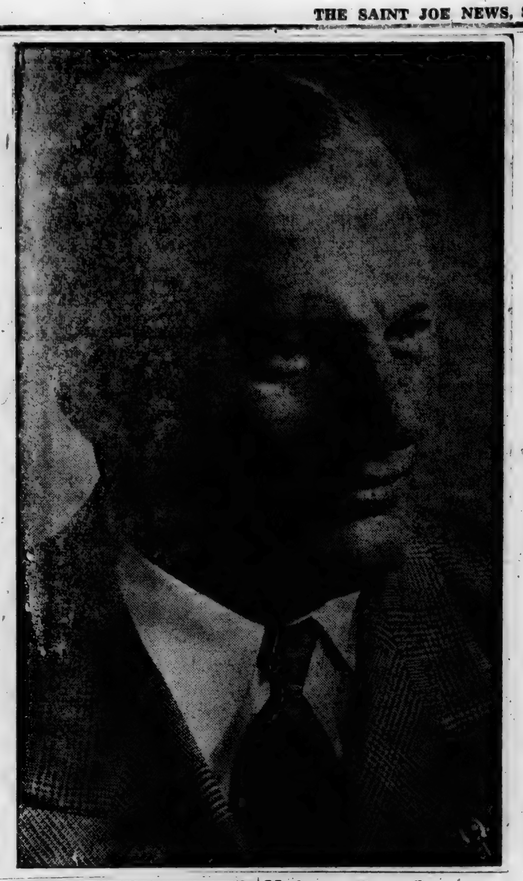
4. Cure hay, grain and manure properly. Stored hay should be inspected regularly for odors, smoke, gas, and heat - - all warning signals of fire.

5. Make sure there is equipment on farms with which to combat fires. Approved fire extinguishers should be in every home and other farm buildings. Make sure these extinguishers are inspected regularly, and that every member of the family knows how to use them.

Tight Fit

A hunter was showing off his collection of trophies to a group of visitors. He was rapturously explaining how he acquired the various exhibits. "See that elephant?" he said. "I shot it in my pajamas."

"My gosh," murmured the surprised young lady, "How did it get in there?"



Thoughtful Child

Little Leroy was not behaving so well and had about exhausted his mother's patience. "Leroy," she said, "if you don't behave I will spank you right here on the street."

The little fellow looked up. "But mother," he said, "where would you sit?"

Wallace Wimple's Woes

The usually jovial Fibber McGee and Molly lend sympathetic support to the unhappy Wallace Wimple (right), as he tells of the latest punishment inflicted on him by "Sweety-face" — his "big old wife." Jim and Marian Jordan play "Fibber McGee and Molly," and Bill Thompson is the harassed Wallace Wimple on the WLW-NBC comedy, heard Tuesdays at 9:30 p.m., EST.

Hobart Creighton Will Run for Governor

Hobart Creighton, Speaker of the House of Representatives, has announced that he will be a candidate for the office of Governor at the convention next June.

One of Indiana's most prominent business men, Mr. Creighton has been active in politics and civic affairs of the state for several years and is widely recognized as one of the best informed men on government in the Hoosier state.

Mr. Creighton has been discussed for the governorship for months. Knowledge of his high personal character, his excellent business ability, which has made him the outstanding national figure in the poultry business, his accurate knowledge of Indiana business affairs and of the needs of the state his intense loyalty to Indiana, his standing as a trustworthy republican of fine judgement and his deep and sincere interest in the people and the state are the factors that have created interest among those knowing him well and caused them to desire him to become a candidate.

Mr. Creighton enters the contest free from the many promises to do everything thinkable often made by many seeking public office. His one promise, if elected governor, is to give all that is in him in devotion to the interest of the state and its people. A simple promise that covers everything within common sense and possibility of achievment and on that basis Mr. Creighton will stand.

Mr. Creighton left a lasting impression at a Lions Club zone meeting in Spencerville last March when he spoke on the activities of the state legislature in general.

Porous Flat

The flat for planting small flower seed should have plenty of holes or cracks in the bottom to allow water to pass freely through the soil. Thorough drainage is very important, as sour, water-logged soil is fatal to most young garden plants.

Part 20

The following morning Mrs. Gibbens was sitting on the side porch hulling beans and singing the old hymn: Count your blessing, name them one by one; Count your many blessings. See what God has done."

Her son stepped to the door and smiled at her teasingly. "What are you doing, Mother counting the beans as they drop into the pan?"

Her mother replied, "No, Billy. I am counting my many blessings. There are many!"

"Yes, Mother, Billy said as he stepped out on the porch and sat downs on the top step. "I guess we all have much to thank the Lord for. I know I have.

He knew his mother was expressing delight for her son's return to God and how glad she was that he had changed his mind about going back to Denver. The telephone rang. It was Gibbens' ring and Billy answered.

"Yes, this is Gibbens' - -I'll call her, he stepped over close to the door. "Mother -- Telephone. It sounded like someone I met last night."

Mother hurried to the telephone where she soon discovered that it was indeed someone he had met As Billy listened he heard his mother say, "Why I don't know of anything to hinder us from coming over. I'm sure Mr. Gibbens would be glad to come. Yes, I'll be very glad to tell him. Wait just a minute, Mrs. Baldwin. He is out on the porch. I'll ask him." She placed the door where she could speak in a lower tone of voice. "It is Mrs. Baldwin. She has invited us all over for supper tomorrow night. She would like for you to come along. You can go, can't you?"

Billy though for a moment before responding. He wasn't sure he he was quite ready to accept Mrs. Baldwin's invitation. It was kind of her to include him in it, he was sure but perhaps he had better not go at this time. In fact he was assured himself that the invitation was not complete enough for him to accept at this time. Mrs. Baldwin wanted him to come, but did anyone else? Tuesday evening would be a good time to go over to see Grandpa Clark, he quickly decided, as he turned his dark brown eyes toward his mother and replied "Tell her it was very nice of her to include me in her invitation but I don't believe I can come tomorrow night, but perhaps some other night.

Moother Gibbens was sure she could understand that far-away look in the eyes of her son so she didn't insist.

The invitation was gladly accepted by all except Bily who decided to spend the evening where he was sure he would be comfortable and his presence would not spoil the evening for anyone. After all, what business had he without her own invitation in the home of one who had captured his thoughts and admiration? What he thought he saw in her beautiful eyes while he was receiving his most fantastic introduction to her was probably another illusion. How could it have been anything else?

Billy Gibbens had a persistent feeling that perhaps he made a great mistake in ordering that tscoundrel at the point of his little penknife to take her home. Perhaps he had misinterpreted the scene. Anyway, he felt sure now that he had made a fool of himself. It was true Betty Baldwin might not be alive now if it had not been for him, but what claim on her did that give him? Anyone would have done what he did in trying to get her mangled body to a hospital, Billy was sure. Regardless of what the situation might be between the two he was thoroughly convinced that Darrel Loman was not worthy of even being in the presence of a girl like Betty. But of course it was none of his business and he fully resolved that he would never allow anything of the kind to become his affair again.

He was sure Betty, whose well-meaning mother had invited him to supper, had been out with Darrel Loman only because she chose to be. Why did she choose thus if she did not care for him? Furthermore she didn't invite him to supper. Why should she?

His distracted mind turned back to the old ranch down by Denver. He decided iit would be best if he went there, where he would never see those blue eyes again, and he was very sure it would be better if he never met Darrl Loman again!

Mother Gibbens detected the air of gloom which had apparently gathered around her son. Being much aware of the means used by Satan to attack new Christians before they became strong and aware of them, she became alarmed at once. She knew he would have to endure severe trials before he had gone far in his christian experience, but must they begin so soon? She anxiously watched him as he sat with his head bowed and resting on one hand with his elbow on his knee.

"Moother," he said after a time, "I believe I'll be getting back down to the ranch. I think I'll take the 10:30 train to Denver in the morning."

"Do you feel that it's the Lord's will for you to go back there? she asked, quietly.

"I guess not but - - well, Mother, I - - can hardly explain I just think it would be better if I go on back to the ranch."

"But, Billy, if it is not the Lord's will it wouldn't be better for you to go, would it?" Mother asked.

"No, but I think maybe it is the Lord's will that I go back. He knows all about it, but folk up here in this valley will never understand, Billy replied.

What is it they won't understand, son?"

"I though I was doing the right thing but I guess I was a fool for doing it. Mother, I'd rather not try to explain it all," the gloomy youth insisted.

"Well, now, son," Mother Gibbens said, "I think you have come off with but I am sure if you will hold steady the Lord will work everything out for you. Jesus said 'I will never leave thee nor forsake thee.' I am praying for you."

The bewildered youth sat in silence for a while without responding. He was wondering even what his own mother's prayers could do to alter the mess he had made of affairs. Of one thing he was sure and that was if anyone's prayers could avail it would be the prayers of his dear mother.

Billy was not the only one in Sunrise Valley whose mind was in a whirlwind of distrees that trying Monday after such a great day of pleasant happenings.

Betty May was informed by her mother that the one for whom she had really planned the Tuesday evening supper could not or would not be present.

Betty needed some time in her room alone to think it all over. She felt she might have known he wouldn't come after all the trouble she had been to him, and then for him to find her in the company of such a profane character. She had learned only this morning that Darrel had been one of the men responsible for Billy's injury.

If only she had an opportunity to explain she was sure she could make it all clear, but apparently such an opportunity would not be hers now after the embarrasing episode of the night before.

The unbidden tears refused to stay hidden as the disappointed girl sat by her window. The perfume of the white rose outside, came to her and she thought sadly: "How soon before those beautiful white petals will be falling to the ground again!" She wondered why the roses didn't boom all the time. Why did they have to fade and pass away so soon? But they do. It must all be in God's great plan to which we must all submit, willingly.

For Betty May Baldwin, the most beautiful white rose of all, she thought, was beginning to bloom, only to be crushed before its white petals could unfold. She felt for a moment she would rather never see another white rose unfold its delicate petals again. They are so beautiful but it's so disappointing to see them fall to the ground so soon. How many more times could she endure the sight of tantalizing buds of promise and hope bursting forth and then to mock her by perishing before their beautiful petals could unfold? As often as her Heavenly Father saw fit, she was resigned.

It was then that from the fog and mist which had gathered around her, a faint light appeared in her thoughts and pressed its claim for her attention which it finally gained.

Betty came in to the kitchen just as her mother stepped out to gather the eggs and help with the evening chores.

Billy Gibbens had fully decided that the 10:30 train the next day was going to carry him back to Denver. He had no particuar desire to go back to the old ranch and thought that perhaps altogether new surroundings would be best for him, so he decided to look for a job in Denver. When he became adjusted he would return for his horse, and the rest of his clothes. He hoped that his parents would decide to move back near Denver because he disliked being so far away from them.

The grieved youth was on his way upstairs to his room to pack a few clothes and toilet articles to take wih him in the morning when again it was the Gibbens' ring. Mother Gibbens had gone down to the spring to get some butter and cream for supper, leaving no one to answer but Billy.

'Hello' - - the excited youth's heart skipped a few beats but soon made up for them as he at once recognized the charming voice from the other end of the line. "Yes, it is. You guessed it right. - - I guess I can come, if you really want me to. I think it is very kind of you, Betty to invite me but I am surprised that you would even call me after that mean trick I pulled on you and your friend last night. I guess I owe you an apology for meddling into your personal business. --You don't owe me any explanation. It is none of my business. Why yes, I sure like to hear you explain it all but not because I think you owe it to me. Yes, I guess I can come early. How early do you want me to come? -- I'll be on your doorstep shortly after dinner. That'll be great. -- Goodby."

Going to Denver? Not this cowboy," Billy decided. "Sunrise Valley is the most beautiful spot in the whole world. He wanted to live and die in Sunrise Valley. "But of course," he assured himself, "there are plenty of things that could happen yet to change my mind."

Mother Gibbens nearly had a spell when her boy informed her that he was going to the Baldwins for supper. The broad smile, and the happy twinkle in his brilliant eyes gave her sufficient reasons to believe she knew why the abrupt change had taken place in his plans. "I am going over a little early."

"How much early?"

"Oh maybe three or four hours," the happy youth replied.

"Well, that's fine. I know you and Betty will have much to talk about. She would have been a disappointed girl, I'll tell you, if you hadn't decided to go. I dont know but I think the little-two family party was more for you than anyone else anyway. Of course, they did ask us over once last spring, but somehow we didn't get around to going."

The Nature of Jesus

Lesson for February 8, 1948

ONE of the most discerning comments on the nature of Jesus I have ever heard came from an aged Indian in one of the western states a few years ago when I chanced to be waiting for a friend at the entrance of the reservation. This old gentleman was sitting on a large rock. I tried to speak with him, but he did not seem to understand what I said. Then my friend drove up, and introduced me to the Indian. "This man knows our Jesus," my friend said to the Indian. His face brightened, and he held out his hand to me. "Jesus help Indian love white man," he said. Just so, Jesus helps white man love white man, too.

Dr. Newton

The lesson for Sunday is found in John 6:35-40; 13:3-17; and Colossians 1:9-20, with Philippians 2:5-11 as the devotional reading.

TEACHER AND LORD

TAKE the opening passage, John 13:3-17, where Jesus is pictured as taking a basin of water and towel, kneeling at the disciples' feet, washing their feet, and drying them. Do you not feel the blessed Saviour's very nature flooding the scene?

It requires true love, true humility, to serve in that role. Suppose someone came to render this service to you? And suppose that One was the Son of God?

Why did Jesus wash the disciples' feet? Because he loved them, and he wanted them to love other people enough to do for them anything that would convince them of the love which they had in their hearts for them. Here we see him as the great teacher.

"AS I HAVE LOVED YOU"

BUT Peter draws back. He cannot conceive of Jesus washing his feet. Why? Because Peter did not yet understand the nature of Jesus. The memory verse for Sunday is helpful just here. Jesus said, "Love one another; even as I have loved you," John 13:34.

Peter acted very naturally, even if we may be tempted to say that he acted foolishly. In fact, he acted just about like any of us would have acted under similar circumstances.

But when Jesus explained to Peter what he was about, Peter then asked that Jesus wash not only his feet, but also his hands and head.

THIS IS JESUS

INTERMEDIATES, young people and adults, having carefully read the passage in the 13th chapter of John, where Jesus washes the disciples' feet, will now turn to John 6:35-40, and Colossians 1:9-20, and see the expansion of this great truth over into the expressed will of God for his followers.

A true understanding of this section will lead us to ponder prayerfully the nature of Jesus in the various titles accorded him in the Scriptures — Son of Man, Son of God, Master, Rabbi, Teacher, Physician, Vine, Light, Good Shepherd, Bread of Life, Comforter, Friend and Saviour.

All of these titles he bore, and yet we see him kneeling to wash the feet of everyday people. "Thy gentleness hath made me great." Intermediates and young people will wisely set themselves to the task of identifying the nature of Jesus in the people of their community. Such study will lead you to earnestly seek to walk in his blessed example, loving as he loved.

"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?"

AND now we are ready for the climax of the lesson, when Peter declares, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God," Matthew 16:16.

We cannot long stand in the presence of the story of this lesson and fail to conclude with Peter that none save the Son of God can do such wondrous things —can love as he loved.

Beginning with the Incarnation, we follow through the sweeping claims of Jesus, and we know of a truth that he was very God. Convinced, then, that we are in the presence of God when we contemplate the nature of Jesus, what are we to say? Does not Isaac Watts suggest the answer?

When I survey the wondrous cross,
On which the Prince of glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And pour contempt on all my pride.

See, from his head, his hands, his feet,
Sorrow and love flow mingled down,
Did e'er such love and sorrow meet,
Or thorns compose so rich a crown?

Were the whole realm of nature mine,
That were a present far too small;
Love so amazing, so divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all!

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

VENTILATION is a problem common to all poultry houses during cold and cloudy weather, for we can't open all the windows and freeze the chickens or impair their egg production, nor can we set up a heating system that is dangerous. Let's look at some of the causes of poor natural ventilation.

A wet floor in the poultry house is one of the results of improper ventilation. The causes may be a combination of conditions such as crowding, type of equipment, type and depth of litter, high humidity, low wind velocity or the amount of milk or water the chickens are drinking.

Ideal ventilation, of course, is the movement of dry air into, and moist air out of the house. When temperatures are high the movement of air is easy, but when conditions are reversed and the house is closed, high humidity develops within the poultry house and dampness of floors results.

Those of us who have tried to screen roosts and build up litter in insulated buildings have been surprised that the litter remains drier than where litter is removed at frequent intervals. Poultry specialists explain this by the warmer floor which permits more moisture to stay in suspension until this moisture-laden air can be removed through ventilators or regular airings of the house.

Some poultrymen do not clean their poultry houses during the fall and winter, giving five reasons for not doing so—warmer houses, drier floors, reduced labor, less expense for litter and more fertilizer value when the litter is removed.

A few years back, the University of Nebraska conducted a series of experiments in ventilation. Surprisingly, results showed that pullets kept in closed houses with no effort to ventilate lived as well and laid as many eggs that hatched as pullets in well ventilated houses. The only difference was the wet litter and dirty eggs in the unventilated house.

The new rotogravure picture section which begins with this week's issue of The St. Joe News will be a regular monthly feature of this newspaper. Pages 1, 2 and 3 contain photo stories of Rural America. Pages 4 and 5 feature "Better Calves for Better Profits" in the Modern Farming section; and pages 6 and 7 are devoted to recipes for Valentine's Day and Washington's Birthday by Susan Lowe, famous home economist.

Watch for RURAL GRAVURE every month—an exclusive feature of this newspaper.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT WITT TELL OF TRIP THROUGH FLA..

We toured thru Jacksonville, St. Augustine (the historic city), Orlando, Tampa, Lake Wales, St. Petersburg, Sarasuta, Ft. Myers, Coral City, Miami, and Miami Beach.

We saw the desolate land of Florida, the everglades, which is slowly being cleared and the rich muck lands are being drained by huge pumping outfits which is a very slow process. We stopped at a Seminole Indian Camp andviewed their huts which was also located in the everglades. In this territory the air is very musty and damp.

We stopped at Clewiston by Lake Okeechonee and went thru the sugar mill. A guide showed us the entire process of cane sugar manufacture as it came out into raw sugar. It looks very coarse and grainy. It is then shipped to Savanah, Ga. to be refined.

We visited the Agricultural Experimental Station at Belle Grade near Clewiston. The muck land was planted chiefly to sunflowers, string beans, sugar cane, celery and lettuce.

We visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baltz at their Tampa Trailer Court. They are enjoying their winter very much.

We stopped at Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fisher's at St Petersburg but they weren't home.

We found Mr. Clyde Hart and Mr. Fred Hart coming in with a trailer of wood for their camp fire at Port Richey. We had a very good visit. Their wives were attendng a garden club meeting so we missed seeing them.

On February 3 we attended the State Fair of Florida at Tampa. We enjoyed their exhibits very much. Their exhibits are located in permanent buildings.

Our roads were excellent except for about 80 miles between Nashville, Tenn. and Louisville, Ky. where they had a large snow storm.

We enjoyed the sunshine, the gracious southern hospitality of our friends and relatives and Florida fruit immensely.

Mrs. Robert Witt

THANK YOU

The Tri Mu Class of the St. Joe Lutheran Church, who served the lunch at the Dr. C.R. Baumgartner auction sale, last Thursday, wish to take this opportunity to thank all of those who helped to make this a success. Particularly do we thank Dr. and Mrs. Baumgartner and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Means, who furnished us such an excellent place and facilities with which to work and were so cooperative in many other ways. Also, we want to thank the ladies of our church who gave so generously to us, and all others who helped us.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Berniece Burns, a sophomore in the St. Joe High School, sustained broken leg Friday evening while she was crossing the school lawn to board a school bus. LEGION TEAM DOWNS POST 296 TEAM, 59 TO 55 SATURDAY EVENING

The St. Joe Legion team turned in one of their best performances of the season, to down a stubborn Legion Post 296 team from Ft. Wayne, by a 59 to 54 score at the St. Joe gym Saturday night.

The victory marked the 7th win in the last 8 games for the locals and held the interest of the fans until the final buzzer, when the locals were successfully stalling off a desperate opponent.

The Parrish Post started things off fast and had shot to a 6 to 0 lead before the home team could get started. Some fine work under the basket by Ridgway and Davis and a fielder by Kees, however, had given the locals a 12 to 9 first quarter lead.

Diederich and Roland Davis accounted for all the scoring in the second period to make the score read 25 to 19 at the half with the locals in the lead.

Bueshing and Meeshing paced a 22 point third period attack for the visitors and had deadlocked the game at 41 all beginning the last period.

Davis and Rollins led the locals in an 18 point outbreak in this final period, and the locals were putting on a successful stall in the last minutes of play when the final buzzer sounded.

Roland Davis enjoyed one of his best nights under the basket and collected 22 points for his efforts.

Thursday, February 12th the Garrett Merchants will be present for a return match, in a single game starting at 8 o'clock. On Saturday February 14, the Indiana Service Corp. team from Ft. Wayne will be here for another single game at 8 p. m.

AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION FORMED IN COUNTY

A group of DeKalb County farmturers representing various agricultural projects and interests in the county met at the county extension office Monday evening, January 26 and formulated an organization to be known as the DeKalb County Agricultural Improvement Association. The organization was perfected for the purpose of improving agricultural products of the county and advertizing of the same. The purpose, merits, and needs of such an organization were discussed by the county agent after which the following officers were elected.

After the organization the group discussed the publishing of an agricultural directory for the county..

CLYDE HART'S LETTER FROM PORT RICHEY, FLA.

To my Indiana Friends:

The cold you are having in the north is reflected here. The temperature here ranges from 40 degrees at night to 60 degrees in the daytime.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt, of Spencerville, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Heffley, of near Auburn, called on us. They are enjoying a three week vacation in the Sunshine state.

U.S. road No. 19 is being rebuilt. The heavy machinery they use are a revelation of American skill. This road runs through a jungle just about one hundred feet back of our camp, it is so thick with palm trees and tangled vines, one could hardly get through. Their machinery push these trees out of the ground as easy as you would a match stuck in the ground. Large crowds gather along the road and marvel at the work being done.

The things injured in the freeze two weeks ago are again leafing out. The citrus fruit crop was not injured as badly as was first thought, at the time.

Yesterday the road was lined with tourists coming through from the north, they had been held up at Nashville, Tenn., because of the icy highways, according to the papers, approximately two thousand stayed over in Nashville over the weekend, because of road conditions.

Today (Tuesday) George and Donald Miller, from north east of Newville, called on us, they are leaving for home soon. They are going by the way of Louisiana and Texas. This is their first visit to Florida.

The gambling interests are complaining because of lack of business. The dog races are not patronized as formerly. The papers say that Sunshine Park, where horse racing is held, are losing $10,000 a day, possibly people are fed up on this kind of sport. We are leaving here for home on March 1.

With Best Wishes,
Clyde Hart

P.S. I was happily surprised today to receive a letter from Mrs. Wm. Randall, thanking me for my news letters. Thank you, Mrs. Randall.

TRI TWP. FARM BUREAU

Feb. 3, Tri Twp Farm Bureau met in the H. S. assembly room in St. Joe. Chairman Carl Carpenter presided. The group sang "Long Long Ago" and "My Faith Looks up to Thee", after which Mrs. Thomas read the scripture lesson and comented on it and the Lord's Praye was repeated in unison.

After a brief business meeting, Lester Boger took charge of the Co-op School which was conducted in the form of a debate with subject: Resolved that the cooperatives are a benefit to the community", with Joe Gerig and Fred Rhodes taking the affirmative and Lester Austraw and Ford Walters, the negative. In Spite of the fact that the judges decided the negative put up the best argument, all four debaters joined to defend the affirmative in the discussion and general asking of questions which followed.

Five lovely door prizes furnished by the Co-ops were won by Carl Perkins, Gladys Ross, Richard Shilling, Mildred Jarrett, and Connie Fisher. Mary Carpenter was disappointed to find only Carl's old hat in her big box.

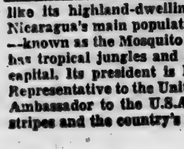
Mr. and Mrs. Glen Heffley of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt of Spencerville have just returned from a 3 weeks tour spent in Kentucky, Tenn., Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Oklahoma.

U.N. Facts and Faces - - - - - NICARAGUA



Nicaragua, the largest nation in Central America, was discovered by Columbus in his last voyage. Its 57,000 square miles are studded with lakes and several still-active volcanoes. The nation's 1,172,000 inhabitants depend mainly on agriculture, although important mines are being developed. Unlike its highland-dwelling neighbors, Costa Rica and Honduras, Nicaragua's main population is in the lowlands. Its Caribbean shore ---known as the Mosquito Coast after the Indian tribe living there— has tropical jungles and a huge rainfall. Managua is the country's capital. Its president is Dr. Victor M. Román and its Permanent Representative to the United Nations is Dr. Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, Ambassador to the U.S.A. Its flag carries one white and two blue stripes and the country's crest.

Congratulations children for your record.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Zimmerman flew to visit Mr. and Mrs. Francis Conner and children at Muncie, Sunday.

The Loyal Womens Class of the Spencerville Lutheran sunday school held it's Jan. meeting at the home of Mrs. Flossie Rhodes.

The severe seasonal weather prevented a full attendance, but those who braved the cold enjoyed a cheer ful and profitable evening.

Mrs. Ella Horn, who was in charge, of devotions, was not able to be present she, however, very thoughtfully provided for the program by choosing the scripture, which was read by the hostess, together with a devout and inspiring prayer sent up by Mrs. Horn.

Hymns were used in the devotions and a reading was given by Mrs. Markle, Mrs. Zelphia Steward, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Ethel Miller, and Mrs. Pearl Goldsmith formed a most interesting part of the program. Mrs. Jennie Walker gave a report of recently published findings by archaeologists of proof of Jesus and His brothers.

Under business, the treasurers report was given by Mrs. Pearl Goldsmith.

Mrs. Zona Able was reported ill in the Hicksville Community Hospital.

Mrs. Leona Haupt entertained with several contests which were greatly enjoyed.

A carryin lunch was served, and all departed with expressions of a most enjoyable evening.

CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE IN ST. JOE WEDNESDAY MORNING

Icy pavement was blamed for a head-on car-truck collision which occurred on state road 1 in St. Joe shortly after 7 a. m. Wednseday.

The vehicles involved were a 1941 Chevrolet driven by Fred Fry of Ft. Wayne and a 1941 International truck driven by John Dilley of St. Joe. The automobile is owned by Robert Ginder of Butler, brother-in-law of Fry. The Holsum bakery owns the truck.

The car driven by Fry was going south on the state road and collided with the truck on a curve. The driver of the truck reported his machine skidded on the ice over the center line of the highway on the curve.

Damage to the front of the Chevrolet was estimate at over $375. About $50 damaged resulted to the truck.

WOODBURN WARRIORS DEFEAT TIGERS FRIDAY EVENING

The Woodburn Warriors held the St. Joe High Tigers to just one field goal and two foul shots in the first half and then practically coasted to a 40 to 26 victory over them in their game played at the St. Joe gym Friday night.

The Warriors got off to a fast start and with the local boys being unable to hit at all in the first half the Woodburn squad had piled up a 29-4 halftime lead.

The Tigers broke loose in the third and last quarter to outscore their visitors 22 to 16, but the large half time lead was to much of a handicap to overcome.

Friday evening Feb 1., the locals take on the Hamilton High Marines, meeting both their varsity and second teams. The game will be played at the St. Joe gym.

LIONS CLUB

The St. Joe - Spencerville Lions met at the Spencedrville school building, Monday evening and were served a fine supper by the home economics class, of which Mrs. Paschen is the teacher.

Lion president, Claud Laub, presided. The committee having charge of the proposed sidewalk improvement at Spencerville, reported satisfactory progress in arrangements for the improvement, but the work can not be started until more favorable weather conditions prevail.

One guest, Rev. Salisbury, was present. A moving picture was presented portraying the advancement in aviation and the part oil has played in its progress. Forrest Brattain operated the machine, The pictures proved rightly educational.

The next meeting will be held at the same place as the Monday night gathering.

Uncle Sam Says

You don't need New Year's Day to make one resolution which will make your future more secure. In fact, this February day is as good as any day for this resolution: All you have to do is to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan for buying Savings Bonds. Just write your John Henry once. After that, your money is invested for you every payday automatically. In just 10 years you get back $4 for every $3 invested. If you are in a business or profession and the Payroll Savings Plan is not available to you, ask for the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank.

ENOUGH OIL FOR TRA CTORS IN THE SPRING

Will there be enough gasoline and oil next spring to keep farm machine producing food at full speed? That question is discussed in the leading article in the January 31, Prairie Farmer. Oil supply men, it is pointed out, say there cannot possibly be enough gasoline to meet all needs of 1948.

That means someone will have to use less. Whether it will be farmers who need gas for tractors and other farm machinery, or motorists who have increased driving 25%, may be up to bulk oil companies who distribute the scarce supplies.

There are several ways in which farmers themselves can help save fuel - - avoiding waste by proper carburation adjustment, stopping leaks in storage, faucets, or tractor gas lines, and cutting down unnecessary trips with tractor, car, or truck.

HYBRIDS NOT WEAKENING

Corn in many spots in DeKalb County lodged or went down more in 1947 than any year since hybrids have been grown, according to reports from farmers to County agent C. R. Gross. "Are hybrids weakening?" has become a common question. "The answer is emphatically no," says the county agent.

Delayed planting last year, poor physical condition of many spots in corn fields, and wet soils all contributed to shallow root systems in even the best rooted hybrids. In addition, stalk and root rots were present in greater abundance than during the past eight years, at least. The common stalk rot, diplodia, resulted in decay of the pith of the stalk and root so that the strong winds of late September caused many plants to stalk-break or root lodge. Quality and test weight of corn were reduced in this premature stalk weakening. However, in the few cases where open pollinated corn was available for direct comparisons, they lodged far more than hybrids.

With good seed bed preparation and normal planting time, corn probably will stand much better during the coming season. Farmers who use hybrids that are otherwise satisfactory should be hesitant about making a complete change-over to hybrids with which they are unfamiliar. Some difference in standing ability always exists under varying conditions. Results from the county plots comparing a number of hybrids are available from the office of the county agent. One of the new varieties that stood the test last year was the Indiana 251A, being released by local growers this year.

FACTS 'N' FIGURES: The duck season is long passed Minnesota, but this item was just brought to our attention - - the killing of a mallard drake that was reported to have weighed more than 6 pounds. Now, we don't question that the mallard weighed six pounds, but we'll wager a new duck call against a penny that this particular mallard had been the inhabitant of some barnyard, getting fat, then joined a flock of wild mallards winging southward. Of course, it can be considerd a "wild" duck under such conditions.

Several years ago, when it was legal to use live decoys, we brought to town a bunch of mallards from a farm where they had been flying daily from the farm yard -- and feed - - to a pond a mile away. We put them in an open-topped pen, forgetting to clip their wings. When we approached the pen the next morning in preparation for a hunt the mallards let out a couple of quacks, then, en masse, took to the air and headed south on wings as strong and capable as their wild brothers. Probably these ducks fell to hunter's guns along the flyways and wherever they were bagged new records probably, were set for weights - - for these ducks were big from their force-feedings on the farm.

CONTENTMENT: What animal has the most self satisfying existance? We will nominate the porcupine for top honors in this classification. No longer of much economic importance, he meanders his merry way through the forests of the north destroying trees, creating chaos in empty cabins, and in general, just making himself at home. He holds no fear of man nor other animals, for his protective quills have taught others fear of him. Food is no problem and he has no competition in this field. He had reached a high degree of what man has been striving for for years -- "social security". In return, he has sacrificed speed, agility, beauty, strength, intelligence and amiability -- none of which however, worried him.

How He Lost It

Pete Gray, the one-armed ball player, when an American leaguer, often was irked by people asking him how he had lost his arm. One day after the game, an elderly lady fan, solicitous and worried, started asking Gray how he felt: was he tired, did he think he would make good?—and a dozen other queries which he tried to shake off courteously.

Finally the lady asked, "My son, how did you lose your arm?"

Gray did not hide his annoyance. "An old lady in Brooklyn talked it off me," he snarled as he dashed for a taxi.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: John 14:25, 26; Acts 2:1-4; 3:1 to 4:31; Galatians 5:22-26.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Ephesians 6: 10-20.

Power of Holy Spirit

Lesson for February 15, 1948

TWO decades ago, the famous preacher, Rev. Reginald J. Campbell, declared, "The 18th Century may be characterized as the Century of God the Father; the 19th Century as the Century of God the Son; and we are praying that the 20th Century may be experienced as the Century of the Holy Spirit." That was a brave and hopeful prayer. May we claim the same hope.

Dr. Newton

"These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you. But the Comforter, which is the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you," John 14:25 and 26. Go on to read Acts 2:1-4; 3:1 to 4:31; Galatians 5: 22-26 and you will have the Scripture passages for Sunday's lesson, with Ephesians 6:10-20 as the devotional reading.

PETER ACTS BRAVELY

IN THE passage in Acts we have the picture of Peter and John about to enter the temple on the Sabbath, when suddenly they find themselves confronted by a sick beggar. What could they do with him and for him? He was asking for money.

Peter said, "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I thee, in the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk!"

The lame man stood up, leaping and walking and rejoicing, and went into the temple with Peter and John. Only the power of God can do such mighty works. Peter was not afraid to tackle the man's needs, since he relied upon God's wisdom and strength.

WHY PETER WAS BRAVE

PETER is often pictured as a very quick-tempered person. He was usually the first to speak in every situation. He was the leader of the group—a natural leader of men. But Peter did not assume to meet the poor man's need in his strength. Only "in the Name of Jesus."

When we forget self and rely upon the Holy Spirit for direction, we are enabled to meet and master any situation. Juniors will do well to remember these words, "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts," Zechariah 4:6.

Junior boys and girls can meet life's tasks in the same assurance in which Peter dealt with the lame man, if we rely upon the Holy Spirit.

SECRET OF CHRISTIAN POWER

"YOU shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you." Acts 1:8. That is the secret of the Christian's power. It does not originate elsewhere. It is God's gift to those who implicitly trust in him.

This great truth is particularly appealing to intermediates and seniors. Young people are keenly sensitive to the times in which they live. We live today in an hour of unprecedented power — atomic energy! But all of the marvels of modern science have not been able to give young people the sense of mastery. Rather, we are afraid. The scientists themselves tell us that this is history's most precarious age.

Only when the Holy Spirit is regnant in our hearts can we possess the power of which Paul is writing in Galatians, when he says, "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance."

WHEN WE HAVE THAT POWER

WHY, then, should we ever be weak, when we may always possess that power? This is the most searching question for any Christian. The answer will lead us to certain inevitable admissions. We become weak spiritually when we forget to pray, when we forget to read God's word, when we allow the interests of this world to blind our eyes and deafen our ears to the reality of God's presence.

The Holy Spirit will dwell within us, if only we will welcome him. He will not come unbidden; he will not remain unwanted. He cannot be made secondary. Either he guides or surrenders the reins to us.

Our lives are spiritually strong and healthy when the Holy Spirit governs. Our work is effective, our words are compelling. We speak not our wisdom, but the wisdom of God. We go not in our strength, but in his strength.

YOUR FUR COAT

Of course you remember the day you bought your fur coat! You tried on several, your choice narrowed down to just a few, and finally, The One! You liked the lines- the flare- the fullness of the sleeves and the shoulderline. But best of all, you liked the feel of the furs themselves They were pliable, soft and resilient Your coat that day was indeed "Pretty as a Picture" framed in the full length mirror.

When sitting down with your fur coat on, in the car or otherwise, see that your coat is not tightly buttoned. Avoid unnecessary strain across the hips and back.

When furs are wet, just shake them gently and let them dry in a cool place. Don't place on or near a radiator or heat register.

Whenever possible, use a form fitting coat hanger to retain the correct hang of your coat from the shoulder.

Avoid the constant stroaking of your fur coat. Strange at it may seem, continuous friction from the hand will singe delicate guard hairs.

Never leave your fur coat in your own clothes closet during the hot summer months. Heat dries and cracks the pelts. Moth larvae causes great damage. Scientific storage and care costs so little and adds so much to the appearance and life span of your fur coat.

Light Rubber Lung

A lightweight rubber lung that can be carried like a stretcher is the latest device for giving artificial respiration to victims of infantile paralysis, drowning, electric shock and poisoning. The new lung is built around a large rubber bellows which replaces a heavy steel tank used to enclose patients in iron lungs. An electric pump forces air in and out, simulating breathing.

COBURNTOWN

Harold Curie painfully injured his wrist in a fall on the icy school grounds following the basket ball game a week ago Tuesday night.

Mrs. Byron Current and children spent most of last week in Chicago, having been called there because of the illness of her father, Mr. Windowbank. Mr. Current drove to Chicago after them Saturday.

Teh Live Wire Class of the Coburn Corners Church of Christ, met Sunday afternoon at the home of their teacher, Karl Hart.

Mrs. Elwood Hart presented a flan nelgraph story at the church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis Jr., spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kagey.

We were all happy to welcome little Leslie Thomas Strong at church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kagey visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry strong, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Coburn and Patricia Ann spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Coburn.

A Valentine for Mother!

Such a grubby little valentine—no lace, no satin, no pretty poem! Butch made it himself, scrawled the message, pasted it crookedly together. It didn't cost much, but what a lift it gives a Mother's heart!

No, it isn't cost alone that counts. It's what a thing does for you. Like electricity, for instance. Dependable electric service is Mother's 365-days-a-year valentine—ready all the time to lift the burden of homemaking, ready to make life easier and happier for her.

And when Mother struggles with her budget, she can't help noticing that electricity is just about the smallest item on her list. While the cost of nearly everything else went UP, the price of electricity came down—AND STAYED DOWN. Maybe you don't know it, but the average family now gets TWICE AS MUCH ELECTRICITY for its dollar as it did 20 years ago.

TO ENTERTAIN AT AMERICAN LEGION PANCAKE & SAUSAGE SUPPPER

THE MUSICAL WARSTLER FAMILY will provide part of the continuous entertainment feature planned for the Walter Whitehurst Post 283 Pancake and Sausage Supper to be held February 19 at the Concord Twp High School gymnasium.

The Warstler family, who have gained popularity as a vocal and instrumental group, making several appearances at the Buck Lake Ranch near Angola, during the past summer, will alternate their program with the All-Amercan Chorus from Post 31 at Angola; to give those present a good evening of entertainment as they enjoy the pancakes and sausage prepared by the boys of the local American Legion post.

Serving will start at 6 o'clock, and the Warstler family will be present shortly after to start their part of the program. The All-American Chorus from Angola, one of the outstanding male singing groups in this part of the state have also consented to be present to help out with the entertainment.

Serving will continue untill approximately 9:30 p. m. The advance sale of tickets has already started and will continue untill the night of the supper. Tickets will also be on sale at the gym on the evening of the occassion.

LOU COSTELLA AND BUD ABBOTT TO BEGIN TOUR IN APRIL

Lou Costello and Bud Abbott are planning an extensive personal appearance tour with their Eagle-Lion picture, " The Goose Hangs High", to raise badly needed funds for the maintenance of the Lou Costello, Jr., youth foundation. This maintains a magnificant playground in one of Los Angeles' slum neighborhoods.

Lou, who is rather bitter at the lack of support given the project by Los Angeles and Hollywood, says they'll go out in April, with the first premiere to be held in Dallas, Texas.

Said Lou:

"We'll also have performances in New Orleans, Alabama City, Atlanta, New York City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Kansas City, and my own home town, Paterson, N.J.

"I might say that Paterson has contributed more than Los Angeles has, to the foundation.

It might be pointed out here that Lou and Bud already have spent more than $300,000 of their own money on the playground.

"The police can tell you what a tremendous drop in juvenile delinquency there's been in that neighborhood since the playground was opened.

"But you can't get the financial assistance we need around here. I'm paying the attendants out of my own pocket now.

"You can be certain of one thing. I'm going to keep the playground open if I have to go down and do the work myself".

With that, Lou went to work on his new U-I picture, "The brain of Frankeinstein". Bud went to work too, but a little gingerly. He's still in pain from a fractured rib suffered when he was thrown from a horse while on a recent vacation in Arizona

PAINS IN THE LEGS

PERSONS suffering with pains in their legs should visit their family physician so that he may locate the cause. Buying medicine that is "good for pains" is virtually useless, for it is the cause which must be found and corrected.

One of the common causes for pains in the legs is foot trouble, particularly flat feet. The arches are put there to carry the weight of the body efficiently. When the arches have collapsed and are flat, new strains appear. These strains sometimes act upon the muscles or joints of the legs and cause pain in those areas more than in the feet. Correction usually requires more treatment than merely wearing a pad or support.

Another type of pain in the legs is one which comes in the calf muscle after walking rapidly for a few blocks or climbing stairs. It is caused by insufficient supply of blood to the muscles because of hardening of the arteries in the legs.

A considerable number of people complain of pains in the legs when they are in bed. This is a rather puzzling condition, but it is probably connected with the circulation of the blood. People with this symptom get relief by getting up and walking around for a short time.

These are the most common causes of pain in the legs, but various diseases of the nervous system and of the spinal column may be responsible.

What is your dog's I.Q.

"Most bird dogs are NOT as brainy as Professor Einstein. Fact is, in many ways they're pretty dumb!" writes Mabry Anderson, veteran sportsman and dog-lover, in the current OUTDOORSMAN magazine.

The average hunter places too much confidence in his dog, according to Anderson, whose article tells hunters how to help their dogs by doing some of the "head work."

There are 10 other know-how features and 11 dumb stories in the same issue, including a special 16-page section "OUTDOORSMAN previews Good Boats for 1948".

By Dwight F. Steininger

Part XXI

An early dinner was over at the Baldwin's the next day. Betty was excused as Mother insisted that she would take care of the dishes. Mother Baldwin also kindly informed her that she need not worry about the supper, for it would all be taken care of without her help.

Betty dressed in a blue blouse, gray and blue plaid skirt, and of course the charming white rose fastened in her wavy brown locks, had been waiting on the front porch swing almost fifteen minutes, but it seemed more like an hour when the telephone rang. It was the Baldwin ring.

The waiting girl, with a queer sinking feeling, hurried to the telephone which was situated where she could keep her eyes fixed on the winding gravel road. It was the kind voice of Mrs. Gibbens from the other end of the line. What a relief it was to hear her ask: "I was wondering if there is anything I can bring with me this evening when we come." Mrs. Gibbens was assured that nothing was needed at all except the guests. After a slight chuckle on both ends of the line, Betty wistfully added, "Billy is coming early, isn't he?"

I see. Well, he will soon be here then," Betty responded.

"All right, Betty. That was all. I just wondered if there was anything I could bring along. Goodby."

The relieved girl came back to the swing but had no more that sat down when from around the farthest curve she could see appearing the first glimpse of Billy on his black horse. Betty greeted him with a hearty wave as she stepped down to open the gate which led into the driveway.

"My, it seemed you were a long time getting here," the charming girl smiled.

"Did it?"he pleasantly asked as he slid from the saddle and calmly stepped toward the most beautiful girl he had ever seen, and continued, I thought myself we were never going to get here. It is farther over here than I thought."

"I am glad you came," Betty said as she placed her fair hand into Billy's masculine hand where it was tightly clasped longer than necessary. She continued, "You had me worried for a while. I guess I just took it for granted that you knew I really wanted you to come."

As the two walked side by side toward the porch, Mother Baldwin came to the door drying her hands on her apron. She stepped out on the porch where she extended a welcoming hand to her daughter's guest and did a great job of making him feel much at home.

There was no feeling of strangeness between the two as they sat in the swing talking about the momentous experiences through which they had gone together. There was the finding of Betty's mangled body almost dead among the bushes more than half a mile from the scene of the horrible wreck; her strange escorting to the barnyard gate only a few hours ago; and many other experiences, each one of vital interest to the other. The most important subject of all was one which they could venture out upon only in some quiet spot alone where only their Heavenly Father could hear. There seemed to be a mutual understanding that at no time must there ever be anything said or done which they were not perfectly willing for Him to here or see.

The painful experiences of the past which they each shared caused them to feel they had been friends for many years.

Mr. Baldwin and Uncle Joe had come in from the field with a load of hay. Betty and Billy stolled out slowly toward the barn to watch them. Billy was cordially greeted by the two prespiring ranchmen, who spared no words at their command to assure him of their delight that he had come, while affectionate old shep expressed his welcome by wagging his body as vigorously as his tail.

Betty did not wish to be selfish about sharing the time of her guest with her uncle and father, but she knew her uncle well enough to know that he might take considerably more of Billy's time, which she felt belonged to her, than she was willing to give, and she wasn't sure that her father was far behind him in this respect. Of course, she didn't blame them in the least for wanting to talk to him. Who wouldn't? When Betty finally found a chance to get a word in edgeways, she turned her smiling eyes towerd her father and said, "Daddy, Billy and I thought we would like to ride back over the ranch to the spring before supper. Would you mind saddling Browny for me?"

"Let me, offered Billy. "Your father's busy."

Of course such work would be entirely out of the question with a broken arm, the three agreed as Mr. Baldwin started for the box stall in the rear of the large barn from which he brought a beautiful brown pony with white feet, and a white spot on her forehead, saddled and all ready to go.

The young cowboy quickly concluded that the charming beauty of the highly trained pony was well in keeping with its lovely mistress.

Mr. Baldwin and his brother-in law watched while the delighted couple rode away and disappeared into the valley, beyond the hay field.

The North Zion Church was in its second week of a hard pulling revival meeting. Only three or four had been converted but the people were desperately praying for a great revival at any cost. They were very sincere in their praying, but little did they or any one on earth know what the revival for which they were praying was really going to cost, or what was going to take place to bring it to pass.

It was Sunday morning, after several days of a considerably amount of rain, that a fierce west wind began to blow. Jagged lightning skipped from cloud to cloud and fierce claps of roaring thunder shook the earth. The western skies became like a black rolling ocean, pouring over high rocky mountains, letting loose their torrents of rain. The wild gushing mountain streams poured their raging waters into the already flooded Red Rock River until its banks were overflowed.

The little mountain stream, which the Old Stone Bridge had firmly spanned for so many years, making the only way from Red Rock Canyon to Sunrise Valley, was turned into a wild and furious river. The strength of the old stone bridge had never before been tested so severely that Grandpa Clark could remember, but there was not the least evidence of its crumbling or weakening in any way. Until almost noon, black clouds after black cloud kept rolling over the tall mountains, pouring their wild torrents of rain into the mammoth canyon.

Soon after noon, the skies cleared as though it had never rained. The furious streams were still draining the drenched mountainsides, pouring their rolling torrents into the ever rising river which was pouring over its banks in many places. More than a hundred acres of the back part of Lomans ranch, which joined the Red Rock River had turned into a lake of swift, rushing, muddy water.

of Fence Progress

Beginning in 1896, many years of progress in wire and in fence making have produced the modern CONTINENTAL FENCE. It is made of special analysis copper steel, zinc coated by special process, and FLAME SEALED for extra protection against rust. Only CONTINENTAL FENCE has the semi-flexible PIONEER KNOT that actually tightens under pressure. It gives extra strength to fence and guards against buckling or sagging.

INTERNATIONAL FERTILIZERS

Plant Foods Can

Help You Conserve Your Soil

You can act now to protect your soil from the erosion that threatens the productivity and earning power of your land.

In a well planned soil conservation program, crop rotation, contour planting and strip cropping are often successfully used. Properly fertilized pastures also protect your soil and, in addition, supply abundant money-saving forage for your stock. And, of course, one of the soil conservation essentials for profitable results is the use of adequate amounts of plant food.

International Fertilizer is a quality plant food, used by thousands of farmers for all their crops. Your International Fertilizer Agent is ready now to help you select the plant foods best suited to the condition of your soil and the needs of your crops. Because of heavy demand, it will pay you to place your order early.

When you order plant food, look for the familiar "International Fertilizers" trade mark. It is a sign of quality, crop-producing fertilizers and of your satisfaction at harvest time.

MODERN FARMING

Better Calves for Better Profits

The new milk substitute system of calf raising is catching on. Thousands of dairy farmers here in the Midwest report that it's saving them up to half on every calf in feed costs. They are able to raise better calves, too, they say, and at a savings in choretime and veterinary bills.

Endorsed by agricultural colleges, county agents and purebred breeders of record milk makers, this system reportedly saves up to 1,000 pounds of milk per calf compared with the whole milk method of feeding.

Study the pictures below. They show the new system in action and may help you raise better calves and earn bigger dairy profits.

Bill Bakes, Waukee, Iowa 4-H Club lad, helps his new-born calf to its feed. Calf will stay with dam first 36 hours to get the colostrum milk, and then will be placed in a pen. Just after birth, navel cord is dipped in iodine to prevent navel infection.

After 36 hours, the calf nurses a nipple pail instead of cow. Nipple pail feeding prevents injury to cow's udder, saves time teaching calf to drink and prevents milk gulping common with open-pail feeding. Feed ½ pint milk to each 10 pounds of calf's weight, twice daily.

Commercial calf meal on the fifth day, self-fed from a small box in the calf pen, contains all the vitamins, minerals and proteins calves need for good growth and development. Some dairymen use condensed buttermilk or whey types instead of dry calf feed.

After four weeks calves get no more milk. At this age their ration can be changed to one part of commercial calf pellets to two parts of farm grains, self-fed along with plenty of good quality mixed hay, block salt and water. This is a good ration to feed up to four months of age.

After four months feed a good heifer-growing ration of one part commercial or home-mixed dairy ration to four parts of farm grains. Feed about 3 pounds of this mixture daily; two months before heifers freshen, increase the ration to 8 pounds daily, along with plenty of hay or pasture.

On the milk substitute program, enough milk is saved per calf to pay for the calf feed and still leave a big net profit for the farmer. Glenn Adams of Zionsville, Indiana, loads his milk truck with a few "extra" cans of milk produced by a farmer who switched to this milk-saving system.

AGRICULTURAL WEED-NO-MORE TRADE MARK

The new miracle chemical 2,4-D, offered in its most effective form in Agricultural Weed-No-More, brings you the practical, low-cost way to kill weeds in growing small grains.

Spraying Agricultural Weed-No-More on young corn is faster than cultivating, kills weeds right up to the corn plants, makes row-planting practical.

On pastures, fence rows, ditch banks, and grassed waterways, Agricultural Weed-No-More kills weeds, roots and all.

Agricultural Weed-No-More goes on fast—covers 7 to 15 acres per hour. It goes far, too—⅛ pint to 2 pints in only 5 gallons of water treats 1 acre! Apply it by the new low-gallonage method developed and proved by Sherwin-Williams Research. Use a simple, low-cost rig that you or any local shop can quickly assemble.

AGRICULTURAL WEED-NO-MORE

Costs less per acre because it controls weeds more effectively!

Agricultural authorities have found that the ester forms of 2,4-D used in Agricultural Weed-No-More penetrate weed leaves within 5 minutes, do not wash off, mix easily with water, won't clog or corrode spray equipment, and are harmless to stock. Agricultural Weed-No-More has been proved on more than 500,000 acres.

SEE WEED-NO-MORE AT WORK IN NEW SOUND MOVIE

FIVE OF A KIND are these husky young Vermonters, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clark of Bristol, Vermont, who spend their summers on Lake Champlain, near their father's 300-cow dairy farm. All the Clark boys were raised on KARO* Syrup—and—milk.

GOOD BEGINNING toward becoming a champion pie baker is made by Carol Kletti, just starting her 4-H Club work under the supervision of Mrs. Gwen Daluge, Wisconsin home demonstration agent.

PARTY BAKED APPLES

⅓ cup KARO Syrup, Blue Label
½ cup water
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons sugar
4 baking apples, cored
1 egg white
2 tablespoons sugar
14 almonds, blanched
4 maraschino cherries, chopped

Combine first six ingredients. Bring to a boil. Remove from heat. Pare upper half of apples. Place in baking dish. Pour syrup mixture over apples. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 hour or until tender, basting frequently. Remove from oven. Top apples with meringue made from egg white and 2 tablespoons sugar. Insert cherries and shredded almonds. Bake 15 minutes or until lightly browned. 4 servings.

Hearts and Hatchets

Hearts, hatchets, cherry trees and miniature log cabins mark the trail of the social whirl in February as party after party is chalked up on the calendar of 1948. Valentine parties, Washington's birthday banquets, Lincoln luncheons, guest days, gentlemen's night, afternoon teas, offer a sparkling interlude just as winter begins to seem drab and dull.

But to top these affairs effectively, we must come up with interesting party foods — dishes new and delightful, that portray the spirit of the occasion. Tables must be set with dash and color — foods must follow suit.

Distinctive refreshments may take the form of heart-shaped sandwiches and tarts or even a Valentine-shaped Strawberry Jam Cake set upon a lace doily. Or you may choose to honor the Father of Our Country by serving Tricorn Cookies with cherry-red filling. In fact, any cherry dish will do the trick — Deep Dish Cherry Pie, Cherry Charlotte or Cherry Torte topped with cherry sauce and whipped cream. Recipes for any of the foods mentioned here may be obtained if you will write Susan Lowe, Rural Gravure, in care of this newspaper.

CHERRY CHARLOTTE

1 tbsp. plain gelatin	1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ cup cold water	½ cup sugar
1 No. 2 can sour pitted cherries and juice	2 egg whites
⅔ cup sugar	6-10 lady fingers, vanilla wafers or sponge cake strips
2 egg yolks	1 cup whipping cream

Soften the gelatin in cold water. Combine in a double boiler the ⅔ cup sugar, cherry juice, slightly beaten egg yolks and lemon juice. Cook until slightly thickened. Then add gelatin and cherries. Remove from heat and chill until thick, but not stiff. Fold in egg whites beaten with the ½ cup sugar; also the whipped cream. Line a mold or pan with the lady fingers and fill with the gelatin mixture. Chill thoroughly and serve garnished with some of the cherries reserved for this purpose. Serves 6 - 8.

DEEP-DISH CHERRY PIE

1 tsp. grated lemon rind	1 quart canned sour pitted cherries
⅛ tsp. nutmeg	3½ tbsp. corn starch
1 tbsp. melted butter	¼ tsp. salt
1 cup dark corn syrup	½ tsp. almond extract
	1 tsp. lemon juice
1 recipe pastry

Drain cherries and reserve juice. Combine ½ cup of the cherry juice with corn starch (saving remaining cherry juice to use in a sauce, fruit drink or gelatin dessert). Add remaining ingredients; blend well. Pour over cherries. Line 9-inch deep pie pan with pastry. Prick with fork. Cut heart-shaped pastries with remaining dough. Pour cherry mixture into pie shell. Heart shaped pieces may be placed on top and baked with pie or baked on separate cookie sheet and placed on pie after it has been baked.

TARTS OF HEARTS

Cut tart or pastry dough into two sizes of hearts; bake. Spread larger heart with jelly, jam or preserves and press smaller tart on top. Men will devour these by the dozen.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1948 NUMBER 7

Draws Fine and Suspended Sentence

Dallas S. Cook of Newville was fined $50 and costs and given a 30-day suspended sentence to the Indiana state penal farm late Monday in the DeKalb circuit court after an all-male jury returned a verdict against him at his trial on charges of drunken driving.

Judge W. D. Stump who passed the sentence announces that he will recommend that Cook's license be suspended for six months instead of the automatic 90 day suspension.

The witnesses included George Walter, Carl Stell and Clarence Buttermore, all of Butler; Gene, Clarence and Ethel Engle of near Hicksville; Vaughn Davis of near Hicksville and Edna Mock of Butler.

Cook had entered a plea of not guilty last July 9 in the local circuit court to drunken driving charges resulting from a two-car accident seven days before on state road 1 south of Butler.

Police officers accused Cook of leaving the scene of an accident and driving into Butler. After allegedly abusing Prosecuting Attorney James A. Angelone and a Butler police officer whom he encountered on a street in Butler he drove to his home, where he was later arrested.

The principal witness for the state was Clarence Engle, driver of the car involved in the collision with Cook's machine.

FEEDING ROOSTER COSTS $5 A YEAR

What does it cost to keep a rooster? He'll eat 100 pounds of feed a year. He won't lay any eggs, and the hens in the flock won't lay any more eggs just because he's around. If you don't use him for breeding, at present prices, it's costing you $5 a year to keep the critter around the place. You can buy a good alarm clock for $1.98—it's a lot cheaper that a rooster.

LEGION WIN THREE GAMES; TO PLAY DEFIANCE SATURDAY

The St. Joe Legion basketball team rounded out a full week of play by giving the Indiana Service Corp. of Ft. Wayne a 49 to 24 thumping here at the local gym Saturday evening.

After trailing at the end of the first period of play by a 9 to 4 score, the local lads got clicking in the remainder of the game, to rack up their tenth win in their last 11 appearances on the court.

In previous games last week, the locals with a squad consisting of just the regulation five players beat out a Leo Shell five in a game played in the Leo gym Wednesday night by a 52 to 48 score.

On Thursday the locals defeated the Garrett Merchants by a 44 to 35 score in a game played at the St. Joe gym.

Next Saturday the locals will meet the Defiance Automatics of Defiance, O., in a single game starting at 8 p. m.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Harvey Carr, Feb. 11. The President, Mrs. Joseph Baidinger, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Merl Furnish read the poem, "The mind of Professor Primrose". and Mrs. Baidinger read the poem, "Lincoln's Head". Mrs. Clyde Duker, leader, chose from the Readers Digest, 'Rookie of the Year". The club Auction was conducted by Mrs. Lester Anthony. This was quite profitable. Roll call was given with 12 active members and 1 associate responding with "The First Money I Ever Earned". Two guests, Kathy Anthony and Andrea Carr, were present.

The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Robert Bailey, in serving the lunch.

All Culture Club members please notice the next meeting will be Friday. Feb. 20, at the nome of Mrs. Herman Zuber. The Rev. Soudah of Garrett will be the guest speaker at this meeting. A good attendance is desired.

Figures for the entire state as compiled by the taxpayer's association shows the in 1939-1940 the expenditure was $17,346,952. This total and to $27,650, 936 during the present year.

In commenting on the totals in Indiana, Walter T. Horn of Indianapolis, executive secretary of the taxpayers, association, says:

"Repeated assertions that Indiana has neglected its public school teachers are not true. The record is the best evidence and it shows that although men and women employed as intstructors in the township schools were greatly underpaid a few years ago, their salaries have been substantially increased in recent years and are even higher for the curren year."

SPENCER TWP. HOME EC.

The regular meeting of the Spencer Township Club met Feb. 11, at the home of Miss Elizabeth Hart, with Mrs. Lynn Fisher as co-hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Lynn Fisher and opened by all singing "Loves Old Sweet Song" "I Would Be True" and "Drink to me only with Thine Eyes' History of the songs were given by Mrs. Joseph Baidinger". Tigers Defeat Hamilton In Last Home Game

The Concord Twp. High Tigers played their last home game of the current season and came out on the long end of a 28 to 21 score, over the Hamilton Marines in a dull, loosely played contests at the St. Joe gym Thursday evening.

The Tigers led from start to finish in a low scoring affair and only once in the third quarter did the visitors serious threaten their opponents lead. The Tigers held a 13 to 8 first quarter lead and a 14 to 10 lead at the half way mark.

Howard and Donnie Miller accounted for the bulk of the Tiger scoring, with a total of 15 points between them.

The seconds made a more impressive showing in their 29 to 24 win over the Hamilton second team. The locals started the last half with a 15 to 4 lead, which enabled Coach Tatlock to use numerous substitutions, with most of the second team boys seeing action.

JANUARY WEATHER FINDS HOOSIERS WEARING EARMUFFS

Figures released today by the Indiana Department of Conservation show the mercury started downward on the 13th of the month and remained with the small numbers for an average of 5.5 degrees below normal. Most streams became ice-covered and all lakes in the Northern section of the state were frozen over to an average thickness of 14 inches by the end of the month. Maximum thickness measured was 18 inches.

Heavy rains on the first two days of the new year caused near floods in several counties, but later precipitation consisted of light snow. and the monthly total fell below normal.

Reports based on 79 gauging stations revealed lake levels averaged an increase of less than than one foot. rising during the first days of the month as a result of rain and sleet storms, and dropping the last three weeks. Water levels generally rose followiny the lowest stage of the annual cycle which occured in December. Levels in several observation wells climbed six feet, but in areas of heavy ground-water pumpage the net rise was erratic in Jan.

Bread Now in Cans

Bread has been added to the ranks of canned foods, the Can Manufacturers institute announces. Vacuum-packed in tin or steel, the product is made of rye meal, cracked wheat, rice bran, barley flour, cracked oats and soya flour. It is enriched further by adding vitamin B complex, iron and niacin.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

FOREST FIRES: If every sportsman tourist or what-have-you would be careful with matches, campfires, lighted cigarettes etcs., the annual loss in wildlife, timber and other perishable items would be cut a hundred fold. That is the first step. New and improved fire-fighting methods and equipment is the second step. So it was with interest that we read recently of experiments with airborne fire extinguishers, equipped with a war-developed proximity fuse, that might be used in combating forest fires. The proximity fuse employs a radar principle (exploding a shell as it nears a target) and could be adapted to fighting forest fires by bursting a fire extinguisher bomb at a desired height above a blaze. This way, fire smothering material could be sprayed effectively over the burning area.If the bomb does not explode until it hits the ground, much of the material remains in the crater and is sprayed over a much smaller area.

Recently we saw a letter from Charlie Gillham, veteran outdoor writer and an authority on Alaska, which made us sit up and wonder just where we are heading from a conservation viewpoint. Most of us always have considered Alaska a sportsman's "Utopia" with unlimited game and fish, so it is a little hard to take Charlie's report on big game.

In part, his letter read: Dall sheep are down 20 per cent from their former abundance in Kenai District. In the Endicott and Brooks ranges 50,000 to 75,000 of them are making their last stand against the onrushing civilization.

Caribou, often spoken of as the "staff of life" in Alaska, are on their way out. Moose, however, probably are on the increase. this was encouraging until Charlie showed the reason. Forest fires and burnings along the Alaska railway have contributed to a change in the flora and new deciduous plants have surplanted the conifers and moss. This has increased browse and moose food, so naturally, the moose are making a comeback.

We were surprised to learn, also that only eight men are available for enforcing the game regulations in Alaska -- a territory of 590,000 square miles or about one-fifth the size of the United States.

Steps to protect this "last frontier" of the United States should be taken now, so a "repeat performance" of what has happened in the state will not be staged in Alaska.

Only Chevrolet Is First!

Meet the new standard of Big-Car beauty! It's here, in Chevrolet's Bodies by Fisher—finest bodies made—available only on Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.

You'll enjoy Big-Car performance, too, when you own a Chevrolet; for it brings you Valve-in-Head engine performance, found elsewhere only in more expensive cars.

You'll find Chevrolet rides more smoothly on all types of roads due to the famous Knee-Action Ride; and, of course, Knee-Action is found only on Chevrolet and costlier cars.

Keep your present car in good running condition by bringing it to us for skilled service, now and at regular intervals, pending delivery of your new Chevrolet.

Men and women everywhere agree: Only one is No. 1—only Chevrolet is first—in all-round value as in popularity. Consequently, more people drive Chevrolets than any other make, according to official nationwide registrations; and more people want Chevrolets than any other make, according to seven independent nationwide surveys. Here, in the new 1948 Chevrolet, is record value. For new and even more luxurious styling, colors and appointments have been added to all of Chevrolet's other advantages of BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

COUNTY GETS INCREASED AID FOR HIGHWAYS

DeKalb county received an additional $16,490.06 for county roads last year under the revised formula for distribution of state motor vehicle funds it was revealed today.

Republican State headquarters, commenting upon the Republican-sponsored fund law passed by the 1947 Legislature, said an additional $1,615,750.38 was distributed to Indiana's 92 counties under the law during 1947.

DeKalb county's regular share mately the same as the $119,677.84 received in 1946.

The $16,490.06 increase results from a formula which requires payment by the state of 64 per cent of the net excess in the motor fuel fund over $7,500,000 in each quarter.Excess payments were possible in three of the four quarters last year.

County shares are paid on the basis of the ratio of actual miles of county highways in each county as compared to the total mileage of all such highways in the state.

Total state distribution to the counties in 1947 was about $13,000,000, as against $11,318,441.76 in 1946.

Here's Brand-New Power for your Buick

Our men do a master job of keeping Buicks right up to Buick high standards. They can get everything out of them that there is to get.

But maybe you'd like the thrill of a brand-new engine in your car.

If so, we're ready to do that job too—ready to put a straight-from-the-factory engine in any Buick built since 1937.

You get an entirely new engine. It has a new carburetor and air cleaner. It has a new distributor with both vacuum and centrifugal spark control. It has new wiring and spark plugs—even a new smooth clutch that eases every start and makes driving fun.

On top of all that, this engine brings you the latest Buick features you read about—features like precision cylinder boring and Flex-Fit oil rings, Stratoflow cooling and all the rest.

We have these engines for you right now because Buick engine production is running ahead of complete car output.

So, in less time than a good overhaul would take—and frequently at less cost—you can have a car with everything a brand-new Buick engine can give you, and a car worth much more when you're ready to turn it in.

Good deal, isn't it? Worth looking into? Drop around and let us give you all the facts and figures.

Check on Trolley Pilots

Providence, R. I., electric railways have a novel way of keeping track of trackless trolleys. At intervals on the overhead trolley wire there is an electrical contact. When the trolley pole brushes one of these, a tiny mark is recorded electrically in the dispatcher's book, thus indicating the time the trolley coach passes a certain point.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

SCRIPTURE: Acts 2:37-47; Ephesians 4:1-6.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Ephesians 4:1-6, 11-13.

Christian Fellowship

Lesson for February 22, 1948

GEORGE WASHINGTON was a splendid example of Christian fellowship. If you will travel through the older portion of the United States, particularly in Virginia, you will come upon numerous instances of church pews marked as follows, "George Washington worshipped in this pew on blank date." Evidently, it was his custom to attend public worship in whatever community he spent the Lord's day. Thus he entered into Christian fellowship, gaining a blessing and rendering a blessing.

Dr. Newton

The lesson passage for Sunday is found in Acts 2:37-47 and Ephesians 4:1-6, with several other passages which will be quoted before we finish the column for this week.

A HAPPY TIME IN CHURCH

READ Acts 2:41-47, and you will find a picture of a group of very happy people. Think of it, three thousand people professing faith in Jesus and receiving baptism in one day! But read on—they were not only happy at church, but they were happy because they were in the church. They continued steadfastly in the apostles' teachings and fellowship and breaking of bread and prayer.

They praised God and had favor with all the people. By their daily living they were convincing the world that fellowship in Christ is not only good on Sunday while we are at the meeting house, but good every day.

The happy homes are the homes where Christian fellowship abounds, and it is equally true in every area of life.

AT CHURCH WITH FRIENDS

"I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go unto the house of the Lord," Psalm 122:1.

THAT is poetry, you will agree, but it is also actual testimony not only of the Psalmist, but of countless junior boys and girls throughout our land who eagerly await the sound of the church bells. Boys and girls delight to go to Sunday school and worship when the life of the church is pervaded with Christian fellowship. There they meet the finest boys and girls in the community.

BELONGING TO THE CHURCH

THE passage in Acts 2:37-47 tells us how certain people, after hearing the great sermon by Peter, asked how they might be saved. He told them:

"Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit."

When we invite intermediate friends to attend Sunday school and worship services with us, and they come to know of the love of God, they, too, will want to be saved. It is then the high privilege of Christian boys and girls to lead their friends to accept Jesus Christ as Saviour, and come into the church.

In Ephesians 4:4-6, we read these words: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all, who is above all and through all and in all."

ALL ONE IN CHRIST

THE above passage from Ephesians teaches clearly that there is a brotherhood of man, real and abiding, when we accept the Fatherhood of God, through Jesus Christ. This is the meaning of the church. No amount of man-made creeds can save us. No amount of ritual and ceremony can save us. We are saved by grace through faith, and that is the gift of God. When we repent of our sins and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, we are saved, and not until then.

The one adequate solvent for the crying needs of this frightened world is the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ. Just as thousands were saved on Pentecost and again on the Lord's Day when Peter preached in Solomon's porch, so today many may be saved where the Gospel is proclaimed in its simplicity and power.

We are one in Christ, of every race and every tongue. The fellowship of Christian faith transcends every barrier — racial, economic, geographic, political, religious. We have but to proclaim the universality of this good news—proclaim it in our words and proclaim it in our daily lives. The world waits wistfully for the encompassing fellowship that is in Christ and in Christ alone.

"Most bird dogs are NOT as brainy as Professor Einstein. Fact is, in many ways they're pretty dumb!" writes Mabry Anderson, veteran sportsman and dog-lover, in the current OUTDOORSMAN magazine.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1948 NUMBER 8

ST. JOE NEWS CHANGES HANDS

On March first the business in St. Joe known as the News Printing Co. will pass into the hands of new owners. Theodore E. (Ted) Haberkorn will assume the role of managing editor at that time.

No extensive changes in the News are planned for the immediate future.

Mr. Haberkorn with his wife and two children, Michael age 2½ months and David age 5 months, will move to St. Joe as soon as a suitable home can be found.

The News Printing Co. was purchased January 5, 1946 by Dee Steininger and Emmett Steininger, brothers, from Mrs. Lora Leighty. Mr. and Mrs. Leighty had published the News since 1906. The Steininger Brothers partnership was dissolved in July of 1946. Emmett Steininger managing from that time on.

Lewis Walter, who has been with the News since June, 1946 will continue with the new owners.

Mr. Steininger will remain with the new editor for a few days. He plans to purchase a job printing shop in another city in this part of the state as soon as the transaction can be arranged. He and his family will continue to reside in St. Joe for an indefinite time.

SAFE ROBBERS ARE ACTIVE IN AUBURN

Safe robbers were active in Auburn Saturday night or early Sunday morning, entering two business establishments, the Auburn Printing Co. and the Newberry Five and Ten Cent store, and the Auburn high school.

The largest amount of loot was obtained at the Auburn Printing Co., where the thieves escaped with $347.19 in cash, checks totaling of $25 and one postal note for $4. The thieves left only 22 cents in the safe.

The burglars entered the printing office through a window on the east side of the building and then unlocked doors at the east and west ends of the building so that they might make a quick getaway if they were discovered There are two safes in the office. One, in which the money was kept, was locked, but the other is never locked. The thieves apparently worked with the combination until they found the way to open the safe which was locked. They took the cash drawer from the safe and two money bags which contained a large amount of change and bills of small denomination.

The burglary of the Auburn school building, the second in the past few months, was discorverd by school officials shortly after the break-in at the printing company was reported, according to Police Chief C. H. West.

The burglars gained entrance to the building through an east door, where police believe they shook loose a wooden catch. The thieves then moved to the office on the second floor, where they forced the door. Papers and other material were thrown about the room but only a small amount of money was secured.

At the Newberry Five and Ten the burglars were unable to break into a heavy safe which store officials said contained around $1,000.

A large punch was used to try and punch out the safe combination The instrument was driven into the metal safe about four inches before the burglars gave up. Damage to the safe is estimated at $150.

The punch, which is believed to have been used in all three burglaries, was left in the safe when the thieves were unable to remove it. Police were forced to use a pipe wrench to remove the instrument.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Inez Hadsell, Feb. 18. The meeting was called to order by the president, and Collect was read by Mrs. Don Burley.

An article on Stained Glass Windows was given by Mrs. Chas. Krise. She also told some interesting things about her visit to a glass factory.

Mrs. Wm. Staman told of her visit to Phoenix, Arizona and the Cactus Gardens.

The state of Arizona was used by Mrs. Weldon Shafer for her lesson.

Entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Ed Storer.

Sec. Report was read and approved.

After a short business session the meeting was adjourned to meet with Mrs. Ed Storer, March 3.

The Club will meet with Mrs. Ed Storer, March 3, instead of with Mrs. Carl Perkins who will entertain March 17, with musical evening.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jennings had as Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jennings and children of north of Newville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Wyatt and Mrs. Marion Jennings spent a few hours Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Myers and daughter at Garrett, calling on their new grandchild.

Mrs. Margaret Hull returned to her nome at Helena, O., last week, after an extended visit in the Lora Leighty home.

DON LASH SEEKING POSITION AT INDIANA UNIVERSITY.

Don Lash former Indiana university track star and former Auburn resident, has applied for the job as athletic director at Indiana university, it was learned today.

Lash, now an agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Lafayette, Ind., declined to confirm, deny or comment on the matter when the United press contacted him by telephone.

But it was learned reliably that Lash is one of four of five persons being considered for the post vacated by Alvin N. (Bo) McMillin when he was relieved of his contract last week to become coach of the Detroit Lions of the National Professional football league.

Lash is a graduate of I. U. He was an internationally known trackman and gained fame in 1936 as a member of the United State team in the Olympics in Berlin.

In 1936, he ran two miles in 8.58.4 for a world record.

Lash also set a U. S. record of 19:17.9 for four miles in 1937, a mark that still stood at the end of 1946.

In 1937 he turned in a world record for amatuers in his 4:07.2 mile run.

A native of Auburn, Ind., he won the national A A U cross-county individual championship three years in a row beginning in 1934 and established new western conference records in the mile and two mile during those years.

RESTAURANT IN ST. JOE NOW UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The restaurant in St. Joe formerly known as Keeslers Cafe, has changed management again, and is now open for business with Mrs. Harry Shuff acting as the new proprietor.

The business was taken over by the Shuff's last Wednesday; and the serving of regular meals was started this week. Mrs. Shuff will be assisted by her daughters, in the operation of the new business.

LEGION DEFEAT DEFIANCE AND FT. WAYNE TEAMS IN WEEK-END GAMES

The St. Joe Legion five continued their mastery over surrounding independent teams by rolling up two more victories over the week-end.

After a full week lay off from play the locals beat out a sharp-shooting Defiance Automatic five by a 62- 52 score at the St. Joe gym Saturday evening. The locals over came an early Defiance lead in the first quarter, and by the end of that first period of fast sharp shooting basketball, the home town boys held a 21 to 20 lead. 11 players saw action for the locals, and Davis with 18, and Diederich with 16 were the high scoreres.

On Sunday afternoon the locals traveled to the St. Joe Center Gym near Ft. Wayne, and rolled to a 73 to 56 victory over the Putt Decorators of Ft. Wayne. The locals again met with a sharp shooting opponent and the score was tied at 35 all at the half-way mark.

The Legion outscored the Decorators in the third quarter, and then rolled up an amazing 25 point, last quarter total, to completely overwhelm their opponents. Davis, Rollins, and Diederich all contributed heavily to the scoring, and accounted for 52 points.

Thursday evening, the Waterloo Independents, managed by Bob Curie, will be present for a single game at 7:30; and on Mon., March 1st the Texaco Shriners, from Ft. Wayne will be present for a single game.

MISS EILEEN HAFFNER AND MELVIN SCHENDEL MARRIED IN IMPRESSIVE CHURCH WEDDING

Miss Eileen Leona Haffner of 510 South Franklin street, Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Haffner of Geneva, Ind., became the bride of Melvin Lee Schendel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schendel of St. Joe in a ceremony at the Methodist church in Garrett Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Palms and beauty vases of white gladioli, interspersed with seven-branched candelabra holding lighted cathedral taper, formed a pretty background before which the young couple repeated their vows after the Rev. W. Earl Pittenger, pastor of the church. The double ring ritual was used. The pews where the relatives were seated were marked with white satin ribbon bows and greenery.

Mr. and Mrs .Maxwell Zern of 107 South Ijams street, Garrett, served as matron of honor and best man. The ushers were Robert Harman of 611 South Lee street, Garrett, and Harry Schendel of St. Joe, the latter being a brother of the groom. Just before the entrance of the wedding party a white carpet was laid down the center aisle.

Very heavy bridal satin and lace fashioned the gown worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, D. L. Haffner of East Keyser street, Garrett. The high neckline beneath a sheer yoke was accented by a banding of seed pearls, which extended over the shoulders. The long lace sleeves tapered over the hands and the bodice ended with a lace peplum over the very full satin skirt, which ended in a circular train. A crown of seed pearls caught her fingertip-length veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses with white satin ribbon streamers, which were tied in lover knots with white sweetpeas. Her only jewelry was a three-strand string of pearls, her gift from the groom.

Assisting with the serving were Mesdames A. L. LaFollette, Robert Harman and Dwight McDaniel and the Misses Erman Jean Haffner and the groom's sister, Mrs. Frank Kessler of St. Joe. They each wore a corsage of gardenias and were presented compacts as gifts of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Poling, Ind., high school and Ball State Teachers' college. She was girls' pyhsical education teacher in the Garrett schools for five years and later became employed in the main offices of Haffner 5c to $1 Stores, Inc., in Garrett. She is a member of Phi Delta Lamada, social college sorority, and an active member of Garrett chapter of Tri Kappa sorority.

Mr. Schendel is a grdauate of Garrett high school and attended Bowling Green College at Bowling Green, O., two years prior to his enlisting in the army air corps in June, 1941. He was an officer in communications, serving in the ETO. When he returned from military duty after four years' service, he entered Purdue university, where he was affiliated with the Triangle fraternity. He is now employed as a brakeman by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Among the 175 guests who attended the wedding and reception, were: Mrs. Chas. Woodcox, James Kees, and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moore of St. Joe.

LIONS CLUB

The St. Joe-Spencerville Lions Club enjoyed a very fine dinner served by the Home Economics Class of the Spencerville High School, at their regular meeting Monday night. The seventeen in attendance enjoyed a very interesting film of a dodge caravan through Africa, and a beautiful colored film of the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico. Location of the next meeting will be announced.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Herman Zuber, Friday evening, February 20th. Patriotic streamers of red, white and blue were presented to each guest upon arrival. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Joseph Baidinger and the club song was sung in unison. A poem, ""Tis So Splendid To Live So Grandly", by Margaret E. Sangster and a sonnet, "Life" by Henry Van Dyke was read by Mrs. Leslie Meek. Roll call was taken with one emeritus, one associate and seventeen active members responding with quotations. A short business meeting was held.

The President then introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Peter E. Soudah, Presbyterian minister from Garrett, Indiana. Rev. Soudah who is a native of the Holy Land gave a very interesting and moving talk. Rev. Soudah answered questions asked by the members.

The hostess served a delicious lunch and the club adjourned to meet again March 3, 1948 at the home of Mrs. John Ulm with Mrs. Fred Ulm as hostess.

Spencerville Raiders Upset Auburn Red Devils

The Spencerville Red Raiders repeated their performance of last year and again upset the Auburn Red Devils by a 45 - 43 score, in the opening game of the sectional tourney Wednesday morning.

Akey hit two foul shots with less than a minute remaining, to break a 43 all tie. Auburn, after trailing the entire game, took a short lead midway in the last quarted, but Hook's foul shooting kept the Raiders in the game.

Schooley had 23 points for the losers, while Hook had 15 for the victorious Spencerville Red Raiders.

Attention will be focused on achievements and goals of 2600 Indiana farm boys enrolled in vocational agriculture, and members of FFA, in observance of National Future Farmers of America Week, February 21-27, it was announced today by Harold B. Taylor, state supervisor of agricultural education and state

Among special activities being planned are radio broadcasts, programs before civic groups and high schools, and exhibits in store windows.

The Hoosier youth as part of the nation's approximately 250,000 FFA members, will joint in the celebration, during the week, of the 20th anniversary of the founding of this organization for farm boys who are preparing ofr a career of farming. More than 8000 rural high schools in 47 state, Hawaii and Puerto Rico now have F. F. A. chapters. An Indiana youth, Irvin Martin, Salem is the national president.

Mr. Taylor said that interest in the activities of the organization has shown a marked increase in the past two years and that there are now chapters in 120 vocational departments in the state. The Indiana goal is to have a chapter in each of the 300 established departments.

The important FFA activities include individual member farming projects and records, chapters projects in planning for farm improvement and community betterment, group meetings of a local, district and national size, cooperative planning with other youth and adult organizations for rural welfare and also special interests such as livestock judging and public speaking contests.

THANK YOU

These twenty six months since Jan. 5, 1946 have passed swiftly. Although there are ups and downs in every ones life and business, for the most part we have enjoyed our work and our association with you, the people of this vicinity. We wish in this way to express our sincere appreciation for your kindness and splendid cooperation.

The new owners will have the same task of getting acquainted and gaining your confidence. We earnestly beg of you to extend to them the same friendliness and spirit of cooperation that we have experienced. We recommend them to you as clean, honest, and upright citizens, the kind you will be proud to consider a part of your community.

This being a new field for Mr. Haberkorn, he makes no great promises or apoligies, but fully intends to bring you the most complete coverage of local news possible, and with your cooperation we believe he will do just that.

Again we say, "Thank You for Everything".

Horace B. Hatton, official of a Baltimore dairy, collects notes left in milk bottles as some collect stamps. Among the prizes of his collection are these:

"Dear Milkman: please leave three quarts of milk and one cigarette. I am smoking my last one as I write this note."

"Dear Milkman: Nothing today. Just two quarts of milk."

"Milkman: we are going away on our vacation. Will not need any milk until we return. Please be sure to leave two quarts on the day we return, but we can't be sure just what day that will be."

The regular meeting of the Concord Township Club was held at the home of Mrs. Cora Fetters, February 20, with Mrs. Mary Krise and Mrs. Harriet Johnson assisting her.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Doris Yeiser, and opened by reading creed and singing prayer song. The song of the month, "Drink to me only with thine eyes," was also sung.

Devotions was given by Mrs. Katie Storer, with Mrs. Ella Myers offering prayer. The project lesson, "Salads" was very well demonstrated by Mrs. Cora Curie and Mrs. Katherine Haller.

Mrs. Margaret Mast received door prize. The hostess with her committee served a delicious luneh. We had one guest and 3 children present The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Iva Yeiser.

FOR THE FIRST TIME CORN INSURANCE IS OFFERED TO DEKALB COUNTY FARMERS

For the first time, Dekalb County farmers, who normally plant 40,000 acres of corn annually, representing an investment of $880,000.00, will be offered insurance at 60c per acre, which will protect their investment against losses due to drought, hail, wind, insect infestation, freeze, lighting, fire, excessive rain, snow, wildlife and plant disease, while the corn is in the field.

The average farmer would not think of being without insurace on his corn stored in the cribs. We wonder where the biggest risk really lies. For further information contact the AAA Offiice.

INSTRUCTIONS FOLLOWED

The florist's new assistant picked up the phone and listened attentively as he heard the order.

"The ribbon must be extra wide," the man was saying, "with the 'Rest in Peace' on both sides, and if there is room, 'we Shall Meet in Heaven'."

There was a sensation when the flowers arrived at the funeral. True, the ribbon was extra wide, but the insription it bore read: "Rest in peace on both sides, and if there is room, we shall meet in heaven."

DEKALB COUNTY SHARE OF GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES TO BE $7,478,353

Operation of the federal government will cost the residents of DeKalb county an estimated $7,478,353 in the coming year, or approximately $270 per person, the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce said today.

That amout is the share of the proposed $39,669,000 federal expenditures for the 1948-49 fiscal year which would fall to this county if next year's federal spending were divided among the different states on the basis of each state's share of income payments to individuals and then were divided among the counties of Indiana on the basis of estimated populations in 1947, according to the State Chamber analysis.

Indicative of the magnitude of DeKalb County's share of proposed federal spending in the coming year is the fact that the amount is approximately 9.9 times the total local and state property tax levies in the county of 1946, payable in 1947. The amount of these local and state property tax levies in the county was $758,734, the anaysis showed.

"The size of the federal budget and the amount of taxes collected support it have now become backhome problems of greater impotance even than our own state and local tax questions," Clarence A. Jackson, Executive Vice President of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce said. "With the federal government now spending on the average approximately 21c out of each dollar of the personal income of people of Indiana and the United states, it has become imperative that the Congress reduce federal costs wherever possible and require the government to live within the means of the people who foot its bills."

Congressional action reducing proposed spending only 10% would save DeKalb county people approximately $747,835 next year, it was pointed out.

For Indiana as a whole, the state's total estimated share of next year's federal spending budget is 1,023,460,200, or approximately equal to the total value of all Indiana farm products in 1947, the Indiana Chamber said. Expenditures proposed for the third peace-time year since V-J Day in the 1948-49 fiscal year federal budget, now under consideration by the national congress, represent an increase of approximately $2 billion over anticipated federal expenditures during the present year.

STATE RECOMMENDS PLANTING OF MORE TREES IN IN INDIANA

Farmers and other landowners in the state are urged by the Indiana Department of Conservation to consider carefully the planting of young trees for forestry purposes.

Ralph Wilcox, state forester, stated that although the supply of several of the most popular varieties of trees raised in the Indiana state nurseries have been sold, there is still available large numbers of black locust, shortleaf pine, Virginia pine and red pine seedlings, and white pine transplants.

Shortleaf pine and Virginia pine seedlings should be planted only on land south of Indianapolis, Wilcox said.

In an effort to provide a continuous supply of black walnut timber for the future, the state forester recommended the planting of great numbers of "stratified walnut seed" each spring. These nuts should be planted in large openings in the woods where the soil is rich in organic matter or has been undisturbed by grazing or fire.

"Walnut is a very valuable wood and we should start now to raise a continuous supply of this timber, both to maintain the veneer industry in Indiana and to provide for a possible supply of gunstock wood in the event of another war," Wilcox said.

A large supply of black walunt "stratified" seed now is available at state nurseries. These nuts were gathered by the nursery crews and several hundred bushels also were sent to the nurseries by member companies of the American Walunt Manufacturers' Association.

Persons interested in procuring for reforestation and windbreaks, and "stratified" walunt seed should contact their District or Farm Forester, County Agricultural Agent or the Division of Forestry, Indiana Department of Conservation, at Indianapolis.

TIME?

Sure, Time there was
And Time there is
But none can say
That Time will be
It is but now
Part of today
That Time is here
For you and me

To use the same
With good acclaim
We needs must do
Our very best
When we've done all
Though great or small
Our Master then
Will do the rest

'Tis but in life
When it is rife
That there is aught
That all can do.
Life short or long
With self or throng
Is when we would
Our future due.

So, think and do
In life all through,
The things you know
Will win the race.
For when life's o'er
There is no more
Of Time to choose
Our future place

FACTS 'N' FIGURES: Minnesota fishery experts have added another feather in ther collective cap by raising nearly 23,000 northern pike fingerlings about three inches long, their cannibalistic nature, it has proved virtually impossible to raise them in hatcheries. But it Can be done as this experiment as Straight Lake proves. These fingerlings now are in some of the Gopher State's lakes growing up sizes to tempt the from fry in five weeks. Bcause of pike fishermen.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP: With many of us thinking about the fishing, it might be well to consider a few of the cardinal rules of good sportsmanship on streams and lakes. Firns, never wade into a bole in a stream where some angler is already fishing. This also fits a lake, whether fishing from the shore or from a boat. And never ask another fisherman to disclose a "favorite" spot where he has made successful catches. It just isn't done under the rules. If he wants to tell you, he'll do so without you questioning him. And, above all else, abide by the regulations governing the waters you are fishing. There's no surer way to show poor sportsmanship than by being a fish hog.

Boost the brood sow's rations
with KRAYLETS
—80% milk products in dry kernel form

Brood sows require extra nourishment—the high quality proteins, lactose and minerals that milk products provide. Kraylets—containing 80% milk products—adds high quality milk proteins, minerals, and lactose to the brood sows' rations—helps put them in healthy farrowing condition—helps provide their unborn pigs with the nourishment they need. Kraylets, too, helps maintain body weight and a good flow of milk after farrowing—aids in insuring a lustier, fast-growing litter. It's sanitary, easy to feed, because Kraylets comes in convenient dry kernel form. It's not a liquid, not a paste!

80% milk products in Kraylets

The milk products in Kraylets are cheese whey solids, cheese solids from rinds and trimmings, and dried skim milk—all excellent concentrated sources of high quality milk proteins and lactose, so essential to growth, health and thriftiness. The remaining 20% of the formula consists of soybean oil meal, alfalfa meal (dehydrated), and dried brewers yeast.

Economical to use!

Because Kraylets provides milk products in such highly concentrated form, a little goes a long way. For brood sows, just add ¼ pound of Kraylets per day to each sow's regular balanced ration before farrowing. Now is the time to investigate the profit-boosting possibilities of Kraylets. Order your supply today from your feed dealer listed below.

Poultrymen! Add Kraylets to your poultry ration to give your flock the benefits of milk products! Convenient, sanitary—just sprinkle it on top of your poultry mash—mix it in the mash—or scatter as scratch. Economical—add only one pound a day to your regular ration for every 150 birds.

World Mission of Church

Lesson for February 29, 1948

JOHN WESLEY said, "The world is my parish." Many another Christian has entertained this great concept, and that is precisely what Jesus wants us to understand concerning the sweep and scope of his Kingdom.

Dr. Newton

Sunday's lesson brings us to consider three great passages — Acts 16:9, 10; Romans 10:8-15; Ephesians 3:8-12. Read these carefully, and you will feel the winds of God lifting up the flaps of the tent of your small habitation until you will catch glimpses of the far horizon.

CHURCH AROUND THE WORLD

"GO YE into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation," said Jesus, Mark 16:15. There is no backyard definition of the mission of the church in these great words of Jesus. Just as Paul was summoned to cross over into Europe with the Gospel, so are we commanded to make Christ known to all lands. He loves everybody.

"Jesus loves the little children,
All the children of the world;
Yellow, brown, or black, or white,
They are precious in his sight,
Jesus loves the little children of the world."

REACHING THE WORLD

JUST as Paul went from one land to another, so may every Christian boy and girl do. Each church can reach out hands of blessing to all the world.

How? Through our gifts. Our gifts for missions, joined with the gifts of all the other members of our local church, joined with the gifts of many other churches, go out in multiplied blessing through the missionaries to make Christ known around the world.

How? Through our prayers. As we pray for the redemption of the world, we fortify the missionaries — teachers, doctors, preachers—in all the parts of the world.

How? Through our sympathetic understanding of the conditions under which people live in other lands. Just now we are giving clothes and food to help the stricken peoples of the war-ravaged lands. These gifts of material things bear their message of our Christian concern for all who suffer. Thus we are extending the reach of our individual lives and the reach of our churches to the ends of the earth.

PUBLISHING SALVATION

"HOW beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth glad tidings, that publisheth peace . . . that publisheth salvation," Isaiah 52:7.

The world mission of the church is here pictured in the exquisite language of the ancient prophet, with which words we may link the declaration of the great apostle, "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Romans 6:13.

Publishing salvation is the chief task of the church of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the objects of this universal message are the souls of all men. There is universal need, and here is the adequate and available answer.

See how this conception of the world mission of the church brings into focus the one hope for civilization. The only voice that carries across the barriers of this troubled world is the voice of salvation through Jesus Christ. Let that word be sounded in any spot on this earth, and some waiting heart will be lifted up.

THE UNSEARCHABLE RICHES

AND what are we to say about the message we have to publish? Paul puts it well in Ephesians 3:8-12, when he declares:

"Unto me, who am less than the least of all the saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ. . . ."

In another place we read about the "unspeakable gift of God," II Corinthians 9:15. The message, then, is one of unsearchable riches, an unspeakable gift.

In this message is healing for the peoles of the earth. If the true mission of the church is understood and voiced in all of the ways by which the Gospel may today be given to the world, we shall see the fulfillment of the dreams of the prophets, and the angels about the throne of God will shout for joy.

As Paul changed his course in the long ago, heeding the Macedonian call, so may we today find ourselves turning about in our response to the Holy Spirit's leading; but let us not be afraid so long as we are sincerely seeking to publish glad tidings to all men.

Electricity turns dark into day, pumps water, milks cows, grinds feed—does dozens of other chores—brings entertainment and market reports.

Who brought electricity to farms?

The business-managed, self-supporting electric companies began the job some 60 years ago. They did the pioneering . . . developed new methods and equipment . . . learned to meet the problems of weather and distance . . . and continued to bring better and cheaper electric service to more and more farms.

Today better than nine out of every ten farms in the territory we serve are connected to our electric lines—practically every farmer in the area who wants our low cost service now has it.

Farmers on our lines make greater use of electricity than do city people for electricity not only does many of the womanfolks' chores better and cheaper—it also frees farm manpower for more important work and increases farm profits.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1948 NUMBER 9

HOWDY!

With this issue of the St. Joe News the publication passes into the hands its new owners.

My wife and sons join me in inviting you, our new friends, to stop in and see us to get better acquainted. We know we are going to like St. Joe, and will move to our new "home" as soon as possible.

We will try to continue the good work Emmett and Peggy Steininger have done on the News and possibly even a little better -(I hope they don't see that). Of course, "Louie" will be here to give us a very welcome helping hand.

Come in and look us over.

GOP CONVENTION SET FOR JUNE 11

The Indiana Republican state convention is expected to be set for June 11 at a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee on the 15th.

Republican State chairman Clark Springer said the original date (June 8) is impossible, due to conflicting convention which have tied up hotel facilities throughout the city.

District caucuses will be held the evening of June 10.

The St. Joe News, 1887

A saw log fell across John Davis' nose a few days ago, and peeled some of the bark off of the log as well as off of John's nose.

Charley Coburn is now prepared to masticate any thing from a roasted peanut to an old rubber boot, all because he has a new set of teeth.

I promised Barney Woodcox that I would say nothing about his being at church last Sunday evening, which will account for it's not being mentioned in the items this week.

B. A. Hadsell is doing a smashing business making sugar this spring. while gathering sap the other day, his horse concluded to leave the woods in a hurry, and in trying to go both sides of a tree at the same time they smashed up things at a lively rate, but luckily no one was hurt.

John Fetters grins all the time and, well, we can't tell just how he does act, but it is because of the arrival of a new baby boy at their house. Weight 8½ lbs. (We keep safety pins.

Wils Beaber got a punch in the eye by being to friendly with his horse. He looks now as if he might have had an interest in the Baker ditch.

Mort Milliman undertook to pull a post hole out of the ground, when it flew up and hit on the head; he was knocked sensible for a little while but has got all over that now.

There was quite a string of accidents in Coburntown last week. Charley Tustison got a whack across the nose from a limb which flew back and hit him on that organ. He say he prefers blowing his own nose in the future.

While Sherd Plattner was staying with his girl last Saturday evening his horse which was hitched to the fence, broke the halter strap and ran away. The last account we had, he had heard nothing of its whereabouts. His girl should invite him to put his horse in the barn.

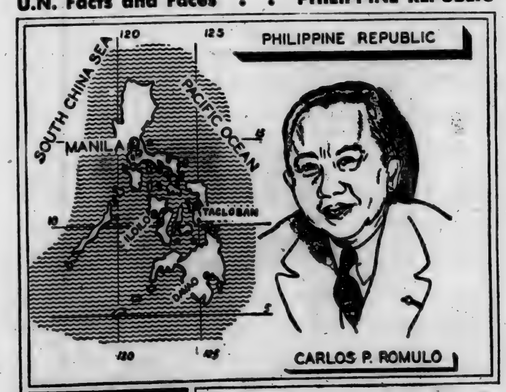
U.N. Facts and Faces . . PHILIPPINE REPUBLIC



Some 7000 islands, the largest in the Malay Archipelago, make up the 115,000 square miles of the Philippine Republic. Made a Spanish colony after its discovery by Magellan on his globe-circling voyage, the area became a possession of the United States in 1898 and gradually was granted an increasing degree of self-government, until it became independent in 1946. With a long coastline dotted with harbors, trade is important to her 18,000,000 people. Sugar, coconut products, tobacco, gold and materials from her dense forests are the backbone of the Philippine economy. The Philippine Republic's permanent representative to the United Nations is General Carlos P. Romulo. Her flag has blue and red stripes and a golden sun and three stars.

The St. Joe Legion Basketballers won one game and lost one since Thursday of last week. Their loss Monday evening to the Shriners Texaco of Ft. Wayne, by a 65 to 60 score, came after a string of 7 consecutive wins, and marked their second loss in their last 13 encounters.

The locals after overcoming a seemingly impossible lead, broke out in front of the visitors in the last quarter, only to have the Shriners take back the lead in the last minute. The Ft. Wayne squad had the locals down 24 to 9 at the end of the first quarter. But some 2nd and 3rd quarter sharpshooting had pulled the Legion up to trail 38 to 31 at the end of the half, and they had just shot into a 51 to 50 lead at the third period. Davis, Deiderich, Rollins and Ridgway all help nicely in the heavy scoring second and third periods.

The locals had little trouble getting by the Donaldson Ramblers and defeated them 60 to 38 last Thursday evening. Ridgway led in scoring with 11 field goals and Deiderich followed him closely, collecting 9 fielders.

On Wednesday evening, March 3, the Legion will take on the Hook and Sons team in a game at the Spencerville gym. In their previous encounter Hook and sons won out 55 to 50. The Proceeds of Wednesday evenings game will go to the Spencerville Fire Dept. for purchase of new fire fighting equipment.

STATE TO LIBERATE PURCHASED QUAIL IN HOOSIER COUNTIES

Approximately 800 pairs of yearold quail have been purchased by the Indiana Department of Conservation for liberation in the state, it was announced today by Director John H. Nigh.

Distribution of these birds, purchased from the Powell Crosley game farm at North Vernon, is expected about the middle of the month.

The birds will be delivered to conservation officers who will release them in desirable locations in their respective counties, according to Donald R. Hughes, state Fish and Game director.

The state buys and distributes quail each year with money appropriated for this purpose by the Indiana General Assembly. It is stipulated, however, that these birds must be purchased from an Indiana dealer.

Hughes said the Crosley farm is the only place in the state where quail now can be bought, and that the Fish and Game division procured all the available birds there this year. The quail were purchased at a price of $7.50 per pair.

LOYAL WORKERS CLASS MEET AT SPENCERVILE

The Loyal Workers Class of The Spencerville Lutheran Sunday School held their Monthly meeting Thursday, Feb. 26 at the home of Mrs. Venus Foltz and her mother, Mrs. Ella Horn.

The president, Mrs. Flossie Rhodes presided at the meeting. The program was prepared and directed by Mrs. Susie Laux and Miss Fern Walter. This consisted of devotional as the major part of the program followed by some recreational.

The devotional part consisted of songs, scripture reading and prayer. This was followed by each member of the class reading a verse from the Bible. Then clipping readings and oral Bible quizzes were given.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lucy Beams, at it's regular time.

The Garrett High Railroaders, proved to a capacity crowd at the Auburn gym Saturday night that they deserved the sectional crown and a shot at the Regional title at Ft. Wayne; when they romped to a 60 to 26 victory over the 'people's choice', Fremont Eagles.

The Garrett squad, seemingly did'nt worry that the majority of the fans were pulling for the underdog Eagles; for they went out with their captain, Ned Schlosser leading them, to run up one of the most lop-sided sectional final scores in many years.

The Railroaders playing their best game of the day, started clicking early in the first period, when Schlosser hit four fast field goals and they could never be caught by the Steuben County sqaud.

The Railroaders had their biggest scare of the tourney when a fighting Churubusco five just would'nt give in to the Railroaders attack until late in the last quarter when they finally took a 27 to 22 lead over the Busco lads, and were holding it at the final gun. In a low scoring game, Garret held just a one point lead at every quarter, holding 6 to 5 11-10, 15 to 14, and a 24 to 23 lead at the automatic time-out period.

Fremont gain ed their way to the finals by fighting an uphill afternoon battle with the Waterloo Wildcats, which they took 37 to 32. Fremont had to overcome a 20 to 12 Wildcat half time lead for their victory.

The Spencerville Red Raiders, after doing their 'giant killing' act, by their 45 to 43 victory over the Auburn Red Devils were eliminated by the fast breaking Waterloo five 39 to 32 in Wednesday evenings game.

The St. Joe Tigers after fighting the Orland Tigers in a pretty even first half, lost out in the final two periods and went down under a 35 to 18 score. The loyal boys were trailing 13 to 12 at the main intermission.

COUNTY FARMERS RECEIVE SPECIAL TOMATO AWARDS

Thee DeKalb county farmers, Harold Custer of Rt. 1, Garrett Clarence Lung of R. 3, Auburn, and Sam Miller of Rt. 1, St. Joe, have received special recognition for tomato crops grown during 1947, it was reported today.

The farmers were given the special recognition on figures compiled by the agriculture extension department at Purdue university. The awards were made by Libby, McNeil and Libby, who contratced the local acreage.

Mr. Custer was presented with a gold award, based on yield and grade of tomatoes. The yield and grade of his tomatoes were slightly under the figures posted by the champion tomato grower of the state.

Silver awards were given to Mr. Miller, and to Mr. Lung, whose yeilds and grades were slighty under those of Mr. Custer.

NEWSPAPER ADS SET NEW RECORD A MONTH

Retail newspaper advertising set new all-time records in every month of 1947, the Bureau of advertising, ANPA, reports. The gain in December alone was 155,000,000 over December, 1946. John Gresen, director, attributed this newspaper supremacy in the advertising field to timeliness and speed, market coverage, low cost per reader, quick response, flexibility and reader interest in advertising.

Spencerville Man Hit By Car Near Garrett

Daniel Gratz, 71 of Spencerville, who has been working at the Wm. Hill farm, located at the edge of Garrett, was struck by a milk truck Saturday afternoon on highway No. 2, a quarter of a mile south of Garrett. He was taken to Sacred Heart hospital, Garret, and he has a broken left arm and body bruises. His condition is not considered serious.

According to officers who investigated, the injured man was walking south along the highway when he was struck by the truck, which stopped. However the name of the driver was not obtained by motorists who stopped, but the license number is Indiana 38135. It is believed the truck is one which delivers milk to the Pet Milk Co. in Garrett. The driver has been ordered to report to the police station.

REFUSE TO APPROVE INCREASE IN SALARY

The DeKalb County council, in special session in the courthouse in Auburn Monday, unanimously rejected proposed increase in salaries for deputies in three county offices but approved all other items on a request for $14,173.65 in additional appropriations.

The rejected increases in salaries were proposed $300 yearly raises for the deputy clerk, deputy recorder and deputy treasurer.

The council gave unammous approval to an appropriation of $6,000 for reappraisement of real estate, records and plats required under 1947 acts passed by the Indiana state legislature.

Other items included $1,390 in additional salaries for county courthouse employees; $1,00 for repair of the county infirmary; $1,400 for expense of sale of the county owned real estate; assessor's office supplies $100; and $13.65 clerk's properties.

The approved appropriations will be referred to the state board of tax comissioners which will hold a further open hearing in the auditor's office within 15 days.

Save Little Fat Too

Many women think of saving used kitchen fat only when they have lots of it, frying bacon, for instance. But all meats have some fat, and bones and table scraps will yield a surprising amount when they are heated, and every drop is scraped into your fat salvage container.

OUR POLICY

Probably no word in the English language has become so abused as this word—SERVICE.

The United States of America was created from revolt against the process of demanding money without giving service - i, e., taxation without representation.

The fire of that first revolt has continued to burn with varying degrees of intensity ever since. The stagecoach, the steamboat, the locomotive, the telegraph, the telephone, the horseless carriage, the flying machine, radio, television and countless other contrivances have joined the procession of invention designed to give man greater service in human relations.

Unfortunately, wars have served to stimulate inventions of destruction which make man's lot more difficult and what is more, caused his relations with his fellow man to deteriorate. The attitude of "What can I do for you?" changes to one of "This is it! I don't care whether you take it or leave it."

The St. Joe News takes this opportunity to assure our friends that we shall maintain an attitude of "What can I do for you?" because we KNOW that the Golden Rule doesn't tarnish.

By EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

THE recent cold spell brought back memories of my boyhood, and how hard we used to work to thaw out the old pump. That condition is but a memory for many folks on the farms these days, thank goodness! Frozen water tanks, however, are still a problem for much of our livestock on the farms of America.

I often wonder how I would feel if I had to stick my head through a layer of ice to get that early morning drink of water. Warming water for livestock is not such a terrific task if we first consider the amount to be warmed.

If water is piped into the tank or waterer from an automatic pressure system, it's frequently possible to use a small tank, of three to five barrels capacity. The water level in the tank may or may not be maintained by an automatic float valve. Small tanks, of course, are more easily insulated, require smaller heaters and do a better job of maintaining ice-free water at a reasonable cost.

A well-insulated 50-gallon tank, with a hinged cover and a float valve, needs almost no attention, and can be kept ice-free with one or two 100-watt poultry water warmers.

Tests have shown that livestock make better gains when they are able to partake freely of warm water during cold weather. In these days, when we are trying to get the greatest gains for the least money, it is wise to put into practice all accepted money-making ideas.

4-H MEMBERSHIP DRIVE BEGINS WITH VISITS TO SCHOOLS

The County 4-H Enrollment Drive will open on Tuesday, Mar. 2, to boost the DeKalb County membership to an all time high of 788 rural youths. The membership campaign which highlights the observance of National 4-H Club Week will be conducted through the schools of the county by Mary Lenore Moore Home Demonstration agent, and C. R. Gross, county agricultural agent, both of the county extension service.

National 4-H club week has as its theme this year, "Creating Better Homes Today for More Responsible Citizens Tomorrow." An all out effort will be made to boost the present membership from 717 by an increase of 10 percent. DeKalb County 4-H enrollment increased 1946 to 1947 and it is hoped that the enrollment this year will be even greater. Last year 1019 projects were completed. The 4-H program was climaxed with the DeKalb county showing at the fair. The current membership includes 275 boys and 442 girls.

In connection with the 4 H club enrollment program three training schools have been held within the last month for 4-H adult leaders. Two were held at Plymouth, Ind., with A. P. Stewart of Purdue U. in charge of music and F. L. McReynolds of Purdue University in charge of the recreation section. The third in this series of meetings was held at Wabash, Indiana with Eric Holm and Joan Butler of the 4-H club department in charge of this meeting. There were a total of twelve leaders who attended from DeKalb County. Their topic was "Oiling Machinery in Preparation for the Coming 4-H Club Year."

The schedule of school visits in this area will be as follows: March 18th, 9:00 a.m.-St. Joe; 10:00 a.m.-Spencerville;

Standing still, it has the eager look of a pointer scenting game, so swift and flowing are its lines.

Sweeping by, it stands out unfailingly from the highway crowd, unmistakably a Buick and unquestionably the year's trimmest fashion plate.

But have you traveled in one of these tidy new beauties?

Have you seen for yourself how smooth and silent is its flow of power, how hushed and quiet is its ride?

This comes from many things. From Fireball power now Hi-Poised for throbless smoothness. From a Vibra-Shielded ride that is your ever-present protection against road-noise, body-drum and vibration build-up.

And it comes, in addition, from a brand-new development we call Sound-Sorber top lining.

It's a thick pad of feathery insulation much like that you use in your own home, and it goes into every closed model in our 1948 SUPER and ROADMASTER series.

This new lining cloaks your Buick in new and delightful silence akin to that of your own living room — silence that encourages normal-tone conversation, makes soft radio music clear and enjoyable throughout the whole car.

So you ride in quiet as well as beauty when you travel in this style star.

You find it a great-hearted lovely that is soft of voice and gentle of manner — a delight to the traveling ear, the guiding hand and the passing eye.

Don't just see it at your Buick dealer's—look into it with greatest care. The deeper you look the surer you'll be to see the wisdom of getting a firm order in now!

You shall have music— wherever you ride

Front seat or back, you listen to your radio at soft and undistorted volume in this new Buick. You talk without shouting, know freedom from rumble and din. Always cars of quiet comfort, the Buick SUPER and ROADMASTER step out still further with Sound-Sorber top lining—a Buick exclusive.

SPRING TUNE-UP FOR OLD AND NEW CARS

In outfitting the family for the Easter parade, don't neglect to refurnish the family car with a timely spring tuneup, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, reminded motorists today.

Young or old, the car will respond to a spring tuneup in terms of increased economy and driving safety, but the average car's increased age of nine years emphasizes the urgency of prompt spring conditioning, Mr. Hayes stated.

Testifying to the higher standards of maintenance work performed by the nation's shops, and the greater awareness of motorists of the value of proper care, is the fact that cars today usually accumulate a mileage of 90,00 and 12 years of service before they are scrapped, in contrast to only 26,000 mileage and six and one-half years of service in 1925, Mr. Hayes reported:

Thorough washing of the car with special attention to under parts is necessitated not only by considerations of vanity and pride in its appearance, but as vital protection to car finish and chromium parts against the corrosive actions of the sodium chloride or salt compounds widely used to protect traction on winter streets, Mr. Hayes explained.

Essentials in the spring tuneup include checking of fuel and carburetion systems, wiring and ignition, headlights, tires and cooling system.

"Sun Rise Valley"

By Dwight F. Steininger

Part XXII

Of course neither rain, flood waters, nor anything else could be allowed to interrupt Darrell Loman's plans for the regular Saturday night date with Karen.

Loman's sport roadster was one of many cars carrying their pleasure-seeking riders up and down the gay, brightly lighted streets of Boulder City. They passed but few of the city's high class night spots, but the night's revelry could not be complete without a spin up to the notorious Deer Run.

After drinking and dancing first with one partner and then another, Karen suggested to her half intoxicated escort as they carelessly danced together: "Let's get Sandy and his girl and go for a ride down to the Blue Star. It's only twelve thirty."

"Suits me," Loman said, as he cast his bleary eyes across the room looking for the sandy haired youth. He located him.

"Sure, we'll go anytime to the Blue Star, won't we kid?" Sandy responded to his invitation, turning to his black haired date. She nodded.

"Sure you'r allright"? asked Karen, as Darrell swung his glamerous roadster out upon the broad, three-lane highway.

"Sure. I can drive any time", Darrel boasted. Liquor doesn't get me that way. Old bean ----sound as a bell!"

Loman's half numb foot pressed the accelerator to the floor board, sailing his car down the highway at eighty-five on their way to the Blue Star across the river.

He managed to get his roadster slowed down enough to turn down the steep grade leading them out upon the bridge, when suddenly a horrified scream came from Karen, who was the first to discover that the old bridge was not there. Terrified the driver attempted to slam on the brakes, but missed the pedal. Instead he pressed the accelerator to the floor. Again his muddled mind tried to convey "brake" to the muscles of his foot, but as far as his limp foot was concerned the car had no brakes. On down and down the steep incline the screaming quartette were carried to the rolling, flooded river, looming darkly before them.

Realizing they were being carried to their relentless and horrible doom the black haired girl quickly pulled herself from the rumble seat and leaped over the side and down the steep embankment a few feet from the road's end.

Sandy Cummings attempted to pull his limp and paralyzed body from the rumble seat and follow her, but the alcohol had robbed him of his mntal and muscular co-ordination.

Frantically, Darrel Loman, who but a little more than a year before had turned his back upon God for the sak of his worldly lust for pleasure, now wrapped in the awful web of death, searched frantically for the brake pedal which he could not find. His car plunged over the awful precipice into the black, turbulent Red Rock River, carrying all the remaining three of it's pleasure-mad occupants to the dreadful end of "the way that seemeth right unto man".

A sober driver, who had no trouble in bringing his car to a stop when he discovered the old bridge was out, pulled his car up to where his headlights could give him full view of the precipice. With his flash light in his hand he got out of his car ready to stop any approaching cars until some highway men anl police could be summoned.

As he stood there wondering if some driver had already failed to make the discovery of the bridgeless river in time. he heard a faint cry coming from somewhere down over the rocky grade.

He focused his flashlight down to where the distressed moan was coming from. There, just a few feet below the road he found a blackhaired girl. Her bruised and mangled body was painfully caught among some snags and bushes at the trunks of some small sycamore saplings just above the flooded waters. He was hesitant as he crawled down to rescue her from the safety of on- coming car might depend upon his warning flash light. He waited but a few minutes when an approaching car from around the bend was flagged down and the much needed help was secured.

The bruised and battered girl was brought to the road and then rushed to Boulder City to tre hospital. Before losing consciousness she revealed a sufficient amount of information about the catastrophe. The names of the three who were plunged to their watery grave were learned and the fateful news was taken to their parents.

After the news was received at the Broadway parsonage, Dr. Foster, with his grief stricken wife, son, and remaining daughter, drove up to the dreadful precipice over which his daughter had plunged to her horrible doom. He stepped so near to the brink of the raging torrent that many of he on-lookers feared for his own safety as he stood silently staring out across the black ,boiling face of hte deep, raging wters.

Soon after the arrival of the pastor the Loman's arrived. Mrs. Loman was sobbing hysterically: "Oh, why did it have to happen to my darling boy, when he was such good boy? Oh my darling Darrel!

Jess Loman now stood with a stricken look upon his face, by the the side of his frenzied wife, just a few feet from the sad pastor who was practically a stranger to them.

The river was rolling so swiftly that to drag its bottom was an impossibiliy at that place. The police decided that it would be easily possible that their bodies could have been carried by the swift current for quite a distance downstream. Therefore the task of dragging the river, where it was wider and not quite so swift and treacherous, was begun.

Sunday morning found Dr. G. Benton Foster in his elaborate study after three long hours alone. He did not plan to appear in the pulpit, of course, for the morning service. His Assistant pastor had planned to take charge

It is not likely that there was ever such a prayer meeting in the Broadway pastor's study, to compare with the praying, weepng, repenting, confessing in grief and sorrow,that Sunday morning.

For the first time, the dejected minister realized that he had not preached a sermon with God in his heart since his deceased daughter was but a small babe In sobbing cries of regret and remorse, he confessed to God that he too had been led into worldiness. If only he scould relive the haunting years of his ministry which had been received with flattering demand by his pleasure loving church members! If only he could relive his life before his dear children, and before the hundreds whose souls had been entrusted to his spiritual care. Through his gushing tears he could see them, scores and scores of them, who had listend to hs eloquent sermons, seeking the bread of life and being sent away empty.

Oh, God, Oh! If only Thou canst forgive!" were the faint and closing words which fell from his pale lips as he buried his perspiring and tear-drenched face in his trembling hands.

For a longwhile he sat exhausted, oblivious to everything but his own grief and remorse. Then like sweet strains of celestial music from the majestc portals of heaven came floating on the wngs of the soft morning breeze the voices of his congregation raised on the old hymn:

Faith of our fathers! we will love
Both friend and foe in all our strife:
And preach Thee, too, as love knows how,
By Kindly words and virtuous life
Faith of our fathers! holy faith!
We wlll be true to thee till death!

With quivering lips and reddened eyes the heartbroken minister lifted his pale face towards the heavens above. Like a sweet calm aftr a terrific strom, with a serene and tranquil smile, his radiant eyes seemed to catch a glimpse of the smiling face of Someone in another world. And his ears caught the sacred sound of His voice whose gently spoken words brought the beginning of a new, fearless, Spirit-baptized, and fruitful ministry: "I do forgive."

The choir was droning out the last phrase of its morning anthem when the side door leading to the platform suddenly opened and the pastor entered. The congregation stared in utter bewilderment at their weak and tottering pastor as he slowly made his way to his chair behind the pulpit.

Never before has the fashionable Broadway congregation beheld such an incongruous sight upon the platform of their stately edifice. They had known their pastor only as an exalted, refined dignitary of rarest elegance. They had never seen him ascend to their Gothic platform on Sunday morning without his black gown and his Bible in his hand. But this morning he had neither.

The weary, but transformed minister appeared before his luxurious congregation exactly as he had left his study. His face was strained with tears, his lips were pale, and his eyes were red. His soiled and wrinkled light suit matched his uncombed hair and tieless, mussed, shirt collar. His haggard appearance caused his people to wonder if the horrible catastrophe of the early morning was more than his grieveing mind could endure.

According to the bulletin the offering and soprano solo were to follow the anthem by the choir before the morning message, but neither were in order that momentous morning.

The choir had scarcely become seated when the pastor stepped up behind the pulpit desk. With a husky but tender voice he began in calm composure a message the like of which the fashionable Broadway congregation has never heard. Those who had been most outraged at the sight of the dignity of ther holy sanctuary so desecrated and dis honored by the presence of their passtor in his present disheveled condition, soon forgot everything else in the world as their souls were gripped with words that caused to fear and tremble.

Every person in the congregation felt like a lost soul having been tossed out upon bleak sand bars of another world. The awful X-ray of God's judgment shot its searching rays like bolts of lightening through the secret confines of every heart before that message was finished.

The minister began by tenderly saying. "Our darling with two others are gone, as you have heard. We would call them back if we could but tehy shall never return. Of course you did not expect me to appear before you this morning. Such was not my intention until a few minutes ago when my soul returned from the bleak place where the worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched. It is to describe what I saw that I am here before you at this moment.

"I saw two hands lifted in torment. The flames lapped around them. They were beckoning for aid but I could only stand helpless. Those hands were once pure and innocent. Once they gently carressed the golden locks of her little dolls, but this morning " His lips began to quiver as he lifted his eyes toward heaven. After a few silent seconds the sustaining strength for which he prayed was secured as he continued, "I saw the hands of hundreds of others from my own parish among those flames. It was then that I realized for the first time that it was none other than I who sent them there. I had never warned them. I had never told them the way of salvation. Oh, if only I could recall the years of ministry but it is too late! Now all I can do is what I did a few minutes ago when I begged my God, before whom I was called to give an account, to forgive me for my whole past life which I humbly confess to you today has made no small contribution towards the making of the wicked and sinful condition of this great city.

"I have deceived you. I lied to you. I led you to believe your church affiliation was sufficient. I failed to warn you of the judgment to come. I remained silent concerning your sins for the sake of your goodwill and your money. I drank the social glass with you in your parlors. I smoked and played cards with you around your tables. I went with you to your ungodly amusements. I attended your dances in the basement of this church and smiled upon them with hearty sanction. I minimized the Bible in your pulpit. I have indifferently looked on while you with your sons and daughters and mine have taken the downward way without God.

"For this and much more, I humbly beg your forgiveness.

"From this morning the Broadway Church will have a new pastor, whether it is I or another, for I have been born again and have become a new creature in Christ Jesus. With a pure hear and a clean hand, I intend from this moment on to the end of my ministry on earth, to declare the unadulterated truth of God's Word as our fathers declared."

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

Many of us who live outside New York State think of this state only in terms of big cities and big industries. That is true but, also, it is a "big" playground for sportsmen with good hunting and fishing. We use this state as an example of what can be done in protecting wildlife resources -- under smart conservation practices -- in the face of advancing civilization.

The other day we happened across a report showing the record fish taken in New York State, and we were surprised at the size of most of the species. Here are the record holders: Muskellunge, 58 pounds, 5 ozs. northern pike, 46 pounds, 2 ounces (national record, also); walleye, 14 pounds; lake trout, 31 lbs; rainbow trout, 21 lbs; brown trout, 19lbs, 14 ounces; brook trout, 8 lbs, 8 ounces; smallmouth bass, 9 lbs; and largemouth bass, 10 lbs, 6 ozs.

All of these fish, except the lake brown, and brook trout and the smallmouth bass, have been caught since 1940. The prize brookie was taken in 1908, the lake trout in 1922 the brown trout in 1923 and the 9-pound smallmouth in 1925.

This is all the proof that's needed to show that any state, regardless of population, can offer its residents good fishing. Hunting, too, can be had in all states under good game management as provided by New York.

SHOOTING DEER: How far, would you guess is the average distance for killing deer in the United States? It's 113 yards! There is a great difference, however, from state to state as a recent report by the National Association shows. Here are some of the figures: Wyoming, 175 yards (greatest distance reported); Montana, 82 yards; Cal., 90 yards; Col., 165 yards; Maine, 83 yards; Michigan, 81 yards (shortest distance); Minnesota, 101 yards; Texas, 120 yards; Washington 83 yards.

"LOADED BOW!": We've heard of hunters being arrested and fined for carrying loaded guns in their automobiles; but the "loaded bow" is a new one on us. A Wisconsin archer is reported to have been fined $10 for carrying a strung bow in his car.

Maybe this is a good idea, for we are getting more and more archery enthusiasts every season, and they can take a crack at a deer or some other game from an auto the same as a man with a gun.

TRICHINOSIS

APPROXIMATELY one person in six living in the United States is, or has been, infected with trichinosis. The disease in humans comes from eating pork or other meat products insufficiently cooked. The cause of the disease is a small animal parasite called trichinella spiralis which is known to infect many animals. The parasite is killed by thorough cooking.

When living trichinae are swallowed they pass through the stomach without being destroyed by the digestive juices. They go through to the intestines and enter the wall and then are carried by the blood stream through the body. They lodge, for the most part, in the muscles where they go into a sort of sleeping stage. During this quiet stage, of ten to twelve days, the parasites form sacs or cysts in the muscles of the legs and arms and cause pain. In severe cases the pain may continue for a month or two. A reddish rash may appear on the skin, fever is common, and the face becomes swollen and puffy around the eyes. Sometimes worms develop in the intestines and produce symptoms such as nausea, vomiting or diarrhea. Occasionally abdominal pain is present.

Government inspected meat packing plants are required to follow federal regulations for preparation and processing of pork products, especially those which are eaten without cooking. Nevertheless, the best safeguard against this widespread disease is for housewives to cook thoroughly all meat, particularly pork.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Acts 8:26-39.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 67.

The Personal Witness

Lesson for March 7, 1948

Dr. Newton

DR. ALBERT SCHWEITZER, described by Hermann Hagedorn as "Prophet in the Wilderness," is a living example of what Sunday's lesson is undertaking to portray, namely, living for Jesus where you are. Schweitzer, at 72, is described by Hagedorn as one who "burns like Francis of Assisi, and looks like Josef Stalin." But to the people of Equatorial Africa, he looks and acts like our Saviour Jesus did.

The lesson passage is found in Acts 8:26-39, and is the story of Philip, leaving his very successful evangelistic campaign in Samaria to follow the lead of the Holy Spirit into the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert. There he found a man in search of God, and through his witness the man was saved.

THE STORY OF JESUS

THIS man was not of Philip's race. He was an Ethiopian. But he was a man. And God loves every man of every race and of every condition of life. Jesus never did meet an unimportant person, nor will any true follower of his. Jesus said, "As the Father has sent Me, even so send I you," John 20:21.

This man was reading in the Book of Isaiah, where the prophet was foretelling how Jesus would suffer for the sins of the whole world. He could not understand the wonderful words. And the Spirit directed Philip to go and join himself to the eunuch. Philip ran to the chariot in which the rich man rode, asking, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" He was quick to give his witness. That is the first lesson of the lesson.

AND THE MAN LISTENED

WHEN we faithfully obey the Holy Spirit, he enables us to effectively witness for Jesus. We cannot be effective witnesses if we rely upon our own wisdom and our own judgment. The boy in your street who does not know Jesus will listen to your story if you go in the same glad obedience to the command of the Spirit of God as did Philip.

A lad told me this story. He had a neighbor who had never been to Sunday school, and he wanted to enlist this friend. He thought about it seriously. But he was not quite sure of himself. And then he prayed, asking God to direct him. The next day the boy asked him, "What are you doing Sunday morning?" With this opening the lad invited his neighbor to come along with him, and the result was that the little neighbor, of another race, accepted Christ as his Saviour and is today a regular attendant at church and Sunday school.

TO WHOM SHALL WE WITNESS?

THE question now emerges, To whom shall we bear this witness? We cannot all go as missionaries, as did Dr. Schweitzer. Most of us must remain at home and carry on the work of our everyday pursuits of life.

But every Christian can witness. First, to those immediately about us. In every community in our beloved country are people who do not know Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord. We can witness to them, not to all of them, but to some of them, perhaps to one of them. And I would remind you that if you miss that particular person to whom you may be directed by the Holy Spirit, he or she may never know about the Saviour's love.

Second, we can share in the sending of the missionaries to earth's remotest bounds, through our gifts. I delight to think that I am in partnership with many great men and women on foreign fields, through my gifts and through my prayers.

Third, we can witness through personal correspondence with people in other lands. The present far-reaching media of relief for stricken peoples of the world affords a wonderful opportunity for this very witness. Ask your pastor for the name of some person your age in one of the lands to which your church is sending relief, and write that person a letter, telling of your joy in serving God.

The eunuch went on his way rejoicing. Why? Because Philip had taught him the way of salvation. He had been used as an effective witness in leading a man of another race to experience the peace that passeth all understanding.

And Jesus is saying to us today, "So send I you."

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of

GEORGE W. GILLIE

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON—Summarizing the activities of the 80th Congress since the beginning of the second session in January, George W. Gille, Fourth District Representatives, has declared that both Houses have disposed of a great deal of the legislative spadework necessary for the completion of major issues before the national convention of both parties scheduled in June.

Fiscal policies already handled by the House includes the overwhelming passage of the Knutson Tax Bill, and a slash in President Truman's unprecendented peacetime budget of $40 billion, he pointed out.

The Knutson bill provides for a $100 increase in exemptions; applies the community property principle to all states; grants a scale of tax cuts ranging from 30 percent in the low brackets to 10 percent in the higher ones; and grants special relief to the aged and blind.

Taking the first step in the Republican plan for reducing the President's budget by at least $2,5 billion the House Appropriations committee reported out the first supply bill for for some 20 independent offices, trimming the Administration's request by $56 millions. The committee was not authorized to cut $782 millions of the total approved $992 millions as it included $452 millions in federal aid for highways which is matched by the states, and $259 millions required by law for the civil service retirement and disabilty fund.

On other legislative issues increasing opposition is noted towards the President's demand for $17 billion for European aid under the Marshall Plan, or European Recovery plan. Both the house and Senate Foreign Relations Committees have virtually completed their hearings on this proposal. Debate is expected to begin in the senate around March 1st, while the time set for reporting a House measure is undetermined.

HOMES FOD GIS'—More than 1,000 000 veterans of World War II have obtained government assistance to purchase home since the program was launched under legislative action by Congress in 1944. A review of the loans granted by the Veterans Administration idicates that 540,000 home loans were made in 1947, compared to 410,000 in 1946, bringing the total since late in 1944 to 1,056,771. Statistically speaking, the average home bought by a veteran under the GI bill cost $7,300 in 1947, with four of every 10 buyers paying over $8,000, and one in 20 paying above $12,000. Of the 490,000 first mortage loans guaranteed during the year, 290,00 were for the purchase of existing homes at an average purchase price of $6.700, and about 160,000 were for new homes averaging $8,200. Nearly 35,000 veterans received consruction loans to build their own homes. It is estimated that 14,000,000 eligible veterans still have nearly 10 years to exercise their loan rights.

CAPITAL REMARKS—Time is costly: During the 12 seconds required to read this sentence, interest on the public debt of the United States gtovernment amounted to $1,902.50, or $158.50 per second. Nailmakers promised Congress there will be no shortage of nails for housing in '48 This is cold turkey: according to the Dept. of Agriculture the 1948 turkey crop will be the smallest since 1938, about 15% under the 1940-44 average.---In tune with the popular song, "Civilization, I'll stay Rigsh Here", come this item from the National Bureau of Standards: a Division of Atomic Pyhsics has been established to promote research and establish fundamental standards in the field of atomic physics.

Uncle Sam Says

What would you do if you learned that the worker next to you at the office or in the plant was taking home extra pay every payday and you could do the same? Your Uncle Sam needs only one guess. Well, the Payroll Savings Plan for Savings Bonds actually provides extra pay because it accumulates Savings Bonds for you which pay off at the rate of $4 for every $3 in 10 years. All you have to do is to authorize your employer to hold back a stipulated amount which he will hand back to you in a better form of money—money which earns interest —U. S. Savings Bonds. Savings Bonds are extra pay. For example, if you take part of your pay in Savings Bonds at the rate of $3.75 per week, the Bonds become $2,163.45 in 10 years. U. S. Treasury Department

Oldest American College

The University of Santo Domingo, founded October 28, 1538, by the Papal Bull in Apostolatum Culmine of Pope Paul III, is the oldest institution of higher learning in the Americas. The original buildings of the university were completely destroyed years ago. A new site was purchased and an extensive building program is under way on the outskirts of Siudad Trujillo. Plans for this new university plant are modern in every respect. Sixteen buildings already have been constructed and were dedicated last year.

Uncle Sam Says

Does a $1,000 in savings seem as elusive as the rainbow's pot of gold to you? Then, think about these facts: By joining the Payroll Savings Plan where you work and allotting just $3.50 a week for United States Savings Bonds, you will accumulate $1,440.84 in 10 years. Millions of my nieces and nephews are learning from experience that they can own an even greater amount of Savings Bonds through this partial payment plan. In the event you are self-employed, automatic bond buying is available to you through the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank.

LIONS CLUB

Carl Stallman, County Superintendent of schools gave a very interesting and enlightening talk to the St. Joe-Spencerville Lions Club Monday evening. Mr .Stallman first campared some of the methods of teaching in years past to the methods used now, pointing out the improvements made. He then went on to bring to the attention of the Lions the grave situation, of the shortage of teachers that faces America in the next few years. Mr. Stallman stated that the raise in teachers salaries did not produce the results hoped for in the way of inducing more High School graduates to take up the teaching profession. Especially, he said in the grade schools the shortage is and will be critical for the next few years. He mentioned also the tremendous increase in enrollment that will take place due to the increase in the number of births during the war years. Mr. Stallman's remarks were followed by a lively discussion.

President, Claude Laub, announced that the Lions Club has been chosen to handle the Red Cross drive for funds in St. Joe and Spencerville. Our quota this year he said is $450. The president appointed Lions Paschen and Duker to arrange the drive in the two towns.

TOTAL OF $4,339 FOR "MARCH OF DIMES"

Stanley Woodcock of Auburn chairman of the DeKalb County 1948 "March of Dimes" campaign, Friday announced the final report of this year's drive, showing contributions totaling $4,339.46.

The amount was $1,044.11 over the $3,295.35 collected in DeKalb county during the 1947 campaign.

Many of the county's smaller communities greatly increased their contributions this year, aided in the larger amount collected. Auburn added an addition $400 to the increase. Another source, not listed as a separate unit in the 1947 drive was the county's rural schools, where students contrbuted $228.36.

In only two of the cities was there less money collected than last year. In Garrett, where about $815 was donated in 1947, there was a 1948 contribution of $736.98. In Butler this year's collection was $451.05 against $456.45 last year.

Following are the amounts collected in the various units.

Auburn—$2,031.27.
Garrett—$73698.
Butler—$451.05.
Waterloo—$254.11.
County Rural schools—$228.36.
Ashley—$198.94.
Spencerville—$179.55.
St. Joe—$157.39.
Corunna—$101.81.

Mr. Woodcock in a statement to the citizens of the county, thanked them for thei refforts and all-out suppor tof the fund-raising drive of the National Foundation for Infantile paraysis and its DeKalb county chapter.

"The people of DeKalb county gave freely of their time, effort and money to insure the success of the drive," Mr. Woodcock said.

He expressed appreciation to the volunteers on the various campaign committees in the county and praised civic, fraternal and labor organizations for their co-operation.

"Through the effort of these groups and countless individuals, we have again asured the National Foundation's pledge that no infantlie paraysis victim in our community need go without the best available medical care and treatment and that research can be continued to solve the mystery of this dread disease."

HOOK & SONS WIN EASTERN EASTERN DIVISION TITLE IN SAPPENFIELD LEAGUE

Spencerville's Hook and Sons basketball team were presented with the Eastern Division trophy of the Sappenfield league, after they had walked off the floor with a 48 to 44 win over Dick's Show Bar of Fort Wayne, at the Baer Field gym Sunday afternoon. The two teams, both by losing one game during the regular season were deadlocked for first place, a playoff necessary to determine the champion of that division.

In the first round of the Sappenfield invitational tourney held at three different gyms in the Fort Wayne area; Hook and Sons defeated the Indiana Rod and Wire Co. team by a 62-47 score at the Spencerville gym Tuesday evening. G. Akey and Blaine Kimes tied for scoring honors collecting 18 points each.

LEGION DEFEATED BY HOOK & SONS; WIN FROM WATERLOO

Hook and Sons of Spencerville scored 43 points in the last half of their game with the Legion last wed. and walked off the floor with a 77 to 67 victory, their second of the year over the locals, in a high scoring duel at the Spencerville gym.

Spencerville took a slim 19 to 18 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the locals had bounced right back to grab another slim 35 to 34 lead at the main intermission. In the third quarter, Storer and W. Akey combined to lead Spencerville in a 22 point scoring attack while the locals were picking up just 8 points. W. Akey and Storer paced the winners with 24, and 18 points, Rollins and Roland Davis collected 17 for the losers.

Monday evening the locals bounced right back into the win column by thumping the Waterloo Independents 64 to 44 here at the St Joe gym. The locals held only a slim 29 to 27 lead at the half and the visitors had jumped into a 33 to 31 lead shortly after. But the locals bounced back when Roland Davis began to hit from the pivot, and were leading 45 to 36 at the end of the third period. The local boys continued their fine work around the basket in the final period. Roland Davis had one of his best nights in scoring, leading both teams with 29 point total. Bob Curie led the visitors with 13.

On Monday, March 22, the Hamilton Independents will be present for a single game at 7:30.

JOSEPHINE BAUGHMAN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Josephine Baughman, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Baughman, of R. R. 1, Auburn submitted to surgery Monday on her left arm which was broken in an automobile accident which occurred in East Auburn about 5:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The girl's brother, Donald, 21, driver of the car was slighty injured. The accident occurred on E. Seventh Street at the city limit.

Investigators of the accident reported that youth's car went out of control on the icy pavement when he attempted to pass another car on the highway. His car skidded head-on into a utility power pole. Damage was estimated at $500 to the 41 Oldsmobile..

NO PROTESTS AGAINST CHAIN-O-LAKES PARK

Legal notice had been given the taxpayers of DeKalb county, that a hearing would be held by the county commissioners, on Wednesday, March 3, at which time any who saw fit could protest the county sharing in the cost of establishing the proposed Chain-O-Lakes Park, proposed for Noble County. Not a single taxpayer put in an appearance.

Of the four participating counties, Noble, Allen, DeKalb and Whitley, ours was the last to hold a hearing. Noble County has delayed their decision until April, as did also Allen and Whitley. DeKalb has delayed their action in the matter until May 5th. The strategy of the other counties is to await Noble's decision, as the park will be located there.

Were the park the only consideration, taxapayers of this county would without a dobut veto the whole thing, but the taking over by the state of the east west road through Spencerville, which would be a feeder to the park, is also at stake, and in the end there would be considerable savings to our taxpayers Should Noble county decide to abandon the proposition, the $15,000 already raised in DeKalb county would revert to the general fund.

Decline in Wool

Domestic shorn wool production reached a peak of 388 million pounds in 1942. Since then, wool production and the numbers of stock sheep on farms and ranches have declined continuously to a level now 34 per cent below 1942. The number of stock sheep at the first of this year was the lowest in a record that goes back to 1867. Declines have occurred in all parts of the country.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

THE SCIATIC NERVE

THE sciatic nerve passes down the back of the leg from the buttocks to the heel. Pain along some part of the course of this nerve or its branches is labeled sciatica, but the cause of the pain may not be true sciatica.

Diabetes, certain kinds of vitamin deficiencies, some rheumatic condition or an infection elsewhere in the body, may be the cause of sciatica. Whenever the physician can discover the cause, its removal usually produces improvement immediately.

Some doctors claim that most "sciatic neuritis" is caused by a hernia of a cartilage-like substance lying between the vertebrae. This is called the nucleus pulposus, and good results have been reported from surgical treatment. Tumors can produce sciatic pain. Any disorder of the lower back can be reflected by pain along this nerve.

Sciatica is often an extremely painful condition which lasts a long time. It is important to get at the cause of the trouble and to remove or treat it. Even though difficult, this often can be done successfully; many people who have had sciatic pain have made complete recoveries.

STRONG ENOUGH

"Women are not very strong physically."

"Perhaps not, but they can put the cap on a fruit jar so that it takes a man twenty minutes to take it off."

Worth Enduring

The brilliant political writer, Raymond Aron, former editor of Combat, was defending liberty in a little circle of close friends.

"But, after all, don't you find that the abuses of freedom are frequently disgusting?" one of them asked.

"Because there are drunkards," said Aron, "you do not dig up the vineyards."

DAIRY DAY PROGRAM TO BE HELD IN GARRETT MARCH 16

More than 250 expeditions have been sponsored by the New York botanical garden since its founding 50 years ago. Garden explorers have brought back to this country many plants new to science in America, which have become of considerable value to medicine, industry and horticulture.

SECOND ANNUAL SPORTSMAN SHOW TO BE HELD AT ARMORY IN FT. WAYNE

The second annual Sportsman Show sponsored by the Fort Wayne Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held at the Fort Wayne Armory March 30 through April 4.

While the Jaycees' first production last year was acclaimed a distinct success by exhibitors and spectators alik, preliminary plans call for the 1948 exhibit to far surpass the original in, every respect.

Virtually all of last year's exhibitors already have reserved space and many others who missed the 1947 event have applied for reservations.

From the stanpoint of size, this year's show will be considerably larger. This is guaranteed by the utilzation of the basement floor of the Armory, providing additional thousands of feet of floor space for exhibitor displays.

On exhibit will be airplanes, big cabin cruisers and other boats of all descriptions, outboard motors, fishing tackle homecraft equipment, motorcycles, bicycles, trailers, guns, sportswear, and giant wildlife display. In brief, everything of interest to the sportsman will be on exhibit.

Although this phase of arrange- has not yet been completed, the committee is considering a program of entertainment that may bring a number of nationally famous sports figures to the city for the duration of the show.

There will be no advance sale of tickets for the exhibit. General admission tickets will be on sale at the door of he Armory during he week of the show. Admission prices will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, tax included.

There's New Glamour in the Way it Goes

TAKE the glamour of its tapered gracefulness for granted, if you will. One glance tells you it's tops.

Take an inside peek at its newly fashioned interiors—and see if you're not dazzled by the luxury that greets your eyes.

But wait—just wait—till you learn what makes this banner beauty run off with the year's high honors on the highway. Dollars to drachmas—you'll fairly itch to get in and GO!

For now your right foot commands a Fireball power plant that's as eager as a panther on the prowl—yet is so quieted in purr and pulse you barely sense its telltale throb.

Now you slip through traffic or light out cross-country as relaxed as a baby with his bottle—in a body that's bountifully big, cozily cushioned, and insulated against the usual noises of traveling.

Now you experience the first scientific system ever devised to shield a car's ride against road noise, shake and the vibration build-up that previously took advantage of an automobile's tendency to play sound box.

Now you ride the washboard roads and cobbles as though they were carpet—thanks to coil springs all around—plus extra-low-pressure tires, carried on Buick's own wider, more stable Safety-Ride rims.

And last but best, if a Roadmaster's your choice, you can enjoy the really effortless driving—in a new kind of drive that not only frees you of gear-shifting, but that doesn't even shift itself!

It's Dynaflow Drive*—a drive that's devoid of all halt, lag and hesitation through all speed ranges—because here, for the first time, the power plant itself does what gears used to do.

Fact is, you'll find the new Buick sparkling with more than a score of new advances—in ten brilliant models that span three series and give you your choice of three wheelbases and four power ratings.

So why dally? Here, certainly, is the dilly of the year for smartness and roominess—for the newest in driving ease and riding relaxation—and for all those basic bounties that are forever Buick's.

Place your order with your dealer now—whether or not you have a car to trade—and hasten the day when you'll reach those motoring heights you hanker for.

BUICK alone has all these features
★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series)
★ TAPER-THRU STYLING

Part XXIII

The fire-baptized pastor closed his burning message by saying, "As I humbly declare my stand this morning and look on the pathway of my future and yours I am not forgetful of the fact that four years ago when we came into your midst you called as your pastor a radical modernist with only a social gospel to preach. That man is no more, but is a new creature. I stand before you assuring you that our contract for the remainder of the year is not binding upon you. I sincerely hope that our changed ministry will be accepted, but if not, you may have my resignation at any time you desire it. I feel sure that I have spoken the sentiment of my faithful wife who has expressed often her desire to return to the old-fashioned way in which her father and mother lived and died.

"Now in behalf of my family, I wish to express our deepest appreciation for the many telephone calls offering sympathy and help at this time of sorrow.

"May God bless you, is my prayer."

Dr. Foster turned the service back to his bewildered assistant and disappeared through the door from which he had entered.

The flooded river had lowered until in most places it had settled back within its banks and the hundred acres at the rear of the Loman ranch for the most part was cleared of flood waters. It was Wednesday evening when Mr. Loman wearied with the unceasing moans of his frantic wife, decided to saddle his horse and ride back to the river. After tying his horse to a willow sapling he wearily made his way down the river bank where the high waters still were rolling not far below. There he stood, looking out across the muddy waters wondering where upon the rocky bottom of the rolling river the body of his boy and the two others might be lying.

The lowering waters were allowing the police a more diligent search for the bodies. One boat could be seen from where Mr. Loman was standing.

On down the bank the weary and sad father made his way when he suddenly halted and slowly stepped back with a gasp as his bewildered eyes stared in horror at the most hideous and gruesome sight he had ever seen.

There, half covered with mud and sand at the edge of a huge pile of sticks, weeds and leaves lay the discolored and swollen body of his own son.

The tears gushed forth from his eyes and he uttered a pitiful cry as he fell to his knees by the side of his cold and lifeless son. His weeping eyes were lifted to regions above as the hazy panorama of his dishonorable past loomed up before him. The picture before his eyes revealed many things he would not allow his mind to dwell upon before. He too for the first time realizerd that before him lay the supreme price which he was paying for his selfish, greedy, and dishonest life. He then and there realized that beneath the sky into which he was looking lay a two thousand acre ranch which he had gained dishonestly. He saw an aged, gray-haired man in a rickety cabin upon the mountainside, whom he had cheated out of alomost every earthly possession.

As though it were this morning, he could see through the haunted corridors of his memory, the old, one-eyed man who now was spending his last days upon earth almoost in poverty, because to help Jess Loman he had mortgaged his seven hundred and fifty acres ranch which he and his faithful wife had labored hard to secure. Jess Loman saw that moment the already aged Gerome Clark turning over to him the six thousand dollars he had received with but Loman's own personal note for security. He haa paid but about one thousand dollars on it during the years. He had remembered how quickly he had closed his newspaper and laid it aside and turned to a farm magazine, when he had read the notice of foreclosure of Gerome Clark's mortgage on everything he had in the world.

As the unrelenting judgment of God was poured out upon his tempest tossed and repenting, grieveing soul, Jess Lmoan bitterly wept and cried for mercy and pardon. He then lifted his tear-filled eyes toward heaven, assuring his Creator, before whom his condemned past was exposed, that he was willing to straighten his crooked and corrupt ways, at any cost.

With a clam and tranquill repose the father, over whom the Master of the sea had lifted His nail-pierced hand with his majestic "peace be still", gathered a few large sycamore body protruding from the rubbish, and mud, and slowly walked up the river to where a police boat was coming in toward shore.

With bitterness and contempt Sarah Loman railed wildly at her husband when she learned of his intentions which seemed to stir her furious mind more than the news of the discovery of the body of her own son. She threatened to kill Jess and commit suicide. She would have torn the universe into pieces if it were in her hands. Mr. Loman reminded her of the $5,000 they had never paid on the note plus more than $7500 interest which had accumulated during the thirty years and even more that must come. She saw their little fortune gone. She saw their $8500 mortgage would take their ranch. With nothing, they would soon be facing a cold friendless world.

Sarah Loman's railing threats, hysterical screams, and dismal moans of self-pity were at times very discouraging to the tired and tested man. His brother from down in Boulder City made a hurried trip to see him when he received from the frantic woman, a word of her husband's intentions. Mr. Loman was warned by his angry brother of the certain poverty and disgrace in which he would soon be left if he carried out his plans for bringing dishonor and shame upon the name he bore. But he refused to be turned from his purpose.

Rumors of the catastrophe had reached many throughout Sunrise Valley but Grandpa Clark had not learned of it until he reached the North Zion for Sunday school the morning it took place. It was the Rev. Mr. Stone who shook his trembling hand and broke the news to him as he sat in his old favorite pew in the "Amen corner" exhausted from his walk to church.

Evidently he was too weary to show but little sign of shock as the fateful news was brought to him.

It wasn't until the announcement was made at the morning worship service and request was made for prayer in behalf of all the bereaved loved ones, that the grim reality of it all began to grip his tender heart. With no feeling of vengeance, but with sympathy and pity, he fell upon his knees with the others and wept and prayed for the broken-hearted loved ones. After all the others has ceased praying, Grandpa was still calling upon his God. He finally closed the season of intercession and prayer with: "Oh ,my Lord, please let it all work out some way, somehow, for Thy great glory. This we ask all for Jesus' sake. Amen."

A great crowd was gathering for the Sunday night revival service. Mr. Stone was shaking hands with the visitors until time for the service to begin. He came to the front of the church to get ready to open the service when he discovered that Grandpa Clark was not present. The worried pastor stepped over to where Billy and Betty were sitting and asked them if they would care to drive his car up to the old man's cottage to see if something could be wrong.

Betty returned alone. She went straight to the platform and reported to he minister that hey had found found Grandpa unconscious in his chair on he porch. They had managed to get him inside the cabin and on his couch.

The pastor suggested she hurry a call to Shepherdsville for a doctor and then he called the congregation to a special season of prayer for the faithful warrior of the Cross.

The weeks that followed the disaster and the complete breakdown of Grandpa Clark were momentous weeks in Sunrise Valley as well as in Red Rock Canyon. A mighty revival stir was on at North Zion. Jess Loman began attending regularly and spared no means to declare and take his firm stand for god and right.

Dr. Foster was asked by his board to resign as pastor of the Broadway Church, which he did without hesitation or regret.

At the close of the third week of the revival it was decided to continue for another week and also to tend an invitation to Dr. Foster to fill the pupit. The invitation was gladly accepted. The announcement of the widely-known city pastor to act as evangelist for the coming week was received by many with a considerable amount of skepticism but he had stated but a few words that first Monday evening when all present fully realized that they were listening to a great man and were to have a great treat.

Like a long-captive bird released from its cage, Dr. Foster soared into realms of spiritual liberty and freedom he had never known befor.

The North Zion congregation was accustomed to hearing good preach-but never before had overflow crowds from in and around that church heard a demonstration of fluency and oratory delivered with such power and action.

Like sweet, luscious honey dripping from a hundred combs, the simple but forceful words fell from his eloquent lips. If ever there was an embodiment of culture, brilliance, and refinement set on fire with the flaming baptism of the Holy Spirit it was Dr. G. Benton Fostor for that week in the North Zion pulpit and for the rest of his earthly life.

It being necessary for the Foster family to vacate the Broadway parsonage, the doctor found it impossible to continue another week. Therefore the most sucessful, history-making revival the North Zion Church had ever known was brought to a close with a total of more than one hundred and eighty men women and children finding their way to God.

The Foster had not begun to pack their goods to move when they received a unanimous call to a church in Shepherdsville with a membership of one fourth the size of the one they were leaving. After prayer over the matter they were sure it was a door opened by the hand of of the Lord. The call was therefore accepted.

Meanwhile, the friendship between Betty and Billy depened. They sat togeher that afternoon in a pleasant, cozy nook beneath the boughs of an old oak tree with purple asters scattered about the green bank of the lively mountain stream.

Many times had the thrilled and happy couple seen the beautiful reflections of the sinking sun casting charming rays upon the glistening, snow-capped mountains, for it had those happy weeks but never before did they sit together beholding the magnitude of God's majestic grandeur and enchanting glory as they saw it that particular evening.

Their beaming eyes and seren thought carried them into the midst of a most sublime panorama of brilliant colors of fascinating beauty as they watched the white snow caps slowly transformed into a bright gold with light blue shaded sides blending into gray-purple and on into a deep, Marine blue, high-lighted with treetops of many shades of light green and yellow in the quiet valley below. Ten thousand fluttering popular leaves waved joyfully at them while the goldenrod and gentians bowed to their majesty in the cool breezes of that pleasant fall evening.

Billy Gibben turned his deep blue eyes toward Betty's kind face as she turned her brown eyes toward his. Words were futile to express their thoughts to each other, so they sat with hands tightly clasped, looking deeply into the faces of each other. They were completely lost in a little world of their own.

Hungering for assurance that she was not merely dreaming of a place in the heart of her brave friend, to which another might have some claim, Betty broke the enchanted silence by venturing, "Your exciting experience that night at Deer Run Tavern was very ineresting. Billy, I would like to hear more about it. That is, about Miss Huffman-- I'm sure she is a very lovely girl."

By JIM MITCHELL

We can't endorse "higher prices" for most commodities, but we do put our stamp of approval on increased license fees for fishing and hunting. The days of getting fishing or hunting at virtually no cost are gone, and the survival of our great outdoors, as we of this generation have known it, depends on more and better research and bettre wildlife management. This costs money and only from increased revenue from the sale of licenses can the money be obtained.

So it was with interest that we noted an item about Pennsylvania upping their license fees to $2.00. Also the tourist can buy a five-day license for the same price. Two bucks certainly is very little to pay for the privilege of having good fishing - - and a state like Pa. will use this extra income to keep its fishing above par.

Probably other states have increased the license fees for this year, but so far Pennsylvania is the only report we've had. And were hoping that most of the states think in the direction about hunting, and that the federal govednment decides on upping the Federal duck stamp to $2.00 with the additional dollar revenue going to enforcement of the waterfowl laws.

NEW TREND: With authentic reports coming from many states about lakes and streams being overstocked panfish -- and even other species-- it is interesting to watch the way conservation officials are adapting the rules and regulations to improve the situation.

Wisconsin is opening some lakes for longer periods of fishing and eliminating creel limits on certain species or increasing the legal take. Missouri has abolished the minimum lengths for 1948 on the black bass and the walleyed pike, known locally as the jack salmon. A fisherman in the "Show Me" state can keep everything he catches regardless of size. Creel limits, however, remain the same as last year.

FACTS N' FIGURES: Sandworms and bloodworms, used as live bait in salt water fishing, are the basis for a $250,000-a-year industry in Maine, where 200 diggers are employed from March through December. They sell for a minimum of six cents a worm. Naturalists report that it takes from two to four pound of fish (any species will do) to satisfy a muskie at mealtime. The potential productivity of most wildlife species is tremendous - - if conditions are just right. At its average breeding rate, one pair of grouse would produce more than 33,000 birds in only six years, if no losses occured; and a pair of deer would produce a herd of 3,000 in 20 years -- in the case of insects, one entomologist has calculated that, if all limiting factors were removed, the progeny of a pair of plant lice would crowd all other living things off the face of the earth in 12 years.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Acts 20:17-38; Ephesians 5:6-21.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Philippians 4: 4-9.

Christian Character

Lesson for March 14, 1948

WHO is the most valuable person in your community? In many communities it has come to be the custom to select the Man of the Year or the Woman of the Year, the idea usually being to name the person, through a process of sampling of public opinion, who has rendered the outstanding service of the year.

Dr. Newton

Sunday's lesson is a dramatic scene out of the long ago, picturing a community's tribute to a truly great man, the apostle Paul. Read Acts 20:17-38, and you will have the story.

LOVED AND HONORED

THE first impression I get from this story is the fact that these people of Ephesus loved Paul. They loved him enough to lay aside their work and hasten to the nearby seaport of Miletus to see him for the last time, and to bow down in his presence and honor him.

Why did they thus love Paul? Because he had told them about God. You need but read again the record of Paul's ministry in that important city of Ephesus to be reminded of how greatly he had served them in the name of Jesus.

Loved and honored! What a tribute to the worth of Christian character! Wouldn't you appreciate the tribute which they paid Paul as the goal out yonder to which you strive? Boys and girls of today may thus be honored tomorrow, if they will live for Jesus as Paul did.

THE POWER OF RIGHT LIVING

PAUL not only told the Ephesians how to live, but illustrated day by day in his own life what he preached to them. The most eloquent sermons are not spoken, but lived. "What you are speaks so loudly I can't hear what you say."

The boy and man who plays the game straight are putting into practice what the teacher and preacher proclaims on Sunday. The power of right living will win its way today, just as it did in the long ago when Paul witnessed for Jesus in Ephesus.

It was not easy to live for Christ in Ephesus, nor is it easy to live for him in Chicago or Los Angeles or Boston or Miami, but it is the one way to ultimately impress the world of the reality of Christianity.

PAUL'S CONSUMING PASSION

WE ARE what we are becoming, and never was this axiom of life more powerfully illustrated than in the case of Paul. "I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus," Philippians 3:14. And in Ephesians 5:6-21, Paul reviews the qualities of conduct which produce worthwhile character, admonishing all Christians to strive for these qualities.

"I live, yet not I, Christ liveth in me," is another of Paul's watchwords, and still again, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me."

It was the consuming passion of his life to embody the teachings of Christ in his words and in his works. It is conceivable that the people at Ephesus had come to see Christ in the life of Paul, and that his daily ministry in their midst convinced them that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself.

WHAT AM I WORTH?

THE question then emerges, What am I worth to my community? When I come to the end of the journey, will the people who know me best honor and love me for what I have done?

I can see the people of Ephesus bowing on the dock at Miletus, kissing this weary old servant of the Lord. It is a beautiful scene. This tribute meant more to Paul than all the gold of Ephesus would have meant. It was compensation of abiding worth to him. And what is vastly more important, it was glory to God which must have evoked the praise of the angels about the great White Throne.

On God's Word

John Wycliffe, in the introduction to his translation of the Bible into English in 1380, wrote as follows: "When the teachings of the Bible are generally accepted and acted on, then shall we have a government of, for and by the people." Four hundred years later the American republic was established—the first great democracy—and it was successful because the Constitution and the Bill of Rights were founded on God's Word.

Farm and Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

NOW that we're having an occasional day that reminds us of spring, it won't be long until the fields and pens boast of new scenes in the rural picture—new citizens of the farm world in the form of colts, calves, ducklings, fuzzy chicks and pink little pigs. And most of the new families require special handling.

Are you ready to take care of your sows and their litters? Agricultural specialists make these suggestions about preparing for the spring pig crop.

Pens need to be cleaned and scrubbed with a strong solution of lye water. After they are dry, cover the floors with clean, short, chaffy litter. As the pigs increase in size, add more litter. About a week before the pigs arrive, place the brood sow in the farrowing pen to let her become accustomed to her new quarters.

The last four to six weeks of the gestation period are very important in the development of the unborn pigs. Brood sows need liberal rations—containing 16 to 18 per cent protein, access to a mineral mixture and plenty of water—before and after farrowing—to insure plenty of milk. Keep the quarters free from drafts and don't crowd the sows or subject them to hazards from other animals.

You'll probably be keeping the sows and their pigs on pasture this summer — at least that's where they'll make the cheapest gains—so if you don't already have summer shelters, now would be a good time to construct them. Plans for these shelters may be obtained from your county agent.

By the time you turn your pigs out to pasture, they'll probably be at the weaning age, and it would be an excellent idea to have them vaccinated against hog cholera at that time. Soon after birth, though, they should be vaccinated against erysipilis if they're born in an erysipilis area.

Like Father, Like Son

Little Johnny brought home his report card, and with it was a note from the teacher. "Dear Mrs. Ostrom," said the note, "Johnny is a bright boy but he spends all his time with the girls. I'm trying to think up some way to cure him."

Mrs. Ostrom studied the note, then wrote the teacher the following: "I'm having the same trouble with his old man!"

HOPE TO CONCLUDE SHADES CAMPAIGN EARLY NEXT MONTH

Confidence that the "Save the Shades" campaign would be finished sucessfully by April 1, was expressed today by officials of the drive.

The transaction, officially converting the Shades in Indiana's 15th state park, will be made as soon as the financial goal is reached, according to Henry S. Wood, state co-ordinator of the campaign. He said approximately $25,000 more is needed in donations.

The Indiana Department of Conservation has been operating The Shades- - beautiful 1,452-acre spot southwest of Crawfordsville--for the past several months under a lease arrangement.

Wood said that only twenty county Shades organizations have made complete reports but that several additional counties are expected to turn their money in by March 15.

The popularity of Indiana butter with the nation's housewives was graphically illustrated last year when the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company purchased 69.2 per cent more of the state's output than in 1946.

Indiana buttermakers and their farmer patrons in 1947 received $3,395,993 from purchases made in the state by the food chain as compared to purchases amounting to $2,006,441 in 1946, according to an announcement made today by George Diehl, head of A & P's national dairy department.

The company's purchases of butter in Indiana last year were 4,897,875 pounds as compared with the 1946 purchase of 2,897,200 pounds.

"The consistent high quality of Indiana butter was a factor in these increased purchases in the state said Diehl.

It isn't what you pay—
It's what you get!

If you had to pay a million bucks for that baby of yours, you'd still be getting a bargain.
And you don't get many other bargains these days of high costs.
Except electricity, of course!
Yes, electricity goes right on being the biggest bargain in anybody's budget. The average family is still getting twice as much electric service for its money as it got 20 years ago!
One penny will light a 100-watt bulb for almost 3 hours.
Or whisk clean 3 tubs of washing!
Or run a radio a whole evening!
That little copper will vacuum clean 6 large rugs, run your refrigerator for 5 hours, or tell you the correct time for about a week.
It isn't what you pay, it's what you get, that's true. And when you buy electricity, you get a lot—for a little!

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1948 NUMBER 11

Former Spencerville Resident Dies

Simeon H. Mauer, Auburn real estate agent and insurance salesman, and former Spencerville business man, died at 11:25 a. m. Tuesday at his home at 1307 South Main street in Auburn, following a lingering heart ailment.

Mr. Maurer, who was born March 22, 1855, had been ill since last August 25. In October, he was confined for several days at the Sanders Hospital in Auburn. He passed away Tuesday morning following a heart attack.

For many years he was a prominnent Jackson township farmer, then opened an implement business in Spencerville. About 35 years ago, he came to Auburn where he was engaged in real estate and the life insurance business.

The body was removed to the Dilgard & Cline funeral home in Auburn where it will remain for services Friday at 2 p.m. The Rev. H. F. Craven, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Auburn, will officiate. Burial will be in the White City cemetery at Spencerville.

Mr. Maurer is the last of his family with four brothers and five sisters preceding him in death. Surviving are the widow, the former Mrs. Addie Patterson of this place and several nieces and nephews. His first wife, the former Mary Baltz, died in 1908. His second wife, the former Minnie Little, died in 1938. He married Mrs. Patterson May 21, 1944.

SPENCER TWP. HOME EC.

The Spencer Township Club met Wednesday afternoon March 10 at the home of the president, Mrs. Lynn Fisher, assisted by Mrs. Dale Wicoff, and Mrs. Leona Haupt. The meeting was called to order by the president, and opened by Mrs. Karl Hart giving devotions. Mrs. Joseph Baidinger gave the history of the song of the month, "Lil Liza Jane."

Mrs. Virgil Kimes and Mrs. Darwin Salisbury gave the project lesson on salads, giving many new and interesting ways to make new and and more tempting salads. A report Health was given by Mrs. Kimes. A delicious lunch was served to 20 members and 7 children. In a cake baked by Mrs. Vaughn Allen, Elizabeth Hart was fortunate in getting the piece with the button in it and will have the pleasure of baking the cake next month. A garden contest was furnished by Mr. Arbie Dwyer.

The next meeting will be held April 14 at the home of Mrs. Winifred Shook, with Mrs. Roscoe Walter as co-hostess.

PLANS UNDERWAY FOR DEKALB COUNTY AGRICULTURAL DIRECTORY

The county extension office announces that the Agricultural improvement Association, recently organized, already has a plan of work underway in the form of an agricultural directory to be printed and copies made available to all farms in DeKalb County and to all county extension offices in Indiana, as well as breeders of livestock and agricultural products throughout the state and adjoining states.

The purpose of the directory will be to adverstise agricultural products produced in DeKalb County. Five thousand copies will be made of the directory which will be good for two years, 1948-1949. In the center of the directory a county map will be listed showing the location of all the farms listing advertising. the cost per ad is as follows: $10 per full page, $6 per half page, $5 per third page, $4 per quarter page, and $2 if the individual wants his farm listed in front of book and farm located on the map. Free listing will be made of those taking advertising in the book. Individuals soliciting ads from farms in the county are Jay Sutherland, Fairfield Township; Ernest Kessler, Smithfield Twp; Lloyd Mason, Franklin and Troy twp; Claud Tuttle, Richland and Keyser Townships to Road 8; Lavern Stuckey, Grant and Union Townships; A. J. Moore, Wilmington and Stafford Townships; Frank Weiler, Butler and Keyser Townships to Road 8; Arthur Emrick, Jackson Township; Carl Perkins, Concord Spencer and Newville Townships.

Deadline date for listing ads will be March 25. Individuals wishing to place an ad in the directory may do so by contacting one of the solicitors or the county extension office prior to March 25.

TO the voters of DeKalb, Steuben and Lagrange counties:

I shall be a candidate at the May primary on the Republican ticket for the office of Joint-Senator for the above counties. I have endeavored to serve you honesty and efficiently Your support will be appreciated.

A Subscriber's Reply

(The following poem was received in answer to the letter, written by the new editor, which appeared in the March 4th issue.)

You say "Howdy" do you stranger -
So, we say "hello" to you,
Can we make a few suggestions
On some things we'd have you do?
We all take the city dailies
Full of crime and foreign views,
Why we take this St. Joe paper
Is to get the St. Joe news.

News about our friends and neighbors
Who are living down the street -
Like to read they went out Sunday
To their son-in-laws to eat.
Like to read there was a party
For the kiddies that we know,
And we'd like to have you name them,
Every Johnnie, Ann and Joe.

Too, we like to read of gardens
And the guy who tells us why
He had peas and beans and cabbage
By the first day of July.
And we like reports of robins
That arrive in early spring-
All these homey little items
That could never mean a thing
To the fellow in the city -
He would ask a great deal more
But thats why we take this paper -
That's the news we're looking for.

So, go get it, it's quite easy
You can get it if you choose,
If your going to be a printer
You must have a "nose for news".
Now, I know it stands to reason
You can't do this job alone
Tho' the news is just the distance
Of a person's telephone.

There are some who like to read about
What other people do,
But they'd drop dead before they'd send
An item in to you.
I wonder why, for these same folks
Complain when news is slim,
And often call the printer names,
And blame it all on him.

What an editor can do alone
Must have a limitation,
But if we work together
Using close co-operation
We can all send in our news bit,
Give the printer all our views,
And our little St. Joe paper
Will contain the St. Joe news

So, just get acquainted with us -
Make your life a part of ours
And you'll find tho' we throw brick-bats,
That we also throw some flowers.

Ad Chubb came into the store the other day and said: "I might just as well tell it; we've got a new baby up to the Chubb house, that weighs 11½ pounds." Its the biggest Chubb that Adam ever caught.

We couldn't imagine what made the wind blow so furious hard on Tuesday night, but when Frank Barney came over to the store the next morning and announced that he was the father of an eight pound baby, the matter was easily explained. Its a boy, and they said that Frank got so excited over it that he offered a man forty dollar a bushel for clover seed.

John L. Haverstock Injured in Accident

John L. Haverstock of St. Joe was injured early Saturday morning when he lost control of his car and ran into an embankment as he returned from an auction sale in Garrett. The accident occured on the St. Joe-Auburn road, a mile and a half north and three miles west of St. Joe.

The impact threw Mr. Haverstock forward with such force that he suffered two cracked ribs and a bruised lung. He also received several cuts about the face and neck from the shattered windshield. He was treated for his injuries at his home by an Auburn physician before being taken to the Sacred Heart Hospital in Garrett, where he is now recovering. He will return to his home some time next week.

The front end of the car, a 1940 Ford coupe, was almost completely demolished, the windshield shattered and the steering wheel broken.

St. Joe High School music students will have an opportunity for scholarships to the Indiana University School of Music through preliminary auditions to be held March 20 at the Ft. Wayne Center of the University. Similar auditions will be held the same day in East Chicago, South Bend, Indianapolis and Bloomington.

From the results of the preliminary auditions, a group of music students will be recommended for the final auditions to be held May 8 on the Indiana University campus, at which time scholarships valued at $50 to $160 will be awarded in piano organ, violin, cello, woodwind instruments, brass instruments, men's and women's voices. The preliminary auditions in Fort Wayne will run from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and each soloist should be prepared to perform from three to eight minutes. Factors to be considered in awarding the scholarships will include performances at the auditions, high school scholastic record and results of an auditory acuity test which will be given at the final auditions.

Judges for the Fort Wayne auditions will be Prof. Gerald Doty and Prof. Walter Robert, both of the University's music faculty.

Or Are Lights

An ambitious little group of amateur performers was bravely contending with the manifold problems of mounting a tableau bearing the ambitious title of "Noah's Ark."

"Now, how shall we illuminate the ark?" asked one anxious participant.

"Oh, that's easy," rejoined a whimsical member. "With flood lights, of course."

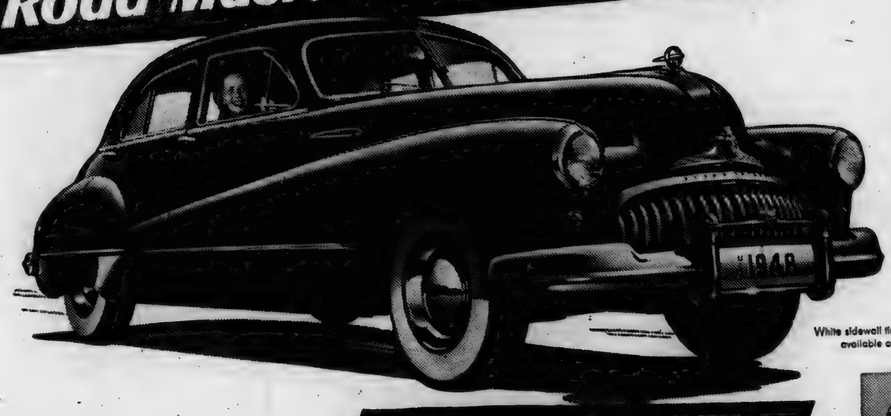
Road Master for a new reason



– Dynaflow Drive

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

PUT your mind's eye to measuring the makings of a truly masterful car – and you certainly can't overlook this one, especially this year.

Here you find the distinction of taper-thru styling–the regal comfort of an all-coil-spring ride, now newly shielded against vibration – the Fireball action of a great straight-eight engine that boasts the quietest purr and pulse in all motordom.

Already you have reason to grant that it sets a new measure of motorcar excellence, regardless of price. Now look at something where comparison ends – at Roadmaster's Dynaflow Drive.*

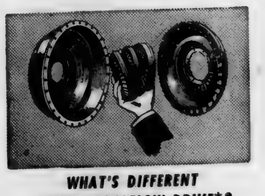
For no automobile drive ever developed makes driving so effortless, yet gives you such near-miracle performance.

Here you not only drive without a clutch pedal and without manual gearshifting – but also without any break in your Roadmaster's gait, as it accelerates between all speeds. That is because no gears ever shift anywhere in the car – not even automatically!

Here the power plant itself does what gears used to do – responding to the touch of your toe on the treadle through all speed ranges – without trace of lag or halt or hesitation.

So though you've already decided there was no surpassing the Roadmaster's super excellence in terms of its 4400 pounds and 18 feet of top styling, luxury and power – just boost your expectations still higher.

See the Roadmaster – try Dynaflow – and you'll find more reason than ever to get your order in – with or without a car to trade.



WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?

To an efficient new pump, (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

* Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

BUICK alone has all these features

"Sun Rise Valley"

By Dwight F. Steininger

Part LXXV

"Well, I'll say one thing," Billy shyly replied, "she was too good to have to go home with that red-haired drunk."

Have you seen her since?" She inquired.

"No," he quickly replied. "I don't suppose I shall ever see her again."

"Did you feel toward her, when you left her the other night like you said you felt toward me when you left the hospital that day?" Betty continued to inquire.

"Why, how was that?"

"Oh, you know -- like you hoped you coluld meet her again some day." Betty flushed.

"No, not a bit," Billy answered. "That is -- unless she needed more help to get out of Boulder City, but I guess she made it all right. I told her to let me know if she needed any more help."

"Yes, if there would be any help needed, you would surely be right there. I don't know what she would have done if you had not come along just when you did."

"Yes, but I happened to be there. I don't think it was any more than anyone else would have done," he replied, modestly.

"I don't think I can agree with you on that, Billy. There are not many who would have undertaken what you did that Sunday night, crippled, and with nothing but that litle pen-knife. Anyway it makes me feel very much indebted to you, and I same way."

"Well, I can tell you right now that you don't owe me anything--that is-- well -- perhaps some time when -- some time when you are sure that I'm not going to be wild and good-for nothing any more, and that I'm going to stay true to the Lord and --."

"And then what? I am sure of all that right now," Betty replied.

"Well if -- well, you know I have been real lucky just to be alive and be a Christian and then to have the priviledge of meeting you and knowing you like this--' Billy lowered his eyes towaard the rippling stream and softly continued," "but ,well maybe some time when you have known me longer and--"

"Well, after all, Billy, it has been over a year since we first met," Betty continued. "I have always felt that I knew you personally since Miss Lorraine, the nurse at the hospital told me that morning aboout what you did to save my life, and she didn't know nearly all of it. I have known ever since I met you that you were brave, kind, and unselfish. I know also that your father and mother and little sister are about the finest people I have ever met."

"I am glad you feel that way." Billy thoughtfully replied. "I didn't know anyone ever though about me like that. But Betty, I hope some time you will tell me that you care care for me in a different way than you care for anyone else."

"I don't see any need of waiting until some future time," Betty lovingly responded and smiled with most tender affection. "If you don't mind I would like to make that time right now."

"Do you mean that you are ready to tell me now that you really care for me differently than anyone else?"Billy affectionately asked.

"I do," was her loving answer.

After a little persuasion Grandpa Clark was taken to the Baldwin home where he could be given better care. As he was carried from his two-room cabin he seemed to realize he would never return. Though the old place did not hold for him precious memories, the likelihood of his ever returning didn't seem to concern his confused and failing mind. He was growing more and more anxious to be getting on to be with Jesus and his beloved Elizabeth in God's Sunrise Valley above.

Aside from the fateful end of the life of the young man for whom he had been so concerned, everything seemed to be heading toward a happy home-coming for the Godly old veteran of the Cross.

His one eye was about to fail him, but though he couldn't read his Bible any more, he could still pray. He prayed much for the new converts and the salvation of many more. Of course Grandpa scarcely ever lifted his eyes to heaven without praying that the Lord would be with his pastor in his venture to establish the Boy's Home which was already begun.

Betty had been reading her Bible to Grandpa .She closed it gently, placed it on the covers near his weak hand and pulled her chair around a bit closer where she could get a good view of the expression on the aged wrinkle face and said, "Grandpa, you couldn't guess what Bill told me on the way home from prayer meeting last night could you?"

"No, I don't suppose I could. What was it?"

He told me he felt sure the Lord was calling him to preach."

"That's just what I would have guessed," he happily replied.

"Yes, Grandpa, and something else: What would you think if I told you there is going to be a wedding in Sunrise Valley soon?"

"Oh," he faintlv chuckled, "that would dependd upon who is going to be married."

"You could never guess, could you?" Betty shyly asked.

"Let' see," h ventured, slowly, as though he had no idea who it could be. "There's Slim Boglin. He's not married, but I guess he doesn't even have a girl, does he?"

Grandpa turned his face, upon which was a slight smile, toward the beautiful girl by his bedside and continued, "It couldn't be Miss Betty May and Billy could it?"

"Well, when and where is all of this going to happen, daughter?"

"We are planning our wedding for a week from Saturday, but I don,t know whether we can get permission to have it where we want to or not," was her questioning answer.

"Why, where would you like to have it, manyway, that anyone might object?" the bedfast and almost helpless old man questioned?

"Oh, I don't suppose there will be any objection but of course one can never tell."

"Well, daughter, I would surely like to know where that could be," he insisted.

"Why that is no place else in the world but right here by the side of your bed and your permission is what I'm after now, Grandpa," Betty wistfully replied.

"Oh, well well," he chuckled again. "So tha't the place! Well you surely have my permission, dear. It's kind of you to be so thoughtful because I surely do want to see it, if I'm not in heaven by that time. You know, I wont be here very much longer."

"I am praying that the good Lord will leave you with us that long, and much longer if it would be his will," Betty said as she started to leave his bedside.

"Wait just a minute, Betty. You tell Billy I want to have a talk with him before I give my consent for you two to tie up, will you?"

"I surely will Grandpa, Well, it is about suppertime. I expect Ihad better get out in the kitchen and help mother. Now, you rest well until supper is ready and when Billy comes I shall let you have him as long as you want him. That is, if it isn't too long .He is coming over tonight," she smiled as she stepped out of the room, gently closing the door.

The morning of the wedding day rolled around. Grandpa Clark had a very restless night. The nurse in charge wondered at times if he would live until morning but about four thirty he fell off to sleep and rested until almost eleven o'clock, the time for the event which he was so eagerly anticipating.

Betty and Billy wondered about the wisdom of going ahead with their plans since Grandpa was so low, but the nurse assured them it would be very disappointing to him if they didn't go through with it, and that it wouldn't disturb him in the least. They therefore decided to carry out their plans for the wedding.

With his ever weakening and foggy mind it was somewhat difficult for the weary and almost paralyzed old warrior to realize just what was taking place as mother Baldwin was rushing around adding the finishing touches to everything before time for the important occasion.

At last the hour came. The Reverend Mr. Stone stood in calm repose near the head of the bed upon which lay the declining old saint of God, whose life and prayers had been such a great benediction to all who had ever had the privelege of knowing him.

Before the minister stood the most lovely and admirable couple he had ever united in holy matrimony. The charming bride, dressed in white stoood gracefully beside her tall, noble broad shouldered groom, as the simple but solemn rites were being read.

From each other's tight and affectionat embrace the united couple hesitantly released themselves as they turned their smiling eyes toward the pale and almost expressionless face of the pleased old saint on the bed by their side, allowing him with a faint whisper and fading smile to be first to offer his congratulations.

His feeble and tired hand fell back unpon the covers as Billy stepped back from the bed and turned toward the minister with something important to say.

"Mr. Stone," he said, pulling a large thick envelope from his inside coat pocket, "Grandpa would not give Betty and me permission to get married until I agreed to let him loan me the money to pay you for marrying us, He said he didn't think I had enough to pay what she is worth." After a hearty laugh from all in the room, except Betty who only smiled with a puzzled look on her face, knowing nothing of the agreement between Grandpa and Billy, he continued with a glance toward his bride, "Of course I agreed with him on that, but I didn't know how I could get him paid back soon if it were as much as she's really worth! He said I could pay it back by taking good care of Betty and by preaching the Gospel in the old-fashioned way like our pastor does. Told him I would do the best I could, and I accepted his proposition. Here is your pay for tying the knot for us." He handed the sealed envelope to his pastor and added. "Grandpa wouldn't tell me how much he was loaning me. He just said to ask you to open the envelope when I was sure you had done the job right, and we have no doubt about that, have we Betty?"

"Indeed we do not, but Billy--" she hesitated.

Well, thank you, Billy, and congratulations to and best wishes to you, Betty."

The minister smiled as he hesitantly opened one end of the bulky envelope. His jaw dropped with surprise when he took from it the largest sum of money anyone in that room except Grandpa Clark had ever seen at one time. When the hundred-dollar bills were counted the bewildered pastor discovered that he had received six thousand dollars for the short ceremony!

Fearing the old man's mind had failed and he did not understand what he had done, Mr. Stone protested, but Grandpa Clark raised a weak hand. "For your Boy's Home", he said, faintly.

Words were of no value at that moment to any in the room. The startled minister looked with utter astonishment at one and then another, only to be met with similar expressions of amazement. They had no idea the old man had that much money. He turned again to the silent lips and faintly smiling face on the pillow, but Grandpa Clahk had no explanation of the mystery.

Finally a few words were entured with a feeling that the gift was too great to be adequately appreciated at that time.

The jubilant but quiet wedding part had at last filed out into the dining room where a sumptious repast was prepared, and the guests could see the gifts of many kinds and descrption displayed on a table. And there were more last minute gifts to be opened, exclaimed over, and their donors thanked.

"Oh, Billy, look!" Betty exclaimed pulling a large aluminum roaster from its wrapper.

"Yes, isn't that nice, but look at this!" Billy answered, bringing several chuckles from around the table as he held up a rolling pin which had been neaty wrapped in a box upon which was a tag which read "To Betty Exclusively."

Betty picked up the last gift from her plate. It was an envelope like the one which Billy had just given to Mr. Stone. On it was written: To Betty and Billy with a prayer for a happy life together. From Grandpa Clark."

With tears of deep appreciation welling up in her blue eyes, she could hardly see to open it With her hands shaking a bit, she tore the end from the sealed envelope and found ten one-hundred dollar bills which had been paced there by the kind hands of the dear old gentleman.

Again words failed them as the overwhelmed couple looked deeply into each other's eyes through tears they could not restrain.

After they had again assured the many friends of their appreciation for the splendid gifts it was Betty May Gibbens who quietly led the way to Grandpa's bedside to thank him as best they could.

But Grandpa Clark was receiveing congratulations from his Saviour and ten million angels, while his own dear Elizabeth was extending her open arms of welcome. He was home to stay in God's Sunrise Valley above.

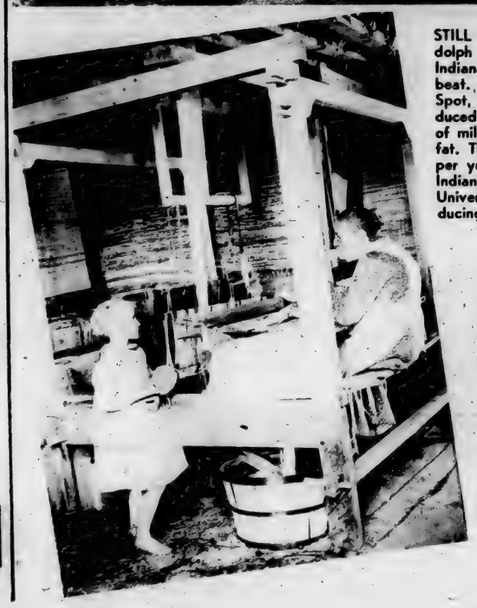
OUCH! George Held of Carleton, Michigan, shows Roy Taylor of Kahlbaum Bros. mill and elevator at Carleton an egg which was 7¾ inches in circumference by 9 inches. The ruler in Mr. Held's hand indicates the egg was 3¼ inches long. It weighed 6 ounces. Upon breaking the egg, another complete egg was found inside.

STILL GOING STRONG. Rudolph Koeneman of Allen County, Indiana, has a cow that's hard to beat. She's a 17 year old Jersey. Spot, in her 17 years, has produced more than 110,000 pounds of milk and three tons of butterfat. That's 3,300 pounds of milk per year more than the average Indiana cow, according to Purdue University. And Spot is still producing almost as in her prime.



ANCIENT LOOM. Mrs. John Rau of Brown County, Ohio, has for many years woven gay rugs on a loom hand-hewn from logs. On one post is carved "L. D. 1835", and though it has been in the family many years all trace of the maker has been lost. The ancient weaving device is so heavy it must be set up in a corner of the barn.

AGRICULTURAL WEED-NO-MORE

TRADE MARK

Proved new spray method requires only 5 gallons of water—or less—per acre! Saves labor, costs less!

Agricultural Weed-No-More now gives you easier, cheaper, and more effective weed control than has ever before been possible . . . in small grains, corn, flax, and pastures.

Use Agricultural Weed-No-More in only 5 gallons of water or less to control weeds on a whole acre! Developed by Sherwin-Williams Research, this new low-gallonage method has been proved on farms like yours.

Haul 95% less water. One man can treat as many as 100 acres per day. Use a simple lightweight rig that you or any local shop can quickly assemble!

NEW, BETTER HAND SPRAYING—for roadsides, barnyards, fence rows, ditches, etc. With the new Weed-No-More method you can treat ⅛-mile of fence row 10 feet wide with only 1 gallon of spray mixture

AGRICULTURAL WEED-NO-MORE

Costs less per acre because it controls weeds more effectively!

Agricultural Weed-No-More is a proven ester formulation of 2,4-D. The ester formulation is recognized by authorities as being more effective over a wider range of weeds and conditions than other types of 2,4-D. Weed-No-More penetrates the weed almost immediately, can't wash off, mixes easily, won't clog or corrode equipment, is harmless to stock.

warp's FLEX-O-GLASS

SAME HATCH—SAME FEED—SAME CARE

An 8 weeks test at Warp Brother's experimental farm proved conclusively that chicks under Flex-O-Glass averaged only 2.94 lbs. of feed for each pound of meat produced. And that chicks under common glass consumed 4.22 lbs. of feed per pound of meat. Flex-O-Glass chicks at the end of 8 weeks weighed 1½ lbs. as against 1 lb. for chicks under common glass —a 50% gain in meat on a 43% less feed. The reason for these sensational gains is because Flex-O-Glass supplies that mysterious Spectronic Supplement D—straight from the sunshine—which science tells us helps turn simple home-grown grain into meat and eggs quicker. Flex-O-Glass is inexpensive and easy to handle. Just cut with a shears and tack on. MODERN FARMING

Planning and Planting the 1948 Corn Crop

Success with the corn crop has never been more important than it will be this year. In 1947 corn took it on the chin from the weather with resulting yields nearly a billion bushels under the 1946 crop.

The short yield cut sharply into livestock production . . . sent prices soaring on meat, milk and other livestock products . . . and deprived thousands of Europe's starving sufficient food for life.

This year the corn crop must not fail! Though virtually powerless to control the weather, the farmer can do many things now to help assure a bumper corn yield. Some hints for growing a successful corn crop are pictured below:

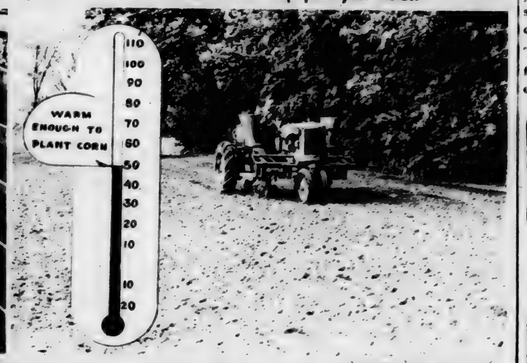
Free Farm Bulletins

A packet of valuable literature on planning and planting your corn crop can be had without cost by dropping a postcard to Farm Editor, care of this newspaper. Included in the kit will be the latest information on weed and insect control, mentioned below.

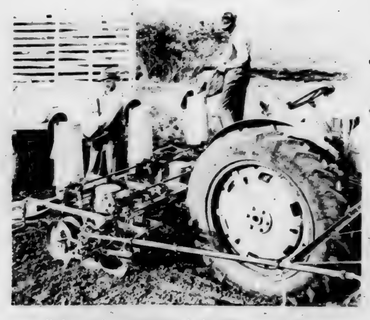
For top yields, use hybrid seed corn varieties bred to make the most of your soil and climate. Many seed dealers maintain local proving grounds like this one, where you can see how the different varieties perform. Remember, poor seed is no bargain at any price — buy seed you can depend upon.

Save your soil or lose your farm! Lay out fields to prevent erosion, and plan a rotation that builds soil fertility. Contouring and strip cropping on this Clayton County, Iowa farm help combat soil erosion and produce bigger corn yields. Soil Conservation Service can help plan your fields.

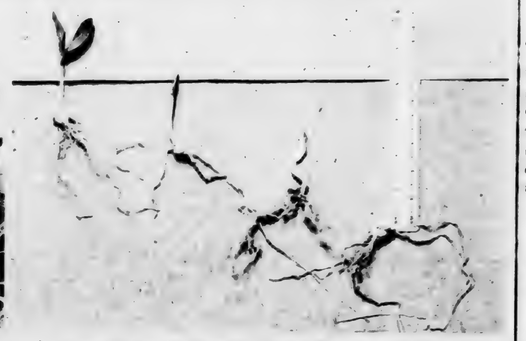
Use planter plates of the right size so that even round seed grades will plant accurately and uniformly. Wrong plate size may slow planting, drop seed unevenly, and result in poor stand.



Watch the thermometer for the best time to plant corn. Wait till the soil temperature reaches 55° F., usually about the middle of May in the cornbelt. Planting earlier, when the soil still is cold, often reduces germination, field stand and yields.

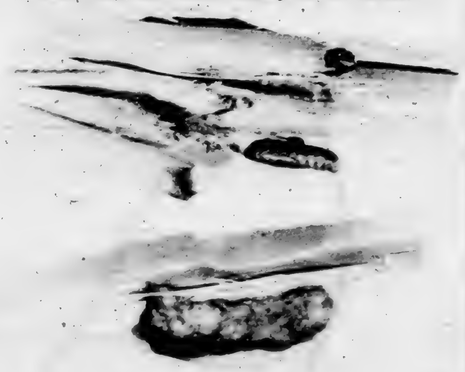


Balanced commercial fertilizer, applied in bands alongside the seed at planting time, gives young corn plants a head start on weeds, hastens corn maturity, improves ear quality and yields.

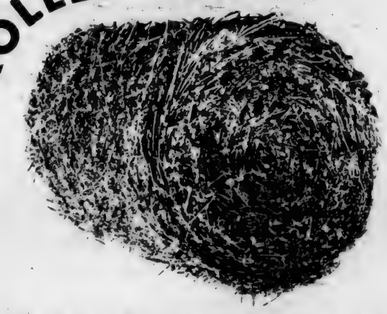


Years of testing by agricultural colleges prove deep planting reduces corn yield. Seedling at left, planted at one inch, pushed through soil and sprouted leaves far ahead of deeper planted seed. Seedlings planted 3 and 4 inches deep died before reaching the soil surface.

New, almost miraculous methods of controlling weeds and insect pests promise to help greatly in avoiding yield losses. The Kentucky field shown at the left was too damp to cultivate until weeds threatened to ruin the crop. Spraying with 2,4-D produced the result shown—four days after spraying, weeds are wilted and dying, corn untouched. Weed control with chemicals promises to eliminate one or two cultivations and by making all of the soil's nutrients available to the corn, to increase yields 10 to 20 bushels an acre. Possibilities of controlling the corn borer are almost as amazing. Spray with a DDT solution when egg count shows about ¼ of the egg mass in "blackhead stage", just before they hatch. TIMING IS VERY IMPORTANT for effective control. Use two quarts of a 25% concentrate DDT per acre for field corn, 3 quarts for sweet corn. Use combination ground sprayers, low gallonage or airplane sprayer. For further information on borer and weed control, see the free information offer above



ROLLED HAY....



THE BALE OF THE FUTURE

A weather-resistant rolled bale with leaves locked inside! That is rolled hay . . . a bale that for the first time sheds rain like a thatched roof. Once your hay is in the rolled bale, you breathe easy. It's safe from sudden showers. The bale unrolls in a wide, soft, leafy mat without shaking; can also be fed whole in the feedrack without waste.

The rolled bale represents a turning-point in haymaking for every farm. Now you can package your most important crop with the efficiency it deserves — using a low-cost, one-man field baler.

The ROTO-BALER

... Turning Point in Hay History

When blossoms say "ready" and the weather is right, that's when a one-man Roto-Baler pays off. Hay or straw is automatically wrapped with ordinary binder twine costing less than wire or heavy bale twine.

The Roto-Baler packages hay more compactly . . . in sturdy rolled bales that will not buckle . . . bales that store in less space and are convenient to handle and feed. Thousands of farmers from coast to coast are already making hay this better way . . . and like it.

TRACTOR RAKE

The ideal companion implement for the Roto-Baler. Power take-off driven . . . two forward reel speeds and one reverse (for tedding) . . . ball and roller bearings exclusively . . . controlled steering for straighter windrows. Farmers are saying "... just the rake I've been waiting for."

TIME FOR Cherry

DEEP DISH PIE

1 quart pitted sour cherries, drained
3½ tbsp. corn starch
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. almond extract
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tbsp. butter, melted
1 cup KARO Syrup, Red or Blue Label
(½ recipe pastry)

Place cherries in 9-inch deep-pie dish. Combine cherry juice (½ cup) with other ingredients as listed; stir until well blended. Pour over cherries.

Cut 9-inch circle from pastry rolled ⅛ inch thick; cut slits, or cherry design, to let steam escape. Bake in hot oven (450° F.), 10 minutes; reduce to moderate (350° F.), bake 35 minutes longer. Serve warm. For 6 individual deep-dish pies, use same filling but one recipe pastry.

The New Look in Foods

Canned meat takes on a "New Look" with mashed potato topping.

Right about now, most of us are mighty tired of cooking the same old foods in the same old ways. Cooking's a bit like our clothes—give us a new dress or a new hat and suddenly we discover new lease on life. Likewise a new recipe or a novel idea will give our dishes a new lilt.

Suppose you go down to the fruit cellar and bring up a can or two of fruit and vegetables and a jar of meat . . or dig a frozen chicken or package of frozen fruit and vegetables from the freezer and let's go to work. We'll try out some ideas as we would a new feather or ribbon on a hat . . . and behold THE NEW LOOK in FOODS!

Cream puffs filled with sweetened berries or peaches and custard sauce are a real treat.

Add a cup of blueberries to cottage pudding and serve with blueberry sauce made from the juice.

Then there's omelette soufflé . . . grease a flat baking dish, dot with large whole preserved strawberries, then pile the batter of your best soufflé mixture on top in dome shape. Bake in very slow oven (250°F.) for 15 minutes. Serve at once on warm plate.

For an unusual salad, roll canned pear halves in sugar wafer crumbs. Fill center of pear with balls made from cream cheese and ground nuts.

Rice ring with creamed meat . . . make white sauce and add contents of pint can of meat (diced) to a can of peas. Place two cups cooked rice in ring on chop plate, fill with creamed meat. Top with parsley.

Or perhaps you'd like to serve Mexican cubed steak; Chicken and asparagus Parisienne or Creole pork casserole. If so see the Bulletin Board.

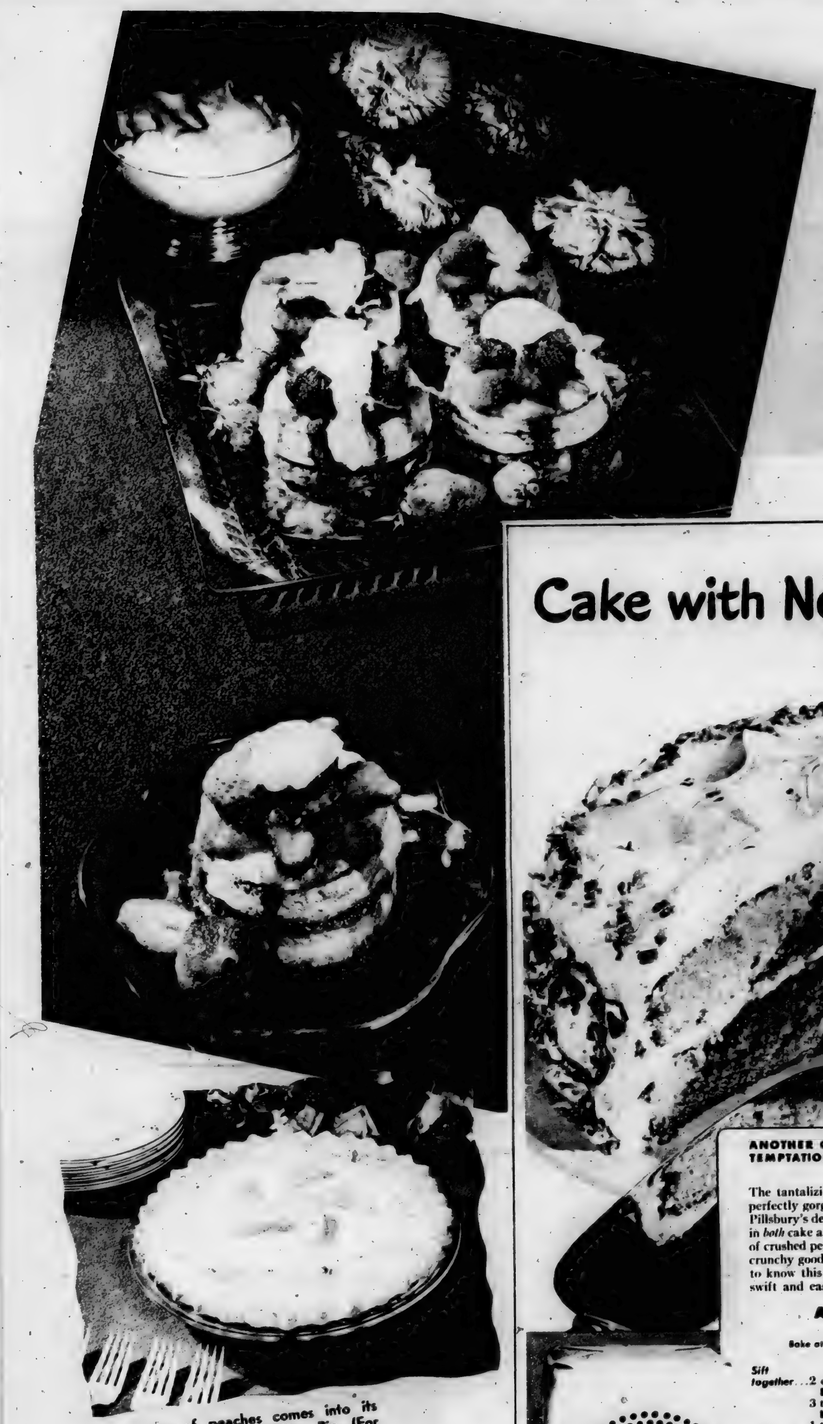
The Queen of Tarts . . . tarts are fun because there are dozens of ways to make them exciting. You can add fruit in a custard . . . . or whip fruit into cream. You can make a glaze and pour over fruit.



Featuring frozen berries in Strawberry Shortcake as refreshing as a breath of summer sunshine. Here's a good recipe:

2 cups flour
2 tsp. double acting baking powder
1¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup rich milk

Sift flour once before measuring. Resift with baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or two knives until finely divided and mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Add milk and stir about ½ minute until soft dough is formed. Turn out dough on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Pat or roll ¼ inch thick and cut with floured 2 inch biscuit cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (450°F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Separate halves of hot biscuits, spread bottom halves with soft butter and crushed or whole berries. Place other halves on top, crust side down. Spread with butter and remaining fruit. Garnish with ice cream or whipped cream and additional berries.

A can of peaches comes into its own in a Peach Chiffon Pie. (For recipe see the Bulletin Board.)

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1948 NUMBER 12

Spencerville and Leo Hard Hit By Wind Storm

School Buildings Damaged Heavily At Both Places; Dill's Bridge Aso Hit In Friday's Storm

High winds, approaching tornado velocity, ripped through a mile-long section at the west edge of Spencerville about 11 a. m. Friday, damaging the town's school building and numerous farm homes and buildings.

The storm, part of a gale that swept across Northern and Central Indiana in the wake of a tornado in Illinois and Missouri, ripped the roof off the high school building at Leo,

Four children were taken to a Ft. Wayne hospital and two others were treated at the scene by a physcician. None of the children appeared to be seriously injured,

At Spencerville, there was no serious injured reported, however several of the school's pupils received minor cuts by flying glass. Approximately 18 windows were smashed in the school buildings there.

The manual training building, located on the west side of the school house was hit the hardest. 16 agriculture students along with their instructor were in the buildings when the storm hit shortly before noon. Several of the boys were cut by flying glass. The small building was moved and twisted partly off of its foundation, and half of the roof was ripped off.

Elsewhere in the Spencerville area damage was likewise quite heavy. The Martin Walters, and the Roy Zimmerman homes west of the school were heavy hit, and roofs of both the houses were demolished and a new garage at the Zimmerman home was wrecked.

Damage to automobiles belonging to two Spencerville teachers, ranged from heavy , to the car beonging to Mr. Kagey, when a tree smashed into the top of his auto, to slight to the machine belonging to Mr. Wicoff, which was damage lightly by a falling limb.

Damage light in St. Joe

The storm was less severe in the St. Joe area, where damage was far less than Spencerville.

Dill's bridge one of the earliest landmarks of the community standing since 1875 was quite badly damage, when the wind smashed into the top of the old bridge and lifted it off, parts of it were strewn in the trees nearby.

The power was off in town until about 5:30 p. m. when winds tore down power lines both here and at Spencerville. School was dismissed in the afternoon, as about five windows were broken in the school building here.

Easter Greetings

Easter is a time of regeneration when nature is first awakening and building anew. The Savior who died yes and arose from the dead. Although our spirits are dead let us resurrect them and live again, we hope to live again in an enternal life,we accept the Christian spirit of love.

The Easter message of love is a loving God's promise of a Heavenly life after physical death and is a promise that life on earth could be more complete if men could extend brotherly love to all the ends of the earth.

Hull - Smith Vows Taken Sunday

The Methodist church of Waterloo was the scene of a very lovely wedding, Sunday, March 21 at 2 p. m. Miss Joan Ruth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin J. Smith of Waterloo became the bride of Mr. Calvin A. Hull son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull of St. Joe. Rev Harley F. Shady heard the recitation of vows before an altar decorated with palms, candelabra and baskets of white gladiolias.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Ned McIntosh presided at the piano and accompanied Miss Beverly Bickle, who sang, "O, Promise Me", "At Dawning" and "Yours is My Heart Alone."

The bride was gowned in camellia satin with lace yoke and long fitted sleeves coming to point over the hands. The bodice and full gored skirt were of satin; also the peplum which extended into a long train. The finger tip veil was of net and gathered to a satin tiara trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white Testament topped with four gardenias with streamers of white lace. The high neck line was accentuated by a gold chain and cross set with brilliants, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Dallas Myers was maid of honor and wore a nile green taffeta with long sleeves and long fitted bodice, a full peplum and a skirt. Her braided head piece and veil matched her gown and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow jonquils. June Smith, sister of the bride and Patricia Freed were bridesmaids. frocks were fashioned with wide shoulder ruffles, puff sleeves and fitted bodices, coming to point in front, and were yellow taffeta. The full gathered skirts and yokes were matching net. They also wore braided head pieces with veils of net.

Little Carol Nan Smith and Jemie Lu Jones, nieces of the bride were flower girls in camellia satin gowns with full skirts and puff sleeves of white net. Each held a small white basket filled with rose petals. All the bride's attendants wore gold cross necklaces, gift of the bride.

Roland Davis of St. Joe served as best man and Lavern Smith, brother of the bride, and Allen Haler were ushers.

The brides mother selected black and white accessories with her black flowered print gown and Mrs. Hull chose a black two piece moire dress with black accessories. They had corsages of white carnations.

During the reception held from 3 to 5 at the home of the bride's parents, those serving were: Mrs. Frank Shull of St. Joe, Miss Wilmet Hanes, Auburn; Mrs. Walker Kelley, Waterloo; Mrs Beryl Shaw, Monticello; Mrs. Thomas Smith, Winamac.

The newly weds left on a two weeks trip to northern Michigan. The bride changed into a tan suit with brown accessories and a quarter length coat of kelly green. Her corsage was white gardenias.

Mrs. Hull is a graduate of Waterloo High School and was employed by the Bell Telephone Co. at Auburn. The groom graduated from St. Joe High School and spent 18 month in the Army Air Corps. He is a telegraph operator at Sherwood, Ohio, where they expect to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs Hollis Knox and daughter Analee and Mrs. Loma Teutsch of Butler were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Holman. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Knox and Mr. and Mrs. Florin Knox and daughter, Patrula were afternoon callers.

BASKETBALL BOYS ENTERTAINED BY LIONS

Annually The Lions Club entertains the Spencerville and St. Joe basketball teams, and Monday evening was the time, and the Spencerville M .E. church was the place, when the Ladies Aid served a fine banquet to the club and their guests. After the supper adjournment was taken to the church auditorium, where president Claude Laub called upon the coaches to introduce the members of their teams, and Lion, Paschen then presented the speaker, coach "Bill" Milliner of Monroeville. The guest speaker in a pleasing manner their accoomplishments and with his wholesome stories, touched the funny spot of his hearers. He stressed the point that to win you must believe in your ability to triumph, and then have the heart to carry through. This holds true in an athletic contest the same as it does in the game of life, Coach Milliner, whose team made such a fine showing in the tournaments said the community spirit back of his boys was a big factor in their success.

Mr. Milliner will be welcomed back by the local Lions.

Legion Basketball Team Lose In Tourney Finals At Ossian

The St. Joe Legion basketball team after battling their way to the finals, in the Ossian Independent Invitational tourney, went down to a 75-58 defeat at the hands of Dick's Show Bar team, in the final game Saturady night.

Earlier in the day they had whipped the Bluffton Legion by a 61 to 54 score, to be one of the two finalist remaining of the 16 starters.

In the final game the Show Bar, more than equalling the locals in height,, got off to an early lead and held it all the way.

Have First Game Scare

The locals first game of the tourney with the Tocsin Independents, untill the final minute of play, had the most thriling finish of any game of the tourney. The locals had trailed the whole game, and just couldn't seem to get started, as their opponents were leading them 25 to 23 with the clock showing only 59 seconds remaining in the game. Roland Davis tied the score on an under the basket play, and then Rollins stole the ball near the center line, and dribbled the rest of the way alone, to send St. Joe into a two point lead. The locals again recovered the ball with about 20 seconds to go and attempted to stall the remainder of time. And then passed to Richard Davis on a wide open play under the basket, and had stretched their lead to 29 to 25 at the final gun.

In Friday night's game with the Starkrost's Grocery from Ft. Wayne the boys started of a litte better and led the whole way, winning 37 to 28

In the semi final Saturday afternoon the Bluffton Legion put up a very stiff fight, overcoming a 10 point lead in the last two minutes of play to draw up to within three points of the locals But in the last minute Roland Davis came through under the basket to cool off the Bluffton attack, and walked off the floor with a 61-54 win and the right to the finals.

Take 19 Trophy's and Awards

Although losing the final game the St. Joe boys took a good share of the trophys and awards offered in the Gold Medal Tournament. A large gold plated trophy for second place was awarded to the team.

Roland Davis and Jack Rollins of the local squad placed on the all tournament first team, and Gene Deiderich was given a place on the third tourney team.

Roland Davis, big 6 foot 6 inch center, also received individual awards for high scorer in the tournament with 71 points; high scorer in one game with 25 points, and most valuable player in tournament; while Gene Deiderich was receiving medals for longest shot made and also the individual sportsmanship award. All team members of the two finalists received medals.

NEWVILLE NEWS

The DeKalb County Brotherhood will have a meeting at the Newville Christian Church, Friday evening, March 26.

An Easter program will be given at the U. B. Church Sunday morning, March 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Tomlinson spent Sunday with friends at Coldwater, Mich.

The I. O. M. will have a rally at the Newville Christian Church, Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Walters and family of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Koeppe and family from Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Max Daub and family and Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Nice were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Koeppe.

R. E. Richard and son, William, are building a barn on the Drake farm near St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Daub and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hoff attended the funeral of Claron Daub, at Bristol, Indiana, last week.

Considerable damage was done here by the Friday storm; barns unroofed, small buildings blown down and trees damaged. But it was nothing compared to what Leo and Spencerville suffered.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Traxler of Hamilton, Indiana, spent Saturday afternoon here with his mother. Mr. and Mrs. Terry Traxler of Fort Wayne were Saturday evening callers.

Dr. Cecil Miller of Chicago was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Schram.

WHY

Ever have an urge
As the days go by
To hit some one
With a piece of pie,
Smack in the face
With an aim that's true
And watch the gooey stuff
Trickle down through?
Of course you have,
And so have I,
But why should we waste
A good piece of pie?

RETURNING CUSTOMER WITH MISSING ROLL OF BILLS GETS WARM GREETING

Ted Bowser, R. R. 1, Garrett, operator of a stall at the Barr Street Market in Ft. Wayne, is firmly convinced there are still some honest people in the world.

Within five minutes after he reported to the Ft. Wayne Police Department the loss of between $600 and $800 Bowser said that the money was returned to him.

Here's how it happened:

A customer came to Bowser's stall early Saturday and purchased a chicken and some eggs. The articles were put in two separate containers and placed on a stone shelf while the customer reached for his money

After the transaction was completed, the customer picked up his eggs and chicken and also picked up another sack containing the roll of bills.

He returned to the market and gave the money back to Bowser.

Bowser's comment was:

"And to think that he wouldn't even take a chicken and eggs that I offered him. That fellow is sure honest."

Ted Bowser will be remembered by many as a former resident of St. Joe having lived in the house now occupied by the E. O. Steininger family.

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of GEORGE W. GILLIE
FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

Congressional sentiment on President Truman's "war speech" of last week in which he asked for a revival of the draft and immediate adoption of Universal Military Training has been slow in developing. House leaders and many "on-the-fencers, have been awaiting reaction from back home before committing themselves to such a drastic course of action.

Telegrams and letters commenting on the President's demands began pouring into the office of Rep. George W. Gillie shortly after the President concluded his remarks to a joint session of Congress. With exceptions, Fourth District citizens oppose the Truman demands.

Many Hoosiers appear to agree with the opinion expressed by Rep. Short of Missouri, ranking member of the House Armed Service committee, who asserted, "I don't think the draft is necessary. I think there is a lot of hysteria being created. This is just a new crisis--one in a long series on which the New Deal has fattened for 16 years."

Congressional leaders probably will take no definite stand on the draft and NMT for several days. According to Speaker Martin, a leadership decision in the House will not come until after foreign relief legislation is acted upon next month.

WESTERN TOUR — Representative Gillie is now touring the Western states with the House Committee on Agriculture. Members of the committee, which is formulating a long-range program for agriculture, are taking the farm problems directly to the farmers.

Testimony from farmers and farm leaders was heart on last Monday at Denver and on Tuesday at Salt Lake City, and the committee will conduct its third hearing at Spokane, Washington, on Thursday. The final hearing of the tour will be held on Monday in Fresno, Cal.

Before returning to Washington on April 5, Representative Gillie is planning a brief side trip to Northern Mexico to study progress of the joint U. S. Mexican campaign against foot and mouth disease. He will be accompanied by members of the Special House Sub-Committee of which he is chairman.

FARM BULLETINS—During Congressman Gillie's absence, his staff in Washington is busily engaged in mailing lists of free Government farm bulletins to rural citizens of Northeastern Indiana. Bulletin lists are being sent to more than 35,000 rural route and P. O. boxholders in the eight Fourth District counties. If you are not a boxholder, you may obtain copies of this list by writing to: Hon. George W. Gillie, 1532 House Office Bldg., Washington, D. C.

BOOMERANG-Unless peace is preserved, Rep. William Lemke of North Dakota predicts that "war material to be shipped to to Europe under the Marshall Plan may land in the bodies of our own youth the same as did the scrap iron we shipped to to Japan." Rep. Lemke thinks it is only a matter of time before Italy and possibly France may go Communist.

Today's biggest power bargain

Pay as you drive if you wish

WHY WE CAN MAKE THIS OFFER

Out at the Buick plant, engine production is going great guns. It's stepping along faster than complete car output. So we have these brand-new engines ready to put in your car right now.

It's a Complete New Buick Engine and We'll put it in Your Car at a Price You'll hardly Believe

YES sir, here's a big bargain for Buick owners—a brand-new straight-from-the-production-line Fireball engine. We'll put it in any Buick from 1937 models on up.

We'll take out your old mile-weary engine, put this one in, and make your car brand-new again as far as power is concerned.

Pep and snap come back—right up to 1948 standards. You get new-engine mileage from every gallon of gas. Oil consumption drops. And you enjoy the thrill of the liveliest, most responsive engine on the road today—the same engine that makes Buick the snappiest car on the highways.

Think what this will mean to you—in comfort of driving—in new dependability—in sheer fun. Think of the extra worth of your car when it comes time to turn it in.

As to cost—it's so moderate it makes this change-over today's best power buy. Installation cost varies somewhat with car model. But we'll be glad to give you the figure down to the dollar if you'll drive around.

Don't put it off. Make up your mind to drive a 1948-powered car now. Come in and talk it over.

Quick Starts and Driving Zip

This 1948 ignition system with centrifugal and vacuum automatic control puts snap and go into starting and get-away.

Most for your Gas $

An up-to-the-minute, efficient carburetor and air cleaner give new smooth power and most miles from every gallon of gas.

A Delight to Handle

A "smoothie" if there ever was one! This new clutch with its easy, toe-touch response makes driving more fun than ever.

FLOODS AND ICE MAJOR PROBLEMS HERE LAST MONTH

Ice jams on the larger Indiana streams and near-flood conditions in many parts of the state were the major problems faced by the Water Resources Division of the Indiana Department of Conservation during February.

According to Charles Bechert, director of the division, "These conditions were the result of heavy rains which started about the middle of the month, followed by rising temperature which caused melting of ice and snow."

Lakes in northern Indiana were covered with ice ranging from 16 to 25 inches early in the month, Mr. Bechert estimated that melting ice caused an additional runoff equivalent to two inches of rain in northeastern Indiana.

Even so, the lake levels throughout the state show only an average raise of 0.53 foot for February.

Mr. Bechert also stated that observation wells, which were unaffected by pumping, continued their seasonal rise. In some instances the rise was as much as 26 feet. Meanwhile a check on Feb. temperatures revealed that the daily temperature averaged 11 degrees below normal for that period.

VAUDEVILLE ACTS TO BE PRESENTED AT SPORTSMAN SHOW AT FORT WAYNE

Vaudeville acts, motion pictures and attendance awards are added attractions for the Second Annual Sportsman Show at the National Guard Armory on March 30 through April 4, sponsored by the Fort Wayne Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Headlining the vaudeville attractions, which will be presented at no extra cost to the patrons of the exhibit, are The Oklahoma Kids, circus and stage stars, featuring their Australian whip cracking and Mexican knife throwing act. Other acts are Wiggles Royce and his singing duck, Effie Mae; Martinett and his Wonder Crow, and Jim Valdare, cycle acrobat.

Royce and his duck talk, sing and perform comedy tricks together; Martinett and his crow present an outstanding novelty act, and Valdare does a tramp comedy act on a bicycle. These performances will be staged in a special tent with a capacity of 1,300 persons which will adjoin the Armory, where the sports, recreation and hobby displays will occupy the ground and basement floors.

Movies on boxing, football, golf, baseball, hunting, fishing and other subjects will be shown at scheduled intervals from 1 p. m. to 10 p. m. each day of the show.

There is no advance sale of tickets for the exposition. Tickets will be on sale daily at the doors of the Armory. Admission prices are 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, tax included.

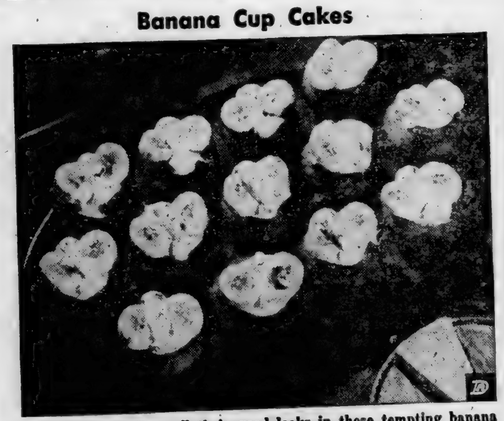
The number of parts varies with the type of locomotive and certain construction details. A recent actual count of the parts in a modern Pacific type steam locomotive showed about 25,000 parts, excluding the tender.

Banana Cup Cakes



Sliced bananas show off their good looks in these tempting banana cup cakes made with enriched flour for better food value.

Fruit variety is limited at this season so let's find different ways for using the "dependables" on the market. There are more ways than one to eat bananas. For proof, we offer these cup cakes with a real banana flavor, their fluffy frosting decked with two slices of the fruit.

The cup cakes are made by the usual cake method, with the flour mixture added to the creamed mixture alternately with mashed bananas and milk. Measure ingredients carefully, sifting flour once before measuring. Preserve the golden yellow of the cut bananas in the topping by dipping them in lemon or other citrus juice.

Besides good eating, the cup cakes boast of good food value supplied by the enriched flour with its protein, iron, and B-vitamins. The recipe makes a sufficient quantity to serve at a casual afternoon tea, or for after-school snack and dinner dessert.

BANANA CUP CAKES

2 cups sifted enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup mashed bananas
2 tablespoons milk
½ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, mixing well. Add orange rind, lemon rind and vanilla extract. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with bananas and milk. Fold in nuts. Fill greased three-inch muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Yield: About 14 three-inch cup cakes.

APPLICATIONS NOW BEING ACCEPTED FOR ENROLLMENT FOR PURDUE FALL TERM

Applications are now being accepted at the Purdue University centers in Ft. Wayne, Indianapolis, Gary Hammond, Laporte, and Michigan City, from high-school students who are planning to take their freshman year of regular college credit classes in the fall, September, 1948 at Purdue centers in or near their home towns.

High-school seniors are urged to contact the Purdue centers near them for applications or write directly to Purdue university in Lafayette. Applications should be filled in and returned immediately.

Purdue centers offer regular courses applicable to college degrees in the five major schools of Purdue, engineering, science, agriculture, home economics, and pharmacy. Classes can be had in mathematics, chemistry, biology, English, speech, and other specialized courses required by the university school in which the student enrolls. After the completion of two semesters of full-time college credit work, the student may automatically transfer to the Purdue campus in Lafayette to continue theiposofficetds mbulletins h

Freshman work given in the Purdue centers is equivalent to that given on the campus. Instructors are full time members of the Purdue staff, and courses are planned and supervised by the heads of the various departments in exactly the same manner as those on the campus. Classes constitute a full college class each week. Vterans may attend under the GI bill benefits.

University facilities both on campus and in the centers cannot take care of all students seeking admission to Purdue, therefore students wishing to enroll for the 1948 Fall term are urged to get their applications in now. Applications and detailed information can be had at the Fort Wayne center, Jefferson and Barr streets.

Registration for the spring term of the Purdue technical institue, offering a two year program of technical training for men interested in jobs in industry is now going on in the Purdue university centers. Full or part-time class work can be taken in this non-credit technical program of study, leading to the diploma of associate technical aide, after completion of two full years of technical studies.

in performance and economy... in ruggedness and reliability!

1 In the world's champion Chevrolet engine, the valves are located in the head of the cylinder, directly over the pistons . . . hence the name, Valve-in-Head.

2 Valve-in-Head design provides faster intake of fuel mixture . . . and quicker and more complete exhaust of burned gases . . . all of which contributes to better performance and economy.

3 Valve-in-Head design also permits a more compact combustion chamber; and this, together with Chevrolet's "Blue Flame" combustion, means more driving power for the pistons—less heat loss—and maximum economy.

Valve-in-Head engines are inherently easier to cool; and Chevrolet's individual cooling of cylinders prevents waste of power—promotes efficient operation—prolongs engine life.

CHEVROLET Automotive experts and millions of motorists agree: Valve-in-Head is far ahead because it gives an outstanding combination of performance, endurance, dependability and economy.... Chevrolet—master builder of this master motor—has proved this by producing more than 20 million Valve-in-Head engines during the past thirty-seven years—engines which hold the distinction of having delivered more billions of miles of satisfaction, to more owners, over a longer period, than any other power-plant built today! Chevrolet's World's Champion Valve-in-Head engine is another powerful reason why CHEVROLET AND ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST . . . another convincing proof that only Chevrolet gives BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

CHEVROLET and ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST!

DEVOTIONAL READING: John 14:3-6.

Eternal Life

Lesson for March 28, 1948

"THE Lord has risen indeed," and because he lives, we too shall live. Easter is the day that reminds us of this blessed truth—the truth of eternal life. Well has Henry Burton expressed it in these lines:

"There's a light upon the mountains,
And the day is at the spring,
When our eyes shall see the beauty
And the glory of the King;
Weary was our heart with waiting,
And the night watch seemed so long,
But his triumph day is breaking,
And we hail it with a song.

"He is breaking down the barriers;
He is casting up the way;
He is calling for his angels
To build up the gates of day;
But his angels here are human,
Not the shining hosts above;
And the drumbeats of his army
Are the heartbeats of our love."

BREAKFAST BY THE LAKE

READ John 21:1-14 for the exquisite account of Jesus appearing to his disciples in the early morning at the sea of Tiberias. They had been toiling all night, and had taken nothing. Bringing their boats near to the shore, they saw one standing there, "but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus."

Dr. Newton

Jesus told them to cast their net on the right side of the ship, which they did, and they caught 153 "great fishes." Jesus then summoned them to breakfast. He had prepared the bread and fish on coals of fire. And they did eat.

BLESSED ASSURANCE

BEFORE his death, Jesus had said to his disciples, "Because I live, you will live also," John 14:19, but they did not fully grasp the meaning of the great words. But that morning on the sea shore, they understood. They remembered that he had died on the cross, and now they were assured that he was really alive, for this was the third time he had appeared unto the disciples after the resurrection.

How happy they must have been! How happy we should be on this recurring Easter season, assured that he is alive evermore. And because he lives, we too shall live.

WHAT IS ETERNAL LIFE?

SUNDAY'S lesson leads us on to the answer to the question, What is eternal life? In Colossians 3:1-4 and 12-17, we have the declaration, "Your life is hid with Christ in God. . . " If we have believed on him — cast ourselves in implicit trust into his keeping — we have eternal life, which is his gift to every believing heart.

Paul goes on to admonish those who have "entered into life eternal," through faith in the riven, risen, reigning Saviour, to put on the garments of his presence and power and peace — kindness, humility, meekness, long-suffering, forbearance, forgiveness.

The evidence of eternal life is to be found in the fruits of the Spirit in our daily lives.

CERTAINTY OF ETERNAL LIFE

WE READ in John 17:3 this word of further assurance, "This is eternal life, that they know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent." And in I John 5:11-12, we read, "And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life."

In another passage John tells that we know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren.

Easter is the day of eternal hope. It lifts above the fog of earthiness the glory of the blessed hope that fadeth not away. We have God's own testimony that we shall live with him forever, through Jesus Christ, our risen, reigning, returning Lord.

Our Richest Treasure

The Bible walks the ways of all the world with familiar feet and enters land after land to find its own everywhere. Children listen to its stories with wonder and delight, and wise men ponder them as parables of life. The wicked and the proud tremble at its warnings, but to the wounded and the penitent it has a mother's voice. It has woven itself into our dearest dreams; so that love, friendship, sympathy, devotion, memory, hope, put on the beautiful garments of its treasured speech. No man is poor or desolate who has this treasure for his own. —Henry Van Dyke.

ST. JOE, INDIANA

Remember me?

About three years ago, you heard a lot about me when Okinawa was a big name in the newspapers.

I'm still laid up with wounds suffered there, but I'm coming along fine, thank you.

Besides, the Red Cross is helping me out in so many different ways, too.

It gives me needed advice on family problems and anxieties.

It provides me with recreation.

It gives me advice on government benefits and pension adjustments.

Best of all, it bolsters my morale—a guy needs encouragement sometimes.

I may not be a headliner now, but the Red Cross hasn't forgotten me.

You won't forget the Red Cross will you?

So give—all you can—to this great friend.

IT'S YOUR RED CROSS . . . KEEP IT GOING

Give Generously!

STUCKEY DEATH CAUSE REVEALED

The death of 21-year-old Hubert D. Stuckey, of R. R. I Spencerville, was cleared up yesterday, when Dr. A. P. Hattendorf, Allen County Coroner, revealed to Ft. Wayne police officials that Stuckey's death was caused by an acute heart seizure, early Friday morning, following a party at his rooming house in Ft. Wayne the night before.

The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stuckey, who reside on a farm near Leo, in Allen county.

Stuckey, an employee of the Salisbury plant at Ft. Wayne, became ill about 10:30 p. m. Thursday night, after several friends had gathered at his Ft. Wayne rooming house for a party. He lay down on a couch and retired about 1:30 a. m. A roommate, James Passwater, also from near Leo, noticed Stuckey gasping for breath about this time, and applied artificial respiration until a physician and the police ambulance arrived. Stuckey was pronounced dead at 3:05 a. m.

The death had remained at somewhat of a mystery, until the results of a laboratory analysis was learned yesterday.

Services were held Monday afternoon at the Walter funeral home in Spencerville. with the Rev. Reuben Cantrell officiating. Burial was made in the Leo Memorial Park.

Surviving besides the parents, are two sisters, Mrs. John Snelling of R. 2, Auburn, and Miss Joy Stuckey, a nurse at St. Joseph's hospital in Ft. Wayne, and two brothers, Glenn and Earl Stuckey, of Ft. Wayne.

St. Joe News, 1887

Wid Patterson dug a lot of bait and went fishing the other afternoon, but as usual came home with an empty fish string; after having got his mouth all puckered for fish he wasn't going to be beat out of them, so he went up toMart Tustison's and bought a dried herring and had it for supper.

Bill Smith says he saw a man over south of here the other day who is in bad condition. He says that lower half of his heart is paralyzed, and that some time his heart will quit beating for twenty or thitry minutes at a time. Where is that old badge that the boys had last winter? Bring it out and paste it on Bill's coat collar.

Dan Baker shot at a rat the other day and failed to hit it. Dan thinks if the rat had been at the end of the gun that he was, it would have been killed sure.

John Provines gave a free exhibition with his Texas pony on our streets one day this week. The pony didn't want to go and John was just good natured enough to let him have his own way about it.

We see by the Hicksville News that Wash Hart expects to get out 300,000 rubicond parrallelopipeds. What stumps us is to know what Wash is gong to do with all them Parrallelopipeds when he gets them out. They will eat him out of house and home in a short time.

Hank Reynolds talks of leaving this place about the middle of the month. Don't go Hank, we can't spare you.

If you want to get somewhere, and go in a hurry, get behind Billy Curie's mules. They make better time than the B & O. trains.

Ad Chubb bought a cow at Mrs. Carns' sale last week and undertook to lead her home, but the last we heard of them, the cow was leading Adam.

So many noted men are dying off that Mell Bishop is getting alarmed for fear that he may drop off suddenly some of these times. We don't feel very well ourselves.

The B. & O. Railroad sold out last week, for 16 million dollars. Hank Reynolds was going to take it in, but he had'nt quite enough change; just lacked a few cents.

As we were standing on the platform at the depot the other day waiting for the east bound passenger , Hank Reynolds, the popular agent at this place, came running out of the depot, and with a wild and sucidal look in his off eye, he proceeded, as we supposed, to throw himself under a freight train that was passing at that time. From the look of determination upon Hank's countenance we formed the hasty and awful conculsion that he was tired of the cold charities of this wicked world, and was going to deliberately walk out and lay himself down on the track, and let the cruel car wheels grind the beeswax out of him, but no, instead of that he jumped up on to a car loaded with coal, and threw off several large chunks, and then jumped off again as cool as a frozen cucumber. Hank was out of coal for the office and this was a plan he took to get a supply.

APRIL 16 NAMED AS ARBOR DAY BY GOVERNOR GATES

Proclaiming Friday April 16, as Arbbr Day in Indiana, Govenor Ralph F. Gates urged that "appropriate exercises be held in all the schools of the state and that the purpose of this day be emphasized by the planting of trees and shrubbery."

The Indiana Department of Conservation followed the Governor's proclamation with an announcement that Division of Forestry speakers would make a number of Arbor Day talks in the state this month.

"For over a half a century, Indiana has each year proclaimed and celebrated a day dedicated to the expression of our love of trees, and the encouragement of tree planting. Now Arbor Day has come to have a special significance. Indiana, an important center of one of the world's finest hardwood producing areas, could become a 'have not' state in timber resources. with five trees going to every three growing, we already import 85 percent of our timber. A half-billion dollar annual payroll in wood-working industries is involved. Industrial and domestic construction suffer from a dearth of suitable lumber. We need one new acre of forest in Indiana for every five we have now.

Mrs. Joseph Robinson and childrent went to Warsaw, Friday evening and visited her parents. Mr. Robinson joined them on Sunday, all returning to St. Joe in the evening.

Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Woodcox, were Mrs. Woodcox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Boone, of Hicksville, Ohio.

Rev Steininger has resigned as pastor of the Church of the Nazarene at Butler and will devote all his time to the Visual Art Co., a new concern recently organized at Butler. Rev. Steininger is a brother of E. O. Steininger of this place.

More G.I. Farm Families

At the start of the year there were more than 27 million people on farms in this country. Men returning to farms from the armed forces have been the biggest addition to farm population in the last two years. About 1,250,000 more returned to farms from the armed forces during this period than left farms to enter the forces.

NATION CELEBRATES ARMY DAY ON TUESDAY, APRIL 6

Enthusiastic preparations are being made for the nation-wide observance of Army Day on Tuesday, April 6.

In 1948 will be the twentieth annual celebration of Army Day which first was instituted in 1928 by the Military Order of World Wars and authorized officially in 1937 by a concurrent resolution of the Seventy-fifth Congress.

The observance was formally proclaimed by President Truman who called upon the American people to "accord appropriate recognition to our Army, which throughout our history has preserved our way of life by conspicuous skill and gallantry."

"In these critical times, I urge my fellow citizens to remember that an alert and ready America is a mighty power for peace and a beacon of hope to the peoples of the world who would be free. If our soldiers who are on duty in foreign lands are to represent American democracy proudly and successfully, they must know that they have the wholehearted support of our people. I therefore commend to all Americans appropriate and sympathetic observance of Army Day as a token of special honor to the soldiers and veterans of our Army, at home and in foreign lands."

STATE NOW PLACING SIX THOUSAND TROUT IN HOOSIER WATERS

The annual spring planting of trout in Hoosier waters is nearing completion, according to John H. Nigh, director of the Indiana Department of Conservation.

Under a contract with the National Fish and Wildlife Service, the department is now hauling 6,000 trout to Indiana from the federal fish hatchery at Neosha, Mo. The majority of these trout are rainbows 8 to 12 inches longe.

Eight round trips to Missouri are required by the Conservation Department's special truck, equipped with tanks and circulating water, to bring these fish to Indiana. The Department obtains the trout by paying the feed and transportation costs.

Most of these trout are planted in northern Indiana where the water temperature is more suitable for the species.

Experimental plantings, started last year in central and southern Indiana, again are being made to determine if the trout will survive there.

These fish now are doing nicely in the cooler streams of northern Indiana. Donald R. Hughes, state Fish and Game director, said his office has received reports of trout catches ranging as high as seven and nine pounds.

The Indiana opent trout season runs from May 1 to August 31, both dates inclusive. Hoosier anglers have obtained considerable sport from the Department of Conservation's policy of obtaining these trout and planting them in state waters. Most of the fish go into streams but plantings are being made in a few lakes.

TIME?

And Time there is
But none can say
That Time will be
It is but now,
Part of today,
That Time is here
For you and me.

Sure, Time there was
To use the same
With good acclaim
We needs must do
Our very best
When we've done all
Though great or small,
Our Master then
Will do the rest.

'Tis but in life
When it is rife
That there is aught
That we can do.
Life short or long
With self or throng
Is when we mould
Our future due.

So, think and do
In life all through
The things you know
Will win the race.
For when life's o'er
There is no more
Of Time, to choose
Our future place.

You've gotta be fair to the Truman Administration! Under the last G. O. P. regime you could do without a pound of butter and a pound of steak and you'd save about 98 cents. Today you can do without 'em and save $1.46.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

MUMPS

MUMPS, one of the most common contagious diseases, is of little consequence in childhood, but may be of considerable severity and importance in adults. Because of this, it is certainly preferable that children exposed to mumps be allowed to contract it. Immunity thus established in youth will prevent a serious disease in adults.

Mumps is due to a filterable virus involving the parotid glands. In addition to swelling of the face about the ears, pain and fever in varying degrees usually accompany the swelling during the first few days. The virus often travels through the blood channels and may involve other glands or structures of the body, such as the testicles or ovaries, the central nervous system, the pancreas, et cetera.

Transmission of mumps is usually by direct contact, probably by droplet infection from contaminated saliva. The average incubation period of mumps is eighteen days, although the period may vary in either direction. During the early part of the incubation period the disease is not contagious. Contagiousness lasts about nine days.

Treatment of mumps is essentially a nursing problem. If fever is present, the patient should be kept in bed. If there is pain or difficulty in swallowing, the diet should be liquid or soft foods consisting of milk, soup, ice cream, puddings, et cetera. Children often have no discomfort, and may be allowed full diets if they wish.

MOTORISTS WARNED ABOUT WET BRAKES

Motorist leaving flooded areas or driving through heavy rainstorms should test their brakes before re-Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club, cautioned today.

Explaining that wet brak bands often render brakes partially or totally useless, Mr. Hayes said that this temporay condition could be corrected by repeatedly applying the brakes gently while driving at slow speeds. The resulting heat from the friction produced would dry the bands, restoring the brakes to normal usefulness, he said.

SPORTSCOPE By JOE MAHONEY

It's NO. 1 on the "It" Parade

It's much the same way with cars as with people.

Some "have it" — some don't.

Some you go for, all out — without quite being able to lay a finger on why. And those — well, they usually become your firmest friends.

What is it that makes so many good folks say this trim honey's "got it"? Good looks? One has to admit it's nice to ride in a car that is unmistakably itself and not just a slightly modified version of something else.

Size, weight? Well, the polls tell us it's a pretty important factor since, if you like an automobile that does things, there just is no substitute for brawn and solid substance.

Power? Naturally. You can't sit long behind this big Fireball straight-eight without falling for it plenty hard.

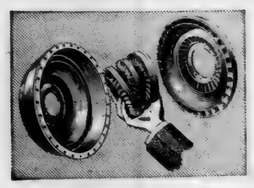
Handling? Ride? Room? They all have their avid fans among Buick owners. Especially now with a completely new kind of engine mounting ironing out vibration build-up as never before, and in this Convertible model, with automatic top, door-window and front-seat adjustment.

Is it the wonderful new Dynaflow Drive* that's causing so much talk?

In ROADMASTER models that is certainly a big factor. You'll never know how silky smooth a drive can be — what fluent new ease there is to all your going — till you drive the car where liquid replaces both the clutch and first, second and high gears.

But as nearly as we can find out — and we talk to a lot of people — it isn't any one thing that puts Buick at the top of the "it" parade. It's the over-all richness of this honey in all the things you've dreamed of finding wrapped in an automobile.

Ask any friend who drives a Buick — then see your dealer and get a firm order in, with or without a car to trade.



WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

ANNOUNCES CONTESTS IN SOIL CONSERVATION

Major soil conservation contests to be held during the coming season are called to the attention of Hoosier farmers and 4-H club members by R. O. Cole, extension soil conservationis in observation of Soil Conservation Week in Indiana, April 5-12.

A current contest, which will culminate during Soil Conservation Week with announcement of winners, is the essay contest for school children throughout the state, sponsored by the Indianapolis News. More than 5000 essays were entered last year.

Members of 4-H clubs who are carrying on various soil conservation practices are eligible to compete in the contest conducted by the Purdue University 4-H club office, the National 4-H Club Committee, and sponsored by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

Prizes consist of eight national awards of college scholarships valued at $200 each, 16 sectional awards in the form of educational trips to the National Club Congress held in Chicago in December, and six $50 Savings Bonds. Each county contestant receives a gold filled medal of honor.

The Five Acre Corn contest sponsored by the Indiana Corn Growers' Association gives recognition to the highest yield of corn in the contour division. A loving cup is awarded to the winner by the personnell of the Soil Conservation Service, on a challengebasis. The corn must be produced on land having at least a two percent slope. Cole advises planting field to be entered in the Five Acre contest, on the contour, thereby, permitting the grower to be elgible for this award.

A state terracing contest will be held in August, the host county to be annuonced later. The contest was held in Knox County last year and for several years local contests have been held in that county.

DEKALB COUNTY TO RECEIVE WLS AWARD OF MERIT

DeKalb County, as one of 34 Indiana counties will receive the Prairie-Farmer-WLS award of merit in recognition of its 4-H program of 1947 it was announced today by the county extension office on basis of information from the state 4-H club office at Purdue University. The award will be made at the annual "4-H Round-Up" in June.

This honor is given to the county for achievement of certain standards based on improvement of local programs and increased membership. The awards are made by Prairie-Farmer WLS in co-operation with the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Service.

This is the second year that the county has received the award, which this year will consist of a silver panel carrying the year, number of club members enrolled and the number of standard clubs, the office explained. A previous award won by the county was a bronze plaque in 1946.

DeKalb County's record shows that more than 25 percent of the county's potential number of 10-20 year-old youths were enrolled last year and that more than 50 percent of this number were members of all clubs.

Information from the state office revealed that the number of clubs to receive merit awards increased from 24 last year to 34 this year, and that a steady increase in the number of counties qualiffying for the award has been noted each year. This year five counties, Cass, Davies, Tippecanoe, Clinton and Whitley--will be given gold awards, having more than 30 percent of their potential number of club members enrolled and more than 60 percent of this number are members of standard clubs. This is a top rating given by the state 4-H club office.

Seek Big League Baseball Players

Even though the Dodger organization is the largest in the game, Rickey admits they but scratch the surface of player potential. The Dodgers will send a scout to any town in the country to check a nominated player.

World Champion Butterfat Producer

FERNDALE, CALIFORNIA—Silken Lady's Ruby of F., a registered Jersey cow owned by the estate of the late J. W. Coppini of Ferndale, has become the official World Champion Lifetime Butterfat Producer of all breeds. Her production of 166,020 lbs. milk and 9,165 lbs. butterfat was recorded under supervision of The University of California and has been officially verified by The American Jersey Cattle Club. Ruby ascended to the championship of the United States a year ago. Her production of 10,032 lbs. milk and 615 lbs. butterfat, during the 12 months intervening, surpasses her nearest rival for official World honors by 103 lbs. butterfat.

If all Ruby's milk had been churned it would have produced approximately 10,782 lbs. of butter. Packaged in standard one pound prints and stacked on end. this would make a tower of butter more than three and one-half times higher than the world's tallest structure, the Empire State Building. At the present rate of butter consumption in the United States, this would furnish a year's supply of butter for a town of nearly 1,000 people.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

License fees is only a part of the annual expenditure by sportsmen in pursuit of the finny gamesters, but even in itself it is big business in dollars. A report from the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service disclosed that 12,620,464 persons bought fishing licenses for the last fiscal year at a total cost of$22,667, 301. This was an increase of 1,551, 747 in numbers, and $7,663,505 in dollars, over the previous year.

This bears out the trend of upping the fishing license fees which we mentioned a few columns back. An average cost of $1.75 per license last year, as against approximately $1,25 the previous year, is shown by the report.

In the number of licenses sold, Michigan topped all the states with 989,333 and california ranked second with 848,4446. California, however, was the No. 1 state in dollar income with $1,718,066. Other leading state in the number of licenses issued were Minnesota 765,335; Ohio 669,613; Wisconsin 653,147; New York 631,238; Pennsylvania 599,572; Illinois 536, 688; Missouri 526,737; and Indiana 522,033.

Other figures of interest disclosed in the report were that tourists, fishing for sport in waters outside their home states, purchased 1,464, 698 non-resident fishing licenses, an increase of 371,599 over the preceding year. Michigan again topped all states in the sale of licenses to out-of-states with 263,721. Wisconsin ranked second with 224,330 and Minnesota third with 165,425. Tenn, Colorado and Maine followed in that order. Rhode Island brought up sales with only 220. North Dakota was close behind with 280. Delaware had the lowest total sale with 4,298 resident and 1,450 non-resident licenses

The figures last year established new records for all licenses sales, but, if we are guessing correctly, these new marks will stand only as records until this year's figures are announced. There's every indication that the coming season will see the greatest army of fishermen converging on the streams, rivers known. So, we'd better keep on our toes and start slugging for improved conservation and more sane and sensible creel limits if we want to keep the great outdoors productive in fish and enjoyment.

We've yet to run across a fisherman who doesn't enjoy seeing new gadgets, and we're certainly no different from the rest. So every year at Sport Show time we rush to the exhibits for a "preview" of what's new for sportsmen.

One of the first new items to attract our attention this year was W. J. Jamison's new bobber -- a red and white, plastic affair that actually whistles when a fish bites. That we can go for! You just relax in your boat or under a shade tree on the bank and take things easy. You don't even have to keep an eye on your bobber, for at the first nibble it gives out with a whistle and you can spring into action in plenty of time to catch the culprit that's after the bait.

Then there was another new style bobber produced by Baumac Products that lights up when a fish strikes. And in addition, this little bobber can be used as a flashlight by simply removing the upper section of the bobber. Mighty handy for night fishing.

There are many good landing nets on the market today, but Lawrenz Products has added a new trist in the two new nets thay had on display, the trout size and a larger one suitable for bass and larger fish. But both have "telescoping" handles so that a fisherman can adjust them to any desired lenght to meet certain fishing conditions. And for the larger net, there's a gaff hook that is interchangeable with the net.

Ever hear the name "Hotcan"? It's been on th market for some time but it was new to us and others, too, at the show. For the fisherman or hunter who wants a hot meal when out on a lake or stream without having to build a fire, the "Hotcan" is the answer. Actually, it is a double can. In the outside can you have two compartments with a liquid in one and a special chemical in the other.. By punching small holes in the top, the liquid and chemical mix, creating heat which make the food in the inner can the desired temperature for eating. It take 12 minutes.

NEWS From the Office of GEORGE W. GILLIE

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

Announcement has been made by Rep. George W. Gillie of the Fourth District that he is conducting a straw poll of his constituents on important issues confronting the 80th Congress. The balloting which is now underway ends at midnight May 1.

More than 70,000 ballots are being mailed out to rural route, star route and city -boxholders, news papers, county and city offices, churches, schools, veterans organizations labor unions, lodges, service and civic clubs over the district.

To assure the widest possible public participation, persons or organizations failing to receive ballots from these sources may obtain them by writing to: Hon. George W. Gillie, Room 1532 House Office Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Up to the minute results of the poll will be furnished to the newspapers and also will appear weekly in this column until the final tabulation is completed.

Because of the serious critical world situation and the widespread interest in these current issues, Congressman Gillie has said that he anticipates a heavy response to the poll.

Persons checking the following question are asked to return their ballot before May 1.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Ezekiel 1—4; 33:1-9. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 137: 1-6.

Prophet Among Exiles

Lesson for April 4, 1948

THIS quarter we study the Captivity and Return of the Jews, using the Books of Ezekiel, Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi. Sunday's lesson is found in Ezekiel 1-4 and 33:1-9.

Dr. Newton

It would be well for us to read again the history of this most interesting man, Ezekiel—how he came to be among the captives by the river Chebar. He is one of the most attractive personalities in the Old Testament — a man of surpassing culture and charm—and yet enabled to "sit where they sat."

A MESSENGER OF GOD

EZEKIEL could never have adapted himself to the role of ministering to the captive slaves apart from the knowledge that he was the messenger of God — the messenger of God's hope to broken, beaten souls.

God spoke to his people through Ezekiel. He speaks to his people today through chosen messengers —parents, teachers, the Bible, the Holy Spirit. God may be speaking to you today.

HEAR YE THE WORD

EZEKIEL'S approach to the Jews in captivity was by the authority of God's direct message to them through him. Ezekiel was faithful to God's appointment and mission. He knew that what he had to say to the Jews meant their hope of release and return.

He studied their plight. He studied their mood. And then he spoke to them. But not only did he speak to them, telling them what God wanted them to know, but he moved among them. He loved them.

He had God's message, and he went in God's mood of compassion. We cannot help people until we understand them and love them.

GOD'S WATCHMAN

EZEKIEL reminded the people that he had been sent from God as a watchman, and he told them what terrible responsibility was upon him in warning them to repent and return unto God. Read Ezekiel 33:1-9.

If the watchman faithfully warns the people, and they refuse to heed the warning, their blood will not be on his hands; but if he fail to warn the people, their blood will be on his hands. Here is a lesson for every teacher and preacher and parent today.

And in this same 33rd chapter, Ezekiel goes on to declare God's attitude toward all sinners. "Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live —turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die?"

A WATCHMAN UNTO EXILES

"SON of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel," Ezekiel 3:17.

This was the explicit commission of God to Ezekiel. And grandly did Ezekiel accept and execute to the limit of his ability that commission.

The Jews were far from their beloved home. They were driven by hard masters. They could not sing the song of the Lord in a strange land. They had hanged their harps on the willow trees.

With a sensitive soul, Ezekiel comes to them with the word of hope. He reminds them of the goodness and mercy of Jehovah to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. He lifts their drooping spirits with clear and ringing words of promise. He pleads with them to confess their sins and claim the pardoning mercy of a loving God.

He used numerous means of gaining their attention — symbols of their former communion with God. Patiently he traced the dealings of God with them and their fathers before them.

They listened, and all who heeded the pleas of the faithful watchman were saved and restored to faith in the goodness and mercy of God.

We, too, are watchmen among exiles. Let us learn the high art of Ezekiel in our ministry as watchman.

The churches will fail if the lessons of Sunday are forgotten on Monday and are laid aside for special observance on only one day of the week. — Wayne Morse, U. S. senator from Oregon.

Farm Fair

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

DURING the past year there's been a great deal said in newspapers and magazines about folks in town and on the farm declaring their own personal war on one of mankind's worst enemies—rats. To meet the situation, a great many types of poison were put on the market, and one that reached great popularity because of its safe usage was red squill. Now we're hearing that red squill is proving to be poisonous to dogs and swine, too.

This is new evidence of the need for caution in handling all kinds of rat poisons. The American Veterinary Medical Association has reported a case of a valuable three-year-old collie dog that became violently ill for five days, and required treatmeat by a veterinarian to set him on the road to recovery. Swine also have been poisoned by red squill, according to veterinary reports, and large quantities of this rodenticide is said to be lethal to any animal. In cases of poisoning by this or any other compound, delay in obtaining proper tpatment for the affected animal may be fatal.

Speaking of farm dogs, we can't be too careful of the welfare of these often well-bred and intelligent animals. Most farmers are careful to vaccinate their livestock against disease, but do they consider the health of their four-footed "assistants"? Country-reared dogs usually have more rugged constitutions than their city cousins, but they may be susceptible to distemper, one of the more fatal canine diseases.

Vaccination of young dogs with modern distemper vaccine is now 90 to 100 per cent effective. Veterinary authorities emphasize, however, that the vaccine should be given only after a general checkup on the dog's health. Ordinarily, they recommend vaccination at the age of three or four months, and many practitioners prefer to use more than one injection. Distemper, an acute virus disease, is one of the most common and most fatal of all dog diseases, but modern vaccines now seem to be reducing its toll throughout the country.

DAIRY DAY PROGRAM AT GARRETT WELL ATTENDED

More than 1,000 DeKalb county farmers attended the "Dairy Day" program held at the Garrett gymnasium Tuesday, March 16, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. There were 14 very interesting topics that were in progress during the dya, which were as follows: (1)Artificial insemination for dairy cattle, (2) DDT control of flies, (3) Brucellosis in cattle and hogs, undulant fever in man, (4) Quality roughages including pasture, hay and silage, (5) Home pasteurization of milk, (6) How to wash milking utensils and milk sanitation, (7) Model milk houses, (8) Dairy products produced milk and cream from DeKalb county,(9) Milk testing, (10) Washing of milking machines, (11) Washing of cream separators, (12) Straining milk, (13) Microscope tests, (14) Sediment tests.

Lunch was served by the Richland township Cedar Lake Church. Entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Loyal Yoder of Huntertown, accordion and vocal solos; John Smith of Auburn, vocal solos; Marilyn Heinlen of Garrett, reading; Norval Withrow of Garrett on the piano. A moving picture, "No Hand Stripping," by Dr. Peterson, well known dairy specialist of Wisconsin, was shown continuously.

Purdue extension specialists, Ed Gannon, dairy; M. O. Pence, agronomy; Dr. C. R. Donham, veterinarian; and Mrs. Betty Combs, home economist, were present to answer question.

SPORTSMAN SHOW TO CONTINUE THRU SUNDAY

Fort Wayne's Second Annual Sportsman Show opened Tuesday afternoon at the National Guard Armory. The exhibit, sponsored by the Ft. Wayne Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be open daily from 1 to 10 p. m. through next Sunday.

Sixty display booths have been erected on the ground and basement floors of the Armory, in which industries and business firms of Fort Wayne and the surrounding area are exhibiting a sparkling array of merchandise calculated to stimulate the buying impulse of men and women and boys and girls interested in sports recreation and hobbycraft.

A partial list of the hundreds of items that will be viewed by an anticipated 30,000 persons during the week includes lake cabin cruisers, house trailers, airplanes, station wagons, smaller water craft of every description, motorcycles, bicycles, guns, fishing gear, motors, sports wear, and all kinds of sports equipment.

A number of organizations will occupy booth to acquaint show visitors with their respective activities. These include the Fort Wayne Generals of the Central Baseball League, the G. E. Voltmen, 1947 national semi-professional baseball champions, the Daisies of the All-American Girls Baseball League, the Allen County War Memorial Commission the Psi Iota Xi Sorority and the Jaycee Wives.

Of special interest to devotees of hunting and fishing will be the presence of Abe Andrews at the show during its run. Andrews is widely known as an outdoors columnist for the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette and as a commentator for Radio Station WOWO.

Three movie shows will be presented daily at 2:30, 6:45 and 8:45 p. m. The films, most of them in color, feature sports subjects. Three vaudeville shows also are scheduled daily, at 3:15, 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. These acts will be staged in a large tents which has been attached to the Armory. Special entertainment features are at no extra cost to patrons of the show.

There has been no advance sale of tickets for the exposition. Tickets will be on sale daily at the doors of the exhibit hall. Admission prices are 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, tax included.

WATCH FOR CHICK BOWEL TROUBLE

Bowel troubles, manifested by either diarrhea or pasting-up, are common diseases of baby chicks. They usually develop as a result of chilling or overheating, piling, dampness, poor sanitation, or eating coarse feed.

Pasting up occurs when sticky droopings and white urates adhere to the chick's vent fluff and there become dry. This prevents normal bowel movements and causes intestinal materials to accumulate in the lower part of the intestinal tract. These poisonous wastes have a toxic effect on the bird's system, lower its resistance to other diseases and cause the bird to become weak and sleepy.

Frequently, digestive upsets begin as the result of lung congestion. When the lungs are congested the chick's body gets a diminished supply of oxygen; and since oxygen is necessary in the function of digesting food, bowel trouble result.

If chicks do become chilled or overheated and symptoms of lung congestion or digestive upsets begins to develop immediate steps should be taken to relieve the condition by spraying with an inhalant that will help loosen the discharge and thereby aid breathing.

To prevent bowel troubles, keep the chicks warm and dry, feed them properly (avoid coarse feedstuffs), and practice good sanitation. Chicks affected by digestive disturbances need easily digested feed; often a pint of molasses, mixed in each 4 gallons of drinking water, will provide a helpful laxative action.

Taxes cost Americans more than food. Official statistics show the nation's 1946 food bill was about $39 billion, while federal taxes (exclusive of state and local) amounted to more than $40 billion.

A total of $75,000,000 and 45,000 employees are being used annually by federal agencies in "publicity and program activities," is an estimate advanced by Congressman Forrest A. Harness, Fifth District of Indiana.

Why did Aunt Hallie wrap the ice in paper?

It made the ice melt slower, so she figured she'd save money.

You don't see today's Aunt Hallie rustling around trying to turn off her electric refrigerator. Housekeeping economy is just as important, but there's a difference . . .

It costs so very little to run a refrigerator with electricity! For an average family—less than a nickel a day.

You've helped make electricity so low in price by using it for more and more jobs. And the sound, business methods of the electric companies have made it more and more of a bargain, in spite of the rising costs of making and delivering electricity.

Today, the average family still gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did just twenty years ago!

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 1948 NUMBER 14

Minnie T. Ulm Passes Away Tuesday

Mrs. Minnie Ulm, 73, of south west of St. Joe, a lifelong resident of DeKalb county died at 6 a. m. Tuesday at the home of her son, Fred Ulm.

Her death was attributed to complications following an extended illness. She had been bedfast since last June. She was the widow of the late John Ulm who died in Sept. 1946.

Mrs. Ulm was born July 10, 1874 in Concord township, the daughter of the late Nelson and Susan Baker Tustison, and resided her entire life in this community. She was a member of the Lutheran church here.

Surviving, besides the son, are three grandchildrn and a brother, Frank Tustison of this place. The body was removed to the Walter funeral home in Spencerville and was taken late Tuesday to Mrs. Ulm's former residence a mile and a half south of St. Joe.

The body will remain at the home until Thursday afternoon when it will be brought to the Lutheran church here for final rites to be conducted at 2 p.m. The Rev Frank Stevenson, will officiate with burial in Riverside cemetery at St. Joe. Friends may call at the residence.

DISTRICT LAMB SHOW TO BE HELD IN FT. WAYNE IN JULY

The county extension office announced this morning that a District Market Lamb Show to be held on July 8 at which time 4-H and Gold Medal Lamb Club members will be offered classes of competition. They will consist mainy of pens of three and five market offered for the winners.

Following the show, the lambs will be auctioned to the highest bidder. The show will be held at the Union Stock Yards in Fort Wayne. It is sponsored by the stock yards, commission companies, and business enterprizes within a forty-mile radius of Ft. Wayne in co-operation with the county agricultural agent in the Ft. Wayne Disrtict.

This year for the first time there will be a Wool Show in connection with the Fat Lamb Show. Farmers or sheepmen will be eligible to compete by entering up to two fleeces in each of the four classes which will consist of quarter blood, three-eights blood, one-half blood, and fine wool shep. Attractive prizes are being offered for winning fleeces.

County agent C. R. Gross advises farmers entering this competition that the wool must be cleaned and the tags--stomach wool, leg wool, and head wool, must be removed and fleeces tied with just enough twine to hold it together. Rules will be followed similar to those in the State Fair. He further suggested that fleces after shorn be wrapped in paper and placed in cardboard boxes for storage in that dust and dirt collects very rapidy on newly shorn fleeces.

Information concerning these classes in both the Wool Show and Lamb Show is avaiable at the county extension office. In order to join the Hoosier Gold Medal Lamb Club a member must nominate his flock and join the Indiana Livestock Breeder' Assiciation before May 1. Nomination cards are available at the county extension office.

ELEPHANT LOSES TOOTH BUT SHE DOESN'T CARE

With even less emotion than the GOP might show in sloughing off one of fits surplus Presidential candidates, the Wash. Zoo real-life elephant, Jumbina, last week lost a molar.

The Zoo director, Dr. Wm. Mann hastened to reassure worried elephant lovers. Jumbia, he said, "is suffering no pain. In fact, she probably doesn't even know she lost it."

Olan Loomis Buried Friday

Final rites for Olan Loomis, 74-year old retired farmer and truck grower of Newville, were conducted Friday at 2 p. m. in the United Brethen church there. The Rev. Cleo C. Roth of Hicksville, pastor of the U. B. church in that town officiated at the services. Burial was made at the Newville cemetery.

Mr. Loomis died about 5 p. m. Wednesday at the Community hospital in Hicksville. His death resulted from diabetes. He was admitted to the hospital only a few hours before his death.

Surviving is a sister in Oregon. Mr. Loomis was never married. He was a member of the U. B. church at Newville.

LOYAL WOMEN MEET

Mrs. Lucy Beams was hostess to the March meeting of the Loyal Womens Class on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Zelpha Steward served as president in the absence of Mrs. Flossie Rhoads who is assisting in the care of her husband at the Methodist Hospital in Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. Leona Haupt had charge of the regular devotions of scripture, hymns and prayer. Mrs. Steward gave a reading, "The Golden Windows", which was followed by a poem by Mrs. Alma Hart.

A report was given on the condition of two ill members, Mrs. Edna Goldsmith, who is convalescing at the Souder Hospital in Auburn, and Mrs. Zona Abel, who is again able to be at her home. Both members were reported to be improving.

A "paragraph" letter was written to the president, Mrs. Rhoads, by all members present, expressing to her encouragement and cheer.

Mrs. Jennie Walter had charge of the entertainment. A bible quiz was conducted orally.

Jumbled proverbs were passed out, and the new proverbs arranged were clever and very amusing. An April contest concluded that part of the program, after which all enjoyed a bounteous carry-in lunch, and later departed expressing enjoyment of a very happy evening.

How To Keep Auto Mechanics Busy

Byron Woodcox and Bill Staman had a slight difference of opinion as to who owns the highway about two miles northeast of town Wednesday morning with disastrous results.

Bill was pulling on the highway from a side road with a trailer on the back of his car, and evidently didn't see Byron approaching. The latter did see the former, however, but couldn't do much about it since he was flying too low. The two cars met--with the trailer in the middle--and did some damage to each. The trailer jolted the rear of Bill's car quite effectively, and the contours of Byron's grill (what's left of it) now match those of the rear end of the trailer.

To top things off Mr. W. got a dirty look from the Kinsey Hardware truck as he rounded a corner at the edge of town on two wheels. It seems that the brake line was also broken in the accident and all the fluid had drained out which left the brakes good for absolutely nothing. Needless to say the driver didn't know about it until he tried to slow down at the above mentioned corner. He was able finally to stop the car, but wore a hole in his left shoe doing it.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Ralph Keeler. Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser read the Collect.

Mrs. E. O. Steininger gave the lesson on New Orleans, a boom town and dream town. Mrs. Lora Leighty told of her impression of the town, while she had visited there. Mrs. Charles Krise had charge of the entertainment. Mrs. Lora Leightly gave the critics review.

Next year the club will study the magazine "Holiday" alternating with special topics that shall be chosen at the June meeting.

Mrs. Carl Carpenter was reinstated as a member.

The last meeting of the year will be held at the home of Mrs. Lora Leighty, April 14, Mrs. Glen Cole will be leader.

Tasty refreshments were served by the hostess.

A Day in the Hospital

A. M.

Grunt and groan, squirm and sigh
Stars are fading, day is nigh.
Nurse comes in and fixes bed
Washes face and pats your head.
Breakfast next - we all fall to-
Time for groans and grunts again
Clean up quick, like threshing crew.
Take in stride like little men.
Nurse comes in pokes "therm" in mouth,
Keeps you quiet as a mouse.
Next holds hand (but not for love)
You gaze at ceiling up above.
Read news next, till time for chow-
Dispose of same like hungry cow.

P. M.

Doc comes in with pleasant smile
All dolled up in latest style.
Promptly makes for you a date,
You agree altho you hate
Like sin to learn of your new fate.
Write at once to loving mate -
You are having loads of fun.
(Isn't that a lousy pun?)
Resume your groans and grunts till eve.
Confide to roommate your pet peeve.
Then last on list of eats arrive
Again fall to (if you're alive).
Next comes sleep, to one and all.
Quiet reigns in room and hall.
Days will come and days will go,
Time and tide forever flow.
God bless the noble souls who toil -
Our aches and pains and fears to foil.

Yours Truly

Remodeling In Progress In Local Store

Painting and redecorating have begun on the store building in St. Joe, which will soon be occupied by Moore's grocery, who are moving from their store at the west end of town. The building next door to the Post Office, near the town pump is being made ready for opening some time next week.

LEGION AIDS TORNADO AREA

The Indiana Department of the American Legion is making an urgent appeal to all Legion posts and individual Legionnaires for voluntary contributions for the tornado stricken area of Hendricks County.

Harold E. Morris, Department Commander, said "The American Legions wants to assume their part in helping to rehabilitate the devastated communities". The Indiana Department has already sent $2,000 there from the Emergency Relief fund, which has practically depleted funds set aside for this purpose. The Danville Legion Post whose home was completely destroyed has placed it entire treasury, over $8,000 in the relief fund.

All Legion funds will be used for the special purpose of buying fuel and hiring operators for heavy equipment furnished by the Federal Works Administration. This equipment will be used in removing the debris left by the tornado and help reconstruction in the shattered area.

The money recived will be administered by Billie Dee Falls, Commander of the Danville Post, Robert Holowell, President of the City Council, Robert Armstrong, Road Superintendent.

Contributions have already been received from the American Legion National Headquarters, National Auxiliary and Indiana Department Auxiliary. Funds may be sent to the Treasurer, Indiana Department of The American Legion at Indian-

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Willard Hurni, Wednesday evening, March 31st. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Joseph Baidinger, and the Collect was read in unison. Mrs. Ray Means read the poem, "Living" by Frank Carlton Nelson. The leader of the evening was Mrs. Dewey White and the article read was "Coming---The Radio That Was Shot From A Gun". The special work was China and was presented in motion pictures. Mrs. Fred Ulm was in charge of the special work. Roll call was taken with fifteen active members and one honorary member responding with Proverbs. There was also a guest, Nina Jane Kees. The business was then held and it was decided that Holiday magazine would be the study book for the coming year.

The hostess served a delicious lunch and the club adjourned to meet again April 14th., at the home of Mrs. Leslie Meek.

The Same Medicine

By DeWitt Emery

Thirty years later we are still using the same medicine out of the same bottle. The only thing that's been changed is the label.

Following World War I, we spent fifteen billion on European relief and recovery. Then we called it the Dawes Plan in 1924 and later, in 1930, the Young Plan.

The Young Plan had four specific objectives:

1. To relieve hunger and distress.
2. To bring about economic recovery in Europe.
3. To prevent the spread of bolshevism—we now call it communism.
4. To prevent a second world war.

The only difference between the objectives of the Young Plan of 1930 and the objectives of the Marshall Plan in 1948 is that we are now trying to prevent World War III

If dollars—many billions of them did not prevent the spread of communism following World War I, and did not prevent World War II, why is there any reason to believe that dollars will be any more successful now that they were then?

Britain has had $3,750,000,000 from us,, which was supposed to carry her through 1952. Now the Marshall Plan proposes to give Britain $5,750,000,000 to carry her through 1952. In comment on this, Dr. Herbert D. Simpson said,

"If we are going to give Britain any such sum as this, I would be inclined to suggest that we just give the British the right to levy a substantial tax in the United States and that we go back to paying taxes to King George again as we did before the Revolution. In that way at least, we would all understand just what we are doing."

The three and three-quarter billions we gave Britain was used mostly to finance nationalization of industry and to pay British workers more money for working fewer hours. Senator Malone recently reported a conversation he had in London last November with Sir Stafford Cripps, British Minister of Economic Affairs, during the course of which Cripps told him that Britain intended to use most of its five and three quarter billion share of the Marshall Plan to build up an African Empire.

It looks to me very much like we were again being "took", being played for suckers and saps, principally because neither the State Department nor Congress has the foresight or courage to say, "You are not going to get one more dime until we are fully convinced that you have done everthing that needs to be done to help yourself and we are further convinced that whatever money we may advance will beused for rehabilitation and not piddled away on paternalism and boon doggling."

What Britain, France and some of the other countries need more than anything else is sound money, money that farmers, for example, have confidence in and will be willing to accept in exchange for their products.

Once sound money is established, France will be able to recover rapidly and Britain would too if she'd quit messing around with socialism.

1948 SUGAR BEET CONTRACT GIVES BIGGER SHARE TO FARMER

The Directors of the Beet Grower' Association, representing all beet growers, have asked for and obtained for the farmer a greater share of the net returns for sugar than has ever been given since the 50-50 contract. Here is how it goes.

Fifty-fifty until the price rises above the wholesale price of $6.70 per hundred weight of sugar; then a 15% bonus as the price goes up from $6.70 to $9.00 per hundred weight of sugar. In other words, it is 65 percent to the producer, or the farmer, and 35 percent to the processor in this price range, and then a 50-50 split on any sugar price from $9.00 up

In addition, the farmer will be paid one-half of the net return from the sale of pulp and molasses. If we assume a normal sugar content of at least 16 percent and a net price for sugar of $7.50 per hundred, farmers should realize approximately $15.50 per ton for sugar beets grown in 1948. These assumptions are based on the fact that sugar beet prices are protected under the provisions of the Sugar Act which provides that consumption quotas are to be set by the Secretary of Agriculture and he shall consider among other things, the relationship of sugar prices and the 1947 Consumers' Price Index of the cost of living. This, we believe, will result in a price of approximately $7.50 per hundred. The average sugar content for the past four years, including last year's low sugar, is above 16 per cent.

The farmer who grows sugar beets is provided with crop insurance against losses due to damage by weather, insects, disease; and these payments are provided as payment for abandonment of planted acreage or as a crop deficiency payment of harvested acres. The protective feature of a contract crop make it wise to plant some suagr beets in these days of uncertain prices for most crops.

GOP CANDIDATES OPEN CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS

Three of the four annonuced candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor have opened headquarters in Indianapolis.

All three candidates have opened offices in the Claypool hotel, the latest being Hobart Creighton of Warsaw, Speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives, who has headquarters in Room 525 and 561.

Directly above Creighton headquarters are the offices of Walter Helmke of Fort Wayne, chairman of the Allen County Republican organization. His offices are rooms 625 and 661.

And, directly above Helmke headquarters are the offices of the Jenner for Governor Clubs, occupying Rooms 725 and 761. The clubs are promoting the candidacy of U. S. Senator William E. Jenner.

The fourth announced candidate, State Auditor A. V. Burch, has not yet opened headquarters.

FARM BUREAU OPPOSES FAST TIME CHANGES

"The Indiana Farm Bureau today took a look at some of the controversies between Standard and Daylight Saving time that are now developing in several Hoosier communities, and cited its resolution adopted more tnat a year ago to oppose tampering with the clocks of the state.

Throughout the State, farmers have been opposed to changing the clocks from Standard time to so-called "fast time" because of the confusion it causes generaly. If city dwellers want to go to work an hour earlier, it has been suggested they do so, but leave the clocks alone.

The last resolution adopted by the Indiana Farm Bureau, now composed of nearly 90, 000 Hoosier farm families, with regard to Standard was considered in November 1946 as follows:

"During the emergency war period the U. S. Congress saw fit to estabish what was known at Daylight Saving time, which was accomplished by setting the clocks forward one hour.

"After hostilities ceased, many cities and towns continued the practice of keeping Daylight Saving time during the summer months. This causes confusion when Central Standard time is observed by all the county except cities and towns. Two kinds of time is very confusing when railroads, airlines, telegraph companies, and part of the bus companies operate on Central Standard time, and the remaining bus companies operate on Daylight Saving time.

"Daylight Saving time does not fit into the farm program because the farm day is largely determined by the weather and the sun, rather than by the clock."

Many county Farm Bureau units are waging a strong fight this spring to prevent confusion in their respective counties during the summer months.

TIP as to what's TOPS

POLLS seem to be the thing these days—so why not make your own?

Just bend a private ear to what's being said all around you—and you'll get a dozen tips a day as to what's tops in cars this season.

"My dear," one gal tells another, "it's even smarter inside! Everybody says it's the best-looking car on the road, but just wait till you sit in it!

"And it's so easy to drive! I never thought a big car . . ."

"I'm telling you, Jim," you'll hear a man say. "Get a car that's big enough!

"There's just no substitute for enough roadweight—especially with that Buick power plant to give you the get-up-and-go you want."

"Listen!" says another. "Here's the first car where I've really been comfortable! We pack the whole crowd in—kids and all—and those big three-person seats give 'em all the wiggle-room they want—and still let me handle the wheel in comfort!"

Then you may overhear a very, very bubbly individual who's driving a Dynaflow* Buick.

"Nothing like it," he says. "Nothing like it ever before. Don't ask me how it works, I'm no engineer—but it's the silkiest, smoothest, slickest thing I ever laid hands on—and I've driven 'em all!

"Why, I went up Ft. George hill the other day—slowed to a dead-stop halfway up—held 'er there—picked up—went over the top accelerating—and never touched the control lever!

"Never did anything but feed gas as I wanted it!"

And so it goes.

Power fans praising Fireball power. Comfort lovers going for Quadruflex coil springing and Safety-Ride rims. Folks who like quiet, singing paeans to Sound-Sorber top lining.

And everybody, yes everybody, agreeing there's only one true fashion plate—and you can spot it at a glance.

So why hold back? You'll never get to the top of a dealer's list that way! See that Buick dealer today—with or without a car to trade—and get your firm order in.

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

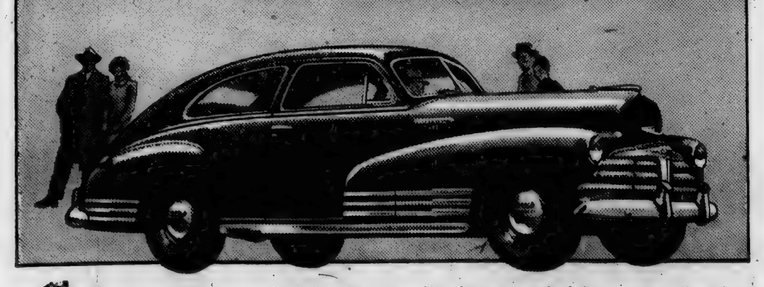
"Talk about VALUE," says America

"CHEVROLET and ONLY Chevrolet IS FIRST!"



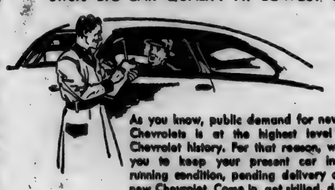
You'll get much better performance with economy from Chevrolet's world's champion Valve-In-Head engine. It has the finest record of dependability of any automotive power plant! And Valve-In-Head engines are exclusive to Chevrolet and more expensive automobiles.

You'll find that new front-end styling—new colors—new and even more luxurious interiors add still further to the Big-Car beauty of Chevrolet's Bodies by Fisher. They're the world's finest bodies, found only on Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.

CHEVROLET

Yes, from one end of the country to the other, public enthusiasm for the new 1948 Chevrolet points to a great public conviction that CHEVROLET AND ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST in all-round value as in popularity. More people drive Chevrolets, according to official nationwide registrations and more people want Chevrolets, according to seven independent nationwide surveys than any other make of car. Your own judgment will tell you that this is because Chevrolet gives more value . . . because it alone offers BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

You and your family will have Big-Car safety, too. For Chevrolet brings you the three-fold protection of Fisher Unisteel body-construction, the Knee-Action Ride, and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes—another combination of features found only in Chevrolet and more costly cars.



As you know, public demand for new 1948 Chevrolets is at the highest level in all Chevrolet history. For that reason, we urge you to keep your present car in good running condition, pending delivery of your new Chevrolet. Come in, get skilled, dependable service, now and at regular intervals.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

Many of us have been laboring under the impression that all game in the United States is on the decrease. We know at least, that that has been our impression, and it probably is a correct picture of upland game animals and birds. But not so for big game, if the figures today are comparable to 1946.

A report made public recently by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service disclosed a 23 per cent gain in big game population between 1943 and 1946. In 1946 a survey of animals on their winter range showed a total of 1,641,978 over 1943.

The Wildlife Service started big game tabulations in 1937, but with the exception of 1943, failed to make the surveys during the war years. That is the reason of 1943 1946 comparision. The 1947 figures will not be available for several months.

The state with the largest big-game population in 1946 was Mich. with 880,600 animals, nearly all of which were deer. Wisconsin ranked next with 795,600 folowed by Pa., with 379,000; Texas 631,900; Minn. 622,600; Cal. 591,300; Colorado, 463-900; Wyoming, 343,600; Maine 328,-300; New York, 301,100; and Oregon 299,,200.

Kansas was the only state with no big game animals. Delaware had only 135 and Rhode Island, 500--all white tailed deer.

Deer, naturally, outnumbered all other big game animals. Counting white-tailed, mule and black-tailed deer, the total was 7,375,200. Deer populations in the U. S. reached the bottom on 1915, the Wildlife Service said, when there were only three million of these animals in the country. The present distribution of deer is less than a quarter of their ancestral range, but the trend has been upward since the survey started in 1937. Of the 1946 deer total, the white tail accounted for 4,965-000 animals.

In addition to the deer, big game animals found in the U. S. in numbers exceeding 100,000 / are elk, prong-horned antelope, peccary and black bear. Relatively scarce animals with populations from one to 24,000 are the moose, Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep, European wild boar, grizzly bear, buffalo and the woodland caribou.

Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep topped all other animals in rate of population increases, showing a gain of 75 percent, from 9,152 in 1943 to 16,000 in 1946. The moose ran second in gain, 14,803 to 23,300; and elk increased 24 per cent, from 233,-714 to 288,8000, in 1946.

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

Taft Leads In Indiana Straw Poll

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio has taken a two-to-one lead over Govenor Thomas E. Dewey of New York in a presidential straw poll being conducted by Rep. George W. Gillie (R), of Indiana, among his Fourth District constituents.

Contending in a free-for all fight for third place in the poll are General Douglas MacArthur, Harold E. Stassen, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

TAFT	205
DEWEY	103
MACARTHUR	56
STASSEN	44
VANDENBERG	35
EISENHOWER	30
BRICKER	28
TRUMAN	24
WARREN	22
WALLACE	18

Scattered votes also have been received for Speaker Martin, Majority Leader Halleck, Senators Capper, Pepper, Saltonstall, Brooks and O'Mahoney, Governor Green, former President Hoover, Samuel Pettengill and former Governor McNutt.

The poll, which is being conducted by Representative Gillie in cooperation with the Newspapers of his District, will continue through May 1.

ISSUE POLL—In connection with the Presidential "sweepstakes," Fourth District voters also are being polled on six major issues confronting the 80th Congress.

Congressman Gillie is asking his constituents to express their views on the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, tax training, the Marshall Plan, the return of price controls, and Administration policy towards Russia.

More than 2,000 ballots largely from rural areas, have been returned since the polling began a week ago. On the basis of ballots tabulated to date, Northeastern Indiana voters with opinions feel as follows about these issues:

TAFT-HARTLEY LAW
For	86%
Against	14%
TAX REDUCTION
For	76%
Against	24%
MILITARY TRAINING
For	39%
Against	61%
MARSHALL PLAN
For	21%
Against	79%
PRICE CONTROLS
For	12%
Against	88%
RUSSIAN POLICY
For	24%
Against	76%

Ballots in the opinion poll, which also will continue through May 1, have been pouring into the office of Representative Gillie at a rate of 400 a day. More than 70,000 ballots have been sent by the Congressman to constituents and to churches lobor unions, schools, civic groups and veterans organizations in Adams, Allen, DeKalb, LaGrange, Noble, Steuben, Wells and Whitley counties. In addition, ballots are being printed by co-operating newspapers and are available at every county and city office in the District.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

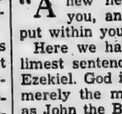
By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Ezekiel 18; 34; 36:22-38; 37:1-14.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Ezekiel 34: 25-31.

His Message to Exiles

Lesson for April 11, 1948

CONTINUING the theme of last Sunday's lesson, we go further into the ministry of Ezekiel as God's messenger to a people in exile. For this Sunday we have chapters 18 and 34, and portions of the 36th and 37th chapters.



Dr. Newton

The 18th chapter opens with a revealing rebuke to Ezekiel. God tells him expressly that he is not to say any more to the Jews that "the fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge. As I live, saith the Lord God, ye shall not have occasion any more to use this proverb in Isreal. Behold, all souls are mine." And then God adds, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die."

GOD'S LOVE AND CARE

ALL through these chapters in Sunday's lesson, two solemn truths appear—God's love for his people, manifest in unwearied care; and the responsibility of each soul for the sin which such commits against God.

This truth, or these truths, I should say, are equally applicable for us today. As Ezekiel was sent to remind the people of God's love and care, so must we, early in our youth, accept the responsibility of accepting his love or rejecting his love.

We cannot claim his care if we despise his will. That is the message of Ezekiel for us.

WHAT GOD IS LIKE

NOWHERE in the Old Testament is the love of God more manifest and compelling than in Ezekiel 34:11-27. I hope that you will open your Bible to this passage. Here the Bible speaks in words that burn with the compassionate love of God for sinful souls.

"I will both search my sheep, and seek them out. As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered; so will I seek out my sheep, and I will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day . . . And I will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers."

One is reminded here of Jesus, when he said, "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

A NEW HEART

"A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you," Ezekiel 36:26.

Here we have, perhaps, the sublimest sentence in the prophecy of Ezekiel. God is speaking. Ezekiel is merely the messenger — the voice, as John the Baptist delighted to describe himself.

Ezekiel has faithfully declared that each individual is responsible unto God, and just as faithfully he has proclaimed God's love and care, and now he adds the third great truth, namely, that God waits to bestow the new heart and the new spirit to every repentant soul.

A new heart and a new spirit. That is what the Jews needed. That is what the world needs today—a new heart and a new spirit. Only God could give a new heart then, and only God can make such gift today.

EZEKIEL'S MESSAGE FOR US

WOULD we listen to Ezekiel today? He has the message we need above all other words that may be spoken. He called the Jews to repentance of sin. That is what America needs today. Boys and girls need it. Men and women need it. And just as God waited patiently to bestow the new heart and spirit to Israel in the long ago, so does he wait to grant us today a new heart and a new spirit.

"Our God, our help, in ages past,
Our Hope for years to come;
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home."

There's No Substitute

"I thoroughly believe in a university education for both men and women, but I believe that a knowledge of the Bible without a college course is more valuable than a college course without the Bible. Every one who has a thorough knowledge of the Bible may be truly called educated, and no other learning, or culture — no matter how extensive and elegant—can be a proper substitute."

CRIPPLED CHILDREN LOOK FORWARD TO CAMPING

Did you ever see a little crippled girl or boy wave goodbye from his wheelchair to a group of happy younsters on the way to play? They want to go to camp and play like other kids and now they can go. The Indiana Society for Crippled Children has completed plans for camping for crippled children in four locations in Indiana this coming summer. They will go on hikes and picnics even though many will go in wheelchairs.

The St. Joseph County Chapter of Indiana Society for Crippled Children sponsors Camp Millhouse near South Bend which accommodates approximately sixty children for four and one-half weeks each summer.

Children in Vanderburgh County will enjoy camp Optimist and the Indiana Society for Crippled Children will send approximately fifteen children to Twin Lakes near Plymouth, Indiana. Each child will have four weeks of real camping.

Marion County children will have camping at Camp Delight and also day camping at Crossroads.

ARREST CANCER--FOR MURDER

While you are reading this editorial, someone will die - - - of cancer. An hour from now, 21 Americans now living will be dead - - -from cancer. By this time tomorrow there will be 504 victims added to the toll.

Cancer is taking an increase number of victims each year. From 133,000 in 1930, the number of cancer deaths rose to 158,000 in 1940, to 188,000 in 1947. By 1950 it is estimated the total will be 193,000.

Some months ago, Dr. E. V. Cowdry, president of the Fourth International Cancer Research Congress said: "The fact that the number of deaths from cancer is still rising rapidly, while the mortalities from almost all other common causes are abating, has alarmed the world.

American Cancer Society figures indicate that about 17,000,000 Americans now living will die of cancer unless a cure is found. That means that cancer death will visit one of every two home in American.

Cancer is no respecter of age or person. It strikes young and old, rich and poor. It is the greatest and cruelest killer of American women between the ages of 35 and 55. It is the second greatest killer of men. It is now causing one eight of all deaths.

What are we doing about it? Our efforts are expanding, but are still far from enough.

In World War II, we spent more than $300,000,000,000 to conquer the Germans and Japs and lost 280,000 lives. During that same period we spent $2,000,000 in the research fight agains cancer— and lost 607,000 lives.

Estimating the costs of medical care, time lost from work during illness and burial charges at $1,500 for each of the 188,000 Americans who died of cancer during 1947, and an insurance company's nominal figure of $10,000 to represent the loss of years of continued productive employment, the annual dollars and cents cost of cancer in America totals more than two billion dollars The additional toll in suffering and heartaches cannot be measured.

In our efforts to find the cause and cure of this dread killer, we are making little more than token effort.

The Government-sponsored National Cancer Institute spends $14,000,000 yearly; the American Cancer Society, for 35 years the world's greatest force against cancer, has spent up to $12,000,000 a year. That total of $26,000,000 figures out to 18 cents per person—for research clinics, detection centers, public education and services to those stricken by cancer. The war against cancer can hardly be won on an 18 cent basis.

Some day a cure for cancer will be found. But it will be found sooner if we all support generously with our contributions, those who are waging the good fight for us.

LAST TEACHERS' INSTITUTE OF YEAR HELD AT AUBURN SAT.

The final teachers' institue of the year was held as the assembly room of the courthouse in Auburn, Saturday.

At Saturday's institute, the speaker at the morning session was O. M. Swihart, superintendent of the Kokomo city schools. He spoke on the Subject, "Is Education the answer to Our Problem?" Rev. Peter E. Soudah, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Garrett, addressed the teachers during the afternoon session.

Carl F. Stallman DeKalb county superintendent of schools, announced also Saturday that new textbooks would be in use in the various county high schools during the 1948-49 school term. He told the group that a committee of teachers appointed by his office would report their selection of textbooks.

Music for the morning program was under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Leever, music teacher at St. Joe. The St. Joe High School's mixed chorus participated.

HORSE SENSE

Wild onions infest pastures in large sections of the country. Keep onion flavors out of milk by keeping cows off of onion-infested pastures.

On many farms efficient production of good quality eggs may be more important than an increase in production.

Rotenone preparation should be applied to the backs of cattled for killing ox warbles. This should be applied early before holes appear in the hide.

Planting trees is like planting other crops. Plant properly and insure a good stand. Plant poorly and get half a crop.

TAX SALE IN AUBURN ON MONDAY, APRIL 17

Auditor Guy Myers and Treasurer John C. Brown reported today that the delinquent tax sale of county-owned property will be held at the court house in Auburn, April 12.

The sale will start at 10 a.m. and continue until all of the 23 tracts listed for sale are sold.

The tracts up for sale were returned delinquent for non-payment of taxes for the year 1945, payable in 1946, and for previous years. The sale will be for the total amount of taxes due on the properties, including advertising and penalties, as provided by law.

Thirteen of the 23 tracts are in Garrett. There are three in Auburn, six in Corunna and the remainder lot in Ashley.

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1948 NUMBER 15

Scott-Warstler Vows Read Friday Evening

The St. Marks Lutheran church at Auburn, was the scene of a pretty wedding last Friday night at 8 p. m., uniting Miss Gloria Jean Warstler and William H. Scott in marriage. The impressive double ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Allen K. Trout, pastor, in the presence of many friends and relatives.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Warstler, of 3 miles northwest of St. Joe, Mr. Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Scott, West 9th St. Auburn. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The church was decorated with palms, candelabras and beauty vases of white and pink snapdragons.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white slipper satin with deep round yoke of sheer net, embroidered with pearls in floral motif. The sleeves ended in points over the hands and the fitted bodice fastened down the back with small self covered buttons. The finger tip length veil was held by a pearl tiara and was edged with chantilly lace. She wore a fine gold chain and cross, gift of the groom, and carried a white Bible topped with white sweet peas and satin streamers.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Miss Janice Bragg, of St. Joe. She wore a floor length gown of yellow taffeta with fitted bodice and full skirt with draped bustle-back. She carried a bouquet of small wedgewood irises tied with a yellow satin streamer.

The two little flower girls were Glee Marie Keesler in shell pink taffeta and Nyla Sue LaRue in sea green taffeta. Their gowns were floor length with fitted top and full skirts and trimmed with matching satin ribbon. From small white baskets they sprinkled rose petals on the bridal carpet. Both wore pink bead bracelets, a gift of the bride.

Frank Talorico of Ft. Wayne served Mr. Scott as best man.

The guests were seated by Kenneth McInturf, Auburn, cousin of the bride, and Raymond Scott of Angola, cousin of the groom. The groom wore a light grey gabardine suit, the other men of the wedding party wore dark business suits.

The bride's mother wore a brown silk crepe dress with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a black suit with pink crepe blouse, and black accesories. Both wore shoulder corsages of pink roses and white sweet peas.

While the vows were being read Mrs. Bell Gossett at the organ softly played, "Always". Before the ceremony she played "O Promise Me", "For You", "Till The End of Time", and the traditional,, "Wedding March". John Smith vocolist, sang "Because", "I Love You Truly", and "The Lord's Prayer",

A reception attended by a host of friends and relatives was held at the home of the bride's parents from 8:30 to 10:30.

The lace covered table was centered by a large four tiered cake surrounded by greenings and topped with a miniature bride and groom standing under a white bell. White candels in crystal holders were placed at each side of the cake.

Those assisting in serving were the Misses Pat Fluke, Doris Trenary, and Jane Grate, the Mesdames Mary Ellen McInturf, Deloris Means, Jean Frange, sister of the groom.

For the wedding trip to Michigan and Canada the bride wore a gabardine suit of the new spring rustic shade and brown accessories, her corsage was of the white sweetpeas carried at the ceremony.

The bride graduated from St. Joe HighSchool with the class of 1946, and is now employed in the offices of the Tokheim Co., at Ft. Wayne.

The groom received his diploma from the Auburn High School. He is a veteran of World War II, enlisting in the Marine Corp. in 1943. He spent 33 months in the service, 23 of them in the Pacific area, seeing action with the 5th and 2nd Marine Infantry Divisions, and six month of occupational duty in Japan. He is now employed at the Warner Automotive, in Auburn.

DEKALB COUNTY FIREMEN TO MEET AT BUTLER APRIL 28

This Money 'Talks' The American Way

This is the Booker T. Washington Commemorative half dollar. One dollar mailed to Booker T. Washington Birthplace, Virginia, will bring you the coin and help 14,000,000 Negroes to help themselves.

DO YOU KNOW who I am?

I am an American half dollar but a very rare one. For I was created by special Act of Congress, named the Booker T. Washington Commemorative Half Dollar, and minted by the U.S. Government. Then I was assigned a mission for America.

My mission is a wonderful thing. It is to help many of our 14,000,000 American Negroes who are in need to become self-sufficient citizens; to free them from misery and poverty and disease; to make this a better America by giving them the chance to better themselves.

How am I going to do this? Congress answered that. It authorized that I be sold at a premium price of one dollar, the difference between my par value of 50 cents going toward the building of industrial training schools that will help the Negro people.

These schools will serve as a living memorial to the great American I was named after . . . Booker T. Washington.

Booker Washington was born a slave in Virginia, but from his humble birthplace he rose to the American Hall of Fame as an educator. Before he died he proved that democracy lives for all Americans.

So Congress said that I "should help perpetuate the ideals and teachings of Booker T. Washington."

I want to carry out that mission, because I am a symbol of America and America has never fallen down on a big job yet. Never! Not at Valley Forge, or Chateau Thierry, or Guadalcanal. And we will never fail, because we are a united people.

There will be only 5,000,000 coins like me issued . . . all to be sold for a dollar.

You can get an All-American "Half" by writing to Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial, Booker Washington Birthplace, Va. Just send your name and address and a dollar, or more, for each coin.

Your good deed will help me carry out the legend to which I, as an American coin, am dedicated—"In God We Trust."

K of P LODGE 400 ENTERTAIN VISITORS

St. Joe lodge No. 400 Knights of Pythias were favored by having a number of visitors from Butler, Waterloo, Auburn and Corunna at their meeting, April 7, at which time Donald McClish became a full fledged Knight.

Corunna, accompanied by their Chancellor Commander brought a bust of Pythagoras, the founder of the Pythagoran Brotherhood, about 540 B. C. after which the Knights of Pythias are patterned to a large extent on a visit to the local lodge.

This bust was procured by the Carthage Lodge of Missouri several years ago for the purpose of encouraging visitations between lodges the receiving lodge asked and expected to carry it to another lodge thus drawing the variou lodges closer together and forming new acquaintances .

Several talks were given by the visiting Brothers, after which the host lodge furnished refreshments.

REV. FRONSOE'S DAUGHTER SERIOUSLY INJURED, NEAR SIDNEY, OHIO

Ida Mae Fronsoe, 14, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Milton Fronsoe, of Sidney, Ohio, remains in a very serious condition in a hospital there after injuries received in an auto accident Sunday night.

Miss Fronsoe, daughter of the former pastor of the Church of Christ here about ten years ago, suffered a fractured skull, broken right leg, facial injuries and severe shock.

The state highway patrol reported the girl was hurled from an overturning car on route 25, two miles south of Sidney.

Jack Kerce, 16, Sidney high student driver of the car told police he was attempting to pass another auto which veered to the left forcing him onto the berm where he lost control of his car.

The car a 1942 Studebaker, turned over twice and was totally demolished. Miss Fronsoe was laying about 50 feet from the spot where the car came to a stop.The driver of the car received only minor cuts and bruises.

Franklyn Shuff Dies Suddenly Saturday Evening

Final rites for 21-year-old Franklyn Shuff of St. Joe, who died at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shuff, were conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the St. Joe Christian church.

The young man died of complications derived from an injured brain. He suffered a severe attack early Saturday afternoon and about 6 a. m., an Auburn physician was summoned to the home. Shortly after his arrival, an ambulance was also called to the home to remove the young man to the hospital, but the youth had passed away before its arrival.

The youth was a lifelong resident of the St. Joe community. He had just recently returned from Arizona, where his oldest brother is located, and had been employed in Phoenix and Flagstaff. He had been there about one year, leaving St. Joe last May.

Wilbur Franklyn Shuff was born March 28, 1927.

He attended the St. Joe High School, and was graduated with the class of 1945. He was a member of the K. of P. Lodge, No. 400, at St. Joe.

Surviving besides the parents, are five brothers, Chalmer of Flagstaff, Ariz., and Maurice, Robert, James and William, all at home, and 11 sisters, Jacqueline, Joan, Janice, Shirley, Claudia, Katherine, Mary Jane, Linda Lou, Kaye, Faye and Roseann, all at home.

The oldest brother, Chalmer, from Arizona, left for St. Joe immediately after word reached him of the tragedy, and it was hoped he would arrive in time for the burial services, which were subsequently delayed. However burial was made Riverview cemetery, when the brother had not yet arrived at 5 p.m. Johnnie Lee Sennett officated at both the church and graveside services.

—R. H. C.—

The R. H. C. Club met with Mrs. Minnie Gee, Tuesday afternoon April 5th. The president having charge of the meeting. Nine members responded to roll call, one guest was present. After the business meeting, Mrs. Leona Mason conducted a Bible quiz. The hostess served a very nice lunch. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Edna Jenkins, Tuesday afternoon May 4.

A Fairy Tale

Once upon a time there was a motorist who needed some work done on his car. He approached a mechanic and asked if the car could be worked on that day. The mechanic replied that he had plenty to do, but he would at least take a look to see if he could find the trouble.

Late that afternoon the motorist called the mechanic and the following conversation took place:

"Did you find anything wrong with the Studebaker?"

"Well, I put the car up on the hoist and checked the tie rods and tie-rod ends and they're as tight as they can be. Then I took the car out and drove it; I don't think you're getting a shimmy - I think your trouble is in the tires; they're out of balance. The wheels bounce and set up a vibration."

"O. K. I'll be down and pick it up. How much do I owe you?"

"Nothing. I didn't do you any good."

"But it took time to check it over, didn't it?"

"I know, but I dont like to charge if I don't do anything and I didn't do anything to your car."

Having become accustomed to the "strictly business" attitude which is characteristic of the comparatively Big City, the above incident is to us something out of a story book. But it did happen in St. Joe.

It is a good example of the friendly service and helpfulness given by the business men in the small community to their customer-friends - something which is sorely needed in the larger communities. The small town folk are indeed fortunate people.

Oh yes, we won't tell you the real name of the mechanic in the above story. Let's just call him "Jiggs".

NEW WILDLIFE AREAS REPORTED IN THIS COUNTY .....

With approximately thirty being added each month, Wildlife habitat areas in the state now total 1,184 with a combined acreage of 6,698.

New leases have been made in DeKalb county since the last report of cooperating landowners was made in October.

John H. Nigh, director of the Indiana Department of Conservation, announced that 29 new leases were made in the state during January 39 in February and 22 in March. He added that all leases made during the past year now are being developed with seeds and seedlings.

Indiana's wildlife habitat restoration is directed by the Conservation Department's Fish and Game division and operated under the Pittman-Robertson Act which provides federal funds derived from the sales tax on guns and ammunition.

The department works in cooperation with farmers and conservation clubs to advance this program of developing food and cover for birds and small game. Small tracts of land are leased for ten years, and are developed by planting prescribed trees, shrubs, and vines for the benefit of Indiana wildlife.

Delaware and Henry county, each with 48, have the highest number of wildlife habitat areas in the state. Wayne and Kosciusko each has 43, Warren 42, Jasper 40 and Dubois 39.

The following wildlife habitat areas leased in DeKalb county since October 1, 1947 were listed by H. P. Cottingham, who is in charge of this project: Rolland and Alberta Bowser, R. R. 3, Auburn, 15.13 acres.

HORSE SENSE

It is extremely important during tree planting operations to keep the roots of the trees moist at all times. They should be carried in a pail with the roots immersed in water.

Work is a cure for unrest, but so many people think the remedy is worse than the disease.

Order fertilizer early and accept delivery early. This is the only way to be sure you will have it when needed.

We'll need a lot of water next summer to produce that yield of 100 bushels of corn to the acre. One pound of dry matter requires 600 to 500 pounds of water. Are you allowing more of the water to run off this spring than neccessary?

Low-Cost portable buildings on soil of maintained productivity seem better than more ornate permanent structures paid for with depleted soil resources.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY TO EXTEND POWER FACILITIES

Mr. C. V. Sorenson, President, Indiana Service Corporation, Fort Wayne released an announcement last week that the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company with which its company is affiliated is planning a large steam power plant development in southeastern Indiana, in Dearborn County, close to the corporate limits of Lawrenceburg. About 200 acres of land have already been acquired for this development, and as soon as some minor additional parcels are obtained plans will be started for the design of the plant with construction expected to begin sometime early in 1949.

"This is the second major addition to that system's power generating facilities to be projected within the last twelve months", said Mr. Sorenson. "Last spring an addition to the Twin Branch Station at Mishawaka, comprising 137,500 kilowatts or 185, 000 horse power of aditional capacity, was undertaken. Engineering studies have shown that the expansion of the twin Branch Plant has been carried to its economic limit and, therefore, another site and a new station has become necessary to met the expanding power requirements of the customers of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., and of Indiana Service Corp.,

The boilers in the new plant will be designed to burn coal from either the Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia or Ohio fields. The capacity of the first generating unit will be 137,5000 kw the same as that of the unit now being installed at Twin Branch.

"The new plant will have incorporated into it the latest advances in design and efficiency that have been developed on the system of the American Gas and Electric Co." continued Mr. Sorenson. Steam will be generated at 2000 pounds pressure at a temperature of 1050 degrees with the result that this plant will become one of group of power plants now being built on the American Gas and Electric system which has set new records for efficiency among fuel burning electric power plants in this country."

The design and construction of the plant will be under the supervision of American Gas and Electric and management affiliate of Indiana & Michigan Electric Company.

DISCUSES SOYBEAN MEAL IN POULTRY RATIONS

Excellent chickens have been grown to maturity on a ration containing only soybean meal, as the protein supplement to corn and minerals when good pasture was available, Prof. C. W. Carrick, Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station, reported at a recent meeting of soybean processors and agronomists at Purdue. High egg production and hatchability were obtained also from this feeding program.

Purdue studies have shown that chickens in confinement were satisfactorily ggrown after eight weeks of age, on corn and soybean rations supplemented only with riboflavin, one of the B vitamins, minerals and A and D oil. The chickens started laying and laid as well on this ration during the first years as those on the control rations which contained all the known needed nutrients. However, high hatchability was not obtained until five percent of meat and bone scraps was added.

It is evident that soybean oil meal is deficient in an unknown factor required for high hatchability. Carrick said that good pastures will also supply the hatchability factor not adequately supplied by soybean meal and grain rations. He cited work of the Ohio Expjeriment Station where small amounts of fish meal, meat and bone scraps and fish solubles amply supplemented soybean meal and grain rations for hatchability when fowls were confined.

Although soybean meal and grains are usualy deficient in certain known vitamins (riboflavin, pantothenic acid, niacin and choline and certain minerals) so far as the young chick is conerned, and also the hatchability factor these deficiencies may be corrected by the use of fermentation residues, small amounts of meat and fish products and a few simple minerals or good pastures.

Soybean meal is also deficient in certain minerals but these may be supplied by bone meal, limestone, iodized salt and manganese sulfate as judged by the results obtained during the growing period and the first year.

IS THIS THE

"Sweetest riding story ever told"?

SOMETIMES we get just a bit upset over our engineers.

A cautious bunch, their tendency toward understatement now and then lets us overlook some mighty good bets.

About all they wanted to say about their new Hi-Poised power was that it went much further than anything else they knew toward controlling engine vibration frequencies.

They let us say it would make engine sensation "practically imperceptible."

That it would do away with a lot of shudder that often passes for clutch chatter. That it would "have an effect" on riding softness and quiet.

Well! Folks have now had a chance to try out our '48 beauties with Hi-Poised power—and you should hear what they say!

"Sweetest ride of any car," they tell us.

"Such smoothness—it's unbelievable!" "What have you done?—It's wonderful!"

What we did was apply a wholly new system of engine mounting.

It's a system that suspends the engine, much as in a cradle. This leaves it free to rock, bob or "wag its tail" (as every engine must)—yet maintains firm control of such movement at all times and speeds.

Add this to other things—big, soft tires on extra wide Safety-Ride rims; gentle coil springs on all four wheels; ample size and weight to master jounce and jitter—and what do you get?

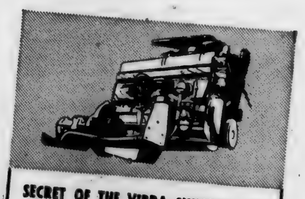
A definitely "sweeter" feel to the whole car. Soft, level going—with firm, sure footing. Lightness—with positive and dependable control.

In a phrase—"the sweetest riding story ever told," as it has been put.

Naturally, we'd like to have you size up our new Vibra-Shielded ride too.

After all, there's more to any car than meets the eye, even in this eye-winning beauty. And maybe this sweet and lovely ride is just what you've been waiting for.

Better see your Buick dealer, whether or not you have a car to trade—and get your order in.



SECRET OF THE VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE

Two fat cushions of special composition, and placed with scientific accuracy, suspend the Buick engine at the points where vibration is most readily controlled. A third new mounting at the rear completes a precise system of controlling engine vibration frequencies. The result is to shield the entire car against vibration build-up and make a noticeably smoother ride.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

BUICK alone has all these features

★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series)
★ TAPER-THRU STYLING (Super and Roadmaster)
★ VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE ★ FLEX-FIT OIL RINGS

RELEASE OF TROUT IN HOOSIER WATERS COMPLETED

The Indiana Department of Conservation has reported that the annual spring planting of trout in Hoosier waters is nearing completion. The department has been hauling 6,000 trout, mostly rainbow, from the federal fish hatchery at Neosha, Mo., to be planted in the cool streams of northern Indiana.

Experimental plantings will be made in central and southern waters to determine if the trout will survive there. The open season on trout in Indiana starts on May 1 and runs to August 31.

The closed season on bluegill, yellow perch, rock bass (red eye), crappie and red eared sunfish has been removed for this year. This step was taken by the Conservation Department because of evidence that the food supply is inadequate for the number of fish in Indiana lakes and streams.

The Indiana closed season on northern and wall-eyed pike, silver and Kentucky bass, and large and small mouth bass extends from May 1 to June 15 inclusive.

BIDS FOR A DRAG LINE FOR THIS COUNTY BEING STUDIED

The DeKalb county commissioners reported Thursday that final action would be taken Saturday on the purchase of a county drag line to deal with serious drainage problems on area farms and aid country road building.

Commissioners received 19 bids from various drag line manufacturers. They recessed late Wednesday to study with County Surveyor, Wayne T. Van Auken the submitted bids.

They reported that bids on the drag line ranged from $9,000 to $14,000. The machine when delivered will be in charge of the county surveyor.

Several days, ago the U. S. Department of Agrilculture sent into the county a half yard drag line for the exclusive use of farmers needing ditching. This machine will go into operation within the next several days. It was brought into the area by the DeKalb soil conservation district through the local U. S. soil Conservationist. The district supervisors are in charge of the governments's $12,500 machine.

HELMKE CAMPAIGN WELL UNDERWAY

"Put Helmke at the Helm" is the theme of the first piece of campaign literature released today by the Helmke-for-Governor Club, at Indianapolis, in support of Walter E. Helmke, Fort Wayne attorney and candidate for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination.

Stating that "during his eight years of yeoman service as its county chairman, Allen County produced at average margin of republican victory two-and-one-half times greater than its quota based on population," the colorful blue, gray and maroon brochure exclaims "Put Helmke at the Helm ---and watch our top vote-maker become our top vote-getter.

The Helmke folder recalls that, while "Allen County's quota of the plurality of 25,400 in 1940 was only 1,143, Allen County actually delivered a G. O. P. Plurality of 10,500, nearly 10 times its quota and over 41 percent of the total state G. O. P. plurality." Similar comparative statistics are listed for 1942, 1944 and 1946.

Containing excerps from Indiana newspapers editorials friendly to his candidacy, and 30 biographical citations of Helmke's careers as a Republican, civic and religious leader, lawyer, administrator and speaker (including his presidency of the International Walther League and of the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers), the campaign brochure comments:

"But never once was Walter Helmke tempted into building a personal organization --he was not merely content --- he was determined ---to serve the party which he continues to regard as more important than himself or any of its individual members.

Nor did his unparalleled performance as Couty Chairman lead him in the least from his deepseated belief that the best should be made of an elective office after it is won. At 46, he has long since won acclaim as one of the nation's outstanding authorities on municipal government. An he can be counted upon to add immeasurably to the quality of good state government in Indiana:"

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT MEETING TO BE HELD MONDAY

G. A. Williams, extension dairyman from Purdue University, will be present for a meeting for Dairy Herd Improvement Association members on Monday night, April 19. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the Auburn Courthouse assembly room.

At this time Mr. Williams will discuss current problems in the dairy business, such as feeding management, pastures, etc. Also plans will be made for the combination Pasture and Agronomy Day to be held sometime this summer. All members are invited to attend and participate in this meeting.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

Herman Dean, well-known gun collector and publisher, recently sent us a copy of his new book, "Gun-Fun with Safety" and, although the entire book is excellent, it was a section in the back devoted to state game laws affecting the use of firearms that interested us most. So we repeat some of these laws to show what certain states are doing to protect their game.

In Connecticut landowners and their employees may kill deer with shotgun, rife or bow and arrow. And three friends of each landowner may kill deer with shotgun or bow and arrow.

In Delaware it is illegal to hunt when the ground is covered with snow. A similar law in Mississippi prohibits hunting or game animals when the snow is two inches deep or when game is forced to move by fire or high water.

It is illegal to shoot quail on the ground or deer while swimming in Florida. Kansas prohibits the shooting of game birds on the ground unless wounded, and in Maryland it is illegal to shoot deer when they are in the water.

In Louisiana it is against the law to hunt deer from a camp for more than three days, and in Michigan it is illegal to shoot deer from a raised platform. Hunters in Rhode Island must report in writing with 24 hours all deer either wounded or killed.

A lincese fee of only 25 cents for person over 65 years of age is required in Rhode Island; and residents of Kentucky over 65 need only show their birth certificates for free hunting privileges. In Louisiana you can hunt gratis if you are over 60 years of age.

It's illegal to shoot into squirrels' nests in New Jersey and New Hampshire bans shooting squirrels in parks or cemeteries. North Carolina laws forbid shooting deer when they are in water above their knees, and in Wisconsin it is against the law to shoot deer in water or on ice. Many of the eastern states prohibit hunting of any type on Sunday, while Oklahoma outlaws quail shooting on Sunday.

We could ramble on and on about the various laws, such as it is illegal to kill game except for meat, etc. but we have mentioned enough regulations to prove that most states are trying to give the game a break --- at least in the rule and regulation book.

The Return From Exile

Lesson for April 18, 1948

COWPER'S lines come to mind as we study the dramatic return of the Jews from their exile in Babylon to Jerusalem in the first year of the reign of Cyrus, king of Persia, 536 B. C.:

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footsteps in the sea
And rides upon the storm."

Dr. Newton

And yet it is not altogether strange for if you will turn to Jeremiah 29:4-14 you will find a prophecy given 50 years before the event that this very thing would occur.

There were two other deportations of the Jews from Babylon, prior to the incident in our lesson — the return led by Daniel, 606 B. C., and the one led by Ezekiel, 597 B. C.

PROCLAMATION OF CYRUS

THE proclamation of Cyrus, Ezra 1:1-5, records the happy word to the Jews that they would not only return, but that the temple would be rebuilt. Cyrus called upon all the people who would to make offerings by which the temple might be restored. Cyrus was acting under divine impulse in this gracious and generous proclamation.

"The Lord God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth; and he hath charged me to build him an house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah," said Cyrus, Ezra 1:2.

Fifty thousand Jews, their hearts rejoicing at the thought of returning to the land of their fathers, set out on the trek of 600 miles, laden with gifts from the Persians for the restoration of the temple in Jerusalem. They could now sing the song of the Lord, and no longer did their harps hang silently on the willow trees.

THE DECREE OF ARTAXERXES

THE fourth chapter of Ezra brings us to the halting of the work on the temple, after they had raised the magnificent sum of approximately $400,000, and had laid the foundation for the temple, with imposing ceremonies.

This delay was occasioned by the jealousy of the Samaritans, who went to Artaxerxes, through employed counsel, and convinced him that it would be dangerous to allow these Jews to rebuild Jerusalem. At first, the Samaritans proposed that the Jews let them use the temple in joint worship, but the Jews feared the Samaritans and refused their offer. It was then that the Samaritans effected the delay in the building of the temple by the space of 14 years. Meanwhile, the Jews went forward with the building of their homes and reestablishing themselves and their civilization in Jerusalem.

STICKING TO ONE'S PURPOSE

WE come now to the part Haggai played in summoning the Jews to their duty and obligation to God to restore the temple. It was in the second year of the reign of Darius that Haggai received the word of the Lord. "Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your ceiled houses, and this house lie waste? Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Consider your ways."

It was enough. The people rallied to the call of Haggai, and the temple was completed. Men can always do what they ought to do, if they will to do it.

GOD'S PURPOSE FULFILLED

THE message of Haggai was heeded. The temple was completed, Ezra 6:13-18, and God's purpose was fulfilled. Read Psalm 126.

This brings us to the golden text: "No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the Kingdom of God," Luke 9:62. When once the returned exiles felt the iron of God's purpose surging through their veins, they quitted themselves like men, and God's power was everywhere manifest. So may it ever be with us!

As We Achieve

The degree of success which we achieve in making effective our Christian education program in the life of this generation will determine whether future generations will be able to enjoy a society free from the distrust of religious intolerance, the vindictiveness of race prejudice, and the bitterness of class hatred.—Walter W. Head.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS FESTIVAL IN AUBURN

An enthusiastic audience of nearly 2,000 persons jammed Alumni Gymnasium at Auburn late Sunday afternoon to hear the first DeKalb county spring musical festival.

Following the reception given the band and chorus, music instructors in the county schools said the festival will now be made an annual affair.

Gilbert Kellberg, instructor in instrumental music in the Auburn schools, was master of ceremonies for the program. Students of the Ashley, Garrett, St. Joe, Butler, Waterloo, Spencerville and Auburn schools participated in the program. Over 200 band students played and a boys and girls choir of 200 voices presented several selections.

BOATS AVAILABLE IN MANY INDIANA PARKS, FORESTS

Hoosiers frequenting state-owned properties will have a good chance for sunburn this year.

Indiana Department of Conservation officials announced today that more than 200 state-owned boats will be available for hire in state parks and state forests. Spring Mill, Lincoln and Shakamak state parks boast lakes entirely surrounded by state land, and on these properties there are nearly 100 boats, owned by the Conservation Department, that are now ready for use for a nominal charge. Last year boat rental rates were standardized for all except Pokagon and Dunes where the bodies of water are not enclosed by state property.

This season additional boats were made available for Spring Mill and Lincoln parks and an attempt is being made to secure equipment for a boat livery at Bass Lake Beach State Park. Conservation officials pointed out motor boats and boats with motor attachments are not permitted on any state park lakes because of the small size.

Beginning this year private boats are allowed on all of the lakes in Yelowwood, Jackson, Seales Lake, Morgan-Monroe, Clark and Greene Sullivan state forests. State boats will be available on a rental basis at most of these lakes.

TO the voters of DeKalb, Steuben and Lagrange counties:

I shall be a candidate at the May primary on the Republican ticket for the office of Joint-Senator for the above counties. I have endeavored to serve you honesty and efficiently Your support will be appreciated.

BARBER SHOPPERS SURPRISE EDITOR

The Defiance Chapter Chorus and their barber shop quartet "The Clipper", members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quarter Singing in American, presented an excellent program over Radio Station WOWO at Fort Wayne, last Saturday afternoon.

On their way back to Defiance a group of them composed of Keith Tustison of the Defiance Crescent News, Richard Kress, Leonard Kuhn, John Moses, Jr., all of Defiance and Gerald Woodward, of Stryker, stopper in at the St. Joe News office to visit the editor and his father, who are both members of Ft. Wayne Chapter of the same organization, the latter a member of the Colonial Quartet.

Keith Tustison was much interested in our newspaper not only because he is connected with one himself, but also because his father Lee Tustison now of Defiance was connected with the St. Joe News many years ago. His father visited here a few weeks ago.

We are gratefull for this visit from these friends and are looking forward to the time when we may have a group of them from Defiance and Fort Wayne get together at St. Joe and give the community a nice open air entertainment some evening this summer.

On Sunday afternoon, May 2, at 2 p. m., quartets from Indiana and Kentucky will vie in a friendly contest in Concordia Gymnasium in Ft. Wayne to determine the four best quartets, in the ears of the judges, which are to enter the international finals at Oklahoma City on June 12. A total of 40 quartets will be entered in the finals from which the five best will be seected. The Doctors of Harmony are present International Champions. They are from Elkhart, Indiana.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1948 NUMBER 16

DEKALB COUNTY YOUTH WINNER OF FUTURE FARMER TRIP TO CHICAGO

On of the forty midwest Future Farmers of America who will receive this year's annual award trip by Prairie Farmer-WLS is Richard Uber, of Garrett. The young FFA member was chosen for his outstanding achievements in farming and the leadership qualities he has displayed in FFA work during the past year. With the other award winners he will enjoy a three day all-expense-paid trip to Chicago, starting April 23.

This is the fifth annual award of this kind since 1944, when Prairie Farmer-WLS first instituted a proaging and honoring outstanding gram of awards aimed at encourmembers of the 4-H Club, Future Farmers of America, Rural Youth and other farm youth groups in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan. Since then, two thousand boys and girls in the four state area annually receive individual awards in recognition of their achievements.

The program planned for the forty young Future Farmers during both educational and entertainment their weekend in Chicago includes features. Reservations have been made for them at the Bismarch Hotel, which will be their headquarters. On Friday, shortly after their arrival, they will be guests of Prairie Farmer-WLS on the Dinner Bell program at noon, when Arthur C. Page associate editor of Prairie Farmer will interview them and extend a welcome and congratulations. In the afternoon they will board busses to visit the International Harvester Company for a specially conducted tour of the plant. Chartered busses will afford the Future Farmers interesting sightseeing thoughout the city.

Highlights of the week-end's entertainment will be the annual banquet Friday evening, to be held in the March Room of the Bismarch, when Mr. Allen Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation will speak. Special television features have been planned and National Barn Dance favorites, including Rex Allen, the Sage Riders, and the DeZurik Sisters, will be in attendance with plenty of musical entertainment.

On Saturday morning the award winners will visit such places as the Board of Trade and the popular Museum of Science and Industry, where they will have lunch. Returning to the studios of WLS, they will be guests on the "Merry-Go-Round" program, and at 2:45 p. m. participate in the annual Round Table broadcast. This latter program has always been a lively discussion feature for the FFA group. Saturday evening a special dinner at the Stevens Hotel at 6:00 p.m. will precede attendance at the National Barn Dance, where the boys will be honored guests.

A late and leisurely breakfast on Sunday morning, after which they will have free time to do as they choose, will preclude the farewells of the Future Farmer group as they return again to their various homes in four states.

GOP CONGRESSMAN SEEKS AID FOR GAME DIVISION

Indiana's share of Federal tax receipts from State sales of sporting arms and ammunitions would be doubled under a resolution introduced in Congress by Republican Representative Ralph Harvey of the 10th District.

Representative Harvey has introduced a resolution requiring the Federal Government to stop ignoring the 350,000 free hunting and fishing licenses issued Hoosier veterans.

Under the Pittman-Robertson Act, distribution of tax receipts is dependent strictly upon the number of hunting licenses sold by the various states.

Indiana, by virtue of its issuance of free licenses to veterans of all wars, thereby loses approximately 50 per cent of its share.

Conservationists have pointed out that veterans, although they use free licenses to hunt, buy just as many guns and just as much ammunition as regular license holders. Therefore they reason the Federal government's distribution system is phony.

Under the law, the Government makes Pittman-Robertson money available on a 75-25 basis for approved projects designed to increase the game supply.

Indiana's share, under the present set-up is roughly 37½-25, although the state pours more money into the fund through arms and ammunition purchases than most of its sister states.

Conservation groups throughout Indiana are whole-heartedly backing the Harvey resolution which would increase the Department of Conservation's game fund by more than a quarter of a million dollars.

This is the last week of central standard time in DeKalb County until next fall. St. Joe, along with the rest of the county will turn it's clocks ahead one hour Saturday night, and daylight saving time will be observed until the last Saturday in September.

The Universal Tool & Stamping Co. of Spencerville was made defendant in a suit filed in federal court at Fort Wayne Tuesday by Montgomery Ward and Co. The complaint alleges that the Spencerville firm sold $7,314 worth of automobile accessories to Montgomery Ward and that the goods later were found to be defective. Payment had already been made and the suit was filed for the amount of the alleged debt.

Quite heavy damage was done to the automobiles belonging to Dewey White, and Austin Harts of St. Joe in a freak accident that occured Tuesday night about 12 o'clock. The 1936 Oldsmobile, driven by Mr. Harts, who was returning from Ft. Wayne, crashed into White's 1937 Chevrolet, which was parked in front of his house, near the south edge of St. Joe. Harts said that the accelerator stuck on his car and while freeing it he crashed into the parked car. Although both cars were damaged, Mr. Harts received no injuries. White's car was unoccupied.

Another Fulton Invention

Robert Edison Fulton Jr. is the inventor of an airphibian, a cross between a station wagon and an airplane. It has proven successful in the air and on land. The wings are removed when used as an automobile.

CULTURE CLUB

The lesson leader was Mrs. Willard Hurni and the article read was "Must There Be War In The Middle East?" The special work was a book review, "The Miracle Of The Bells" by Russell Jenny, and was presented by Mrs. Clyde Duker. Roll call was taken with eleven active members responding with a New Book and Author. The hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. Leon Kees, served the members a delicious lunch.

The last meeting of the year will be held April 28th, at the home of Mrs. Lester Anthony. A potluck supper will be held at 6:30 p. m. and the members are asked to bring their own table service.

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE DEADLINE DATE NEAR

DeKalb County farmers operating over 300 farms have already signed up for Federal crop insurance protection on their 1948 corn crop, announced Arthur Lautzenhiser, chairman of the DeKalb Co. AAA committee. He points out however, that there are many farmers in the county who will want this protection but have not as yet signed an application. "They should do so just as soon as possible because April 30th is the last day that we can accept applications."

Crop insurance protects the farmer against loss of his investment in putting in and caring for the crop. the insurance starts the day the corn is planted and remains in effect until the crop is harvested. There are many production hazards which damage or destroy corn crops, and a crop insurance policy will protect the farmer against loss due to practically all natural hazards. Hail drought excessive moisture and frost are only a few of the natural hazards over which the farmer has no control but which crop insurance will protect him against.

The coverage for all insurable farms in the county is $22.00 an acre and the cost is sixty cents per acre or less. The total coverage and premium are based on the number of acres planted to corn. Thus a farmer who plants forty acres would be guaranteed a return of not less that $880.00 at a cost of $22.80.

The crop insurance premium which a farmer pays is deductive on his income tax return as a farm operating expense. This in effect reduces the cost of crop insurance protection to the farmer.

Representatives of the DeKalb County AAA office are attempting to personally contact as many farmers as possible but they will not be able to visit each one. "Farmers are therefore urged to call at the office in Auburn to find out more about this new low-cost protection plan as soon as they can", says Mr. Lautzenhiser. "Remember, April 30 is the last day that an application can be signed."

On Sunday, May 2, Fort Wayne Chapter No. 8 SPEBSQSA (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America) will be host to approximately twenty quartets which will be competing for top honors in the 1948 Regional Preliminary Contest.

Headquarters for the event have been set up in the Van Orman Hotel. On Sunday morning there will be a District Meeting and election of District Officers. as well as a breakfast for members and ladies in the Chatterbox.

The regional preliminary contests are the first step toward the finals which are to be held this year in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, on June 12, 1948. The International Champions chosen last year are from our own home state - The Doctors of Harmony from Elkhart.

Since the contest May 2 will be held in the Concordia College Gym, there will be no reserved seats--"First come --- first served". Tickets are available in St. Joe at the News office; the admission price is $1.50.

SAND BOUGHT FROM STATE GOING INTO CHICAGO'S AIRPORT

Hoosier sand, purchased from the Indiana Department of Conservation is being used in the construction of a new airport in Chicago.

Director John H. Nigh said today that royalties from this project and other sand and gravel will bring the Conservation Department its largest revenue from this source for the past decade.

Royalties from these products, taken out of Indiana lakes and streams, yielded $56,651.15 during the 1947 fiscal year. This sum, however, will be topped by more than $20,000 from sand and gravel sales this fiscal year.

The sand used for the fill of the Northerly Airport, now being built in Chicago, comes from the Indiana Shoals--a vast deposit of sand in Lake Michigan near Indiana Harbor. It lies in the lake area under Indiana control.

Removal operations, started a year ago, are scheduled to be resumed May 3 by the company having the contract for the new airport fill. This firm is pouring 800,000 cubic yards of fill sand--taken from the Indiana Shoals and for which the Hoosier state receives three cents yer yard--behind bulkheads to increase the island's area by 22 acres.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

We've always been a little envious of sportsmen who can walk through a patch of poison ivy without suffering disasterous effects, for we have learned from past experiences that to come into contact with this plant means many uncomfortable days recuperating. And we are not alone for thousands and thousands of outdoorsmen annually get poison ivy.

Consequently we were happy to read that scientists in the Columbia University laboratories are making progress in learning the exact chemical nature of the active principle of poison ivy. Recent studies have revealed a close relationship between sensitivity to poison ivy and a wide variety of substances and materials both natural and manufactured. A synthetic compound, having the same structural skeleton as poison ivy, has been developed and, at present, is undergoing extensive tests. And it is possible that this compound, in a suitable vehicle and concentration, may be used in an attempt to desensitize persons sensitive to poison ivy.

Here's hoping the university boys luck in finding the solution quickly so we, and all other suffering sportsmen can wade through the brush without having to travel a zig-zag course in avoiding the ivy plants.

Hatchery Fish: We have often wondered just how many hatchery fish are able to escape the fishermen, and other enemies, the first year after being planted. A report from Michigan partially answers the question and, frankly, we are amazed at the figures uncovered through a voluntary creel census made on the upper part of the Au Sable River last year. There were 8,000 trout taken during the surveys, 28 per cent of which were hatchery-released fish.

Of the 1,114 hatchery brook trout caught in 1947, 1,110 were planted the same season and four were carried over from 1946 plantings. Of 265 hatchery rainbows, 256 were 1947 stock and nine from 1946. There were 812 brown trout caught that had been planted the same year, and 26 were a carry-over.

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

4,000 CAST BALLOTS IN GILLIE POLL

With the fourth Indiana District Congressional Opinion Poll entering the homestretch, more than 4,000 ballots from Northeastern Indiana voters have been received and tabulated by the office of Rep. George W. Gillie.

Opinion trends established early in the poll, now in its third week, have change very little. On the basis of votes tabulated to date, Congressman Gillie's constituents:

(1) Approve of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law nearly 7 to 1.

(2) Oppose compulsory peacetime military training 2 to 1.

(5) Oposes the return of price 7 to 2.

(4) Oppose the Marshall Plan by nearly 4 to 1.

(6) Disapprove of the Truman policy towards Russia 4 to 1.

The poll, which is being conducted by Congressman Gillie with the cooperation of the newspapers of the Fourth District, will end on May 1.

Presidential Poll--Standings in the Fourth District presidential Straw Poll changed little during the past week with Senator Robert A. Taft retaining a commanding lead over Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

Balloting was marked by increased support for President Truman, who has jumped to sixth place in the poll behind Taft, Dewey, MacArthur Stassen and Vandenberg. Trailing the President are Eisenhower, Bricker, Warren and Wallace.

With 2,000 ballots received and tabulated, standings of the candidates are as follows:

1. TAFT	552
2. DEWEY	308
3. MACARTHUR	194
4. STASSEN	169
5. VANDENBERG	153
6. TRUMAN	127

WILLIS K. BACTHELET for JOINT-STATE SENATOR

Willis K. Batchelet

Willis K. Batchelet of Angola Steuben County, Republican Candidate for Joint-State Senator, LaGrange, DeKalb, and Steuben Counties believes that the basic principles of good Government should be honesty, integrity and fairness - the foundation of all successful business. He also believes that the cost of Government should be reduced and more State funds returned to Counties, Cities and Towns.

Practicing lawyer in Angola twenty-one years. Taught Engineering and Business Law at Tri-State College. City Attorney of Angola for sixteen years.

Born and raised on a farm. Has been active in 4-H work for eighteen years and takes a keen interest in farming, believing that Welfare of Nation rests largely upon farming and its Prosperity.

Worked a year in the Nash Automobile Factoy as laborer and knows the laborers problem in the industrial field

It has been twenty years since Steuben County has held the office of State Senator, DeKalb County having furnished the Senator for sixteen consecutive years.

Your vote in the Primary, May 4th, will be appreciated and if elected to this office he will endeavor to fulfill it in a conscientious and efficient manner, working for the welfare of all the Counties represented.

Looked at and looked up to

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

This is the one, of course, that you spot at a glance.

This is the one that sends a string of facts racing through your mind – if you know automobiles – the instant you see the name ROADMASTER spelled out on its fender.

Up to one hundred and fifty Fireball horsepower. Eighteen feet big – and spring-colt lively.

Gorgeously finished. Coil-spring cradled on all four wheels. Shod with oversize tires that take extra low pressures for added comfort.

Convenient too – with push-button controls not only for the top, but for door windows and the front-seat adjustment as well.

This, too, is the only passenger car in this country where the power plant does what gears used to do.

Here's the one place you'll find Dynaflow Drive,* in which liquid replaces not only the clutch and manually operated low, second and high, but mechanical gear-changers as well.

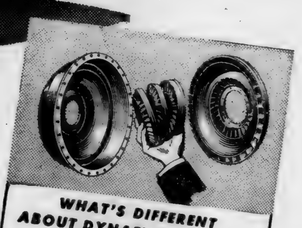
In short – here's liquid ease and smoothness in delightful new degree, through a sort of "magic muscle" that lets you forget about gear-changing practically entirely.

No wonder, then, this car is looked up to.

Looked up to for impressive appearance – looked up to for superlative ability.

Looked up to for what's newest in engineering advances.

If your standards call for a real performer – and for quality a cut above the ordinarily good – specify ROADMASTER when you see your dealer (with or without a car to trade) about getting an order in.



WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produces a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

BUICK alone has all these features

★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series)
★ TAPER-THRU STYLING (Super and Roadmaster)
★ VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE ★ SAFETY-RIDE RIMS
★ HI-POISED FIREBALL POWER
★ ROAD-RITE BALANCE ★ RIGID TORQUE-TUBE

VETERANS MAY STILL REINSTATE LIFE INSURANCE

With only a little more than ninety days before the deadline to reinstate National Service Life Insurance without taking a physical examination, the Veterans Administration Insurance Officer today emphasized the ease with which veterans can put their insurance back into force.

The deadline for reinstating without a physical examination is on or before July 31, 1948. Two steps are necessary to reinstate term insurance:

1. Sign a comparative health statement indicating your health is as good as when the insurance lapsed.

2. Pay two monthly premiums.

After reinstatement of a veteran's term insurance, a veteran has eight years to convert this term insurance a veteran has eight years to convert six insurance plans offered by the this term insurnce to any one of VA if his policy has originally taken out before January 1, 1946. If it was taken out after January 1, 1946, the veteran has five yeras to convert.

For complete details and reinstatement forms, visit or write your nearest Veterans Administration office. In Fort Wayne the VA office is located on the second floor of the Purdue Building at Jefferson and Barr Streets. Office hours are 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

WEATHER CHANGES QUITE RAPIDLY IN MARCH, AS USUAL

"The Wind and the Rains in Your Hair" was more than a song title during March, a month of excesive weather variations in Indiana, with special effect that included winds of tornado proportion.

All in all, the month was pretty unpleasant even for March.

Rainfall was heaviest in the central portions, as the weather bureau says, also above normal in Northern counties and less than average in the South. The Indiana Department of Conservation's cooperation with the U. S. Geological monthly "review", undertaken in Survey, clocked the wind at 90 miles per hour during the two March storms which cost more than 20 lives and property damages estimated at 20 million dollars.

Ice which covered many Northern Indiana lakes to the unusual thickness of two feet during Feb., melted gradually after the first days of March and disappeared entirely following the heavy rains of the 19th and 20th,

ZECHARIAH 1:1-6; 4; 7—8.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 24:1-6.

Zechariah Pleads For Righteousness

Lesson for April 25, 1948

ZECHARIAH almost certainly was born and reared in or near Babylon, and was trained for the priesthood and ordained of the Lord as a prophet. His father, Berechiah, was the son of Iddo, the prophet. Though much younger than Haggai, about whom we studied last Sunday, Zechariah began his ministry only two months later than Haggai—a ministry which was to summon the people to righteousness as a condition essential in the rebuilding of the temple and in cleansing themselves of idolatry, if they were to throw off the yoke of their foes. The student will need to read the entire Book of Zechariah to have the background for this lesson. Also Psalm 24:1-6.

Dr. Newton

LIVING TOGETHER IN GOD'S WAY

"TURN ye unto me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will turn unto you," Zechariah 1:3. People cannot live together in peace and harmony until first they are on speaking terms with God. The insidious onslaught of secularism was weakening the Jews at the very moment when they needed to be strong and united for the task of rebuilding the temple and restoring their life in Jerusalem.

Read further into the prophecy of Zechariah and note the admonitions of the Lord for kindness one toward another—kindness and understanding and sincerity, which are the indispensable qualities of community life.

WHAT MAKES A PEOPLE GREAT?

ZECHARIAH reminds the people that the downfall of their fathers had been due to their forgetfulness of God. He calls them now to repentance of their own sins, that they become truly a great people. "Fear not, but let your hands be strong," Zechariah 8:13.

"What makes a nation great and strong?
Not brick, nor stone, nor wood,
But justice, love and brotherhood."

Boys and girls will do well to look again at what this old prophet was saying. We long to see the United States a truly great nation. Then let us be strong in the Lord.

GOD HAS A STANDARD

READ chapter seven, verses 8-14, and 8:16-17, for some of the standards which God sets up for his people. "Execute true judgment, and show kindness and compassion every man to his brother. Oppress not the widow, the orphan, the foreigner, or the poor, and never plot evil in your hearts against one another."

Zechariah is here epitomizing the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount. All of which is to remind us today that we do not need new standards. We simply need to conform to God's eternal standards.

GOD IS TO BE SOUGHT UNTO

THE first eight chapters of Zechariah have to do with the essential qualities of life if the people are to rebuild the temple. The last six chapters deal with the general standards of life which we must accept and strive to attain if we are to be well-pleasing unto him.

I like the phrase of the fathers, "God is to be sought unto." And how are we to come into the presence of the Lord? "He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, now sworn deceitfully," Psalms 24:4.

It was not enough to rebuild the temple. God wanted his people to become living stones of integrity and fidelity in the city of God.

This we shall attain only as we seek first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness—constantly seek this daily walk with the Lord, in the light of his word.

"Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

By the Bible

If we abide by the principles taught in the Bible, our country will go on prospering and to prosper; but if we and our posterity neglect its instructions and authority, no man can tell how sudden a catastrophe may overwhelm us and bury all our glory in profound obscurity. —Daniel Webster.

How you and your family will enjoy ownership of this newer, smarter, finer Chevrolet for 1948! It brings you BIG-CAR QUALITY—not in one item only, but in every phase of styling, engineering and construction—and brings it to you AT LOWEST COST, as well. That is why more people drive Chevrolets, according to official nationwide registrations—and more people want Chevrolets, according to seven independent nationwide surveys—than any other make of car. That is why you, too, will agree that CHEVROLET AND ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST in all-round value!

You'll enjoy much greater comfort in Chevrolet for 1948. It brings you the Big-Car riding-smoothness and road-steadiness of the Unitized Knee-Action Gliding Ride. Another feature found only in Chevrolet and more expensive cars.

Just as you'll find no equal for Chevrolet value, so you'll find no equal for Chevrolet service. Safeguard your transportation by bringing your present car to us for skilled service, now and at regular intervals, pending delivery of your new Chevrolet!

New Type Radiators
The manufacture of large tube radiators has been discontinued. Since small tube radiators offer the same heat output and occupy only 60 per cent as much space, manufacturers are finding complete acceptance of that type and are concentrating their production facilities on small tube designs.

"It ain't fair!"

"There oughta be a law! Everything in our house runs by electricity—but this!"

Poor Butch has to do things the hard way. Mother has cheap, dependable electric service to help her cook and clean, wash and iron and sew. Dad runs his razor, and his workshop, too, by electricity. The whole family enjoys light, comfort, and entertainment at the flip of a switch.

Never before has electricity done so much to make life comfortable—for so little! Yes, in spite of sharply rising production costs, the average family still gets twice as much electric service for its money as it got 20 years ago!

The skill and experience of your friends and neighbors in this company have combined to keep the price of electricity low—and its usefulness greater than ever before.

Marathon — the famous money saving tire is back in the Goodyear line — and a better "buy" than ever! Back with the economy, long mileage and safety — the extra value for your dollars that made Marathon the favorite of millions of motorists before the war . . . back with more and stronger cords in the rugged tire body for even greater protection against tire failure. Look at these features . . .

LONG WEAR — New specially treated cords and newly compounded rubber make Marathon the tire that "runs and runs and runs".

NON-SKID SAFETY — Those famous Goodyear diamond blocks really grip the road. You get safer, quicker stops — especially on wet, skiddy roads.

"COMPACTING TREAD" — Inflation forces the sidewalls out, compacts the tread. This reduces tread wear, punctures, bruises and breaks.

For a really sensational "buy" in tires, see us for Marathons today! And remember "new tubes save tires".

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LXIII (63 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1948 NUMBER 17

Shockley-Hurni Vows Read Saturday

The marriage of Jean Hurni, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni, and Hearsel Shockley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hearsel Shockley of Spencerville was solemnized at 2 o'clock, Saturday, April 24 at the Christian Church in St. Joe.

The double ring ceremony was used.

The bride was lovely in a street length dress of dusty rose crepe, accented by a double strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

The full drape of her skirt was complemented by a pearl clasp at the waist.

Her accessories consisted of a small white corde hat, with shoulder length veil, white sandals and gloves. She carried a white Bible upon which rested a purple orchid with white streamers.

She had her sister, Miss Leila Hurni, as maid of honor who wore an aqua crepe dress with brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow jonquils.

The bride's mother wore a dress of navy print with black accesories and a snoulder bouquet of pink carnations. The groom's mother was dressed in black crepe with white accessories and also wore pink carnations.

Ronald Shockley served as best man, Paul Moore and Dan McMillen were ushers.

The church platform was decorated with palms, baskets of pink snap dragons and lighted candles.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Louise Zimmerman sang, "Wonderful" One", "Because", and "I Love You Truly", accompanied by Mr. Earl Kinsey at the piano, who also played "Claire De Lune" and "Ava Maria", by Bach.

The ceremony was conducted by Johnny Lee Sennett and the bride was given away by her father.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joe High School and has been employed by the General Electric.

The groom graduated from Spencerville High School, served in the Navy during World War II, and at presents is employed at the International Harvester Co.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, immediately following the ceremony. A four tiered wedding cake was served to about ninty guests, by Mrs. Chester Davis Jr., Mrs. Gaylord Rediger, Mrs. Dan McMillen and Mrs. Margurite Conner.

The couple are taking a short honeymoon trip.

For her going away, Mrs. Shockley wore an aqua suit of gabardine with brown accessories, and her orchid corsage.

The "NEW LOOK"

DISCUSS TOMATO GROWING IN DEKALB COUNTY

The county-wide Tomato meeting was held in the assembly room of the Courthouse on Thursday evening, April 22. Roscoe Frazer of the Purdue horticultural department led a discussion on growing tomatoes in DeKalb county. Several things were discussed during the meeting including the time of planting, fertilization, and the use of plants versus direct seeding.

Mr. Fraser stated that fertilizer was very important in growing a good crop of tomatoes and that experienced growers were using from 750-1000 lbs per acre of a fertilizer similar to 3-12-12. Between 500-700 lbs. of this was plowed under and the remainder was seeded directly below the plants or seed. He stated that tomatoes had done best in fields which previously had been in legumes. The nitrogen content of the soil, he stated, was very important for a successful growing of tomatoes.

Mr. Fraser also stated that plants or seed should be in the ground as soon as it was safe from weather conditions. In this area it comes around May 10-15 for seed and May 15-25 for plants. A general discussion was held on direct seeding versus the use of plants. Both seem to have their advantages and disadvantages and at the present time it is unwise to state which is best for DeKalb county. Experiments will be conducted this year in the county with the county extension service co-operating with the farmer growers and tomato companies.

WARN AGAINST "CROSS-OVERS" IN PRIMARY

The Indiana State Election Board warned that "cross-over voting" in a primary election is unlawful and added that crossing party lines to vote in opposition contests "defeats the purpose of primary elections."

In a routine announcement outlining qualifications for voting in the May 4 Primary, the Board said:

"The purpose of Primary election is to permit qualified members of political parties to select their candidates. Voting by members of one party in a Primary contest of an opposition party defeats the purpose of the Primary."

The board added that the right of any person offering to vote may be challenged by a challenger, by a member of the Precinct Election Board or by a voter in the precinct on grounds of party affiliation, provided the challenger is a member of the party for whose candidates the voter is attempting to vote.

Among the qualifications necessary for voting in the Primary, the voter must have voted at the last preceeding general election for a majority of the candidates of the party to which he claims allegiance and must declare that he intends to support and vote for the regular nominees of such party at the coming election or, if he did not vote at the last preceding general election, intends to vote for a majority of that party's ticket in the next general election.

WAR ASSETS OFFER 95% DISCOUNT TO EDUCATIONAL AND HEALTH INSTITUTIONS

Non-profit educational and public health institutions today were authorized public benefit allowances of 95 percent on virtually all types of surplus personal property according to Otto G. Klein, Chicago regional director of War Assets Administration. Klien was advised of the new order by Jess Larosn, WAA Administrator.

Klein stated that, effective at once qualified institutions will find nearly double the number of items on which the 95% discount will apply.

"With the exception of items classified as raw products, railroad transportation equipment, manufactured food, tobacco and tobacco products, and products of leather, miscellaneous parts and assemblies and ammunition ordnance materials and guns, eligible educational and public health institutions will now be able to purchase all other surplus personal property, through the Chicago regional office of War Assets Administration at the 95 per cent discount", Klein said.

"Secondary and elementary schools, as well as colleges and universities, will benefit directy under the new WAA order in that all these institutions will now be able to stretch their limited budgets for much needed operational and instructional equipment in WAA inventories. Approval of the enlarged nominal pricing program does not change the priority positions of educational and public health institutions, but it will enable them to receive a larger percentage of available surplus."

Officials of the U. S. Office of Education and Public Health Service had requested approval of the new WAA order because of the critical need existing for surplus property among schools, colleges, hospitals and other public health institutions which have been unable to develop their facilities adequately to meet post war demands.

SCHOOL OPERETTA

"The Children of Buttercup Commons", an operretta, will be presented by grades I to VI in the school gym on Friday, April 30th, at 8:15 p. m.-C. D. T. Featured in the operetta, will be Bruce Baker as the Hurdy-Gurdy Man; the Children of Buttercup Commons; the seven old Ladies of Crabapple Lane and wax-figure nursery rhyme characters. The high school orchestra will play preceeding the presentation of the operetta. Special numbers to be given by high school students have also been arranged. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to purchase records for music appreciation.

PRE-SCHOOL DAY

A whole day's visit at school does much to make a beginner somewhat familiar with school surroundings and school routine. It very often changes his fear or dread of school to the anticipation of pleasures to be experienced.

On Friday, May 7th all boys and girls who will enter the Concord Township School in September are invited to visit school. A child must be six years of age by October 10. 1948, to enter. A birth certificate will be required before your child can be enrolled on the first day of school.

Please send your child with neighbor children if no one else comes from your home. The boys and girls of the primary room will take very good care of them after they arrive at school.

SOFT CORN FEEDING SUGGESTIONS GIVEN

Reports of soft corn on Indiana farms having mold with the advent of warm weather are being received by the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Service.

Purdue animal husbandrymen cite research information, available from various experiment stations of soft corn studies, which may assist the farmer in use of this damaged corn.

Beef cattle as a rule rank first in being able to utilize large amounts of soft corn most effectively and hogs are second. No bad effects ordinarily occur from shifting cattle gradually from a full feed of hard shelled corn to soft ear corn. In experiments conducted at South Dakota, there was no difficulty in feeding cattle soft corn that contained considerable mold. However, care must be taken, for there are certain types of mold that might be toxic to livestock, the Purdue men warn.

Soft corn will not injure hogs unless it is very moldy or rotten. Given a choice, hogs will refuse the spoiled corn, and they should not be forced to eat it. It is a rather risky practice to force breeding gilts and sows to eat moldy corn because too often moldy feeds cause reproductive trouble during breeding and pregnancy.

Several experiments have indicated that young lambs are susceptible to injury from moldy corn and that it may be fed with more safety to older sheep. It must be kept in mind, the Purdue men say, that all samples of moldy corn are not safe for sheep. Since one is not able to tell by appearance of corn whether or not it is dangerous, there is always considerable reason for caution in using moldy feeds.

TRACTOR MAINTENANCE TOPIC FOR CLINIC

Correct farm tractor maintenance becomes doubly important this year in the face of fuel shortages and the rising cost of gasoline and tractor fuel, D. M. Kinch, Purdue University agricultural engineer, emphasized at the Tractor Maintenance Clinic held recently at Purdue University for 4-H club leaders.

From $15 to $20 can be saved during a season by adjusting the carburetor for the proper mixture of fuel and air. The use of richer mixture than necesary is too common. The engineer explained that a tractor when cold will pull greater loads when an over-rich mixture is used. Warming the tractor before starting the day's work will permit the use of a leaner mixture resulting in the saving of fuel, reduction of carbon deposits in the engine, keeping the spark plugs cleaner and lessening the frequency of oil change.

Proper adjustment of the carburetor is a simple task and pays big dividends. Kinch cautioned tractor operators against "fiddling" with the carburetor adjustments when the engine is cold. The first step in correct carburetor adjustment is to thoroughly warm the tractor. The throttle lever is then set as the wide open position so that the engine will be running at fast idle. The final step is to find the needle valve marked "load" or otherwise indicated in the instruction book as the load jet adjustment. This valve is screwed in so as to make the mixture leaner until the sound of the engine exhaust becomes "sharper" and an occasional "miss' is heard, then the needle valve is turned back just enough for the engine sound to become smooth and the missing disappears. This is the carburetor adjustment for the most efficient use of tractor fuel, Kinch asserted.

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of GEORGE W. GILLIE
FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON The House Agriculture Sub- Committee of which Rep. George W. Gillie of the fourth District is chairman has completed an inspection trip to the southwest border and into Mexico to investigate the progress of the campaign to stamp out the dread foot-and mouth disease. During the tour, hearings were also held with livestock and cattlemen from both nations.

Commenting on the tour, W. W. Wilson, secretary of the El Paso Texas, Chamber of Commerce said: "I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for your visit to El Paso. It was a real pleasure on my part, to arrange for the meeting and I enjoyed my association with you and the members of your Committee. You certainly proved to all of us thatyou are doing a good job on agriculture. The thing we are grateful for is that you came and received first hand information on the problems of foot and mouth disease. We feel this was a very successful hearing."

In citing the importance of the inquiry to the future of the livestock industry in this country, the El Paso newspaper offered the following report on the hearing: "U. S. representatives who visited El Paso as members of a House agriculture sub-committee set a high standard for congressional investigators. The session was a coats-off, tie-undone, sleeves-rolled up affair. The group arrived at 10:45 a. m. By 11:05 the congressmen had gathered with ranchers in a hotel room and were asking questions, getting ideas and taking notes. When the hearing broke up, one rancher asked the committee members if they would like to get ready for supper. "How about those meat plants in Juarez?" Congressman Gillie, the chairman, asked. "We'd better inspect them before we quit." With that they piled in cars and went to Juarez to inspect two canning plants."

Speaking for the Committee, Dr. Gillie declared before the livestock men, "We're here as investigators to see what can be done to wipe out that disease which threatens the economy of both the U. S. and Mexico. You men are closer to it than anyone else in the U. S. We'll hear what you have to say and take our recommendations back to Washington. We'll do the best we can to ferret out what should be done to help cattlemen in both nations." The newspaper article wound up with the statement: "They convinced 50 southwestern cattlemen they would do just that."

VETERANS DISABILITY FUNDS Information released by the Veterans Administration to Congressman Gillie reveals that 442,406 veterans of World War I received a total of $289,440,232 in disability compensation for the fiscal year of 1947. World War II veterans numbered 1,701,147 and receieved$879,723, 112.

TAFT HOLDS POLL LEAD--Entering its final week, the Fourth District continued to favor Senator Taft of Ohio as its candidate for president in the straw poll being conducted by Rep. George W. Gillie. Ballots to be counted in the poll must be in the Congressman's office, Room 1532 House Office Bdg., Washington, D. C. by Midnight, May 1.

With 2,767 ballots received to date the results follow: Taft 688; Dewey 467; Stassen 273; MacArthur 261; Vandenberg 224; Truman 210; Eisenhower 172; Bricker 128; Warren 117; Walace 98; Others 129.

Stassen swept into third place on the wave of new strength following his victory in the Nebraska primary. Taft increased his lead over Dewey as interest stepped up in the Ohio primary. President Truman increased his lead over Eisenhower an has a firm hold on sixth place. Final results will be reported following complete tabulation of the ballots after the poll closes, on both the presidential preference and the opinions on the various issues before the Congress.

How to Fall in Love
very easy in one easy lesson

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

TAKE a clear day—a Dynaflow* Buick—and a mind open to new experiences.

Turn the key in the lock—press down the gas treadle—and set this mighty Fireball straight-eight purring. Now:

Flick the selector lever till the pointer indicates "D"—that's for driving. Feed a little gas—and see what happens.

Smoothly, you slip away from the curb. Silkily you build up momentum. Effortlessly you cruise at whatever pace your treadle toe selects.

Look! you say. A stop light! What do I do?

Nothing special. Let up on the gas. Apply the foot brake as you need it.

That all? Won't the engine stall? Don't I shift?

That's all. Your engine won't stall. You don't shift. Just sit there till the coast is clear. Then step on it. Step hard and you're off like a rabbit. Step lightly, and you ease smoothly away.

What's happening? you want to know. What's doing the shifting? Some mechanical hand under the floor boards?

Not in this car, sir. Oil does it all—spinning oil. Oil whirling to give you starting surge—power build-up—efficient cruising—engine braking effect on hills.

Oil that does everything the usual low, second and high gears do—without any gearshifting on your part—and without the slightest break in your stride except when you want it.

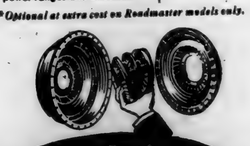
Say no more! I'm sold! Where do I sign up?

There's only one place. Only Buick has Dynaflow Drive, and no other American car has anything like it. With or without a car to trade, better see your Buick dealer first minute you can.

What's Different About DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?

To an efficient new pump (left below), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.



When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them.

BUICK alone has all these features
★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series) ★ TAPER-THRU STYLING (Super and Roadmaster)

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

With food and cover two essentials in the protection and propagation of upland game birds and animals, heartening to learn that field tests with multiflora s rose, a vigorous growing shrub, have partially solved the cover problem. In heavily-farmed areas our birds and animals can find sufficient food for a reasonable diet with only a little help from the farmers and sportsmen. But these birds and animals need a lot of help in finding cover, for more intense farming and increased acreage have virtually eliminated the spots that once protected the wildlife.

Conservationists all over the nation have been working for years on the cover problem, and one of the leaders in the tests has been the Illinois Natural History Survey. This Angency, starting in 1939, made experimental plantings with many species of trees and shrubs. One was the multiflora rose and it proved far superior to everything else.

In four to six years these shrubs will grown into a "living" fence for field borders that will hold all forms of livestock and when planted on the bank of a stream or ditch, they have proved extremely valuable in reducing soil erosion. Some of the tests proved that corn, planted adjacent to the shrub, actually proruced more bushels than a similar area in the center of the field. The reason for this I don't know, but it certainly is a potent fact in urging farmers to try the multiflora rose. Also, he shrubs will not spread into the crop fields or pasture from the original plantings.

The "rose" grows well in soils of average fertility, and, with a handful of fertilizer placed on each plant, will grow into good cover for game and birds on poor soil. For a fence, designed to hold stock, the shrubs should be planted a foot apart, and the site for the planting should be prepared in the fall or early spring, with planting in the spring. The shrubs should be planted on the ridge created by the turned soil and not in the furrows. They should be protected from grazing for three or four years.

In addition to the grand cover afforded birds and animals, the multiflora rose also produces food for the birds. Starting in October, the shrubs bear scarlet fruits that remain unless entirley eaten by the wildlife until spring.

Unquestionably the multiflora rose, wherever planted, will go a long way in helping us to keep our stock of birds and game. And when farmers learn that the planting and upkeep of this type of fence is cheap it't be too hard to sell on the idea.

BUILDINGS AT BAER FIELD TO BE SOLD MAY 24

One hundred thirty-three war surplus frame buildings, some fire hydrants and underground utilities, and a portion of an electrical distribution system at Baer Field, near Fort Wayne, Ind., will be offered for sale on a competitive bid basis next month by the War Assets Administration, Joseph A. Burke, deputy WAA regional director, announced today.

Included in the sale are more than 30 two-story barracks buildings, measuring approximately 29 by 80 feet, and 21 officers' quarters, measuring 20 by 100 feet.

Other buildings are three, 25- by 150-foot hospital wards, two 20- by 140 foot school buildings, mess halls, administration buildings, day rooms, hospital barracks, storehouses, lavatories, and a 1,080-by 6- foot corridor connecting structures in the hospital area.

Some of the buildings contain gas heaters, furnaces, blowers and fans sinks exhaust fans ,shower, water pumps, hot water tanks and heaters, boilers, radiators, motors, electrical outlets, and miscellaneous plumbing equipment, which will be sold with the structures.

Eight fire hydrants and 3,860 feet of three to eight inch water mains will be offered in a single lot as will 6,300 feet of weather proof Number 6 solid copper power lines, 45 standard 40-foot poles, and 19 transformers, ranging from 5 to 75 KVA.

Small businesses, state and local governments, including public schools, and non-profit institutions will have until 5 p.m. May 10 to exercise their priorities for any of these structures. Small businesses must apply through the Reconstruction Finance corporation to obtain this priority.

Priority claimants must offer WAA's established "fair value" prices although discounts may be allowed where buildings are to be used for health or educational purposes.

Sealed bids for buildings remaining after allocation to priority claimants will be accepted from the general public until 5 p. m. May 20 at the WAA real property office, Navy Pier, Chicago. They will be opened public at 10 a.m. May 24 in Building T151 at Baer Field.

To answer any questions of representatives of state and local governments, schools, small businesses, and the general public about steps to obtain buildings, WAA, with the co-operation of the Fort Wayne Chambe of Commerce, has scheduled a public meeting for 9 a. m. Tuesday, April 27, in the mail auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce building, Wayne and Ewing streets.

WAA will be represented at the meeting by A. J. Hastings, negotiator in charge of the sale. Representatives of the U. S. Office of Education and the Reconstruction Finance corporation also will be there to talk to school officials and small business owners.

The buildings may be inspected from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. after April 30 by arrangement with the custodian in Bldg. T-51 at the field. No one will be permitted to inspect buildings before that date.

Standard Bid Form 832, on which all offers must be submitted, will be available after April 30 at Bldg. T-51 and at the real property office in Chicago. Bid forms also will be distributed at the April 27th meeting.

THE BIBLE TODAY

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson

SCRIPTURE: Nehemiah 1-7.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 122:1-9.

Nehemiah Rebuilds Jerusalem

Lesson for May 2, 1948

BORN and reared in Persia, Nehemiah appears in the opening scene of his prophecy as cup bearer to King Artaxerxes in the royal palace at Shushan. He was a favorite at court, due, no doubt, to his personality and training, plus a keen desire to serve his people. He obtained a royal order from Artaxerxes, granting him passage to Jerusalem. It was a long and dangerous journey, but Nehemiah traveled not only with letters from the king, but assurance in his heart that he was on the Lord's mission. He was given authority to seek help from other nations. Just how much help he received from other nations is not definitely certified, but we do know that he achieved the high purpose which God had put in his heart. He governed the city wisely for a dozen years, and wrought many notable reforms. Read the first seven chapters of Nehemiah for the complete story. Read also Psalms 122:1-9.

Dr. Newton

WHEN FRIENDS WORK TOGETHER

UPON arrival in Jerusalem, Nehemiah made a tour of the city by night. He was shocked and amazed at the ruins. He called upon the people to come and help rebuild the walls. And they were impressed with the earnestness and sincerity and courage of his call. "So built we the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof; for the people had a mind to work," Nehemiah 4:6.

There is work for everyone who is of a willing mind. There is work in the home. Boys and girls who pitch in and share in the everyday work of the home make glad the hearts of their parents, and at the same time they are learning how to care for their own homes when they grow up.

STRENGTH AND ENCOURAGEMENT

NEHEMIAH set the people together in families, with tools for work and weapons for defense against the enemy. And in this union of numbers there was both strength and courage. We need today to learn anew this lesson of working together. So often we witness evidence of people pulling against one another. We see it in the home and in the school and in the wider areas of life—in politics and in the clash between capital and labor.

THOSE WHO OPPOSED NEHEMIAH

OUR lesson describes not only the courage and wisdom of Nehemiah in getting the Jews to work and work together, but it tells us about those who opposed the rebuilding of Jerusalem. Sanballat was the governor of Samaria, and when he heard that Nehemiah was rebuilding Jerusalem, he put in to defeat him by many schemes of sabotage.

He began with ridicule. "What do these feeble Jews?" he scoffingly asked. Ridicule is always one of the weapons of those who would tear down and destroy. Young people will do well to guard themselves against the snare of cynicism. It is a dangerous thing. Sanballat and his cohorts, Tobiah, and certain Arabians and Ammonites and Ashdodites, conspired to hinder Nehemiah in many devious attacks; but the people worked and fought, in the name of the Lord.

WHAT MAKES A REAL LEADER?

THIS is the question which will inevitably arise as we study this lesson. How could one man inspire people to undertake the impossible? First, Nehemiah relied implicitly upon God's help. Second, he threw himself into the task, fearlessly and intelligently. Third, he possessed the quality of inspiring faith and hope in others. These are the qualities that make a real leader, anywhere, any time.

How we do need such leaders today! And the Bible speaks to us, in the story of Nehemiah, reminding us how real leaders are produced. Read the 122nd Psalm. Here is the secret of it all—"They shall prosper that love thee." Every difficulty confronting the home, the community, the nation, the world, can be met and mastered, provided we tackle it in the name of the Lord, relying upon his wisdom, his strength, his poise.

CLOSED SEASON NEARS ON BASS, PIKE IN STATE

Although the closed season on panfish was lifted this year, the Indiana Department of Conservation pointed out today that game fish still are protected by law.

The closed season on bass and pike extends from May 1 to June 16.

The trout season, however, opens May 1, and runs to August 31. The trout bag limit is 15 per day and seven inches is the minimum length.

Six thousand trout recently were planted in Hoosiers streams by the and Game Division.

In removing the closed season on panfish this year, Conservation officials reminded fishermen that the restrictions on taking minnows were not lifted.

Removal of minnows from state waters is prohibited betweeen May 1 and Jun 12. It is legal for anyone to possess up to 500 minnows at any time. But the law forbids taking minnows from state waters during the period specified.

The Department of Conservation abrogated the closed season on panfish after it was determined that there was a large population of fish in Indiana waters that were not annually harvested, and that there is a shortage of fish food in many lakes and streams. Minnows are the choice food source of many of many fish.

Although minnows are considered good bait for the catching of crappies, Conservation officials feel that removal of the closed season on minnows would only be contrary to the accomplishment they hope to achieve by maintaining a year-'round open season on panfish.

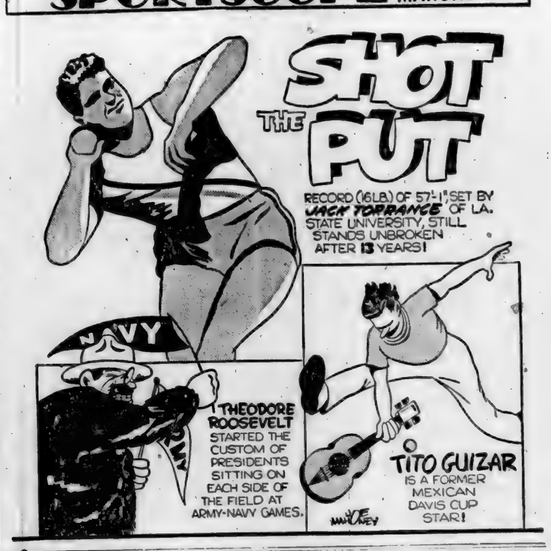
SPORTSCOPE By JOE MAHONEY



CORN PLANTING ADVICE GIVEN

Yields and profits from the corn crop will depend to a large extent upon making right decisions as to variety. when and how thick the seed is planted, Prof. S. R. Miles, Purdue University agronomist, advises.

Usually the greatest success will be obtained by selecting as late a hybrid as will mature nearly every year but still will dry sufficiently for safe cribbing. Indiana experiments show that the adaptations of a hybrid depends largely on its growth period but that each hybrid has a wide adaptation. Hybrids tested do not possess specific adaptation to particular soil types and soil conditions except as those factors influence the growth period of the corn.

Approximately the highest yield is obtained from planting one grain per 42 inches of row for each 25 bushels of corn which a field will produce, when the rows are 38 to 42 inches apart. For example, if a field is expected to yield 75 bushels per acre, plant three grains every 42 inches.

Drilled and hilled corn corn yield about equally, if the same number of kernels are planted per acre. There is some evidence that fertilizer is more effective if both seed and fertilizer are hilled, rather than drilled.

In experiments at Lafayette, the largest yields have resulted from planting during the last ten days of May on silt loam. Earlier plantings have averaged lower yields because of poorer stands resulting from cool soil. Plantings made the last ten days of May have suffered less from the corn borer than earlier plantings.

A detailed discussion of hybrids and their performance is given in the agronomy mimeograph AY 119 and in the Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin No. 256, available, free, from the county agent or the university.

Radiation and Cancer

Great exposure of the skin to sun, especially among fair people, makes for cancer risk, according to the Public Affairs committee and cancer societies. Sailors and farmers have more cancer on their faces and necks and hands — the exposed parts of their body — than other people. White people who live in the South have more of this type of cancer than those who live in the North. Negroes have less of it than lighter-skinned people because their skin is able to filter out more of the ultra-violet radiation of the sunlight.

Color Effects

Beginning at the left of the spectrum, violet denotes richness, formality, and luxury. The next color, blue, is cool in its effect, calming and can sometimes be depressing. Of all colors, green is the most universally liked. It has the warmth of yellow and the coolness of blue combined to make it naturally refreshing. Yellow, associated with the sun, is warm and stimulating and orange is a brilliant stimulating color. Red is perhaps the strongest of all colors and denotes danger, passion and strong feelings.

Richard P. Kelley Killed Last Friday

FINAL RITES HELD FOR PLANE CRASH VICTIM

Final rites were conducted at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Auburn Nazarene church for Richard P. Kelley, former DeKalb county youth who was killed when his plane crashed and burned near Ft. Wayne about 10:30 Friday morning.

Mr. Kelley was the son of Mrs. Charles Kelley, of west of St. Joe. His residence at the time of the accident, was 458½ Eckart St., in Ft. Wayne. Kelley was married and the father of a son, Stephen who observed his first birthday Friday night.

Kelley a veteran of World War II, had served in the Army Air Corps. Cadets, but had not been commissioned when he was separated from the service in 1945.

Kelley was piloting a two-place Swift plane when one wing buckled on the craft as he was flying at about 1,500 feet altitude. The pilot, recognized by fellow fliers as a capable airman was pulled by three men from the burning wreckage of the plane which had ignited after it struck the ground. He was dead, apparently having been killed intantly as the plane crashed.

Kelley was a graduate of the Spencerville high school and was a member of the Auburn Nazarene church.

Surviving with the wife, Ruth, a Ft. Wayne girl, is the mother, Mrs. Charles Kelley, and three brothers, James and Robert of Ft. Wayne and John at home, and five sisters: Mrs. Fay Deright of near Auburn, Mrs. Dorothy Kimes of Spencerville, Ruthann, a student nurse at the St. Joseph's hospital in Fort Wayne, and Mary and Lucille, both of whom live with their mother.

The services in Auburn were preceded by short rites held at the D. O. McComb funeral home in Fort Wayne. The Rev. I F. Younger, pastor of the Auburn Nazarene church, officiated at the Auburn church services, and also at the burial services at the Woodlawn cemetery in Auburn.

GILLIE, MISER TAKE LEAD IN PRIMARY RETURNS

The absence of contests for many offices in the counties of the area apparently contributed to the general lack of interest that resulted in a light vote being recorded throughout the area.

INDIANAPOLIS EDITOR TO SPEAK AT AUBURN

"Ringside at Bikini", an address by Wayne Guthrie, Assistant Managing Editor of the Indianapolis News, will be given in the Assembly Room of the Court House Next Monday evening, May 10, 1948. He will recount his observations, impressions and reactions based on the historic atom bomb test held at the Bikini Islands in July, 1946. He witnessed both tests, the air blast of July 1, and the underwater explosion of July 25, from the deck of the official press ship, USS Appalachian.

The Indianapolis News was one of the few American newspapers invited to send a representative to the tests. Many of the newspaper men left after the first blast; but Mr. Guthrie remained for both.

Mr. Guthrie conducts a daily column "Ringside in Hoosierland" in the News; he has been of the staff of the News continously for the past 27 years. He was a lieutenant of the field artillery of World War I.

Mr. Guthrie has given this address in a great many of our larger cities during the past year where he has spoken to large audiences. We feel that we are very fortunate in securing Mr. Guthrie to give this most interesting address in Auburn. The program will also include good music.

The public is cordially invited to hear this most interesting speaker. This program is being sponsored by the DeKalb County AAA and will start promptly at 8:00 p. m. DST

4-H JUNIOR LEADER ORGANIZATION MEETING HELD AT ST. JOE GYM LAST TUESDAY

The 4-H Junior Leader Organization of DeKalb County met at the St. Joe gymnasium on April 27 with junior leaders from Spencer, Concord and Newville as host for the evening. 64 junior and adult leaders were present at the meeting.

Amos Snyder, president of the club, conducted the business meeting. There was a discussion of a 4-H club picnic for the county and the junior leaders were in favor of holding such a picnic this year. A committee was appointed to work on the details: Paul F. Post, Alfred Kryder, Jean Shumaker, Betty Sipe, Audrie Trenary, JoAnne Hartman, and Gerald Ladd.

The committee to make plans for the 4-H float for the county fair held a meeting to work out suggested ideas on making the float.

Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent, reminded the leaders to be sure to have all of the 4-H members' enrollment cards in at the county extension office. The officers' lists are due May 1, so that announcements may be sent out on Officers Training School to be held on May 7. Miss Moore introduced 10 of the adult leaders in home economics projects and 3 adult leaders in agricultural projects.

C. R. Gross, county agricultural agent, showed pictures on the "Indiana State Fair." Joan Trenary was in charge of recreation, assisted by Harold Shultz. The hosts served ice cream and cake for refreshments.

Poppy Day falls on Saturday, May 29 this year, and plans are underway to make this years Poppy Day a real success in our community.

And speaking of Poppy Day, do you know

That in the Spring of 1919, amid complete devastation, the poppies bloomed in abundance on the battle fields of France, where so many of our men had fallen in battle, and that a replica of this poppy has become the Memorial Flower of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary?

That the American Legion was the first national organization to adopt the poppy as it's Memorial Flower?

First to Use Bomb

The Austrian army was the first to use a bomb in warfare. The small explosive charges, with slow-burning fuses, were attached to hot balloons and allowed to drift over the city of Venice in 1849. The bombs did little harm, but they frightened the Venetians badly.

STATE ACCIDENT RATE DOWN 17 PERCENT

In the first three month of 1948, the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles revoked the driving licenses of 5,029 persons and turned down an additional 5,356 men and women who applied for driving permits, according to an announcement by Thomas E. Bath, Secretary of State, and Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

State safety officials who report a 17 per cent drop in the accident rate during the corresponding first quarterly period attribute a portion of the safety improvement to the new dirver licensing program inaugurated this year. Mr. Bath explained that the process by which driver permits are renewed during the month of the birth enables the motor vehicle bureau to maintain a close check on operators with poor driving records.

"Before the year is over," the Secretary of State said, "we hope to majority of the 4 per cent of the have taken off the highways a drivers who are responsible for 30 per cent of the accidents on Hoosier highways."

Lincense applications refused beclosed the applicant as incompetent cause the new licensing setup disor unfit to drive totaled 1,124 Mr. Bath declared. An additional 3,905 driver permits were taken away by the Safety Responsibility Division for a variety of reasons including court convictions, accidents, physical disabilities, etc.

The Driver Examining Division granted 43,766 licenses during January, February, and March, but 5,356 potential drivers were rejected by the examiners for incompetence behind the wheel. The Examiners also granted 8,631 permits with restrictions which are shown on the driver's license before it is mailed to the applicant from the central issuance bureau in Indianapolis.

Prior to 1948, driving permits were issued promiscuously in Indiana, providing traffic safety investigators with one reason for Indiana's low position in driving safety in the United States.

Dried Milk Products

Dried milk products are used chiefly as sources of vitamin G. Dried buttermilk and skimmilk have about 33 per cent protein and are rich in vitamin G, the dried buttermilk being considerably richer. The vitamin G content of dried whey lies between that of dried buttermilk and that of dried skimmilk, according to Colorado State college. It contains about 12 per cent of protein.

ACTORS AND AUTHORS ORGANIZE FOR TAFT

More than a score of Hollywood screen stars, artists and authors jointly pledged their support to Senator Robert A. Taft, and notified him of their intention to actively campaign in his behalf, it was announced by the National Taft-for President Committee.

The group informed Senator Taft that they believed his nomination and election would serve the best interests of the nation at a "crucial period of history."

Clarence J. Brown, Senator Taft's campaign manager, thanked the group for their support and welcomed their participation. He pointed out to them that Taft's strengh had increased since October and predicted that by June 21, (first day of the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia) Taft would be the leading choice for nomination.

The statement declared: "We are for the nomination of Senator Taft on the Republican ticket because we believe that he is best fitted -- by intellect, character and training - to discuss the real issues which face the American people in this crucial period of history. His policies are not based on political expediency, his facts are not born of propaganda and he wouldn't know how to rise above his principles for partisan or personal advantage.

"A presidential campaign, conducted by Robert A. Taft would be worthy of the high and serious purposes which had better guide us in these days of national confusion and international danger.

"It is for these reasons that we believe that Senator Taft would make a strong candidate. His election would mean a new and clear orientation in public policy -- and, what is just as important, in the public mind.

"We are for Taft because he is for social peace, recognizing no class preferences, no vested interests, no majority or minority prejudicies.

"We are for Taft because he would clean out the Communists and their allies in the federal agencies in a way which only enemies of the Republic could smear as a witch hunt. Taft is a conservative liberal. But his conception of civil rights is neither conservative nor liberal. It is, as the Bill of Rights intended it to be, libertarian.

"We would like to see Taft in the White House because his leadership in Congress has shown his unusual capacity to work with others, with men of character in both parties. In Congress Taft has no personal machine. His leadership is derived entirely from his industry and his intellectual and moral prestige.

TEXAS GOP LEADER PREDICTS TAFT VICTORY

The Republican Party must stand before the public this year on the record of the present Congress which is equivalent to the record of Senator Robert A. Taft.

So declares an outstanding Texas Republican leader, Col. R. B. Creager, who has announced himself as supporting Taft for the presidential nomination. In 32 years as Republican National Committeeman from Texas, Col. Creager has missed only once in predicting the successful nominee of his party for the presidency.

Creager has made public his espousal of the Taft cause in a letter toEnoch G. Fletcher of Grand Saline, Texas, in which he particularly emphasized Taft's proven ability as a vote-getter in O. Pointing out that Ohio is a "typical cross-section of the United States," he remarked: "If a man can be vote-getter there, he can be a vote-getter anywhere." In each past instance where Creager has correctly tagged his party's choice for President, he has later headed a solid Texas delegation for his preference to the convention.

Col. Creager considers Taft "the ablest man in public life today and and the man best fitted to be President", and adds: "If there ever was a time in the history of the United States when that kind of talent is needed, it is now!"

Creager pointed out that Taft sentiment throughout the Country was "very strong" among organizational Republicans. He said the Ohio contender has a commanding lead in the race for delegates. He predicted Senator Taft would win the nomination on an early ballot and would go on to sweep the coun-

"Everywhere I go I hear the cry, 'Win with Taft'," said Col. Creager. "Everyone admits his superior qualifications for the nomination and the old story that Taft could not win has disappeared. This story was spread by his enemies in the New Deal who fear Bob Taft more than they fear any man in America. Bob Taft has held public office since 1920 and he is the strongest candidate the Republicans could nominate." He cites Taft's record as a vote-getter:

"In 1936, he heavily defeated high-popular Senator Borah in a hotly contested presidential contest for delegates in Ohio."

"In 1937, he won the Republican U. S. Senatorial nomination from Judge Arthur S. Day one of the most outstanding and popular figures in Ohio by 76,321 votes.

"In 1938, Bob Taft defeated Democrat Robert Bulkey by 170,597. He not only overwhelmed Bulkey, he turned the whole Democratic tide in that Ohio election, while New York Republicans lost the Governorship.

"In 1944, he was re-elected to the Senate, and under his leadership Republicans fared better in the States of New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

MANY THANKS

My sincere thanks and appreciation to the voters of the Fourth District for their support in the May 4 Primary.

Illustrated is the Buick SUPER with 115 hp. Hi-Poised Fireball straight-eight. White sidewall tires, as shown, available at extra cost.

WE don't mind admitting we've been pretty proud of our big Fireball straight-eight engine.

A lot of brain-sweat went into making it lively — and as for smoothness, we don't know of any power plant that gets the loving care lavished on this Micropoised* beauty.

So we thought we knew the song and the feel of an engine as smooth as automobile engines could be.

Then — well, then our engineers came up with Hi-Poised mountings and really opened our eyes — and ears.

At idling speed, you have to shush all conversation and cock an alert ear to make sure the engine's running.

Rolling along the road, the whisper of your tires rises higher than this smoothie's contented murmur.

More than that, you find that the whole ride seems smoother, quieter, more restful and easy in these tidy '48 Buicks.

You soon discover that it's unnecessary to ease yourself over rough spots where ordinarily you would engage in a little extra clutch work, while many a little shudder that used to pass for clutch chatter has been wiped away.

In short, as one owner has put it, "Now it seems that Fireball power is wearing velvet gloves!"

Add all this to other things — to steady-going size and weight, to gentle coil springing, to big, cushiony low-pressure tires on the widest rims in the industry — and you've got something too good to miss.

So we suggest — get your hands on a '48 Buick, any '48 Buick, and see just what we mean.

You'll meet a ride story so sweetly convincing, you'll want to get an order in — but quick! And you can do that, you know, with or without a car to trade.

*Micropoise balancing is Buick's own method of scientifically balancing the complete engine after assembly to superfine limits.

SECRET OF THE VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE

Two fat cushions of special composition, and placed with scientific accuracy, suspend the Buick engine at the points where vibration is most readily controlled. A third new mounting at the rear completes a precise system of controlling engine vibration frequencies. The result is to shield the entire car against vibration build-up and make a noticeably smoother ride.

By JIM MITCHELL

A wintering grounds' inventory of waterfowl, made in January but only recently made public, showed that the mallard ranks first in numbers in the United States, with the pintail runner-up. The count disclosed that slightly less than a third of the ducks counted were mallards. A fifth of the waterfowl included in the inventory were pintails.

Other ducks, in the order they ranked in numbers, were the baldpatte of widgeon, scaup, green-winged teal, black duck, redhead shoveller and canvasback. Also tabulated, but in much smaller numbers, were blue-winged teal, ring-necked ducks, wood ducks and the golden -eye.

Practically all the mallards were found wintering in the Mississippi fly-way states and to the west. Pintails, on the other hand, were most numerous in the states west of the Rocky Mountains. The baldpate was most numerous west of the Rockies. also the snow goose, shoveller, ruddy duck, white-fronted goose, and white-checked goose.

A foot note to the report indicated that the winter populations of all waterfowl were approximately the same a a year ago. That strengthens we presented a few weeks back that next season's bag limits and numbers of shooting days will remain the same as last season, and we'll still bet that duck call we're right in the prediction.

Here's a tip that will pay off in pleasure -- don't watt until your first spring fishing trip to inspect your outboard motor. It may cause to perfection before going fishing. you trouble, so take the necessary precautions to assure its working

Most outboards will operate after a winter's storage with no more than fresh fuel in the tank, but to add years of easy-starting performance to life of any outboard it is best not to neglect the routine spring conditioning. First, flush out the fuel system and clean the carburetor. If any old oil or sediment has started a gum deposit, it may be removed with alcohol. Then take out the spark plugs, clean and adjust them, or buy new plugs. Remember it's always wise to carry an extra set of plugs. Next on the conditioning schedule is to remove the drain plugs in the lower gear case and flush with a mixture of oil and kerosene. Then put in new waterproof grease of the type recommended by the manufacturer.

And don't forget to tighten all the bolts and studs that might work loose during the season, especially the fly-wheel nut, propeller nut and fuel lines. The propellor should be checked for dents and uneven places and, if extremely bad, take it to a shop for fixing or get a replacement at your dealer. Also, if there was any indication of trouble with the magneto last season, let your dealer's repair shop check it over. Breaker points can be cleaned, adjusted or replaced at the same time.

By getting your motor in shape BEFORE your first trip afield, you may eliminate a day of tough luck and poor motor performance.

WHERE Would You Like To Go Fishing?

THE MAY-JUNE issue is our annual WHERE-TO-GO Vacation Number. Features a beautiful two-page color map showing in what states and Canadian border provinces the nine popular species of fish are most frequently found. Special section discusses fishing in each section of the country; and a half dozen other fishing stories will make you want to get up and go. "My Favorite Bass Fishing Waters" is especially recommended.

There are articles on hunting and conservation, and 12 different departments in addition to serve your varied outdoors interests—including details of the popular Fisherman-of-the-Month Contest.

WARNING: DON'T OVERDO SPEARING OF SUCKERS, CARP

Don't overdo the gigging of suckers and carp, was the warning issued by the Indiana Department of Conservation.

Although the gigging of certain species of fish now is legal in this state, the Conservation Department has received reports that this authority is being abused.

In order to give Hoosiers the opportunity to remove obnoxious fish from waters and enjoy a sport at the same time, the 1947 State Legislature authorized the gigging at any time of carp, suckers, gar, dogfish, buffalo ,redhorse and waterdogs.

Now, some fish-spearers are reported to be gigging large numbers of suckers and carp and throwing them on the banks to rot. Pointing out that such practice is a waste of food, inasmuch as carp and suckers are edible, Conservation officials warned that this wanton destruction may bring about eventual removal of the authority to gig fish.

Conservation officers are checking fish-spearing activities, according to Ernest Hastings, chief of the Conservation Department's law enforcement division and their reports this summer will be used as a base for recommendations on the gigging law which the Department of Conservation will submit to the next legislative session.

Gig all th suckers and carp you want to eat—but don't wantonly destroy these edible fish.

METAL ROOFING CARE TO BE DEMONSTRATED

Arrangements have been completed by County Agent C. R. Gross to hold a metal roofing conservation demonstration on the farm of Albert Yoder ,in Jackson Township, at 1:30 p. m., on Friday May 7.

Everything that is necessary to put a metal roof into first class shape to shelter farm crops and livestock will be effectively demonstrated by I. D. Mayer, Extension Agricultural Engineer, Purdue University, and Chas. Matthews, Field Representative of the American Zinc Institute. Such meetings were held last year in a number of states and were found to be very practical and worthwhile.

An interesting feature will be the use of asbestos wicking, sheet metal screws and screw type nails to tighten the laps of the roofing. Steel brushing and painting will also be demonstrated; proper procedure for best results will be explained; suitable paints will be discussed.

Another very important safety feature will be a demonstration of effective and economical grounding of metal roofs for proper lightning protection. This alone will be worth the time spent to attend the meeting

Important facts will also be presented with respect to the proper specifications to be observed in the selection of new material in order to obtain maximum service with minimum maintenance cost.

The Yoder Farm is located on the Jackson Center road, south of the B. & O. Railroad.

Corrosion Resisting

Nickel does not rust, and stoutly resists corrosion by salt water, by many acids, caustics and other chemicals. It also stands up under heat. So nickel, when alloyed with steel along with chromium or other alloying elements, helps to make those metals resistant to heat and corrosion too.

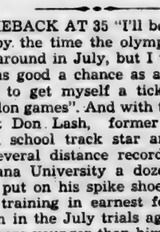
HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS



By Lewis Walter

The familiar sound of bat against ball could be heard around St. Joe the past week, as the American Legion sponsored softball team began limbering up for the summer's play. There has been a good turnout of prospective players at every practice session, with the boys working out every evening, and on Sunday afternoon weather permitting. Almost the same team with the exception of catcher Dick Reed will be in the lineup in the opening game of play in the Auburn Y. M. C. A. league which will get underway sometime in June. With Ridgway, Shoudel, and Deiderich taking their turn on the mound, a fairly successful season should be enjoyed.

Plans for the Auburn League were discussed at an organization meeting in Auburn Tuesday evening. Play will be in the old diamond, which has been used by the league for several years.

Another interesting bit of news came out of Auburn this week, when it was disclosed at a meeting of DeKalb County basketball coaches Monday evening, that the Auburn High School team will play in the County basketball Tourney this year. The request before the coaches was granted, and baring unforseen incidents, the Red Devil team will compete against other county teams for the first time since the revival of the tournament three years ago. .

COMEBACK AT 35 "I'll be 35 years old by the time the olympic trials roll around in July, but I think I've got as good a chance as any of the boys to get myself a ticket to the London games". And with that statement Don Lash, former Auburn High school track star and holder of several distance records set at Indiana University a dozen years ago, put on his spike shoes and began training in earnest for competition in the July trials against kids 10 years younger than himself. Lash who has been away from track competition for the better part of ten years, has been caught up by the Olympic fever and the fact that he enjoys nothing more than burning up a track "just for the fun of it" has led him to taking the spikes off the hook and having another go at it.

Lash is no newcomer to the Olympics. He was at Berlin in 1936 and placed eighth in the 10,000 meters. He was only 23 then. Most distance runners do not reach their peak until they hit the 30s. And the former Indiana State police officer turned FBI agent is optimistic about his chances this year.

"I'll try to work out every day now until the big American Olympics trials this summer. Competition is the thing I need, and running against a stopwatch isn't the easiest thing in the world", Lash said.

Lash said his chief competitior at the Olympic trials may be Fred Wilt of Pendleton, Ind., another one of I. U's former distance aces. Together, they might be Uncle Sam's one-two punch over the long distances in London.

All Ex-Big Timers

All six of the newly formed Central League clubs have former major leaguers as managers, the best known being Joe Vosmik, former Cleveland slugger, who is guiding Dayton. Of course there's Walter (Boom Boom) Beck ex-Phillie pitcher, who is Fort Wayne's pilot, with Bob Finley, formerly of the Phillies, at Saginaw; Jack Tighe, ex-coach for the Detroit Tigers, is at Flint; Milt Galatzer of the Cleveland Indians at Grand Rapids; and Ben Huffman of the St. Louis Browns at Muskegon.

INDIAN SIGNS—They're hitting this year -- Yes sir that seems to be one of the biggest factors in the fine showing the Cleveland Indian's are making so far in this early 1948 baseball season. In a recent game with the White Sox, it took Cleveland 14 innings to make more runs than the Sox but they did it, batting over their 12th run of the game in the fifth extra frame.

HE'S A RELIEF PITCHER TOO: In that same game with the White Sox, after Cleveland had gone into there 12 to 11 lead, the Chicagoans threatend in their half of that ining, by getting the first two men on bases. Manager Boudreau had used a good share of his pitchers earlier in the game, so it was'nt very surprising when Bob Feller was called in to put out the fire and save the game. -- which he promptly did.

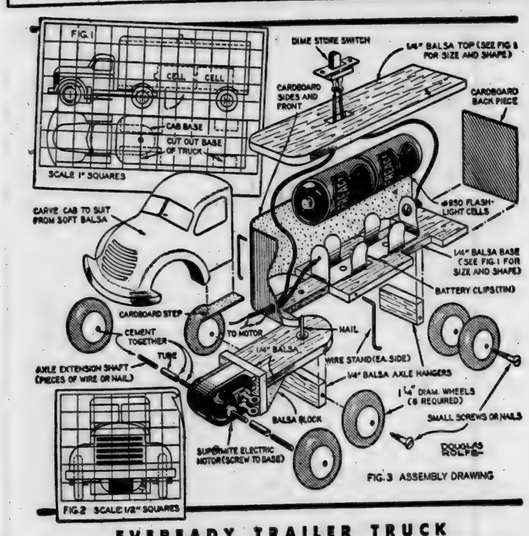
FATHER and SON



EVEREADY TRAILER TRUCK

Cost: Dad, $3.00 for motor—Son, 75 cents for materials. Materials may be obtained at local hobby shop.

Dear Dad:

This trailer truck is powered with a midget electric motor and employs direct front wheel drive. It is activated by one or more No. 950 Eveready flashlight cells (drawings show two cells hooked up in series) and is easy to build. It is composed of two complete units: the cab or engine unit and the truck section which is pivoted loosely to the cab platform directly above the cab rear wheels. The truck unit may have twin wheels as shown or single wheels can be used at a saving of about ten cents in costs. Wheels used are the cheapest model airplane wheels obtainable and are advertised by most model firms.

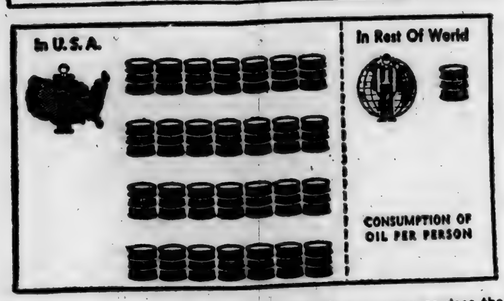
Start operations by making up full-size plans of the wooden parts. This is done following the scaled drawings, Figures 1 and 2, which are squared to simplify dimensions. Exact adherence to the given dimensions is not important and in fact the overall size of the truck unit can be reduced if preferred. Top and base or bottom of the truck should be the same size and shape but the base must be cut out to clear the wheels and also to allow small radius turns. These pieces are later joined with a single length of light cardboard which is cemented in place. The backpiece should be simply pinned in place to permit quick removal for servicing the batteries. Before assembling the pieces, put in the switch as shown and then cut out, bend to shape and mount the battery clips. The truck unit can then be completed and laid aside.

The cab unit requires no explanation as far as the chassis goes. The body itself can be carved from solid balsa or built up to suit—the lighter the better. The motor is screwed directly onto the chassis as shown. Three 3/4" screws are required here. It will be seen that the front axle, which is a continuation of the motor shaft, requires some sort of extension axle. This can be formed of two short lengths of steel wire or pieces of nail and two short lengths of tubing. These can be soldered together or, in a pinch, joined with cement. Wheel track on the model described is 2 3/4" but may be reduced to 2 1/2" to suit. If you find after hooking up the wiring that your truck runs backwards, don't worry. All you need to do is reverse the batteries in their clip.

Sincerely yours,

Doug Rolfe

Farms To Fore As U. S. Uses Oil At Rate 28 Times Rest Of World



The U.S. today consumes 28 times as much oil per person as does the rest of the world, using oil for industry, transportation, the home and the farm. With the close of the heating season, current emphasis is on the farm use as spring plowing begins. Since 1941, the farmer has virtually doubled his use of gasoline for tractors and other equipment and is utilizing Diesel oil, kerosine and bottled gas in increasing quantities.

FARMS TO FORE AS U. S. USES OIL AT RATE 28 TIMES REST OF WORLD

The number of tractors on farms has virtually tripled since 1935 as America has entered a new era of record food production, according to the Oil Industry Information Committee. In reviewing this week figures just released by the Bureau of Mines on total oil consumption in 1947, the committee explained that America's current use of oil per person is 28 times that of the rest of the world. New farm demands now in the spotlight as spring plowing begins are a major factor in that use.

There are now, the committee said 3,000,000 tractors on the farm operating 15,000,000 farm implements. They have not only increased production per acre, but land formerly used to grow feed for horses and mules now grows food for people. In addition, 1,880,000 trucks service farms, an increase of 62 percent since 1941 and of 21 percent since the end of the war, and there are 4,810,600 farm autos also an increase of about 20 percent since the end of the war. Further, oil is used, it was pointed out, for such varied jobs as running incubators and drying hay.

The rate of increase in farm production has multiplied seven times since the trend to nation-wide mechanization reflected by these figures took hold in 1935. From 1910, date of the earliest records, up to that year the average rate of increase was six tenths of one percent a year. Since then the average increase has been 4 percent a year.

As shown by the Bureau of Mines figures, overall increases in demand for major oil products during 1947, as compared with the prewar peak in 1941, were gasoline, 21 percent; light fuel and Diesel oil 73 percent; heavy fuel oil for industry and ships, 33 percent; and keresone, 51 percent, and the farm played a large part in most of these increases, the committee said. Farm use formed a part of virtually every increase.

Companies in the oil industry are working on a seven-day, 24 hour basis, as they rush a $4,00,000,000, two-year postwar expansion program to be completed this year, the committee explained. During the past winter, output of the type of oil used for home heating was increased 23 percent over last year with refining shifted to produce a maximum of this oil during abnormally cold weather, the committee stated. At the same time, it added, overall increased production upped the output of gasoline 11 percent.

Ezra Leads A Revival

Lesson for May 9, 1948

GLANCING for a moment at our history, we see that in 536 B. C., 50,000 Jews were returned to Jerusalem from Babylon, and the temple was rebuilt; and 78 years later, Ezra returns with about 7,000 Jews to inaugurate needed reforms. Then came Nehemiah, 444 B. C., to rebuild the walls, and with Ezra to lead in a needed religious revival.

Dr. Newton

HAPPY TIMES WITH THE BIBLE

"FOR Ezra had prepared his heart to seek the law of the Lord, and to do it, and to teach in Israel statutes and judgments."

There was great need for a revival of religion, and Ezra knew that there can be no real revival until the people come back to God. He therefore read to them the statutes and judgments. Ezra read from the law of Moses from morning until midday, "and the ears of all the people were attentive unto the book of the law."

What would you think of the people being summoned into some public place today to hear the Bible read? But you say, we hear it read over the radio, and we hear it read in church, and we sometimes hear it read in the home. But do we hear it? And are our ears really attentive?

HEARING AND DOING GOD'S WORD

EZRA not only read God's word to the people, but he led them to do what they were commanded in the law. They went out to give portions to those who were in need. They came back to worship God. They began both to hear and do.

"Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only," James 1:22.

It is positively dangerous to receive impressions from God and refuse to express what he has put in our hearts to do for him. Let me put it this way, we can become religiously intoxicated unless we go forth to serve.

LIVING OUR RELIGION

WHAT Ezra and Nehemiah led the people to do in the long ago was to put into practice what they heard—to live their religion. The late Gandhi was reported to have said, "I might have embraced Christianity, had Christians lived what they professed."

Let us keep clearly in mind that Ezra was first concerned in instructing the people according to all that God had said in the Scriptures. That comes first. We must have conviction about what is right. We must have a creed, but we are to remember that it is in daily living that we make our creeds effective.

WHAT IS A RELIGIOUS REVIVAL?

THIS lesson intends to reveal to us how a religious revival broke out in Jerusalem in the long ago, nearly 500 years before Christ was born. Well may we ask, What is a religious revival?

"Lord, send a revival, and let it begin in my heart." Revivals are prayed down, not talked up. We have fallen into the fallacy of speaking of revivals when some overnight spell-binder comes along and kicks up a big sensation. Before he leaves town, Pharisasim is more rampant than ever. It is not until the Spirit of God moves upon the hearts of his people and rekindles in them a sense of sin, bringing them to true repentance, that we can have a real religious revival.

When men are convicted of their sins, they will say with Zacchaeus, "Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor, and if I have taken from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold." When men begin to feel and talk and act like that, you have a real religious revival. And I repeat, such revivals are prayed down, not talked up. Now you are ready to read Psalms 119:9-16.

INDIANA STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SUPPORTS TAX REDUCTION PROGRAM

Support of a long-range federal tax program calling for reduction of starting individual income tax rates to 15% less, with a maximum rate of 50 per cent, was announced today by the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce.

The tax program, developed by the Indiana chamber in cooperation with 27 other state chambers which are members of the National Association of State Chambers of Commerce, also calls for reduction of maximum corporation tax rates from 38 to 32 percent and later to 25 percent or less.

Although recognizing the effect of "unsettled world conditions" on immediate tax reduction, Clarence A. Jackson, executive vice president of the Indiana chamber, said:

'The nation's tax burden is still too heavy to be long endured, despite the individual tax relief granted by Congress this year, if the competitive enterprise system is to provide high employment and prosperity. The rewards for risking venture capital and for exercising business initiative continue to be too meager to call forth the best efforts of investors, management, and those who might wish to risk their savings in new business of their own."

The tax reduction program was accompanied by a plea that the public demand a reduction in Federal expenditures not required for the nation's safety. Among other points in the chamber's tax program were:

1. Alleviation of double taxation of corporate dividends through allowance to stockholders of a credit against their dividend income to the extent of the initial rate (such as 15 percent or less) for individual income tax purposes.

2. Lowering of tax rates on long gains and losses, whether short- or term capital gains -- with capital long-term, being offset against each other.

3. Furtther reduction of federal estate and gift tax rates.

4. Lowering of "excessive" federal excise tax rates and elimination of "highly obnoxious" excise taxes.

5. Provision of a "favorable tax climate for small business" through reduction of the initial rate on small income corporations to 15 percent or less, with proper rate graduations to the maximum rate of 32 percent for larger corporations.

6. Elimination of tax exemption enterprises, cooperatives and other so- called non-profit organizations engaging in business in competition with fully-taxed private concerns.

The tax program advocated by the Indiana chamber and its associates, the chamber said, would provide estimated revenues for the federal government of at least $26 billion annually at a national personal income level of 3180 billion.

The chamber program on reduction of federal expenditures called for working toward cutting the U. S. Budget to a peacetime level of $25 billion or less, not including necessary foreign aid expenditures but including debt retirement. This would still be more than two-and-a half times prewar expenditures of $9 billion of 1939, it was pointed out.

The following ten-point progarm for expenditure reduction was recommended:

Postponement of public works to the full extent possible, curtailment of federal grants and subsidies; liquidation of unecesary government corporations; consolidation of federal agencies to eliminate duplication; reduction of federal civilian personnel to a peactime status; elimination of waste in national defense activities; greater efficiency in administration of veteran's services; reduction of permanent appropriations to a minimum; maximum economy and efficiency in the foreign aid program; provision of adequate Congressional budget controls.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

TETANUS OR LOCKJAW

THE germs that cause tetanus or lockjaw seem to live in the intestinal tract of cattle, horses and man, and from this source, soil becomes contaminated. People working out of doors should take extra precaution when they scratch or wound themselves. The germs live much better in the absence of oxygen. Therefore, they multiply more rapidly in deep wounds than in shallow ones.

Tetanus begins from three to twenty-one days after the germs get into the tissues of a wound. The first signs are a sense of drawing pain in the wound with a twitching of muscles nearby, accompanied by irritability, headache, chills and fever. Then comes the stiffness of the muscles of the jaw and neck which gives the disease its name.

For the prevention of tetanus, people who have been wounded, particularly when the wound is contaminated, should receive immediately an injection of the specific antitoxin or booster dose of toxoid, depending on previous immunization. Another injection may be given one week later. The physician will make sure that clothing, soil or other visible contamination is not present, and treat the wound with antiseptic substances.

Under the best medical treatment one-half to two-thirds of the people infected recover.

Mechanization in South

The number of horses and mules on farms in South Carolina has decreased from 297,000 in 1920 to 191,000 in 1945, a decrease of 106,000 or 35.9 per cent. This decrease in workstock resulted from increased use of automobiles, trucks and tractors on farms of the state. Between 1920 and 1945, automobiles on farms increased from 32,812 to 77,576; trucks from 1,735 to 15,348, and tractors from 1,304 to 12,447, or almost 10 times.

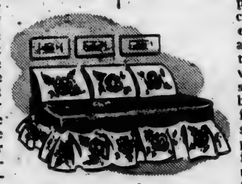
COLOR SYMPHONIES

Probably nine out of ten American homes, ranging from one-room-and-alcove apartments to six-or-more-room houses, harbor that time-honored article of functional furniture known as the "extra studio couch." Such a couch is almost inevitable in today's living arrangements and is frequently the most hard-working number among the family's communal possessions.

Lucky for you if it's a strong and valiant couch, for by day and by night it must serve you faithfully. It is beloved by the children, who love to curl up on it with homework or the funnies. The man of the house finds it handy for that pause that refreshes while dinner is almost but not quite ready for the table. The unexpected overnight guest can be met with open arms because there's always the studio couch. On the sun porch off the kitchen it is sure to be the favorite refuge of the homemaker, between keeping an eye on the roast and the youngsters in the play pen. Handy for snowy armfuls of sun-dried laundry, too, until it can be sorted and dampened for the iron.



All your long suffering couch asks from you is an occasional new dress. Every time you give it one, carefully planned and lovingly executed, both you and the "extra" receive a new lease on life. But don't spend too much on these periodically necessary pick-ups. Save the delicate and fragile fabrics for spots where they'll get less hard wear. Often something new and something that just looks new can be combined happily. A remnant of crisp material, enough for a flounce and three pillow tops, can team up with a plain top section and pillow backs salvaged from an old bedspread and dyed to pick up one color from the patterned new material. Choose a gay flowered print for a chintzy living or dining room, a bright plaid for sun porch or children's room. Then cut and fit your tailored top, treat it to a good bath in all-purpose dye in your laundry tub or washing machine with the hottest tap water that gushes. The surface of a couch gets the most wear and a separate top cover like the one in the picture can be laundered often and easily.

Roots of Culture — YOUR BIRTHSTONE AND ITS MEANING

Look who gets squeezed!

Union leaders representing less than one-tenth of railroad employes reject recommendations of President's Emergency board—refuse to negotiate except on their own terms—threaten to paralyze nation by strike!

THE LEADERS of three railroad unions, representing less than one-tenth of all railroad employees, have called a railroad strike that would paralyze the nation.

These leaders refuse to accept a 15½ cents an hour wage increase retroactive to November 1, 1947. This increase was recommended by an impartial Emergency Board appointed by President Truman.

This increase of 15½ cents already has been accepted by the 19 other railroad unions. But the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union of North America won't accept what more than 90% of all railroad employes have accepted. They have called a strike to get more!

Unions refuse rules discussion

Certain rules changes demanded by these union leaders—which would increase wages still further—were recommended by the Board. But the union leaders want more—they demand that the railroads put into effect ALL the changes they asked for, including those the Board felt should be denied.

On top of this, they insist that certain rules changes proposed by the railroads be withdrawn—in spite of the fact that the Board recommended them! These union leaders have refused to negotiate except upon these arbitrary terms.

Greater wage increase not justified

Engineers and firemen are among the highest paid of all employes in America, as figures in the box show. This strike threat doesn't justify giving a greater increase than other railroad workers received.

Emergency Boards are a means provided by the Railway Labor Act in the public interest to avoid strikes. The President's Board, after hearing evidence for 33 days, made recommendations based on all the facts in the case. The railroads have accepted these recommendations.

Who's to blame?

Although they deplored so large an extra cost burden, the railroads accepted the report of the Board because they felt it was in the public interest to uphold the spirit and intent of the Railway Labor Act.

In contrast, this small group of railroad union leaders are attempting to flout the intent and spirit of the Railway Labor Act, and dictate their own terms.

They have dictated a paralyzing railroad strike.

You will be the victim!

How long will the American public stand for the undemocratic, arbitrary, and abusive use of the right to strike and the disregard of the obligation to provide transportation? How long can the American people permit a few dictatorial union leaders to defy the processes provided for peaceful settlement of disputes?

Force seldom produces settlements that are either fair or lasting. Moreover, a point is often reached when personal interests must be held subordinate to the greater public welfare. That is why the railroads have accepted the Emergency Board recommendations. That is also why the leaders of these three unions should reconsider their decision to call a paralyzing strike.

Compare these wages with what you make!

Here is a comparison of average annual earnings of engineers and fireman for 1939 (pre-war) and 1947. Also shown is what 1947 earnings would have been if the 15½ cents per hour increase, offered by the railroads and rejected by the union leaders, had been in effect throughout the entire year 1947.

THERE HAD TO BE A FIRST TIME

Advances in American naval ships and equipment have been marked throughout the century and a half of the Navy Department's history by important milestones of progress. One of these was the first flight from the deck of a ship, made in 1910 by Lt. Eugene Ely, when he took off from a miniature flight deck on the foredeck of the USS Birmingham (upper). Three years later naval aviation had its actual start when Admiral George Dewey signed the report of the General Board, which recommnded the establishment of a Naval air arm. Today aviation is one of the elements in the three-pronged American Navy. Flowering of "Navy Air" can be symbolized in such scenes as the lower photo in which an FJ-1 "Fury," a jet-propelled Navy fighter, makes a landing aboard the USS Boxer while the ship cruises off the California coast. (Official Navy Photograph)

DRY WEATHER INCREASES TIMBER FIRE DANGER

As the clear, dry weather of spring approaches the danger of forest fires becomes great unless care is used with fires out of doors, J. L. VanCamp, Purdue University forester, wars.

Rather than use the "Hill-billy" method of burning off broom sedge, most intelligent farm owners improve their pastures by the use of lime, fertilizers and reseeding. The forester points out that the burning practice defeats its own purpose by destroying good grasses and making the broom sedge crop only bigger and thriftier than before burning.

Many of the early spring woods fires in the hills of southern Indiana are caused by field fires in broom sedge spreading to stands of timber. Injury or destruction of good growing crops of wood results. This type of unnecessary loss is being reduced by the influence of district and farm foresters with farm owners and the opinion of well informed persons in soil conservation districts.

The safety and fire slogan "Let's Keep Fire From the State in 48", is good advice and applies to farm woods, farm buildings, crops or hay stocks:

Lockers on Increase

Illinois farmers now own and operate 112 cooperative frozen food locker plants with a capacity of 80,000 lockers. Through a building program planned, locker capacity in Illinois will be increased next year to 65,000 lockers. In addition to the locker plants 17 slaughter plants have been built and are being used to butcher stock going into locker plants.

Economy Oven Menu

Just one and one-half cups of ground meat serves six in two-in-one biscuits. The entire menu can be baked in the oven.

Economy in meal planning means attention to small details—like using leftovers, purchasing of seasonal foods, getting the most for your money whenever a food item is added to the market basket.

This menu has been planned to help you make a good start on the spring budget—and still please the family with food that looks and tastes good.

Two-In-One biscuits make excellent use of a cup or so of left-over meat or of fresh ground meat, always less expensive because it does not need to be tender. Enriched flour in the biscuits gives more for your money because it contains added B-vitamins and iron at no additional cost.

Tomatoes and asparagus are foods that spring makes inexpensive, yet they provide just the right color touch.

A saving in time is accomplished by using the oven for the entire menu. Yes, asparagus and tomatoes can be baked, and you'll find that color is retained when a moderately hot oven is used. Place the asparagus in a flat, shallow pan with just enough water to cover the bottom of the pan. Season to taste and bake uncovered until tender, turning the spears just once. The tomatoes are cut in half, brushed with melted butter or margarine and heated until they bubble.

Two-In-One Biscuits

2 cups sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 to 2 tablespoons shortening
⅔ cup milk
1½ cups ground meat (may be either cooked or uncooked)
Salt and pepper to taste.

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a very soft batter. Fill greased muffin pans one-third full with seasoned meat. Pour batter on top of meat, filling pan two-thirds full. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes. Remove from pans. Turn upside down and serve with grilled tomatoes.

Yield: Six three-inch biscuits.

A Cup of Milk Is Life-Saving Margin for Millions of Children in Today's World

HELPING HANDS BRING LIFE ITSELF, in the form of health-packed milk, to the hungry young. Contributions to AOA-UNAC's "Crusade for Children" mean more milk for vitamin-starved bodies.

Crusade for Children Calls for Cash Gifts To Save a Generation

New York, April 22 — Milk — even in tiny quantities mankind's most useful food—is the margin between life and death today for millions of underfed children in Europe and Asia.

In Europe, for instance, the cupful doled out daily by the United Nations' International Children's Emergency Fund, stands between 4,000,000 children and tuberculosis . . . but millions more are without it.

The Crusade for Children of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children is seeking to raise $60,000,000 in voluntary contributions to help meet the threat of tuberculosis, now at flood-tide wherever there are children in shattered cities, in stricken lands.

Reports to Lake Success show tuberculosis rife among the orphans of Italy and France, among the 175,000 refugee children of Greece, among the young in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary and Roumania . . . for the disease knows no iron curtain.

Malnutrition and starvation are directly responsible for one of the grimmest statistics to come out of postwar Europe—where in some places one out of every three children born die before reaching the age of twelve months. This is ten times the infant mortality rate in the U. S.!

War Ruined Supply

The war's long drain on manpower and its decimation of herds of milk-producing cows are the principal causes of the serious shortage of life-saving milk. Today's limited supplies can reach only the most desperate. Almost everywhere abroad, milk is strictly rationed for infants, pregnant and nursing mothers and the sick.

It costs UNICEF three and one-half cents a day to give a child the vitamins and calories with which milk, somstimes fortified with chocolate or powdered egg, shields him from disease. Ten dollars will protect one child for a whole year . . . not much to build a future on, but enough to save a life.

Matched by Government

The UN's contribution to this vital meal is matched by an equal contribution—equal in caloric and intrinsic value—by the government of the country whose children are its recipients.

In addition to the vital work of UNICEF, funds contributed to the Crusade for Children of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children help similarly important projects of 25 private American foreign relief agencies, many of which have been conducting programs among the world's neediest people for many years.

Contributions to the Crusade for Children may be made to local committees or sent directly to national headquarters, American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children, 20 Broadway, New York 6, N. Y.

ALL THEY ASKED WAS AN EVEN BREAK

Building a new country was no easy job. But there were men and women willing to turn their backs on the safe way of life and their faces toward new frontiers. All they asked was an even break.

Free enterprise is another way of saying "an even break." Free enterprise is the basic American principle of vision and personal initiative. Just give an American an even break—a chance to get ahead—and he'll go on from there.

But when government goes into business, in competition with its citizens, the American ideal of an even break is destroyed—for government in business assumes special privileges that are denied people in business.

Take the case of government-owned power systems, for example. They pay few, if any, taxes; often get money from the U. S. Treasury at little or no interest; make up losses out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

On the other hand, America's business-managed power companies are on their own. They pay their full share of taxes, and fair interest on loans. It's a tribute to American self-reliance that tax-paying, self-supporting companies supply over 4/5 of the enormous amount of electric power this country depends on . . . at the lowest possible cost.

There are still new frontiers in electric living to be opened. And businessmen can do the job better than bureaucrats.

The meeting was held at the Spencerville Methodist church basement and the ladies did the usual in furnishing a fine meal.

Do you know

THAT when the American Legion Auxiliary adopted the poppy, in 1921, it pledged the profits from the poppy sale 100 perecnt to welfare relief for service men and women and their families, thus fulfilling the true meaning of the poppy--an emblem of faith, faith which is being kept to all who died through service to the living.

THAT the American Legion Auxiliary in order to protect the memorial poppy from the inroads of commercialism, adopted a national poppy program in 1924 which eliminated the commercial poppy.

THAT the memorial poppies are made of red crepe paper by hand, by disabled veterans--in hospitals and poppy workrooms in 40 states, that the workers receive pay for each poppy made, and that the material are furnished free by the department in the state in which the hospital is located?

THAT poppy Day is 2 weeks from Saturday.

Don and Ned Keller attended a meeting of Kaiser-Frazer dealers of this district, at the McColl Motors Sales rooms in Ft. Wayne, last Thursday evening.

It was rumored around town this week that one of Concord Township's most prominent farmers was in the market for an extra set of eyes to be installed in the back of his head while he is plowing with his tractor. It seems that while trying to watch the plow and drive the tractor at the same time our friend drove the tractor too close to a ditch bank, and overturned the tractor. Fortunately the plowman was uninjured, and the only loss sustained in the whole incident was the loss of 11 quarts -- of oil from the tractor. We've perhaps said more about the incident now than we should have, so we wouldn't dare tell who the driver of the tractor was; but just so our readers won't loose any sleep wondering who it was, we'll tell you his initials, Ned Shull.

Mrs. Duane Newport and baby son and Mrs. Dale Wicoff and baby son, were dismissed from the Auburn hospitals Saturday afternoon and returned to their home in Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cox and son and Miss Lolo Cox and friend of Toledo Ohio, enjoyed Sunday dinner here with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foltz.

Mrs. Allie Metcalf of Huntington, Indiana spent from Friday evening until Monday morning with Mrs. Lillian Buckingham.

Mrs. Elizabeth Milliman had as Sunday dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gruber and son, Richard of Fort Wayne.

Mr. Joseph Cox, who has made his home here for the past three years with his daughter, Mrs. J. E. Foltz and husband, passed on at 3 a. m., Wed. morning at the Community Hospital in Hicksville, where he was rushed to, late Tuesday afternoon, after his condition from a blood clot became quite serious. Mr. Cox was 93 years old a short time ago. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at Continental, Ohio, with the Rev. Frank Stevenson officiating.

Mr. Sam Armstrong remains quite poorly at his home here, although he is reported some better.

Rev. Frank Stevenson, pastor of the local Lutheran Church, and Mrs. Retta Hathaway, from the Butler church at-tended the 100th Annual Convention of the Lutheran Synod, held in Indianapolis the first of this week.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid and Missionary Society will meet this (Thursday) afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Mrs. Huldah Reasoner.

The scrap drive put on the by the St. Joe High School Senior class last Friday, turned out to be quite a successful affair for the 12th graders. The class collected paper, iron and other scrap around the community all day Friday, and had somewhat over $100 more in their class treasury that night to help finance their trip after school.

Mrs. Marie Draggoo had as week end guests her children, Mr. and Mrs. M. Morr and son Jerry of Washington C. H., Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. James Draggoo and son Tommy.

AMERICAN LEGION TO PRESENT SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS TO ST. JOE AND SPENCERVILLE GRADUATES

This year for the first time Walter Whitehurst Post 283 of the American Legion will present a Scholarship medal to some outstanding graduate of the St. Joe and Spencerville High Schools. The recipient of the medals will be the one in each graduating class who qualifies highest in Honor, Courage, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

HONOR:Strength and stability of character; high standards of conduct; keen sense of what is right; adherence to truth and conscience devotion to duty and practice of clean speech.

COURAGE: Bravery in the face of opposition and danger, and grit to stand up for the right and do one's duty.

SCHOLARSHIP: Scholastic attainment; evidence of industry and application in studies.

LEADERSHIP: Ability to lead and to accomplish through group action.

SERVICE: Kindliness, unselfishness, fellowship, protection of the weak, and promotion of the interests and welfare of associates without hope of personal reward.

It is planned to award these medals each year at the commencement exercises.

Dr. C. R. Price came back to St. Joe, Wednesday to spend some time with Mrs. Inez Hadsell.

Mrs. Inez Hadsell went to South Bend last Thursday and visited with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Hough and husband. On Friday evening she attended the Mother-Daughter Banquet held in the Indiana Avenue Christian Church. On Friday they also attended the Mother-Daughter Banquet held in the Eastern Star dining room. Sunday Mrs. Hadsell accompanied the Houghs to Holland, Michigan on a sight seeing trip

Harvey Hull attended the Christian S. S. at Newville, Sunday, playing the piano for the men. A splendid Mother's Day program was given consisting of solos, duets and readings.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET IN LOCAL CHURCH

The dining room of the local Lutheran church was the scene of a delightful dinner party last Saturday evening where the mothers and members of the Tri Mu Class enjoyed a most delicious dinner at 6:30 served at long dining tables, beautifully decorated with green and yellow ruffled streamers adorning the center of the tables.

The head table was decorated with two beautiful potted plants, with vases of hyacinths and crystal candelabra with tall white tapers, and vases of spring flowers and tapers were on the other tables. Each place was marked with clever corsages and place cards to match.

The program was opened by the toastmistress, Mrs. Marvella Dilley, who caled on Mrs. Ruth Stevenson to say grace Mrs. Dilley then introduced Mrs. Louise Church who welcomed the mothers, and Mrs. Mary Hollabaugh of Spencerville, gave the response.

The dinner served consisted of first course: tomato cocktail and wafers; second course, baked ham, mashed potatoes and gravy, escalloped corn, pear and cheese salad, pickles, relish dish, rolls and coffee; third course, lemon meringue pie and mints.

Following the dinner, Miss Shirley Jean Perkins sang, "Mother McCree, and the all girls chorus sang, "Mother of Mine." Mrs. Harriett Baker read, the origin of Mother's Day. Mrs. Janice Hollabaugh, of Spencerville read two poems on "Ma and her Check Book" and one on "Motherhood." Mrs. Audra Collins gave the reading, "When Granny Comes to Our House", by James Whitcomb Riley. Dinner music was enjoyed with Mrs. Lora Leighty at the piano.

Immediately following the program, Mrs. Harriett Baker conducted a clever contest. Each lady was given a neat roll of crepe paper containing a few pins and small pieces of different colors of crepe paper, giving instructions that she was to make a hat and wear it. This created much amusement as some stunning little hats resulted and after much deliberation the judges decided to give Mrs. Shaw, the grandmother of Mrs. Elizabeth Shull, honorable mention, also a box of candy.

Mrs. Mary Sechler being the oldest mother present was given one of the beautiful potted plants. and Mrs. Beverly (Wade) Bell, the youngest mother, was also given a potted plant.

Mrs. Estella Bowser of Garrett and Mrs. J. O. Strombeck of St. Joe, were each presented a box of candy for having the most children living. They tied at eight each.

Mrs. Edith Cole was chairman of the dinner and was assisted by Mrs. Laura Burley, Mrs. Jo Bowser, Mrs. Gertrude Billow, Mrs. Edna Perkins, Mrs. Irene Duker and Mrs. Pluma Hamilton. The Misses, Jo Bowser, Shirley Jean Perkins, Margaret and Marlyn Wade, Beverly Ridgway, Carroll Billow and Nancy Monroe did the serving.

Members and guests attending were Mrs. Elizabeth Shull, Mrs. A. J. Smith, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Millie Shull. Mrs. Violet Kline, Mrs. Minnie Gee, Mrs. Bernice Sechler ,Mrs. Killian, Mrs. Katie Crow, Mrs. Victoria Means, Mrs. Clara Bowser Mrs, Estella Bowser, Mrs. Marcella Keesler, Mrs. Alvin Keesler, Mrs. Jean Davis, Mrs. Collie Ridgway, Mrs. June Baker, Mrs. Louise Church, Mrs Mary Secher, Mrs. Joan Hull, Parlia Hull, Harriet Baker, Mrs. Iva Yeiser, Mrs. Mabel Baker, Mrs Audra Collins, Mrs. Priscilla Hook, Mrs. Loretta Hull, Mrs Marvella Dilley, Mrs. Clara Brattain, Mrs. Mayola Zuber, Mrs. Marcia Sible, Mrs. Carrie Wade, Mrs. Beverly Bell, Mrs. Madonna Wade, Erna Hoffman, Mrs. Hattie Widney Stone, Mrs. Ruth Collins, Mrs. Effie Collins, Mrs. Ruth Stevenson, Kay Stevenson Mrs. Lois Strombeck, Mrs. J. Baccalaureate Services for 13 Graduates to be at Coburn's Corners

Baccalaureate services for 13 graduates of the Spencerville High School will be held at the Coburn's Corners Church Sunday evening, May 16, at 7:30. Reverend Darwin Salisbury will deliver the sermon and J. L. Sennett will assist.

Commencement exercises for the group will be held Tuesdaf evening May 18, at 8 o'clock in the Spencerville gymnasium. Dr. V. F. Schwalm, president of Manchester College will be the principal speaker. Miss Beth Cornell is valedictorian and Miss Virginia Ulm is salutatorian. Principal Paschen will present diplomas to the following graduates: Annise Bailey, David Chapman, Beth Cornell, Patsy Draime, Dale Gerig, Phyllis Grogg, Lynn Lake, Frank Laub, Phyllis Nusbaum, Mary Jo Romine, Wm. Teegardin, Victor Timmerman, and Virgina Ulm.

Presentations will also be made by the St. Joe-Spencerville Lions Club, and Walter Whitehurst Post 283 of the American Legion.

The senior class returned Saturday evening from a two day trip to Detroit. Highlights of the trip were a tour of the Greenfield Village Museum, Ford's factory and entry into Canada over the Ambassador bridge, and returned thru the famous mile long tunnel. The hotel Book-Cadillac proved to be an amiable host Friday night.

The Junior class is honoring the graduates Saturday night at a Banquet to be staged at the Y.M.C.A. in Ft. Wayne.

CONCORD TWP. 4-H CLUB

The third meeting of the 4-H Get Together Club of Concord Twp., was held May 10 in the English Room at 2:45.

The meeting was called to order by the president, all saying the pledge to the flag. Seventeen members answered roll call by telling how many years each has been in 4-H work.

A demonstration was given by Opal Trenary on how to thread a sewing machine. Rules on safety were given by Deanna Engle, Mary Lou Trenary and Gailanna Holman.

Judging on clothing was done by the Junior Leader.

The meeting was then adjourned.

STRATOJETS UP FRONT IN AIR FORCE PROGRAM—Left, Boeing XB-47, one of the newest bombers of the U. S. Air Force, zooms skyward under the impetus of 42,000 pounds of thrust. Smoke trails are from the 18 JATO (Jet-Assist-Take-Off) rocket units, mounted integrally in the big bomber's fuselage. Six General Electric J-35 turbo-jet engines, each developing 4,000 pounds of thrust, are slung beneath the slim swept-back wing to provide normal power. The bomber is comparable in size to the Boeing B-29 superfortress. Right, Nose drops for shooting star? Not really. It's just Sgt. Elliott A. Ingram, Colorado Springs, Colo., furbishing a jet-propelled P-80 at the Air Force Advanced Fighter Pilot School, Williams Air Force Base, Arizona. All jet aircraft used in the training program get a regular steam bath as a part of the maintenance of modern equipment. Accumulated dirt and grime, incidentally, are about the only things capable of slowing down the 550-mile-per-hour P-80. (Air Forces photos)

DOCTOR'S PROGRAM STRESSES NEED FOR PASTEURIZATION

Of interest to farm and city people alike will be the drama, "Beware of Brucellosis," on Doctors Today, Saturday, May 15, (NBC, 3:00 p.m. CDST). Stressed will be the need of pasteurization of raw mik in the cities and on farms, to cut down undulant fever, fourth among the nation's communicable diseases.

The drama will concern a farm family which, through the insistence of the father, drinks raw milk in line with his "food faddist" beliefs. The son, a 4-H Club member, points out to him that undulant fever may be present in their cattle in the form of Bang's disease and that it is also found in hogs and goats. The program will tell of new promises in the fight against undulant fever with the use of modern drugs.

Original background music by Emil Soderstrom will be conducted by Bernard Berquist. The N. B. C. Chicago production is written by William Murphy and presented in cooperation with the American Medical Association. Dr. W. W. Bauer, of the AMA, will talk briefly at the close of the program.

One of the most disastrous fires in the history of Garrett occured last Saturday morning when the frame factory building of the Hubbard Spool Co., the former B. & O. car shops burned to the ground in an hour, causing an estimated $120,000 damage. The cause or the fire is not known. The Garrett Fire Department reached the scene in the matter of a few minutes but the building was a raging inferno and all that could be done was to protect other minor buildings nearby.

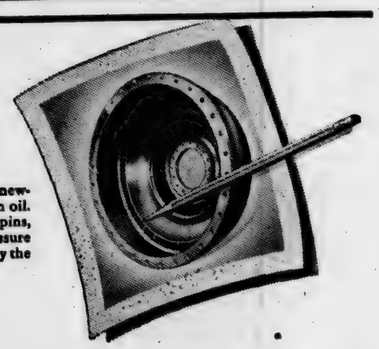
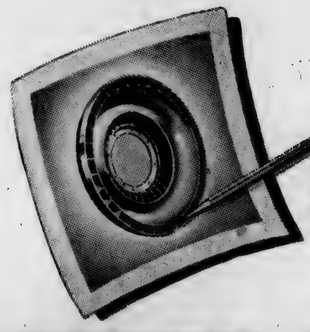
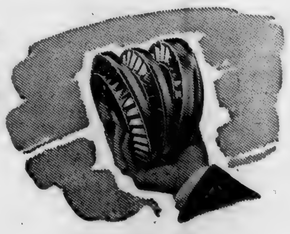
Here's the A-B-C of Dynaflow Drive*

A


First, there's a highly efficient new-type pump like this, filled with oil. Driven by the engine, it spins, shooting out oil under pressure from the channels indicated by the pencil.

B


Then there is a true turbine, like this, with its blades curved sharply to catch the speeding oil. Entering in the openings indicated, oil makes the turbine spin too, thereby turning the rear wheels.

C


Finally, there is this unique "supercharging assembly" — three ingenious elements not found on any other car. Mounted between the pump and turbine, they control the force and direction of oil to adjust driving power to different driving conditions — starting, accelerating, hill climbing, etc.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

PUT all these together and they spell Dynaflow—the first American passenger car drive that requires no changing of gears in normal driving.

Functioning entirely on their own in an oil-filled drum, these parts give you the equivalent of low gear, second gear, high gear — and an infinite number of "gears" in between.

When you start, they give you smooth starting power. When you want to accelerate, they give accelerating power. When you cruise, they give an efficient cruising ratio —all without gear changing on your part.

Just set a lever and press the gas treadle—the power plant does the rest. Once started, you'll never need to touch the selector lever in normal driving until you're ready to park or back up.

You get good engine braking on hills—with more in reserve at a touch on the lever. You get smoothness unimaginable—a new "sweetness" to the whole car — a relief from things-to-remember that makes all-day driving noticeably less tiring.

Look into Dynaflow if for no other reason than to be up to date on what's newest in automobile drives. Your Buick dealer will take your order with or without a car to trade.

BUICK alone has all these features

Slowly official reports on the last waterfowl season are creeping into releases by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The most recent one disclosed that the drastic regulations last year -- short season and small bag--substantially reduced the kill of ducks and geese.

From incomplete returns these facts are highlighted: The average season's kill amounted to a little more than seven birds per hunter; the average daily kill was 1.8 birds, and each hunter average four trips.

The Pacific flyway had 19 percent of the hunters and 25 percent of the kill; the central flyway had 25 percent of the hunters with only 19 per cent of the kill. The heaviest was the Mississipi flyway with 44 percent of the hunters and 46 per cent of the kill, and the Atlantic flyway had 11 per cent of the hunters and 10 per cent of the kill.

THE CATFISH: Thousands and thousands of fishermen annually get real sport from catching catfish, yet this fish rarely comes in for its deserved share of angling glory. Consequently we were glad to learn that, at long last, biologists are making a study of "Mr. Whiskers" in the Mississippi River. Many thousands of channel catfish are being marked with metal tags and released Where they travel and where they are caught should provide interesting information.

GAME STUDIES: Here's a tip to all state conservation departments. Let the rural mail carriers help in your surveys of upland and big game. Iowa and Michigan are botn using the mail carriers and, so far, the results have been highly satisfactory.

LET LAWMAKERS MAKE LAWS, CREIGHTON TELLS LEGISLATIVE GROUP

Major decisions affecting Indiana government should be left wholly to the General Assembly without undue pressure from a Governor or anybody else, Hobart Creighton told a Hoosier legislative group here today.

Mr. Creighton was the principal speaker at a luncheon to which present and future Republican members of the General Assembly were invited by Representative Jess Anrews, West Point, a G. O. P. leader in the House of Representatives, and Senator John Van Ness, Valparaiso, President Pro Tem of the Indiana Senate

The veteran legislator and three time Speaker of the House of Representatives, seeking the Republic lican nomination for Governor, decried "pressure" in government as well as in partisan poitics when he said:

"It will not be my purpose now. or after I may be nominated and elected, to tell you the lawmakers of Indiana, what the laws should be. That is your job. It is not the job for the Governor

"It is your job because, from the state level, you are closest to the people of Indiana. The people of Indiana are your bosses yours and mine. Only they have a right to tell us what to do.

"I have been pressured from the left. I have been prssured from the right. I have been pressured from the top and the bottom-- pressured to commit myself on decisions that must be made only by you as the representatives of the people of Indiana. To make such commitments would be to assume the role of a would be dictator, to set myself up as a public official who had all the answers. And, I simply won't do it.

"Now, this does not mean I am a mugwump who has no opinions or ideas. Based on long experience in Government, I have some ideas about government. And, incidentally about politics which is a very important function of government.

"It is not a part of my makeup to ram anything down anybody's throat in government or in politics. That is one of the reasons for my undying opposition to the New Deal philosophy of government .Opposition to any such system is at the same time, a part of my conception of the Republican party which for many years has been an important part of my everyday life and thinking. I have not yet reached the point at which I am willing to accept the easiest way-- the pressure way---in government or in politics at the expense of the people of Indiana. If I have to base my campaign on any such tactics, then I simply will not be nominated or elected."

Mr. Creighton said his purpose in appearing at the meeting was to plead with the legislators "my qualifications in the cause of good government-- good, honest, economical government."

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

MENTAL ILLNESS

IT is estimated that one person in thirteen is either definitely mentally ill or in need of mental treatment, and that one person in seventeen eventually will be confined to some public institution for the mentally unfit. Mental illness, therefore, is a terrific problem in modern society.

It seems likely that some cases of mental illnesses may be brought on by the excessive strains of our present way of life and the uncertainties surrounding us which seem worse today than ever before. Much has been learned about mental illnesses and how to treat them. Recovery from the milder conditions is common.

Treatment varies, depending on the severity of the condition. In some instances all that is necessary is complete rest and removal from the sources of nervous exhaustion and mental strain which have brought on the difficulty. In many of the more severe mental illnesses modern methods of treatment have been improved enormously, and recovery is achieved in many cases.

Psychiatric guidance, physical therapy, including hot baths, hand work and shock treatments are among the methods which have proved useful. Like so many other diseases, better results can be expected if mental conditions are treated early. A false sense of shame concerning a mental breakdown should not prevent any person from going to a physician.

SYRACUSE WEEKLY RECEIVES GOLD MEDAL AWARD FROM FIRE UNDERWRITERS

The Syracuse-Wawasee Journal of Syracuse, Ind., has been chosn by an impartial jury to receive the National Board of Fire Underwriters' Gold Medal Award for outstanding public service in fire prevention by a weekly newspaper during 1947, it was announced in New York. Five other weekly newspapers received honorable mention from the National Board.

Publisher J. Barton Cox of the Journal fought official lethargy for three years to make his community fire-safety conscious. He helped elect a new town council on a fire-prevention plank, thus assuring Syracuse its first full-time paid fire chief, paid drivers and more pay for vounteers, as well as new fire equipment and increased water supply .

Having had bitter experience with fire when his plant missed being burned by a wall's breadth in Demotte, Ind., and later was burned down in Syracuse, cox campaigned to get better fire fighting equipment in the town and hammered away at the inadequacy of the volunteer fire department and equipment.

His first triumph in convincing the council that Syracuse needed a new fire truck availed little because no onc could operate it properly. Syracuse, 1800 population, had a million dollar fire loss in 18 months. Cox peppered the council and town with newspaper accounts of the errors committed in fighting each fire.

With other leading citizens he formed a Community Betterment Association which campaigned tirelessly until fire protection became the most important issue in the election of the new town councti and candidates who supported it were elected.

The jury which chose the Syracuse-Wawasee Journal for the Gold Meadl was composed of editors of the three leading weekly newspaper trade magazines, Joseph La Bine, of Chicago, editor of Publisher's Auxiliary; Don Robinson, of New York, editor of the American Press; and Stafford G. Davis, of Chicago, editor of the National Publisher.

They gavé honorable mention to the fire prevention efforts of the Dawson Springs Progress of Dawson Springs, Ky., the Skokie Life, Skokie, Ill., the Williams County Farmers' Press, Williston, N. D., the Germantown Courier, Germantown, Pa., and the Cranston Herald, R. I

The Dawson Springs Progress made a survey showing that fewer than 20 per cent of the residents knew how to report a fire, and set out to familiarize every resident every resident with the fire department telephone number.

Fire safety stories and editorials in the Skokie Life helped in the passage of a bond issue for improvement of firefighting facilities.

The Williams County Farmer's Press pubished two special fire prevention editions, one of which used photographs of recent fires to show how Williston had suffered from fires.

The Germantown Courier published a comprehensive series of articles on the need for greater fire protection and the problems of getting it in Germantown.

The Cranston Herald advised readers on precautions against fire, emphasized the necessity for fire safety education and supported the President's Conference on Fire Prevention in its editorial and news columns.

TOP SHOW JUDGES TO WORK FT. WAYNE DOG SHOW

Three of the country's top dog show judges will be on hand to appraise the championship-seeking canines which will be exhibited in the 15th Annual All-Breed Dog Show Sunday, May 30, at Baer Field six miles southwest of Fort Wayne. The show will be sponsored by the Northeastern Indiana Kennel Club.

The judges include Roy Benbow of Glen Ellyn, Ill., who will judge the three varieties of cocker spaniels; Ernest Crowley of Wells, Me., who will inspect such terrier breeds as Airedale, Bedlington, Cairn, Fox, Kerry Blue, Scottish and Skye, and E. T. Adair, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who will serve as arbitrator for the Sporting and Hound breeds, Collies, Non-Sporting Breeds (except Boston Terriers), miscellaneous classes and variety groups.

In selecting these three men, officials of the NEIKC believe they have found three of the finest judges of prize-winning canines in the United States. Five more capable judges are to be chosen to handle the remaining classes in the show.

Premium ilsts are now available and copies may be secured at the offices of all local veterinarians, or by writing to either Mrs. Louise Russell, secretary of the NEIKC, Ludwig Road, Fort Wayne, or A. Wilson Bow, superintendent of the show, 1535 Spruce Street, Detroit 16, Mich.

It is expected that this year's show will break all previous records for both spectators and exhibitors. Such optimism is due to the fact that in obtaining a hanger at Baer Field club representatives were assured of the finest facilities, regardless of what the weather conditions may be on the day of the show.

MAJORITY OF MISSOURI DELEGATES FAVOR TAFT

A majority of the delegates named last week in th eMissouri State and District conventions favor Senator Robert A. Taft, according to a statement released today by Clarence J. Brown, Chairman of the National Taft-for-President Committee.

The state convention ended Saturday night. Missouri will send a total of 33 delegates to the Republican National Convention in Philidelphia on June 21st.

Without naming specific delegates --- who are technically unpledged --Brown said at least 19 will support Taft.

"His strong Missouri suport comes from the realization that the republican Party this year must stand on the record of the 80th Congress. Practical minded Missourians realize that Bob Tafts record in the Senate is the record of the Republican Party," Brown declared.

TRAVEL TIPS

Racing enthusiasts who will not be able to journey to Indianapolis May 31 to watch the annual 500 mile automobile race will have an opportunity to see the qualification time trials beginning May 15 according to the Touring Bureau of the Chicago Motor club.

The dates set for the qualifying trials are May 15th and 16th, May 22nd and 23rd and possibly May 29. The first day of the trials will determine the most favorable post positions for the Memorial Day Classic. A field of 80 cars have been entered but only a maxtum of 33 will compete on Memorial Day for the coveted prize money.

The qualification time trials will be run from noon to 6 p.m. with the gates opening at 10 a.m. for spectators. Admission is $1.00 and tickets may be purchased at the speedway.

APPRECIATION

I wish to thank the voters of DeKalb County for their loyal support at the May 4th Primarys, for nomination of Commissioner - North District

U.N. Facts and Faces . . . . . ICELAND

Iceland, an island republic on the rim of the Arctic Circle in the North Atlantic, has the world's oldest parliament, the Althing, which was founded more than 1000 years ago by the first European settlers. Governed by Denmark during much of her history, Iceland severed the last ties to that Kingdom when it became a republic in 1944. Of great strategic importance during World War II, the volcanic island now is vital to aviation and shipping using the great circle routes. Her 132,000 people depend mainly on commercial fishing for a livelihood. Iceland's representative to the United Nations is Thor Thors. Iceland's national flag shows a red cross outlined in white, upon a dark blue background.

LARGE GROUP ATTEND 4-H HOME EC. OFFICERS TRAINING SCHOOL LAST FRIDAY

Over 200 attended the 4-H Home Eonomics Officers Training School on Friday evening, May 7, according to an announement made by Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent. "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World" was the theme of the school, recognizing National Home Demonstration Week. The meeting started with "ice breakers" which consisted of songs and recreation under the direction of Joanne Butler from the State 4-H club department, Purdue University. This was followed by making special awards of 4-H club stationery to all 4-H clubs having six or more officers in attendance at the training school. Those who received this award were the Auburn Wee Brownie Bakers, Butler Junior Busy Bees, Concord Township Get Together, Franklin Twp., Busy Bees, Garrett Go Getters, Newville Twp. Willing Workers, Richland Twp., 4-H Hustlers, Spencer Twp., Priscilla Prims, Stafford Township Sunhine, Troy Twp., Busy Fingers, Union Twp. Pride of Honor, Waterloo Clover Girls, Wilmington Twp. Friendship, Jackson Twp. 4-H Hustlers, and Altona Happy Go Lucky

The 4-H adult leaders were given special recognition for attendance at the training school and were awarded 4-H leaders' plaques for their contribution and ever-willing efforts in the 4-H club program. Those leaders receiving this award were Mrs. Betty Hand, Butler Twp., Mrs. Dora Lautzenniser, Franklin Twp., Mrs. Leora Perkins, Corunna; Maxaline Altman, Waterloo; Pauline Metz, Butler; Mrs. Irene Knox, Stafford Twp.; Mrs. Hazeal Boger, Union Twp.; Mrs. Emma Burns, Wilmington Twp.; Mrs. Dorothy Shugart, Auburn; Mrs. Robert Kratzman, Altona and Keyser Twp; Mrs. Edna Getts, Garrett; Mrs. Virginia Martin, Troy Township; Mrs. Josephine Beree, Newville Twp.; and Mrs. Mae Hartman, Richland Twp.

Each 4-H officer in attendance received a 4-H pencil upon registering for their name tag.

The 4-H Clover Girls of Waterloo gave the model meeting under the direction of Maxalene Altman, vocational home economics teacher, who acted as co-ordinator for the meeting. Following this part of the program the groups divided into the various sectional meetings which included the presidents and vice-presidents, secretaries-treas., reporters, recreation and song leaders, health and safety leaders, and the adult and junior leaders. The groups then came back together for a general recreation session later on in the evening. The Auburn Dairy and the Bakers Bakery furnished refreshments for the entire school.

SOCIAL SECURITY INFORMATION

It has come to the attention of the Social Security Administration that some employers are reporting wages for themselves as well as for their employees ,according to Mr. Christian H. W. Luechke, manager of the Ft. Wayne, Indiana, Office of the Social Security Administration. Employers in unincorporated businesses who have reported wages for themselves should file for a refund of the tax which they have paid on their own wages. The applications for refund should be filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue before the expiration of four years after the payment to the Collector of the Tax," he continued.

"At present, old-age and survivors insurance benefits under the Social Security Act are limited to wage earners. Excluded, therefore, are many persons who work for their living. They are the self-employed, owners of small stores, farmers, insurance agents, and others. The Socia Security Administration has recommended that the old-age and survivors insurance system be extended to all self-employed persons," Mr. Luecke said.

Primitive Rope Uses

Primitive people used woven reeds and strips of tree bark to bind things together. In Australasia, the bark of the cordage tree was formerly used by natives for tying fence posts, rafters and beams.

YOUR CONGRESS AND YOU

WASHINGTON--For the third consecutive month, civilian employment increased in the Federal government, according to information received by Rep. George W. Gillie bringing the present total to 2,030,861. More than 500 employees per day were added during the month of March, it was revealed in reports submitted to the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures by the various governmental agencies and placed in Rep. Gillie's hands.

With a net increase of 17,093 for March, civilian agencies employment reached 1,184,916 and 845,945 in the National Military Establishment. Major increases during the month were reported as follows: Agriculture 1,497, Commerce 1,095, Post Office 9,744, Treasury 1,766, Department of the Army (inside U. S.) 3,803 and (outside U.S.) 3,949, Department of Air Force 1,651. There were decreases of 3,585 in the War Assets Administration and 4,023 in the Veterans Administration during the month.

Since January a total of35,365 civilian employees have been placed government payrolls. Civilian agencies accounted for 18,653 during this quarter with 16,712 in the military. Among the civilian agencies, larger increases were reported during the three-month period by the Post Office Department, Treasury Department, Commerce Department, Interior Department, Justice Department and State Department, whereas major decreses were recorded by the WAA and VA. There was a net civilian employment increase during the quarter for all of the agencies of the National Military Establishment, although the Navy Department reported a slight decrease in March.

FARM OUTLOOK IS GOOD--The next 25 years will be good ones for the American farmer, the bureau of Agricultural Economics predicts. Officials contemplate a population increase of a million a year, and with advanced technology, the per capita output should increase by one third. The result will be increased consumption and rising real income. The BAE further looks for continued rises in the level of farm living standards, continued good foreign markets; and less sharp readjust- World War I.

TO IMPROVE FARM TO ROAD MARKET ROADS--Legislation has been approved by the House providing $500,000,000 for State matching in the construction of highways. A new formula was approved which places emphasis on farm-to-market roads and gives the State's more latitude in meeting the date-lines with their dollar-matching programs. In this move, action was deferred on super-highway consrtuction until farm to market roads are completed.

OIL SITUATION SERIOUS--A report estimating that the United States would face a shortage of three million barrels of oil a day in the event of war has been issued by a House Armed Service subcommitte which looked into this situation. The Committee said that if the world situation does not improve and voluntary controls are not successful, the government should consider allocating steel and petrolem products. The group recommended that an oil commission to be set up under the National Security Resources Board to study the situation further.

POSTAL RATES STUDIED--The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee has approved H. R. 6441, which would create a Board of Postal Rates and Fees to study and recommend postal rate adjustments with a view to more nearly equalizing revenues and expenditures. The Board, appointed by the Postmaster General, would report to Congress every two years.

CAPITAL STORY--With all of the war talk going around, word got out that they were planning on moving the Pentagon Building, which houses the War Department, away from Washington, because it might be bombed. A private on duty there cracked: "The enemy wouldn't do that. It already is in utter confusion!"

SCRIPTURE: Malachi.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 3:2-4, 15-17.

Malachi Demands Sincere Religion

Lesson for May 16, 1948

GET ready for some straight talk in next Sunday's lesson. Malachi reveals the dark picture of unrequited love, polluted offerings, impious priests, unfaithful husbands. You wonder if Sam Jones has come back to life. He begins by crying, "The burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by Malachi." We shall miss the entire meaning of this lesson if we fail to read every word of the Book of Malachi. We cannot claim any of the promises of a better day, as indicated in the latter section of Malachi unless and until we deal with such hypocrisy as may infest our lives today, even as the priests and people were consumed with iniquity when Malachi prophesied unto them.

Dr. Newton

GIVING OUR BEST TO GOD

"A SON honoureth his father, and a servant his master; if then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear?" Malachi 1:6.

How can God bring good out of evil, when his people hold back their best from him? Let us bring it closer home, and ask, How can our earthly parents do their best for us, when we give them half-hearted allegiance?

OUR BEST IN WORSHIP

PASSAGES in the first, second and third chapters of Malachi reveal the lack of sincerity on the part of the priests in the worship which they offered and which they taught the people to offer. Here we see that unclean hands can never bring an acceptable offering unto the Lord. He looketh on the heart. He knows what is in man.

Using the house of God to make a show before men was one of the shameful evils of the priests in the days of Malachi. It did not fool God then, nor will it fool him today. Unless our worship is an expression of something fine and sincere, he will not accept it.

THE DAY OF RECKONING

"BEHOLD, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me; and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in . . . But who shall abide the day of his coming?"

One would think that such words of warning would have brought the priests and the people to their senses in humble contrition before God; but they continued to disregard the words of God's messenger.

"For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble; and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch."

Thus did God warn. And the day of reckoning did come—a day in which priests and people went down beneath the chariot wheels of the invaders. And once again the warnings of God, though despised, were fulfilled to the last word in the terrible punishment upon those who forgot him.

THE PROMISE TO THE FAITHFUL

BUT God does not forget those who truly love him, and thus the Book of Malachi closes with the words of promise to the faithful. "But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall," Malachi 4:2.

The remnants of those who remained true to God in the midst of a wicked generation were used to perpetuate his witness in the earth. The dark days of persecution could not put out the light of his presence and peace.

Let us pause as we study this Book of Malachi and search our own souls, lest we be guilty of the hypocrisy which destroyed the people in the long ago. With every strand of strength which he grants us, let us do with our might what our hands find to do, and the peace that passeth all understanding will be our portion.

"And all flesh shall see the salvation of the Lord."

HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS

A REAL CHANCE to see those fighting Brooklyn Dodgers, led by the rough and tumble Leo Durocher is being afforded sport fans of this community, when the first baseball charter bus of the season will be leaving Hicksville, for the Dodger Cincinnati double header on June 6th. Anyone interested can see Ray Phillips at the Yellowstone Cafe in Hicksville, or call 220.

. . . . . .

All of the trophies and medals won by the Legion basketball team at the Ossian Independent Tourney last March have been collected and may be seen on display in the front window of the drug store in St. Joe.

. . . . . .

CHANGE TO B.A.A.—When local pro basketball fans drive to Fort Wayne this winter to watch the Zollner Pistons perform on the hardwood courts, they will be confronted by all new teams, and a lot of new player faces, who will be visiting Ft. Wayne during the 48-49 season. Such large Eastern cities as New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston and Washington, will send teams against the Pistons as result of an announcement from the Piston management that they were withdrawing from the old National basketball league, of which they have been a member for eight years to join the two year old Basketball Association of America. Other members of the league include Providence, R. I., Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago. The Piston's feel they have definitely made a move for the better in tieing in with the B.A.A. who play their games in some of the largest sport arenas in the country, such as, Madison Square Gardens at New York, the Chicago Stadium, and the Boston gardens, and with the completion of the War Memorial Coliseum in the Summit City, they will also be in the same seating capacity class as other teams in their new league.. Completion of plans, and choosing of the ground for the site of the project will be completed this fall, and the erecting of the building is slated to get underway early next year.

Plans for the Y.M.C.A. Softball league at Auburn this summer were further advanced in a meeting of all team representatives and officials of the league, in a meeting at Auburn, Monday evening. The league this year will be composed of the following teams: Warner Gear, Auburn Clutch, Corunna Lutheran, Baals Foundry, Schaab Kids, St. Joe Legion, Auburn Moose, and the eighth team will be either the Auburn American Legion, or Schaab Vet's; however both organizations will not sponsor teams. The summers schedule has not yet been drawn up, but it is believed that games will be played two nights a week, with every team seeing action once a week.

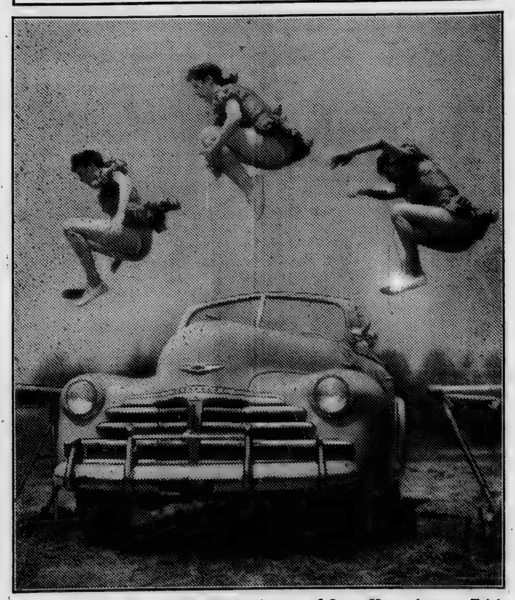
TRACKMEN SPARRING PARTNERS: Heavyweight champion Joe Louis, after his comment last week that all his sparring partners for his training in preparation for his June bout with Jersey Joe Walcott, would have to be fast on their feet, and would have to be able to do the hundred yards in 10 seconds flat, has announced that Richard Hagan, Chicago Golden Gloves champion of 1947, will be his first sparring partner when he moves to his Pompton Lakes, N. J., training camp next week. Louis, who was outraced as well as outpunched in his last encounter with the challenger, believes that by having fast men in the ring with him all the time during his training bouts that he will be able to keep up with the shuffling dodging Walcott next month. He says Hagan is a 22-year old, 200 pounder who can "run as fast as Walcott."

. . . . . .

....We believe that one of the best moves in High School Athelctics by four of the neighboring small High Schools was made last week, when it was announced that final plans, and the drawing up of schedules had been completed for ..the summer softball league for high school students who will return to school next year. Schools participating will be Harlan, Spencerville, Leo, and St. Joe. The games wil be played ..on Wednesday nights under the lights at the Harlan diamond. A nine game scheduled has been drawn up with the league opener on May 26. At the end of season playoffs will be held with the first and third teams in the standings playing off and then the second and fourth teams doing the same with the two winners to meet for the league champs. Efforts will be made ..through the ..school, ..and business men of the town to ..buy suits for the boys. We believe it to be a good thing for the boys to be active in atheletics of this kind during the summer as well as in the winter, and also in the belief that participation in sport of this kind during the summer months ..could not help but be beneficial to winter sport teams such as baketball.

Acrobat Observes Leap Year



Only one girl appears in this leaping-est of Leap Year pictures. Trick photography has registered three distinct stages in the flight of Heather Pugh of Cole Bros. circus over a Chevrolet cabriolet. The girl jumped from a trampolin, a resilient platform used by acrobats to achieve superhuman results.

Great Jersey Bull Is Dead

SANDIA, TEXAS—Leaving some 750 sons and daughters to continue improving the production and type of dairy cattle in America, Masterman Golden Jolly, one of the world's outstanding sires, is dead. Old "Masterman," in service many years at Knolle Jersey Farms, Sandia, Texas—the World's Largest Jersey Herd—was classified as Very Good in type conformation and was rated by the American Jersey Cattle Club as a Silver and Gold Medal Senior Superior Sire because of the outstanding production and type demonstrated by his daughters.

With the prospect of soon being credited with more officially tested daughters than any Jersey bull in history, he now has ninety-three daughters officially tested for production, each having an average lactation record of 8,132 pounds of milk consisting of 5.83 per cent butterfat. When converted to a 305 day twice daily milking mature basis, each daughter produced an average of 474 pounds butterfat lactation. He already holds the record for the greatest number of daughters of one bull to have been officially classified for type by the American Jersey Cattle Club, with a total of 304 classified daughters averaging a score of 84.97 per cent, at the very top of the "Good Plus" bracket.

Setting a goal towards which America's dairy farmers should strive, "Masterman's" owners have done much in leading the way to an increase in the world's food supply and lowering costs to the consumer, simply through breeding better dairy cattle. "Masterman's" many daughters have produced nearly two and one-half times the average yearly production of all dairy cattle in the U. S.

HIGH SPRING MILK PRODUCTION MAY BE EXTENDED INTO SUMMER MONTHS

Peak daily milk production reached by many herds in the spring may be extended through the summer and into fall, and at costs lower than usual, by following a few simple rules, according to G. A. Williams, extension dairyman, Purdue University.

Early spring pasture is a diluted concentrate and may contain as much water as does milk. Many dairymen find it profitable to feed a small amount of hay daily during the entire grazing season. The grain mixture fed does not need a high percentage of protein as grass, at this season of the year, is as high as bran in digestable protein on a dry matter basis. Ground corn and oats make a satisfactory ration until midsummer when bluegrass reaches the seed producing stage.

Salt should be available at all times. One pound of salt may be mixed with every 100 pounds of grain, and loose salt also should be provided in the pasture and dry lot. This free choice of salt is important when the herd is first turned on pasture, as the extra moisture which must be eliminated from the system seems to require the consumption of more salt than usual.

CHEMICALS WILL NOT SPEED DECAY OF STUMPS

A new "joker" has joined the group of chemicals being sold to farm owners under the name of "magic" stump removers, Purdue University foresters point out. Common caustic soda, in very low dilution, is on the market for prices as high as $3.00 per gallon. The original "stump killer", sold under these clams, was common saltpeter, and was as thoroughly diluted as the caustic soda.

Since both saltpeter and caustic soda can be bought for less than 35 cents a pound, it is easily seen that a five percent solution can be manufactured for much less than $3.00 per gallon.

While most of these chemicals will kill living vegeation, standard weed killing sprays such as 2, 4-D are better. The county agricultural agent can supply information on use of weed killers. No chemical will speed up decay of stumps. The farmer is still paying too much for too little, if he buys "magic" instead of recommended products, the foresters say.

INTERNATIONAL MODEL PLANE CONTEST FINAL TO BE AT DETROIT, AUGUST 17-18

Plymouth dealers all over the country today received entry forms for contestants in Plymouth Motor Corporation's 2nd International Model Plane Contest

Receipt of the entry applications by Plymouth dealers opened the way for the nation's air-minded youth to compete in the greatest competition in model aviation D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth, estimates that a half-million model plane builders will participate in 500 elimination meets preparatory to the International contest at Detroit, August 18-23.

Eliminations will be held on state and local levels duirng June and July, although in some smaller comunitites entrants will try for qualification in time trials.

An invitational contest, the International will be limited to 500 model builders who demonstrate the superiority of their planes in the preliminary meets. The top 500 will be invited to the International by a committee haded by Eddins and including Dr. Walter A. Good, Chairman, Academy of Model Aeronautics, and Frank P. Sposite, Contest Director

The prizes --- 135 trophies and $7,875 in cash---will be awarded to winners in 45 events. There are handsome trophies for the first three place winners in each event plus prizes of $100 for first, $50 for second, and $25 for third place winners.

In addition, there will be special trophies for high point winners in each of the Junior, senior and open classifications. Event high point winners will be shooting for the three perpetual trophies: Plymouth Motor Corporation's trophy for top speed, jet propelled; the Stinson trophy for scale modeling; and the Air Trails trophy for stunt events.

The contest is sponsored by plymouth in conjunction with the Aero Club of Michigan and with the sanction of the Academy of Model Aeronauctis. Open to model builders throughout the world, it is designed to encourage development of engineering and designing skill in youn sters. The contest includes events for indoors rubber-powered planes, gas powered free-flight, and for control-line gas powered, control line scale models, control line stunt, and control line jet.

Entry blanks for this contest are available at the Warner Auto and Appliance Store at Leo, Indiana.

Before the war, Indiana farmers were using about 250,000 tons of fertilizer a year. Now they are using over 800,000 tons and there isn,t enough to go around.

Researchers predict the use of radar apparatus similar to aviation's "Ground Controlled Approach" to guide Navy ships through landlocked waters in heavy fog.

Chocolate Topped Nut Crunchies

"Mom, how about one of those hot cookies?"

The mother who regularly bakes cookies is the champion—not only to her children, but also to her husband who still likes to raid the cookie jar.

For something different in the way of cookies, try these chocolate topped nut crunchies. Into the top of each crunchy cookie press chocolate frosting and garnish with a whole almond.

These taste delights are good to have around on house-cleaning days when time is at a premium or on days when it's fun to be outdoors and picnics are a spur-of-the-moment entertainment.

CHOCOLATE TOPPED NUT CRUNCHIES

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 egg
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
Chocolate frosting or melted chocolate candy bar thinned with cream

Sift together flour, salt and soda. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add vanilla extract. Add egg, mixing well. Add flour mixture and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets. With spoon make hollows in center of each cookie. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Drop chocolate frosting by teaspoonfuls in hollows. Top with nut if desired. Yield: About five dozen cookies, one and one-half inches.

In Appreciation

I am extremely grateful to the good people of DeKalb, LaGrange and Steuben Counties, who honored me with the nomination for Joint Senator in the May 4th Primary.

Humbly feeling the importance of the responsibility placed upon me, I pledge my every effort to the justification of your confidance.

Sincerely,

VOTES AT PRIMARY COST MORE THAN $2

It cost DeKalb county taxpayers slightly over $2 each time a voter stepped to the polls in last Tuesday's primary

The total cost of the primary was $6,782.50. The claims will be presented to the county auditor, who will present them to the county commissioners in June for approval.

Only 3,371 of the county's 15,500 voters participated in the election, which accounts for the high average cost per ballot.

In the 1946 primary the election cost averaged $1.48, while in 1944 it was $1.85. In 1946, 4,728 votes were cast and in 1944 only 2,492. The vote turnout Tuesday was the lowest in recent years with the exception of the 1944 primary. Of Tuesday's ballots, 2,234 were cast for GOP primary favorites, and 1,137 for democratic hopefuls.

In this year's budget, 17,010 was included for the election expenses fund. There is now $10,327.50 remaining for the fall general election. County officials said the amount would be adequate to cover the November costs. The cost per vote in the fall election will be much less with a certain turnout of considerably more voters.

According to the claims which will be presented for payment, the major item of expense is salaries of election officials. Inspectors are given $9 daily, judges and clerks, $7 and sheriffs, $5. Inspectors were paid for two days, the others for a single day. Meal allowances were $2.50 daily.

Total claims to be paid inspectors total $810; judges and clerks, $644 total for each group; and $450 for sheriffs.

Ridgway Wins as Delegate

Among the 15 delegates to go to the state convention in Indianapolis June 8, will be Derwood Ridgway of S. Joe who won out over Lawrence Diehl of Waterloo, 81 votes to 35.

Clerk Candidates in tie

Auburn's two deadlocked candidates for the republican nomination for county clerk, Walter C. Manon and Ralph W. Bruce, still haven't been informed who will be the man to try and beat out the Democratic candidate for that office in the fall election. Mr. Manon and Mr. Bruce were locked with 1,117 votes each when the official tabulation of last Tuesday's primary was made known.

Both candidates have until 15 days after the primarys to demand a recount. Mr. Manon reported that he definitely would not seek a recount while Mr. Bruce, who had an unofficial margin of two votes, had not yet decided. Providing neither of the candidates seeks ar ecount, the selection of the GOP nominee for the office will be up to the county committee. The party has until August to certify a candidate.

TRI TWP. FARM BUREAU

The reguar monthly meeting of the Tri-Twp. Farm Bureau was held in the music room of the Concord Twp. School with Chairman Carl Carpenter presiding.

The group sang "America" and repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Minutes were read and the following Twp chairmen were appointed for the 1947 membership drive next Fall: Newville-Floyd Roberts, Spencer-Howard Shilling, and Concord-Carl Carpenter, and a contribution was voted for the Modlin Memorial Fund.

Mr. Snyder of the Co-ops showed an instructive picture on "The Inside Story of Modern Milking", and A film showing scenes taken on the recent Rural Youth trip from Indianapolis through the South, to Cuba and home.

Between pictures, Rhoda Ulm and Kathleen Anthony sang a duet and Virginia Ulm played a piano solo.

It was decided to have the next meeting in the Alton Community Building, better known as the Cheesetown School House on Road 101, ¼ mile north of the B. & O. R. R., at 8 p. m., Standard Time.

Mrs. Anthony assisted by the other S. and E. leaders served dixie cups, coffee, and delicious home made cake.

Members come and get the benefit of these interesting and instructive meetings.

Rural Dogs Voted "Most Useful" Title

Pennsylvania and Idaho Canines So Outstanding Judges Can't Decide Between Them

A committee of judges, weighing the merits of candidates in "America's Most Useful Dog of 1947" contest, finally decided to award the title to two dogs, it has been announced.

The winning dogs are "Tubby," a Collie-St. Bernard owned by Karl B. Loud, R.F.D. 1, Wellsboro, Penna., and "Spike," of German Shepherd and mixed ancestry, owned by Mrs. Ed. Schlagel, Route 1, Cataldo, Idaho. Each dog had so many qualifications that the judges simply could not decide between them.

The contest to find the "Most Useful Dog" was undertaken by the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City, as part of the observance of the 1947 National Dog Week. Judges in the contest were Sydney H. Coleman, executive vice president of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; Ted Malone, prominent radio personality; and Harry Miller, director of the Gaines Dog Research Center. The two dogs have been presented by the Research Center with handsome red and blue collars bearing sterling silver engraved plates attesting to their honors in this contest.

"Tubby," only a year and a half old, is not only an excellent all-round watch dog, but a real herd dog who takes out and brings in the cows each day in the best farm tradition. For this purpose he carries a stick in his mouth which he wields with great dexterity. In addition, he brings in the mail, carries firewood into the house, carries pails to and from the house and barn, bears notes to and from his master in the field, saves his mistress endless steps by fetching from upstairs rooms hat, shoes, wallet or other desired articles, and performs a variety of similar chores. He can also do about 50 tricks, count up to ten, and, according to reliable witnesses, can speak a few words—although the judges did not take these last into consideration in selecting him for the award.

"Spike," on the other hand, serves as right-hand-man to Mrs. Schlagel, who, with an invalid husband, has the responsibility of running a 190-acre ranch. He, too, is an expert herd dog with cattle. Among his other accomplishments is acting as chaperone to his owner's flock of chickens, pulling a wagon and skidding small trees. He is an exceptional hunting dog and has cleared his owner's property of coyotes, badgers and other vermin. A vigilant watch dog, "Spike" keeps his home place free of all trespassers. He watches over the Schlagel children, whether at home or in the woods, as anxiously as a mother.

LOOKING AHEAD

False Earnings

Would a 3,500 per cent increase in wages or salary interest you? If your income sky-rocketed like that, you wouldn't be much worried about the high cost of living, would you? Wait a minute. Are you sure you'd be on easy street? Perhaps you will be surprised to learn that workers in France have had that amount of increase in their money earnings since 1914, and they still lack the necessities of life.

A brick layer in Paris worked 48 hours a week in 1914. He took home 45½francs a week, slightly less than one franc per hour. But today he gets 35 francs per hour. In 1914 he could buy four quarts of milk for his franc or a dozen-and-a-half eggs. But today for an hour's wages he can buy less than three quarts of milk and barely 7 eggs—if he can find them. Both items, plentiful in 1914, are now hard to obtain.

Hold Your Own?

This means that there are things more important than increases in wages. The consequences of inflation are such that costs of living manage to keep a step ahead of wage boosts. The lesson is this: the average breadwinner cannot hold his iwn once the inflation spiral gets going. No matter how often wages are increased, he gets farther and farther behind.

Costs always outrun increased earnings — unless someone stops the spiral. To stop a runaway team, you have to do more than holler "Whoa!" You have to pull back on the reins, set your heels in the dirt, and maybe make a little sacrifice in terms of direction and effort. Inflation is like that. Some of us fail to see the brink of the precipice ahead. We take our increases and discount the dire results.

$10,000 Trifle

When I left China in 1936, a comfortable home could have been purchased there for 10,000 Chinese dollars. Today you'd be lucky to buy a loaf of bread for $10,000. Matter of fact, a Chinese friend of mine recently enclosed a $10,000 note to me in a letter. The note was not a gift, nor a repayment on a loan, nor a sum for investment. It was merely a souvenir, virtually worthless.

Pull Together!

Oh, this can't happen to America! Anyone who utters that statement is confused, chances are: Actually it has already been happening to America. The spiral of inflation has cut down buying power, cheapened our money. Tolay, $2 are worth what $1 was worth only a few years ago. This means that if you have insurance or a bank account, the effect of inflation has reduced these by one-half. Loss to savings in this way is very real.

In most lines of industry and in agriculture, our vast production is doing a fine job of meeting unprecedented demand. We must continue to produce, cut costs, and save more. We must do the right things about these problems. If each of us will act individually and collectively as we know best, the inflation bogey is dead. Remember that the answer is not always to be found in wage boosts. Rather, we shall be good citizens if we pull together to bring the cost of living down.

Successful management is an elusive thing to some people. They forget that it is largely the sum total of doing correctly many little things.

Buy well-bred chicks! A hen laying 125 eggs per year will eat approximately 85 pounds of feed per year. A hen laying 200 eggs will eat approximately 100 pounds of grain per year. a hen laying 200 eggs will eat approximately 100 pounds of grain per year. Fifteen pounds of extra grain and 75 more eggs.

His Parents Died To Help Win The War— Now Daniel Is Hungry, Needs Help To Live

Crusade for Children Asks Gifts for Hungry Children In War-Torn Europe, Asia

NEW YORK, Apr. 29—Thirteen-year-old Daniel is the only survivor of his family. Eight years ago, there were five of them, living in comfort in a pleasant town of France. Daniel remembers the death of each one.

He remembers how his father went to war on a submarine and never came back.

He remembers how his mother joined the Resistance movement and was betrayed to the Gestapo.

He remembers the escape to the forest with his mother and two small brothers; the hiding and incessant fleeing through the cold woods for eight months aided by the Maquis. He remembers the shivering and heavy breathing of the little brothers, the flush of fever on their cheeks—and how his mother went to obtain medical help and never came back.

He remembers that the little ones became colder and colder on the blanket with him, despite his efforts to breathe warmth into both their bodies from his own; that they finally lay as cold and hard as pieces of ice on each side of him and moved no more.

Mother Captured

Later he got word that his mother had been captured by the Vichy militia and turned over to the Gestapo. He remembers with bitter pride that all attempts failed to force her to reveal the hiding place of her comrades in the Maquis. Had she spoken, she might have lived. The price of her silence was death . . . death in a German concentration camp without knowing her two youngest sons had succumbed to pneumonia.

Daniel was kept hidden by the Maquis until the liberation. Then he was sent to live with his grandparents.

The grandparents are without money; they cannot buy the necessary clothes and food for their grandson.

After two years of the Maquis meager rations, after three post-war years of scant nourishment, Daniel is emaciated and apathetic.

His main meal of the day is the lunch he gets at school, through the assistance of American foreign relief agencies. He would like to leave school, where his academic record is above average, and work to support the old people and himself, but he is too weak to attempt work of any sort.

He has a desperate need for nourishing foods to rebuild his starved body, and help him forget the tragedies which are all he can remember of life.

SOLE SURVIVOR — Thirteen-year-old Daniel, only survivor of a family of five, waits amid bomb debris in his French village and hopes emergency food will be distributed through American voluntary foreign relief agencies. It will be—if Americans contribute to the Crusade for Children of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children, 39 Broadway, New York 6, N. Y.

Children of War Heroes Need Assistance Today In Battle for Survival

Americans can give him food and hope by contributing to the Crusade for Children of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children.

This combined campaign, to finance the foreign relief activities of 25 American voluntary agencies, and to help replenish the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, asks $60,000,000 of the American people this spring.

Its object is to restore to health the millions of Daniels in war-impoverished countries of Europe and Asia — the millions of sick and hungry children whose own countries cannot help them. These are children who are dependent for survival upon voluntary private relief—no government program reaches them.

Seven Cents a Day

Children fed under this widespread program now reaching 7,500,000 receive a supplementary meal which costs about seven cents a day per child. Half the meal—in cost and caloric value—is provided from abroad and half by the government of the child receiving it.

Supplies made possible by the Crusade for Children consist, for the most part, of powdered milk and, in some instances, a little lard or margarine and economical types of meat and fish for stew and sandwiches. The receiving governments contribute, as they can from domestic foods, cereals and cereal products, such as spaghetti, potatoes, vegetables, meat and fruits.

The children are fed in infants' and children's centers, schools, orphanages, maternity homes and the like.

Contributions to the Crusade for Children may be given to local campaign committees or sent directly to national headquarters of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children, 39 Broadway, New York 6, N. Y.

WHAT BIG TEETH HE HAD! Three-year old Gerald Miner, of Mulberry, Florida, looks over the giant "nippers" of a four-tusked mastadon, unearthed in the phosphate mines of Southwest Florida. Many remains of the giant animals which roamed the lush jungles 60 million years ago have been unearthed and placed in museums.

A new brucella vaccine, developed by Dr. I. Forest Huddleson, Michigan State College bacteriologist, and designed to prevent spreading of Bang's disease in cattle, is now in wide-scale tests on Michigan dairy herds.

FOURTH SET OF TWIN HEIFERS. A purebred Guernsey cow owned by Victor Robb of Hubbard Lake, Michigan, recently gave birth to her fourth set of twin calves, all of which were heifers. The last set was bred by artificial insemination. The twin calves are considered by cattle judges to be outstanding specimens. Albert Kleve attends them.

RARE TYPE SOIL EROSION. A rare type of mudball erosion in Mercer County, Illinois, is pointed out by Ralph Thomason, district soil technician to Les Stone, Aledo Times-Record farm editor, and Bill Meeker, farm operator. The mudballs were rolled up by a heavy deluge of rain.

SAVE FATHER'S TIME. Tomato planting is a farm job that Rene DeClercq annually turns over to his children while he is busy with other work on his farm near Geneseo, Illinois. Driving the tractor is Raymond, 15; riding the low seats of the planter are Dorothy Ellen, 12, and Virginia, 14, while Alice Ann, 5½, sits on the water tank to shut off the stream at the end of each row.

MODERN FARMING

Insect and Weed Control

FOR INCREASED PRODUCTION AND MORE HEALTHFUL LIVING

Development of chemicals for control of weeds and insect pests has been hailed by many as the biggest agricultural conquest in recent years.

Methods of application and new chemicals are constantly being created in an effort to bring even greater results. County agents and state agricultural colleges have taken the lead with tests and practical application of the new chemicals, while manufacturers and processors of 2,4-D as well as DDT and other chemicals have cooperated with them in instructing farmers, home gardeners and householders in the proper use of these new insecticides and fungicides to get maximum results.

Some of the ways these new chemicals have been employed to increase production and provide better, more healthful living are illustrated on these pages. Manufacturers of these products can supply detailed information on approved methods of application and proper quantities based on previous tests.

A free packet of information on the use of DDT and 2,4-D is available without cost by addressing your request to the Farm Editor of this paper.

Dr. Harold Gunderson of Iowa State College of Agriculture, who is actively interested in promotion of fly control campaigns throughout Iowa, demonstrates the use of a DDT spray in chicken houses.

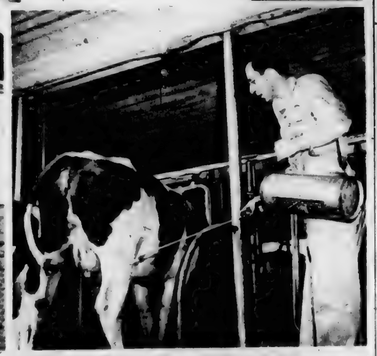
Professional exterminators were employed in a "Fly Day" campaign last year in St. Louis, Michigan, where the common house fly was made almost extinct by spraying breeding places with DDT. This year, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the first organized national anti-fly war, urging urban and rural areas to use DDT on a community-wide basis.

Application of a 6% DDT coating provides a long lasting, residual effect when brushed on screens, porch ceilings, light drop-cords and other surfaces where flies like to rest.

Ingenuity! A jeep (or truck), a 42 foot boom with spray nozzles set 18 inches apart, three discarded oil barrels filled with recommended weed killer, and any farmer can rid his fields of thistles and wild mustard. County Agent E. M. Skaliskey of Washington County, Wisconsin, is shown on the jeep fender.

Earle Arnold applies water dispersible DDT with a power sprayer to the ceiling of a dairy barn. This helps keep the barn free from flies, and means more sanitary milking conditions and bigger milk checks.

Flower and vegetable gardeners have also discovered the value of spraying with chemicals for insect and disease control. The sprayer illustrated also has its use in control of weeds in large lawns surrounding many farm houses. Care should be exercised to clean the sprayer thoroughly before using insect and weed control chemicals to avoid contamination.



Spraying of dairy cattle with solutions of DDT in tests run by some agricultural colleges indicate milk production can be increased as much as 18%. Beef cattle in similar tests have gained from ½ to 1 pound per day more than unsprayed cattle.

A Wedding in May

There's something about May . . . the balmy days . . . the fresh green grass . . . trees bursting into bud . . . the whiff of lilacs and crab-apple blossoms in the air . . . birds singing in the warm sunshine, that makes one feel as though the world had bedecked itself for a wedding in May.

A rival in beauty to the May bride is the Bride's Cake, and just as an all-white wedding is the choice of some girls and pastel shades or rainbow hues the desire of others, so may the wedding cake follow the same pattern and take the form of an all-white Bride's Cake, or the cake, candies and ice cream molds may be decorated in pastel tones.

It's up to the bride, of course, to set the date, to decide upon the formality of the occasion and the refreshments she wishes to serve. Perhaps it's to be a wedding breakfast, or more likely a Bridal Brunch. Again if the service is at high noon, a wedding dinner will follow. Or in the event the ceremony takes place in mid-afternoon, it will doubtless be followed with a reception at which light refreshments are served. Refreshments need not be elaborate unless the affair is formal.

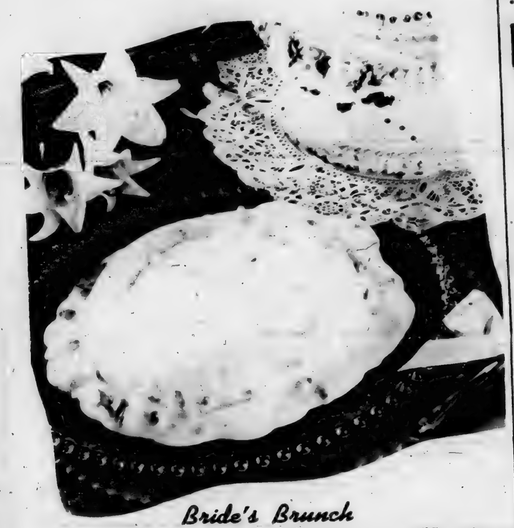
"And they were married and lived happily ever after," was the final ending of all stories a few years back . . . but today it is only the beginning!

BRIDE'S CAKE may be an artistic achievement of your own creation even if the wedding is formal.

Something old—a coffee cake. Something new—a coffee cake formed into a wedding ring.

Bells are Ringing

on the simple wedding cake which is high-lighted by attractive table setting for the informal affair.



Bride's Brunch

Farina Apricot Ring*

3 1/3 cups water
2 cups apricot cooking liquid
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup farina
1 cup chopped cooked apricots

Combine water, apricot juice and salt; bring to a boil. Gradually add farina. Cook over direct heat, stirring until thickened. Reduce heat and continue cooking 20 minutes stirring occasionally; add apricots; mix well and pack hot farina into lightly buttered ring mold. Allow farina to set 3 minutes; turn out onto chop plate, fill center with 4 cups of hot creamed chicken to which ½ cup of chopped or sliced almonds have been added. Yield: 8 servings.

SALARIES OF FIVE INDIANA LEGISLATORS STILL BEING WITHHELD

A brief has been filed with the Indiana Supreme Court by attorney for State Auditor A. V. Burch supporting his action in withholding pay from five state legislators who hold other state jobs.

Mr. Burch, said the money now held by his office pending the Supreme Court's decision has gone over the $30,000.00 mark.

This nest egg for Hoosier taxpayers, Mr. Burch said, will continue to grow until the court announces its final decision on the matter. Should the court find in favor of the state auditor, the money will be turned into other state's general fund.

In an earlier action, the legislators appealed their cases to the Supreme Court from the Marion County Circuit Court where Special Judge Floyd W. Burns upheld Mr Burch's Decree for non payment of salary and travel expenses of the five men on the grounds that the Indiana constitution forbids any person from holding two lucrative state jobs simultaneously.

Mr. Burch, late last week repeated his sentiment expressed at the outset of the litigation.

"In all fairness to those involved and to the taxpayers of this state, I feel this question should be settled through judicial proceedings."

A recapitulation made May 1 shows $30,030.95 is being held by the auditor's office.

The legislators include Glenn R. Slenker, of the Public Service Commission; Clyde Black, flood commission secretary. Charles Miser state highway maintenance superintendent; Beecher Conrad, state barber inspector, and Elmer Weller, Public Service Commission motor vehicles director.

All five are members of the Republican party.

PLANS MADE FOR MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES IN ST JOE.

Plans for Memorial Day services to be held in St. Joe on Sunday afternoon, May 30th, were in progress this week, with Post 283 of the American Legion at St. Joe making plans for services to be conducted on the same order as those held last year, to be presented at Riverview cemetery here.

A line of march will be formed, with the Walter Whitenurst Post of the Legion posting their colors. All veterans of World War I, and II, and all Spanish American Veterans and all Boy and Girl Scouts are invited to join in the march to the cemetery.

At the cemetery loud speakers will carry the message of the day, to be delivered by a local World War II, Navy veteran.

Members of Post 283 will also conruct the remainder of the graveside Memorial Services.

On Sunday morning, World War I and II members will visite cemeteries at Spencerville, Newville, and at the Alton Cemetery, to conduct services in honor of their fallen comrades.

Do you know

THAT proceeds from the sale of over 25,000,000 poppies made annually under the guidance of the American Legion Auriliary amount to more than $2,000,000, every penny of which is devoted to rehabilitation work by the Legion and Auxiliary, which includes aid to the needy veterans and their families? The method of distribution varies in our fifty-two Departments, depending upon the nature of the demands for help. Each of our 11,000 units in communities scattered all over the United States, its territorial possessions and in foreign countries where veterans reside, maintains a rehabilitation committee working under a chairman and a Child Welfare committee with its chairman, and these unit chairmen are assisted by a state chairman of similar comittees, who in turn work under the guidance and help of a national Rehabilitation chairman and a National Child Welfare Chairman.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway, Kenneth Ridgway and Bud Shuff attended the Indiana State Well Drillers Convention at Lafayette, Indiana, last Friday and Saturday. The highlight of the two day session of meetings and display of equipment at the Purdue University buildings, was a banquet Friday evening at the Fowler Hotel in West Lafayette, with over 200 guests attending. The party returned to St. Joe Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Wodcox and son Larry, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Woodcox of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox were Saturday night dinner guests at the Don Burley home.

A car driven by 17 year old Marion Baker of Spencerville, and a truck driven by Roy Ramer of Butler sideswiped on the curve at the north edge of St. Joe, on state Rd. 1, about 6 p.m., last Wednesday.

The collision occurred during a heavy rain and both drivers said poor visibility on the highway was a contributing factor. The car a 1939 Mercury, was estimated to be damage to the extent of about $200. Only about $40 damage resulted to the truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull spent Monday evening with Fred and Golden High at Spencerville and enjoyed a fine fish supper supplied by "Skinny" and caught near the dam, one fish weighing one and a half pounds.

Mrs. Harold Miller of Ainger, O., spent last Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Lulu Woodcox, here.

Little Nina Jane Kees who recently underwent an appendectomy at the Hicksville, hospital has returned to her home here, and is well on the way to recovery.

Harold Baker, Ned Keller, Wayne Surfus, Charles Rosenbury, and Lewis Walter drove to Indianapolis, Sunday to witness the time qualification trials for the 500 mile auto race to be held Memorial Day.

Merritt Sechler flew to New York yesterday where he will visit about a week with Ralph Patterson.

Mrs. Alice Zimmerman is spending a few days at Marion, Indiana, where she is assisting in the care of her nephew, who is ill.

Mrs. John Harter and Miss Edna Philo of Fort Wayne, accompanied Ivan Harter to the Veterans Hospital at Marion Sunday, where they visited with Mrs. Harter's husband, John, who is quite seriously ill with spinal meningitis. He will be confined in the hospital for several weeks.

Mrs. Myrtle Troyer of Auburn, returned to her home Sunday evening after spending the past week here with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foltz.

Mrs. Millie Wilson spent a few days the past week with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rosenberry in Ft. Wayne.

Commencement exercises for 23 seniors of the Concord Twp. High School will be held Friday, May 21, at 8:p. m. James H. Tatlock of Brownstown will deliver the address. The senior class left on their trip to Kentucky on Monday of this week and will return Wednesday or Thursday. Mr. Dewey White, who drove the bus, and Mrs. White accompanied the group. Saturday May 22nd the Seniors will be entertained at a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. in Ft. Wayne.

The late Henry Hamm. 83, a retired B. & O. railroad conductor, was buried in Union cemetery northwest of Garrett Monday afternoon following funeral services held at 2 p. m. at the George W. Iler Mortuary at Garrett. The Rev. E. Lacy Satterfield, pastor of the Garrett Church of Christ, officiated at the rites. Mr. Hamm died at 4:05 a. m. Saturday at the home of E. F. Peppers of 401 Covell street, Garrett. Mr. Hamm was a former resident of this community, living in the property now owned by Ray Reasoner, many years ago. The street in St. Joe known as Hamburg was named after that family which resided here then.

Harvey Hull says that it wasn't that he was scared the other night, when he presented the American Legion award at the Spencerville commencement exercises; It was just that the light was so bad that he couldn't see to read what he had written to say. That's what he gets for not memorizing his speech.

CARD OF THANKS

To our neighbors and friends of St. Joe who assisted an any way during the illness and after the passing on of Daddy Cox, we want you to know that your kindness and floral offerfings are more deeply appreciated than any words can express.

CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

SPENCER TWP. HOME EC.

The Spencer Township Home Bureau met with Mrs. Fred Hart, Wednesday afternoon, May 12. The president, Mrs. Lynn Fisher called the meeting to order. Mrs. Joseph Baidinger read the history of the song of the month, "Now the Day is Over", the members joined in singing. The devotions were given by Mrs. Roscoe Walter.

Roll Call response, "My Mother's Birthplace", was answered by 26 members.

The project lesson, "Selecting Becoming Clothes", was given by Mrs. Vaughn Allen and Mrs. Andrew Ward followed by a style show.

Entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Otis Brown and Mrs. Lola Moore. The hostess and Mrs. Bert Fisher served delicious refreshments.

The next meeting will be held June 9, at the school house.

CERTIFIED SEED GROWERS HOLD BANQUET

Kellar Beeson, Purdue extension agronomist and secretary of the Indiana corn Growers Association, spoke at the second annual banquet of Certified Seed Growers held in the basement of the Lutheran "Sixteen" Church three miles north of Garrett on Tuesday evening, May 11.

Mr. Beeson discussed the new varieties that were being multiplied by Indiana Certified Seed Growers and told of the things to come in certified seeds. He mentioned that there is no new prospects for better oats varieties for a number of years, but a couple of promising varieties are being tested at the University at the present time. He stated that the plant breeder in developing new oats varieties has saved the oats crop in the midwest which definitely was on its way out until new varieties were developed, multiplied, and distributed to farmers in this area. Clinton and Benton oats are seeded on 90 percent of the farms in DeKalb county this year. These oats were merely a dream three years ago so far as the Indiana farmer was concerned; however, they had been in development for a number of years.

Mr. Beeson discussed the new wheat variety know as Vigo and stated that it was another step in the wheat improvement program, but that in all new varieties the ideal had yet not been obtained. He stated that Vigo wheat will be certified in DeKalb County this year.

Mr. Beeson stated that the latest development in soybeans was the Hawkeye which has the same characteristics as the Richland only that it grows six inches taller which remedies the major fault of the Richland soybean. The new Hawkeye is approximately a week earlier than the Lincoln, but it will not quite yield the number of bushel per acre that the Lincoln will. It is also second in oil content. He stated that this variety would be used to great advantage where folks were interested in an early bean and one of good yield. The Earlyana soybean still is the earliest bean multiplied in Indiana.

Mr. Beeson warned farmers in DeKalb Conuty and Indiana to be cautious in purchasing seed from Canada and far western states for production in this climate. He said often times these varieties are not adapted to climatic conditions in this area and do not perform up to standards.

In corn, Mr. Beeson stated, there is certainly improvement and that 251A, which is being distrbuted by seed growers in DeKalb County for the first time this year, has yielded consistently higher than 210 in county and state demonstration plot. Another variety which is under multiplication this year in the county is 252 which is an improvement over the 251A. 251A has better standing ability and highter yieldability, but does not possess the characteristic ear of 210 in that it is the long slender ear and does not resemble the Reids Yellow Dent as closely.

BRUCE AND MANON FILE JOINTLY FOR RECOUNT OF VOTES CAST IN PRIMARYS

The DeKalb circuit court Tuesday granted a petition filed by Walter C. Manon and Ralph W. Bruce for a recount of the republican votes cast at the recent May primary.

The action came after the two contestants for the disputed GOP nomination for county clerk had filed a joint cash bond of $460 to cover the expense of the recount.

Bond was filed according to election laws and on the basis of $10 for each of the county's 46 precincts. There will be a recount in all precincts in an effort to untie the 1,117 vote deadlock for each candidate.

The commissioners to effect the recount will be appointed by the court within the next two days, it was stated. Actual recounting of the votes is expected to begin the first of the week.

Accident Victims Buried Sunday

Services for Mr. and Mrs. Manford Smith Who Died in Wabash Crossing Accident North of Town

Double funeral services were conducted at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Newville U. B. Church for Mr. and Mrs. Manford Smith 83, and his wife, Estelle, 77, who were killed Friday morning at the Wabash railroad crossing on Road 8, 3 mile north of St. Joe.

The elderly couple, who were married last fall, were killed instantly when they drove into the path of a fast Wabash passenger train at the Howey crossing on state rd. 8, about 3 miles north of St. Joe about 10:30 Friday morning. The train traveling at an estimated 70 miles-an hour speed carried the car for a mile southward down the tracks, to within about 300 yards of the crossing near the Vernie Monroe resident.

The bodies of both were crushed and mangled, before the train could be halted to remove the twisted mass of wreckage of the 1935 Ford. The automobile was westbound, train crewman said, and wreckage from the vehicle was strewn from the crossing to the spot where the train was halted.

The bodies were identified by Marion Jennings, whose wife is a niece of Mr. Smith. Mrs. Smith was believed to have been driving the car

Police officers aided by volunteers worked for nearly an hour removing the bodies from the twisted wreckage.

The crossing is not guarded by blinker lights.

Mrs. Smith was a lifelong resident of DeKalb County untill her marriage last fall to Mr. Smith, who formerly operated a meat market at Hicksville. Her maiden name was Estella May. She is survived by a son, W. D. McNabb of Garrett; a grandson Harold of Garrett, and one brother, Edwin May. Mr. Smith had one daughter, Lucille, who is in Toledo.

The Rev. P. A. Hubbart and the Rev. William Nice officiated at the services at Newville. Mr. Smith was buried at Riverview cemetery and his wife in Evergreen cemetery.

Very Specialized

Father was in his sober, lecturing mood.

"George," he said, to his youngest, "This is the age of specialists. I hope you will be an expert at something, and know your specialty better than anyone else in the world. Is there anything, George, that you can do better than anyone else?"

"Yes father, there is," replied the quick-witted youngster, "I can read my own handwriting."

HAY DEMONSTRATION TO BE HELD NEAR HUNTINGTON

Making quality hay by various modern methods will be among the many actual demonstrations which will be conducted during the Grassland Field Day, which will be held on the airport farm near Huntington on June 16.

Not only the latest practices in cutting and field curing of hay will be shown, but also new and effective ways of storing the crop will be employed to emphasize quality roughage.

One of these storage methods is the recently developed new curing system, designed to cure the hay after it has been placed in storage. In addition, special attention will be given to grass silage storage, both in permanent and temporary type silos.

The many visitors expected to attend the Grassland Field Day, first to be held on an area basis in this part of the state, will also have an opportunity to observe new farm equipment especially adapted for seeding, harvesting and storing of grass and legume hay.

Participating in staging the Grassland Field Day are farmers, businessmen, civic leaders, and farm organizations in co-operation with the Agricultural Extension Service of Purdue University and the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Counties represented in the Huntington field day are Allen, Adams, Steuben, Wells, Wabash, Huntington Whitley, Kosciusko, Noble, LaGrange, Elkhart and DeKalb.

Represented on the various committees in charge of the event are Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent, and C. R. Gross, county agricultural agent, of DeKalb County.

By JIM MITCHELL

Writing in "Florida Wildlife", John F. DeQuine says: "Studies made by fisheries biologists in southeastern United States have convinced them that, like the 1903 model automobile, closed seasons for bass, bream and crappie are obsolete Furthermore, they are unanimous in their opinion that closed seasons in warm climates are as unnecessary as four "thumbs".

We'd like to add our endorsement to Mr. DeQuine's statement. Some states have abolished the "closed season" and others are in process of erasing this outdated idea. Most states, however, are still clinging to the idea that seasons must be closed during the spawning periods. Possibly in the northern states it is necessary to close the bass season to allow sufficient numbers to spawn, and for such species as trout it probably is a good idea to give them a "rest period" during certain seasons of the year. So far experiments have not been carried far enough to answer the question in the north.

But extensive tests conducted by the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station and the Tennessee Valley Authority have proved conclusively that closed seasons in no way add to the numbers of the warm water species. First, it has been proved that all adult fish need not spawn, for one successful bass nest will produce sufficient young to stock adequately from 60 to 600 acres of unfertilized water. A bluegill nest will produce fingerlings for 10 to 170 acres of unfertilized water. This adds up to the fact that if all fish spawned the waters would not be able to support all the young. And overstocking is as disasterous, at least in fishing results, as understocking.

The Alabama Experimental Station also has uncovered evidence which tends to outmode the laws requring that the "little ones" be tossed back. The number of fish hooked, then returned to the water, that die has been the center of a heated argument for years. No doubt, there are reasons for both sides, but this fact would tend to discard the "legal minimum limits". The Station biologist learned through long observations that 75 to 95 per cent of the bass and bluegills sufficiently injured by hooks to draw blood died when returned to the water--even when handled with the greatest of care. For our money, that settles the argument.

Home Nursing Tips

If your patient needs a back rest, try slipping a washboard into a pillowcase and cover with pillows to make it more comfortable. For an ice bag you can tie together the ends of an inner tube, while a soap box or orange crate, covered with gay-colored cloth makes an excellent bed table.

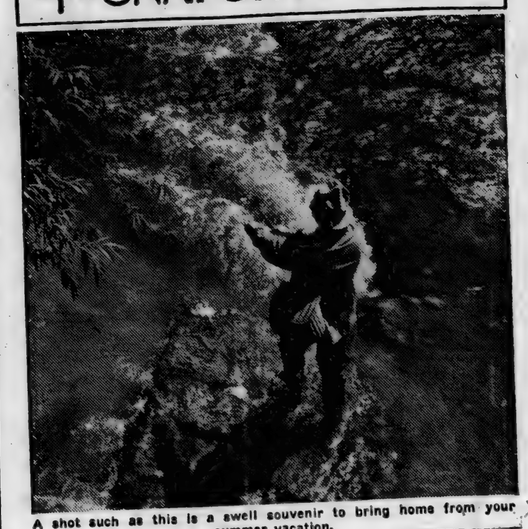
The SNAPSHOT GUILD



A shot such as this is a swell souvenir to bring home from your summer vacation.

Vacation Ahead

REGARDLESS of how you spend your vacation — touring cross-country, fishing clear streams, or merely lying on a nearby beach — you'll want your camera with you.

For part of the fun of any vacation is in recalling it after it's gone, remembering the view from a mountain trail, retelling the catch of a 3-pound trout, laughing again over a lobster cooked on the shore.

And, if you want to share your experience, what better way is there than through snapshots? Far more effectively than words, they can convey to other people a sense of the pleasure and enjoyment which you've experienced.

So, when you take your vacation, t . to tell a complete picture story. Try the old movie technique — the long shot which sets the scene of an action; the medium distance shot which shows what the nature of the action is; and the close-up which shows an individual's feelings or reaction.

For an example of this technique, let's take our fisherman. A long shot, which shows the brook and the trees, helps to set the scene. A second shot, taken at closer range, can show that he has a "bite". And a third shot, as he nets his catch, can show his feeling of pride and accomplishment.

A simple, three-way story like this will add to your vacation album. And the technique used for such a story can be varied for any situation. You can even employ a movie titling trick when touring, using a shot of a road sign—Niagara Falls, 15 mi.—to lead off your picture story.

The big thing to remember in pictures like this is to keep them alive. Mix them up so they not only show where you've been, but show what you did, and how much you enjoyed it. That's where the long shot, the medium distance shot, and the close-up come into their own. And used in this way they help tell your story completely, convincingly.

NEWS From the Office of GEORGE W. GILLIE

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON—Efforts to combat the menace of Communism in the United States have resulted in the consideration of legislation by the House of Representatives which would require Communist political and Communist-front organizations to register with the Attorney General, Rep. George W. Gillie of the Fourth District reports.

To approve this action the House has been giving its attention to H. R. 5852, which was introducted by Rep. Karl Mundt of South Dakota. Setting forth the seriousness of this Communist threat, the l egislation states:

There exists a world Communist movement which, in it origins, its development, and its present practice, is a world-wide revolutionary political movement whose purpose it is, by treachery, deceit, infiltration into other groups, governmental and otherwise, espionange, sabotage, terrorism, and any other means deemed necessary to establish a Communist totalitarian dictatorship in all countries of the world the medium of a single world-wide Communist organization."

This bill meets the Communist threat with the following measures: (1-Heavy fines, imprisonment, or both, for activities toward establishing a foreign controlled totalitarian dictatorship in the United States.

(2) Loss of citizenship for those convicted of this offense; (3) Denial of passports and federal employment to members of Communist organizations; (4) Registration of Communist political organizations and Communist-front organizations with the Attorney General. Registration includes financial statements lists of officers and lists of members. (5) Makes membership in unregistered Communist organizations unlawful; (6) Denies mail and radio facilities to Communist organizations unless the mail and broadcasts are identified as of Communist origin; (7) Denies Communist organizations the charitable provisions of income tax laws.

DISCUSSES AG POLICIES— The House Agriculture Committee, of which Rep. Gillie is a member has been conducting hearings on the establishments of a long-range farm and land policy. One of the recent government aides to appear before the Committe was Under Secretary of Agriculture Dodd who recommended that the Department of Agriculture be given more authority in planning reclamation and flood control projects. Under H. R. 6054, provisions are made for setting up an Agricultural Resources Administration within the Agriculture Department. Mr. Dodd also recommended that county farm committees be elected to advise the Agriculture Department on conservation and other problems. He opposed ceiling on Federal soil conservation payments, which would be limited by this bill to one third or one fourth the total cost of conservation projects.

STRENGTH OF THE UNITED NATIONS—John Foster Dulles, noted foreign affairs expert told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that the United States should develop it foreign policy within the United Nations "with resoluteness and determination but above all with care." He advised against seeking a world conference to revise the UN charter because, he added, any results achieved at such a conference would almost certainly be vetoed by Russia. The alternative of establishing a new international organization without Russia, he said, and her satellites would only split the world into two camps.

EYES ON THE FUTURE—With the adoption of Senate Concurrent Resolution 48 by the House, Rep. Halleck of Indiana, the majority leader, Rep. Arends of Ill., Republican whip and Rep. McCormack of Mass., minority leader, were appointed as members of the House to join with a similar group from the Senate to make arrangements for the inauguration of President-elect, to be held on January 20, 1949. The date is drawing nearer, it seems.

ON THE MOVE AGAIN—The Bureau of Census reports that half of the population of the United States has changed its living quarters since 1940.

Tile Picture Painting

Ceramic tile, generally thought of in connection with the modern home, has been used in construction for more than 6,500 years and in many countries has been regarded as an important art medium. Francisco Niculose, a 16th century Italian artist, enjoyed working with tile so much that he designed many tile pictures, painted continuously over a number of tile squares. Such pictures were at one time popular in Spain, Portugal, the Netherlands and Italy. Today tile murals sometimes are used in the United States as decoration for important commercial and public buildings.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

GLAUCOMA

GLAUCOMA is a serious disease of the eyes which is a leading cause of blindness. Of the 200,000 blind in the United States, about 20,000 have lost their vision because of glaucoma. The disease is rare before the age of forty but the incidence increases with advancing years.

In glaucoma there is an increase in pressure inside the eyeball. The attack usually begins with severe pain in one eye, slight swelling of the eyelids, with watering of the eye, and great loss of vision. The eyeball becomes hard because of an accumulation of fluid in the eyeball.

Medicines are extremely effective in most cases of acute glaucoma, but often have to be used by the patient during his entire life. Sometimes an operation is necessary to preserve sight. Through surgery, new paths are made for drainage of the eye fluids.

Because of the great danger to sight, glaucoma is a disease which must not be neglected and which requires individual attention. Each patient must have the special care which his particular case demands. Failure to follow advice or to continue treatment recommended may result in blindness. Diagnosis should be made and treatment begun at the earliest possible moment.

The Temple in the Nation's Life

Lesson for May 23, 1948

OUR golden text is "O come, let us worship and bow down; let us kneel before the Lord our maker," Psalms 95:6.

Dr. Newton

The Jewish temple was a national sanctuary, whether we think in terms of the altars of Abel, Noah or Abraham, the tabernacle at Sinai, or the great temples at Mount Moriah, of Solomon, of Zerubbabel, or any of the other appointed places of meeting with God. The welfare of mankind, in every age, requires the faithful and frequent worship of God.

From the days when they sang the hymns of David, the Jews were prosperous to the degree that they were true to God in their worship and in their reverence for all things holy. This lesson traces the story, leaving no doubt in any pupil's mind about the solemn truth of the golden text.

A HOUSE OF WORSHIP

IN Ezra 3:10-13, we see the picture of priests leading the people to sing unto the Lord. "Because he is good, for his mercy endureth forever toward Israel."

Wherever you live, whether in the city or in some quiet rural community, remember this, the sanctuary measures the attitude of the people of such community toward God to a degree that no other gage of public opinion can offer. We have our various polls of public opinion, but none of them are so prophetic of a eople's ultimate hope as their attitude toward God's house.

Boys and girls who regularly attend Sunday school and public worship will be watched by the men who are looking for trustworthy leaders tomorrow.

HONORING GOD'S HOUSE

"SERVE the Lord with gladness, come before his presence with singing," Psalms 100:2.

We read how the people in the long ago brought their best gifts to make God's house beautiful. What are we doing with our best gifts? I think of boys and girls today who are helping with their small gifts to erect and equip beautiful houses of worship. Tomorrow they will point with gratitude and thanksgiving to the part they had in making God's house the best house in the community. Thus do we honor God as we honor his house.

WHY WE GO TO CHURCH

MR. WANNAMAKER, the merchant prince, was once asked why he went so regularly to church. He replied:

"I go to church for two main reasons. First, because God commands it; second, because it enriches life."

The Jews teach us, in the long record of their faithfulness or unfaithfulness, that the people who go regularly to church are the most dependable people in any community. And we can bring it right down to our day and generation, and get the same answer.

A business man told me recently that he had a check made of the several hundred young people in his employ, and he found that more than ninety per cent of the regular church-goers were advancing in their work with his company. He further discovered that almost without exception, the people who were giving trouble were the people who never entered a church.

OUR NEED OF PUBLIC WORSHIP

OUR bodies require regular nourishment. And our souls are just as dependent upon regular nourishment. I would not say that it is absolutely necessary for one to attend public worship to grow spiritually, but the odds are entirely against those who claim that they can grow spiritually without attending public worship.

There is a place of worship within the reach of well-nigh every person in the United States. We are responsible before God if we neglect to claim the advantages and blessing of public worship.

The place of the temple in the life of Israel is a symbol which teaches us today that we dare not forsake the assembling of ourselves on the Lord's Day in his house. The fellowship of worship is the sweetest fellowship on earth. It is our surest road to peace here and hereafter.

HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS

By Lewis Walter

RALPH HEPBURN, 51 year old veteran race driver of tracks all over the U. S., pulled down his drivers helmet, stepped into the long, low slung, Novi Grooved Piston Special, waved goodbye to the boys in the pits, and went out on the 2½ mile oval at Indianapolis, just for a spin, about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Racings fans who had sat through a somewhat dull afternoon of practice runs and one qualifying run, began to grow more attentive as the announcement was made that Ralph Hepburn would drive the car which Cliff Bergere, veteran at the 500 race, had said was unsafe and was acting up when he had spun in it only two days before, resulting in a slight accident in which he was unhurt, and which damaged the car only silghtly. Minutes later after speeding by the grandstand in the car that he had set the all time record for the 2½ mile track at over 134 miles per hour, back in 1946, the Californian's car had skidded and crashed into the wall at the northeast turn. Ralph Hepburn was dead.

He was one of the oldest drivers in active competition today, and many think of him when they remember the 1937 Memorial Day races, when he chased Wilbur Shaw, now president of the speedway, across the finish line in one of the most thrilling finishes in the 500 mile history, to finish second, just 2 seconds, about 15 yards behind Shaw. He had tried vainly 15 times since 1925, but had never entered the winner's circle after the long 500 mile grind.

. . . . . .

Another standing room only crowd of wrestling fans jammed the Fort Wayne Armory last Wednesday evening. Did we say "wrestling fans"? Well that statement may be straying a wee bit from the truth, because the main attaction of the evening was between Mildred Burke, women's mat champion, and Mae Young good looking, but rough challenger, from Oklahoma. It didn't take long to see that Miss Young had been assigned the villian role at least for that evening, as she wasted no time in getting on the bad side of the crowd, by such neat little feminine tricks as biting, pulling hair, and scratching the eyes of the popular Mildred Burke, and after a few minutes of such bullying tactics won the first fall. Miss Burke then after returning to the dressing room for a well needed power puff, and a slight brushing of her locks, returned to slap two straight falls on the energetic Miss Young

Local fans who witnessed the evenings matches were Mr. and Mrs. Garford Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis. (Garford just LOVES wrestling)

. . . . . .

More than several car loads of Butler citizens who will be driving to Indianapolis Saturday, are predicting they won't be disappointed after watching their pride and joy, Jack Michaels run against some of the best milers in the state, in the Indiana High School State Track finals at Indianapolis Saturday. In fact many, of the more optimistic followers of the Windmills long distance ace, even go so far to say that if competition is as great as it should be in a meet of this kind, that their boy may shatter the state mile mark. Michaels runaway victory at the sectional meet in Ft Wayne last week has gained him a lot of new followers, who believe he has what it takes to walk off with top laurels over that distance.

WEST POINT ANNAPOLIS EXAMS SET BY GILLIE

A competitive examination for West Point and Annapolis candidates in the Fourth Indiana District will be held in Fort Wayne on Monday, July 12, it was revealed in Washinigton today by Rep. George W. Gillie.

On the basis of the examination, principals and alternates will be appointed to fill two vacancies at West Point and one at Annapolis on July 1, 1949, the Congressman announced.

The examination will be conducted by the Civil Service Commission at 8:30 A. M. in the examining room of the Fort Wayne Post Office. It will require approximately three hours and will consist of two aptitude tests and one subject matter test. No special preparation on the part of candidates is requried.

Congressman Gillie explained that all young men in the Fourth District who meet the age, physical and scholastic requirements of the academies are eligible to take the examination. Candidates must be at least in their junior year in High school and must be not more than 21 years of age on April 1, 1949.

Requests for permission to take the examination should be addressed in writing to: Hon. George W. Gillie, 1532 House Office Bldg., Washington, D. C., before July 1. Letters of authorization together with sample examinations will be sent to all candidates.

Congressman Gillie emphasized that, as in the past, service school appointments will be made strictly on the basis of merit, the determining factor being grades obtained on the forthcoming competitive examination.

Nations Make Choices

As drastic and as devastating as war is, I am confident that the economic troubles of many European countries are not traceable entirely to the aggravations of war. Famines, wars, oppressions: these are symptoms, not causes. Certain nations, like Switzerland, fare surprisingly well amidst the decay and chaos so common in Europe. Little Switzerland is not hollering for help. She is a free enterprise country.

Of course, Switzerland was not a belligerent, and hence was spared some spoilage of war. But now comes news that Belgium is prospering. What is the reason? Belgium chose a free economic system at the close of the war, when she might have taken some foolish panacea. This little country rightly chose a system of free enterprise and economic freedom as the system most likely to bring recovery.

A Practical Way

A reasonable degree of freedom is enjoyed by the Belgium people. Reports have it that the standard of living there is well up toward prewar levels. Newspaper reports have called attention to Belgium's airline, Sabena, which reported its net profit for the year at $2,800,000. This has happened despite the fact it started out with practically nothing after the war. The airline had lost most of its equipment, and had to get help from the government to go ahead.

This is high contrast to what is happening to British airlines. Owned entirely by the socialist government and operated by them, the British airlines find difficulty in keeping their losses down to that figure. The difference is that Britain blundered in choosing, and Belgium chose wisely. Surely the European neighbors of Belgium will notice her good example. Planned economy sometimes looks good on paper, but it is free economy that permits people to use their initiative and work out their own salvation.

Matter of Teamwork

I am not at all surprised to hear these things about Belgium. I was there in the summer of 1946. One very remarkable thing impressed me. And in this there is a lesson for our own people: labor was at that time cooperating in Belgium with the management of industry and with government, in keeping prices down. America has not achieved that much teamwork, and we need it. Dangers still threaten in the battle against inflation.

In Belgium, labor leaders were saying that it was necessary to increase production and thereby bring down prices rather than put up wages and keep prices high. They reasoned that in the long run this would be the best for labor. It is not surprising that their standard of living is reported good by those who have recently toured the country.

Freedom Wins

As a result of that policy, and because she kept her private ownership and private management of industry, Belgium has come back more rapidly than other European countries that were hit by war. This experience is only another link in the strong chain of evidence that free men working in a free economy are happier and better off than they could ever be under some kind of totalitarian government—any kind. Choosing freedom of enterprise, Belgium has shown wisdom.

News To Feature Comic Strip

FAMOUS FAMILY ARRIVES NEXT WEEK

A truly famous family is moving into our town next week --- famous because they exemplify every typical American family. They' ll live right here, in the pages of this paper because they are newly created comic strip family, the O'Kays, scheduled to start in our next issue.

This family of three members you are soon to meet, consists of a young married couple and their little daughter. The first, and supposedly head of the family, is Cornelius who learns to be happy, through married, the hard way from the "best teacher", and his each experience affords added amusement, and earns for him the nickname "Corny" Lorna, his charming wife, adds the only bit of sanity to this otherwise zany family, and even she many times, plays a contributing part to the ridiculous situations and predicaments in which the O'Kays are cast. The third and very important members of this group is their daughter Kathy, whose blond hair wins her daddy's endearing tag of "Taffy". No philosophic genius -- just a little girl you will want to hug, spank and cuddle as her pranks and problems in the various episodes of life with the O'Kays unfold.

The O'Kays are created by Jerry Keefe, who drawns under the pen name of Jay Kay. Mr. Keefe is a graduate of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts where he studied under Carey Orr, famed Editorial Cartoonist of the Chicago Tribune, and Vaughn Shoemaker, Pulitzer prize winner. Jerry Keefe has been director of his own Comic Art Studio, Vice-President of a Sales Promotion agency, Art Director of an Advertising Agency and Public Relations Director of a small College. His cartoons had added humor to the advertisements of many of the nation's largest advertisers. Jerry admits that for a least two years he has been qualified to join the Serutan users. However, in spite of his many accomplishments he takes his greatest pride in the creation of the O'Kays.

Jerry Keefe, creator of the O'Kays, at his drawing board completing a sketch of Chicago's "Red Feather." This character, which created by Mr. Keefe, symbolizes Chicago's community Fund, and has been reproduced in sand, clay and puppets, as well as having been painted on the side of a B-17 Bomber in World War II.

When asked how he started to draw this strip, he divulged that this is the realizations of a fifteen year old dream. A small town boy at heart, he has been reluctant to become entangled with the big city syndicates that supply the metropolitan dailies. He draws because he loves it, and for the people in the smaller towns who he feels that he knows best. In presenting the O'Kays he is working directly with the Editor of this paper, and it is associations of this type and kind that Jerry claims will allow him to develop friends for his "O'Kays."

Mr. Keefe claims that there were two important reasons why he selected a family theme as the basis of a comic strip. First, because it has had the greatest reader interest since comic strips were first started in 1896, and second, and more important it is a subject he knows best. Jerry admits that he gets all the material he needs for the O'Kays right at home, his being just an average American family. He is the proud father of an eight yearl old girl, the only member of the Keefe family who admits resemblance to the characters in the "O'Kays."

The Keefe's live in an old house on the outskirts of Chicagoe, where the plumbing springs leaks and the hedge grows up in bumps, just like any place where the Mrs. has to nag gently to "get things done." The third floor has been converted into an Art Studio, and here the O-Kays materialize amid the raucous ravings of radio murder mysteries and the consumption of innumerable candy bars. The author is addicted to golf, and though his score barely sneaks under the 100 mark, he feels he is really an "80" man. Mrs. Keefe soothes the savage breast with pot roasts of beef, with chocolate pie for dessert and soon the misfortunes of golf are forgotten. He promises, however, to keep "Corny O'Kay off the golf course because he feels there is little source of amusement in this aggravating chore.

Jerry likes to assert himself at home and insists on selecting his own ties though Mrs. Keefe feels he is putty in the hands of any enterprising Haberdasher, and if left to his own resources he will constantly attempt to get his No. 10 feet into 8½ shos.

...just as it leads in value, year after year

Yes, this sparkling new Chevrolet will lead the 32nd Annual 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis on May 31st, just as it leads in automotive value, year after year.

We, your Chevrolet dealer, as well as the Chevrolet Motor Division, are proud of both of these honors, but we are even prouder of the fact that men and women prefer this car to all others and have bought more Chevrolets than any other make during the total 17-year period, 1931 to date!

More value—that's why more people drive Chevrolets, according to official nationwide registrations, and more people want Chevrolets, according to seven independent nationwide surveys, than any other make of car.

That's why we believe you, too, will choose a Chevrolet once you look, ride and learn how much more value it gives you!

NEWVILLE TWP. HOME EC.

The Newville Twp. Home Economics Club met with Mrs. Mildred Welch, Wednesday afternoon, May 12 with Mrs. Gladys Murphy, Mrs. Mabel Perman and Mrs. Myrtle Mills as assistant hostesses. The meeting was called to order by our Pres. Mrs. Leah Thomas. After the opening song Devotions were given by Mrs. Mildred Welch, followed by the Lord's Prayer. After a Hymn the Club Creed was given in unison. Roll Call: "The best things my mother taught me" was answered by 36 members and several visitors.

The Sec. report was read and approved. Present was our County Club Pres., Mrs. Grace Laub, and our Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Mary Lenore Moore; after they were introduced by our president, Mrs .Laub gave a short talk on Co. Club work and some of the things she wished the club to sponsor and do. She announced the Club picnic for June 24th at Eckhart Park, and Club Camp at Epworth Forest, Aug. 22-24, she especially urged the Project Leaders and any others who could, to go to camp. Mrs. Laub complimented our Club on its growth and work and closed her talk with a short poem.

Miss Moor then gave her lesson on "Feminine Health Hygeine and Personality". This lesson was given in joyed by all present. Miss Moore also had with her a home imlk pasteurizer, which she explained to anyone interested. Mrs. Lucile Nelson gave a very fine lesson book review on flowers, telling us about them and their native habitats; this was very much enjoyed by all.

A very impressive Memorial to our departed members was given by Mrs Elsie Meek and Mrs. Grace Robertson.

Entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Bivere Brush, Mrs. Mary Guthrie and Mrs. Daisy Roberts.

Several birthdays were observed by our chairman, Mrs. Elva Hook.

The hostesses served delicious ice cream and angel food cake.

This was a very enjoyable meeting. Club will meet next month with Mrs. Lucile Nelson, with Charlotte Kimmel and Mrs. Irene Emenhiser assisting.

War Orphans of Europe, Hungry and Weak, Make One Desperate Plea: "Let Us Live!"

Through Voluntary Gifts To 'Children's Crusade' Food, Hope Sustain Them

They remember mamma, all right . . .

They remember her cut down by machine gun bullets in the strafing of a frightened cluster of refugees . . .

They remember her, blown to pieces when a bomb landed in the rose garden.

They remember her left for dead, after she was assaulted by occupying troops.

At the orphanage the teachers try to keep the little girls so busy that there is no time to remember mamma.

In the large seventeenth century house on the outskirts of Paris, the little girls live in dormitories, attend classes, eat in a large messhall and play in the walled garden. They are kept busy at studies and play periods from sun-up to sundown.

But at night, they remember. All the children here were orphaned in the war, and their memories are of blood and bombs, terror and loneliness and hunger . . .

Marie Remembers

Typical is little Marie, whose father was hanged when caught with an Allied propaganda leaflet, and whose mother was crushed in the bombing of St. Lo. Marie remembers every detail.

Marie is thin and timid; it will take a lot of food and vitamins, attention and affection, to help her and those with whom she lives to overcome the horrors that are marked on their minds. They are getting the food and vitamins, the attention and affection, through an agency of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children.

Marie—and the thousands of war-orphans like her—will go on getting the assistance they desperately and pitifully need only if Americans contribute to the combined campaign of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children.

THEY STILL PAY FOR VICTORY—War left these orphans with bitter memories and little else. For bare survival they must depend on others for help. The AOA-UNAC Crusade for Children seeks to relieve distress among 230,000,000 children throughout the distressed overseas world.

$60,000,000 Needed

This campaign—the Crusade for Children—asks Americans for $60,000,000 in voluntary contributions this spring, as the United States' share in the world-wide United Nations Appeal for Children, and also to finance the foreign relief activities of 25 American voluntary agencies.

Between them, the 26 agencies represented in the appeal are serving as helping hands from humanitarian America to the needy of the world.

The private agencies are those which have sprung to the aid of the distressed through America's churches, its trade union organizations, its citizens with nationality and blood ties in the old world . . . all of them determined to live by the command: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor."

Lee Marshall, national chairman of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children, which is conducting the Crusade for Children, reports that the people of 49 other nations are joining with the people of America this year in meeting the challenge posed by the pleas of hungry children.

"Chance to Survive"

He quoted, as indicative of the quality of the American response, the words of President Truman:

"I am convinced the American people are determined that the world's children shall have at leas a chance to survive."

Contributions, which will be converted into food, milk, medicine, clothing and shelter for the stricken youth of war-impoverished countries, may be given to the local campaign committee, or sent directly to national headquarters of American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children, 39 Broadway, New York 6, New York.

RUNNING WATER FOR GREATER PROFITS

EVERY time you grab the handle of a pump, you are lowering your earning power . . . every time you utilize Electrically pumped water, you are increasing it.

To say nothing of the added physical strain that affects your health, pumping outdoors in all kinds of bitter weather, carrying the back-breaking loads. It's bad enough for the menfolks, but for farm women, it's just too much.

Profits from almost any one of the many uses around the farmstead, especially watering the poultry and cattle, pay many times over for the cost of the pump and the power to run it.

Speaking of profits—cows watered two or three times daily drink almost 40% more water than those watered but once and produce up to 20% more milk . . . for plenty of egg production, poultry require 2½ gallons a day for each 100 chickens . . . hogs need about 2 gallons, and a horse, 15 gallons daily.

And the desperate need for running water to control fire in those vital first three minutes needs no stressing by us.

See your farm equipment dealer today and install electrically pumped water.

ADDED FACILITIES OFFERED VISITORS AT POKAGON PARK

New facilities at Pokagon State Park near Angola-both a summer and winter playground--were announced today by the Indiana Department of Conservation.

Instruction in archery and bait casting now is available at Potawatomi Inn from Don Allen, who gave skiing lessons at Pokagon during the winter. It is the first time that instruction in these poplar sports has been offered here.

Contract for a new modern comfort station at Pokagon recently was awarded to Lawernce L. Street of Indianapolis on a bid of 322,300. The successful bidder let sub-contracts to the Gentry Plumbing company of Anderson and the Butler company of Angola.

Conservation officials said they hope to have the buildings completed by the Fourth of July.

Margaret Truman and "Mike."

Paul Pry but also of a Wire-haired Fox Terrier and two Collies.

Herbert Hoover, while President, was the owner of many dogs. Among them were two German Shepherds, a Collie, an Irish Wolfhound, an English Setter and a Norwegian Elkhound. The Norwegian Elkhound, Weejie, was the President's particular favorite and distinguished herself by presenting the Hoovers with a litter of puppies while living in the White House. These puppies, however, were not the first to have been born in such illustrious surroundings. A dog belonging to Abraham Lincoln's children had delighted the President's family by producing a family on the same day that the White House cat chose to whelp kittens.

Fala, Franklin D. Roosevelt's famed Scottish Terrier, is probably the most publicized dog of modern times, having been the ever-present companion of his renowned master through the war years. Fala was a silent witness at many famous meetings and conferences and was a most offended little dog when he was not allowed to attend the ceremony of President Roosevelt's Third Inauguration. While Fala is the best known of the First Dogs of the Land, he was just one of a long succession of dogs that have been owned and loved by the Roosevelts, who have always found keen pleasure in the company of dogs.

DON MCNEIL ESTABLISHES "TOM BRENEMAN MEMORIAL FUND" FOR HEART ASSOCIATION

In tribute to the late Tom Breneman, Toastmaster Don McNeil of ABC' Breakfast Club (heard over WOWO, Ft. Wayne) has established the Tom Breneman Memorial Fund contributions for which are to be sent to Tom Breneman Heart Fund, Box 3484, Chicago 77, Illinois.

The Sunshine Shower a regular feature of the Breakfast Club, whereby listeners are requested to send messages of cheer to hospitalized persons in certain designated hospitals throughout the nation, will be used during the entire month of May for making appeals for contributions to the fund.

For many years Breneman and McNeil have been involved in a radio "feud". Breneman, who actually was one of McNeill's closest friends, died in his Encino, Calif. home on Wednesday, April 28, of a heart condition.

In reply to Don's announcement that the heart fund has been established he received the following message from S. DeWitt Clough, a member of the Executive Committee of the A. H. A.

As a member of the Executive Committee of the American Heart Association, I am most happy to accept on behalf of the the Association your offer to make the American Heart Association the beneficiary of the Tom Breneman Memorial Fund for which you will ask contributions on your Breakfast Club radio program.

"Your interest and generosity are very much appreciated and I can think of no more fitting memorial to the fine personality which has been lost to the American Public."

The fund will be used by the Association for purposes of heart research, education and community services.

If your'e one of those people who squirm under the dentist's drill—and who doesn't? — "balanced brightness" may be the solution. "Balanced brightness" was explained to the Indiana State Dental association convention at Indianapolis Monday night as the proper color scheme in dentists' waiting and working rooms. Dr. Paul W. Seagers of Indiana university, told the delegates that surroundings have a lot to do with the unpleasant sensations patients fell in the dentist's chair. "The 3, 500-watt fluorescent light in waiting rooms makes the patient and your secretary look and feel bad," Dr. Seagers said. He counseled the dentists, "Put in a warm colored tube and they'll feel better and look better."

REMEMBER POPPY DAY SATURDAY, MAY 29

To Keep The Faith

By Moina Michael

Oh, you who sleep in Flanders' Fields.
Sleep sweet—to rise anew.
We caught the torch you threw
And holding high, we keep the Faith
With all who died.

We cherished, too the poppy red
That grows on fields where valor led
It seems to signal to the skies
That blood of heroes never dies,
But lends a lustre to the red
Of the flowers that bloom above the dead
In Flander's fields

And now the torch and poppy red
We wear in honor of our dead
Fear not that ye have died for naught;
We've learned the lesson that ye taught
In Flanders fields!

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie of R. R. 1 Butler, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, Friday, May 28th.

Mr. and Mrs. Curie were born and lived in St. Joe and vicinity untill seven years ago when they moved to their present home five miles south of Butler, near the junction of state roads, 101-- and 1 and 8.

They were married in the Lutheran parsonage at Spencerivlle, on May 28, 1898. The Rev. J. C. Dunlap officiated at the ceremony and they were attended by Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Beams.

They have seven children living, and 16 grandchildren. One son Charles is deceased.
They will have the family dinner Friday evening, May 28th and on Sunday, May 30th, will hold open house from 1 to 5.

FINAL RITES HELD SATURDAY' FOR FORMER DEKALB COUNTY SHERIFF

Final rites for Artus Coyle, 61, former county Sheriff, and Auburn police officer, who died at 3:40 p. m. Thursday following a lingering illness, were conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Gerig funera home in Auburn.

Art, as he was known to his many friends and acquainances, was in failing health for several weeks. An attack of influenza, which developed into heart and kidney complications, resulted in his death. He became seriously ill four weeks ago and for the past two weeks was bedfast.

Mrs. Coyle was a native of Fairfield township and a lifelong resident of the county.

In 1938, he was nominated on the republican ticket and elected sheriff of the county. Two years later, he was re-elected. For three years preceding his election as sheriff, he served on the Auburn police department, and returned to his duties there after he left the sheriff's department. He retired last Dec. 31st.

Surviving, besides the widow, are two children, a son, J. D. Coyle of 1323 south Jackson street, Auburn; a daughter, Mrs. Oliver Garceau of of Eckhart avenut, Auburn; and two grandsons, Joe and Arthur Garceau.

The Rev. Van W. Hinckley, pastor of the Methodist church in Auburn officiated at the services. Burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

LETTER FROM ST. JOE MOTHER PRINTED IN CONGRESS RECORD

A letter from Mrs. Paul Drerup of St. Joe, mother of four children, appeared in the procedings of the House of Representatives in Washington recently, according to information received here from Rep. George W. Gille of Indiana.

Representative Gillie called the attention of Congress to the letter from Mrs. Drerup during a recent speech before the House concering the results of a public opinion poll he conducted in Aprit.

Congressman Gillie cited Mrs. hundreds he received from constituents concering issues in the poll. He then requested and obtained permission to have the entire letter reprinted in the Congressional Record. The letter follows:

St. Joe, Ind., April 1, 1948

Gentlemen:

I am glad of this opportunity to express my opinions on important questions of the day. My thanks to hte News Sentinel and Congressman Gillie, and I hope it wil enable him to use his vote and influence in Congress to carry through the will of his constituents and the American people as a whole.

1. From all I know about the Taft-Hartley law, I am in favor of most of its provisions and think it should be left alone for a while. Time and changing circumstances will suggest to the lawmakers how it can be amended to be more just and equitable. Give it a trial. By no means repeal it.

2. First of all, the reduction should be in Government spending; reduction in taxation should follow as a matter of course. We must reduce the national debt and pare down current expenses if we are to remain solvent. Plain common sense, the instinct of self-preservation, ought to dictate our national economy. Sometimes I feel sure that the bureaucrats in Washington are so dazed by the thought of endless millions and billions that they forget all about dollars and sense. Surely it is not possible for the Nation to do what an individual or a corporation cannot do, financially and survive. The laws of arithmetic do not change.

3. Compulsory peacetime military training has never prevented a war in the past. In this atomic age it is a futile gesture toward preventing a future war, and who honestly believes it would win a war just to have a mammonth standing army mobilized? The weapons of warfare are vastly different than a generation ago. The concept of universal military training is outmoded.

4. No; I don't favor the Marshall plan. Can't we keep out of Europe? Billions sent to Europe will not change the course of the history of those nations but will certainly impoverish us. I agree with Henry Hazlitt in his appraisal of the "martial" plan. Read his book, "Will dollars Save the World?

5. Price fixing and rationing. Didn't we have enough of that? Evidently Truman thinks it ought to be a permanent fixture. No; 1,000 times no.

6. We should avoid at all costs. There will be no victory in the next war—only degrees of losing it. Can't say we win the war and lose the peace—that's means we didn't win at all. I don't want war with Russia ever. We can't kill communism that way and we surely don't want to kill off millions of Russian people, though there are a few whose demise would be good news. Let's stay out of Europe and see what happens. If communism engulfs the whole world except our North American, would that be any worse than a devastating world war III and the condition of all the combatant countries afterward?

We ought not to attemp saving the world and drown ourselves in the effort. The evils of communism is a black tide on the sands of time, will not corrupt human nature. It but it will recede. The United States perhaps has a destiny to save mankind, but the method will have to be that of missionaries. Start from the bottom and work up, by preaching and teaching th edoctrines of Christianity and the fundamentals of democracy, in the villages, schools, hospitals, and organizations of other lands. It is certain to take a long time. Let us be the seedbed of Christianity rather than the arsenal of democracy.

I think there are a number of capable men with whom we might trust the highest office of the land—one of whom is not the present incumbent. We couldn't go too wrong with Senator Robert Taft. I hope both parties nominate the best man they can find. I have always voted Repupblican, but I can and would change, if I thought the Democrats had a better candidate.

So much for my opinion, which are also those of my husband. We are 30 years of age and have four children.

Mrs. Paul Drerup

STATE WILL AID NEW EXCAVATIONS AT ANGEL MOUNDS

Previously unexplored areas in Angel Mounds State Memorial, important archeological site near Evansville, will be excavated by a university group this summer through the cooperation of the Indiana Department of Conservation, the Indiana Historical Society and Indiana University.

Although this area now is maintained as a State Memorial by the Department of Conservation, it is not yet available for public use.

"We will welcome the public to Angel Mounds after this interesting state memorial has been developed completely for their accomodation," said John H. Nigh, director of the Conservation Department, and Kenneth Cougill, head of state parks. "There can be no general admittance however, until basic facilities for public use are completed at Angel Mounds."

Scientific archeological explorations has been carried on for some time at these mounds by the Indiana Historical Society and Indiana University.

Cooperating with these two groups the Department of Conesrvation is arranging to accommodate approximately forty I. U. archeology students who will expore portions of the Angel Mounds site from June 15 to September 15.

Necesssary camping facilities will be provided by the department and the university. Glenn A. Black, noted archeologist, lecturer at the university and acting custodian of Angel Mounds State Memorial, will be in charge.

Many valuable and interesting pre-historic relices and date have been discovered in the 421-acre memorial area. Large numbers of these items are stored in two buildings there and in order to protect them and the mounds themselves, the Conservation Department recently completed a chain-link fence around the entire area.

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of

GEORGE W. GILLIE

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON—Rep. George W. Gillie was personally congratulated this week by Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin Jr. on his recent renomination to Congress from the Fourth Indiana District.

Terming Congressman Gillie's overwhelming Primary victory "a tribute to the splendid service you have rendered your district and your country," the House Speaker declared in a letter:

The "80th Congress has reduced eztravagance in government; it has made material savings in the cost of government; it has reduced taxes and it has restored powers to the whole people taken away in previous Congresses. It has built a strong America and an America which has discharged its obligations to the world.

"You have aided materially in this program and that your district appreciate your services is indicated in your renomination."

Continuing, Speaker Martin added: "We have only partly accomplished our work. To fully bring our government back to sanity and Americanism we must press forward to the election this Fall when we shall re-elect a Republican Congress and elect a Republican President. Working together in harmony we will then build for a better America and a better world."

VALLEY FORGE—Representative Gillie has been chosen to represent Governor Gates of Indiana and to deliver the principal address at the 25th Annual Indiana State Sunday Service to be held on Memorial Day at the Washington Memorial Chapel, Valley Forge, Pa. The service, which will be attended by Hoosiers throughout the East, will be held under the auspices of the Indiana State Society of the D. A. R.

STUDENTS IN CAPITAL —Students from more than a dozen high schools in the Fourth District have visited Washington in the past few days, viewing the sights of interest in this most beautiful capitol in the World. Representative Gillie has taken time from his busy schedule to greet each group personally and to explain to them the functioning of their Congress. Highlight of every trip is the visit to the House and Senate, followed usually by a group photograph with their Congressman on the Capitol grounds.

ADJOURNMENT SET—Both houses of Congress will be working overtime during the next few weeks in an effort to complete the legislaive calendar before the adjournment deadline of June 18. Adjournment is scheduled earlier than usual this year because of the Party conventions to be held in Philadelphia starting on June 21.

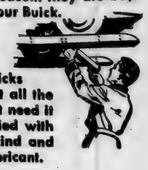
LUBRICARE—

tailor-made lubrication for Buicks

It's lubrication made to measure for your Buick by the engineers who built the car—with lubricants carefully chosen for just one reason: they are best for your Buick.



Men who know Buicks thoroughly see that all the different points that need it are properly supplied with exactly the right kind and right amount of lubricant.

You're away knowing your car is protected and set to roll smoothly and dependably with lubrication that has been matched to the mileage you have driven.

SEE YOUR BUICK DEALER REGULARLY FOR LUBRICARE

No wonder you grin! There's that zoom again — that go — that flashing spirit that you know is built in Buicks. There's that split-second answer to your call for power, the feather-light response to your finger that makes your two-ton honey handle like a baby buggy.

This is what happens when a Buick is cared for by men who know Buicks best — men who know the height of spirit a Buick can reach and how to bring it out.

Buick men have a way with Buicks no one else can have. That's only natural. Whatever they do, they do as the designers and builders of Buick say it should be done. They use Buick-approved checks and tools. And when time and miles finally take their toll in wear, they have right at hand a stock of Buick-engineered replacement parts.

Wheel in and they'll sweeten your engine to bring out all its surge and go. They'll steady your car's easy gait and make steering limber. They'll even take out your worn engine and give you new-car zing and power with a factory-fresh Fireball.

See for yourself. Bring your car in and get real, understanding Buick car care. You can't buy it anywhere else — and job for job it doesn't cost you a penny more.

HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS

By Lewis Walter

DUKE TAMES NOVI: Duke Nalon veteran of dirt tracks all over the country as well as holding quite a few hours of ground time at the big Indianapolis brick oval, tamed the famed Novi Groved Piston Special last Saturday at the fifth qualifying session for the 500 mile race next Monday. Nalon driving the long, low slung job, a twin to the car in which Ralph Hepburn lost his life the Sunday before, qualified at a speed of over 131 M. P. H., for the 10 mile test, and just missed Hepburns all time record of 134.499 M. P. H., by just three tenths of a second. Earlier in the day it appeared for a second that the Novi jinx was still on as the long, cream colored job, with Nalon at the wheel went into a spin near one of the turns and whipped sideways into the infield. While the alignment was being checked, Duke claimed that it wasn't the car's fault but his own that the Novi went into a spin, and later commented that the car handled beautifully and had a lot more steam than he used, and that he slowed down on the last two laps, so that looks like our pick for the big race. We believe the car has the stuff, if it stands up, to beat the two cars entered by Lou Moore, who has good drivers in Maurie Rose and Bill Holland in the drivers seat; the cars that appear the ones to beat over the long grind.

In Sunday's double bill with the Chicago White Sox the once thought of power house club, the Boston Red Sox Club wasn't quite the hustling, powerful club that most fans had visioned manager Joe McCarthy as building. About the only part of the Red Sox that shaped up as a pennant contender was their outfield, with the aging Wally Moses teaming up with Ted Williams and Dom Dimaggio.

The old Red Sox punch at the plate just didn't sem to be there Sunday against supposedly mediocre Chisox pitching.

The infield, Doerr, Pesky and Stephens, usually more than a little trouble for opposition pitchers, weren't doing anything spectacular at the plate. Mr. McCarthy only once during the afternoon let any one outside of his own dugout take a look at him, when he along with several of his aides and all of the Red Sox on the playing field protested but vigorusly about a forced play at third base.

Both the American Legion and the High School summer league teams are continuing practice on the local diamond. Last Thursday the Coburns Corners church team and the Legion played several innings in a practice game. And on Monday evening the high school and legion teams clashed. In Monday's game several runs were produced by both teams, and because we are of an unargumentive nature, will say the High school and Legion practice game ended in a tie. About the whole of the High school squad was present except the pitcher, however, Deiderich was substituted for the High School. Shoudel and Bleeks followed Ridgway in throwing them in for the Legion.

"CHECK YOUR CAR - CHECK ACCIDENTS" PROGRAM IS UNDER WAY

As higher automobile insurance rates hit the pocketbooks of Hoosier motorist today, the Indiana Traffic Safety Commission advised owners to have their cars checked for safety in the present six weeks statewide "Check you car - Check Accidents" program, as one step toward bringing the rates back down.

"Hoosiers can do much to cut down traffic accidents and save lives, property damage, and insurance premiums,' said James D. Harrison, Commission Director. Increased auto insurance rates for property damage and public liability ranging up to 18 per cent, authorized by the State Insurance Commission, became effective today. A special additional rate increase on cars operated by drivers under 25 years of age takes effect.

"It will be easy for us to get the protection of a safety check between now and June 26, the period when local police and sheriffs and state police are conducting a Courtesy Check," said Mr. Harrison. Motorists should take advantage of this free opportunity to have their safety equipment checked. However, if brakes, lights, horn, winshield wipers, tires, steering are know to be in poor condition it would be wise to take the car to the garage for repairs immediately."

He pointed out that the safety check is one of a series of steps which will be necessary to correct street and highway hazards that have kept Indiana's accident record far too high. He urged official action and public support for a comprehensive statewide program including:

1. More responsible driving by all drivers.
2. Greater caution on the part of pedestrians.
3. Continued weeding out of unqualified drivers through Indiana's new driver licensing program.
4. Behind-the-wheel driver training for all high school students.
5. More adequate traffice enforcements personnel for local and state police.
6. Institution of periodical official vehicle inspection.
7. Stricter enforcement of traffic safety laws against drunken and reckless driving.
8. Continued improvement of highway engineering standards.
9. Uniformity of traffic signs ane signals.

Brighton Remains Queen

Brighton remains queen of England's seaside resorts. Her seaside supremacy began with publication of a book by a physician in 1750, and the visists of a new-making prince of pranks. The prince, later King George IV of England, built Brighton's pavilion as a royal residence. He was only 21 when he first went there in 1783 to visit his uncle. Where the prince led, the fashionable young court circle followed. Brighton became the seaside center of aristocracy, of nobles and notables, including virtually all English men of letters.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN SPEND $30,000 WEEKLY IN HOOSIER CITIES

More than $30, flows into Indiana trade channels each week from Indiana National Guard Payrolls and armory expenditures in 55 Hoosier towns, Adjutant General Howard H. Maxwell disclosed in a survey today.

General Maxwell explained that this estimate of dollars placed in circulation throughout Indiana each week was based on a federal funds payroll of more than 4,400 Indiana National Guardsmen. The figure also included money expended each week for equipment and supplies bought locally by each armory in the 55 towns, he added.

"The average Hoosier town which has an Indiana National Guard unit," General Maxwell said, "has between $200 and $250 coming in from the unit each week. Towns with a number of National Guard units, such as Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and Evansville, naturally provide the most inflow of monies by having more Guardsmen living in the shopping and business areas."

The current income of more than $30,000 throughout the state from National Guard sources is only one fourth of what the figure will be when re-organization of the new all Hoosier 38th "Cyclone" Division is completed, General Maxwell pointed out. Close to 18,000 Hoosiers will be assigned when the state's quota of National Guard strength has been filled and this tremendous increase will not only jump the figure from a payroll standpoint but will call for many new armories in various cities al over Indiana.

The current enlisted man payroll e.n week is somewhat higher than comparable EM payrolls in other states, General Maxwell continued, because Indiana's troop strength assignment for re-forming the National Guard has been liberalized to permit quick promotion for Hoosiers who join now and "get in on the ground floor."

"The money which comes into Indiana each week through National Guard sources," the Adjutant General added, it's money which flows into the state's business and trade.

Mealtime Magic

SCOTCH LIMAS

Beans are more than just beans when they're prepared in this savory style—they become a spicy meal-in-a-dish that wins hearty acclaim from guests and family alike.

Scotch Limas

FT. WAYNE DOG SHOW ATTRACTING RECORD ENTRIES FOR SUNDAY'S SHOW

With 570 purebred, blue-blooded canines ready to answer the call to ringside, officials of the Northeastern Indiana Kennel Club were busy today putting the finishing touches to their 15th Annual All-Breed Dog Show, which will be held Sunday, Decoration Day, at Baer Field, on State Roads 1 and 3, southwest of Fort Wayne. Total entries this year shattered all previous records established by the NEIKC. Show hours will be 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Sponsored for the benefit of the Ft. Wayne Humane Society, the all breed show has attracted entries from nearly every state in the Union, as well as some parts of Canada. Cash and trophies totaling more than $1,500 will go to the winners in each breed.

Obedience trials, always one of the most interesting phases of a canine classic from a spectator's standpoint, will have 45 entries. Some of the best trained dogs in the Middle West will be represented.

Officiating in the judging rings will be eight leading dog show arbitrators who will determine the championships-winning canines for each breed. Heading the prominent officials will be E. T. Adair of Pittsburgh, Pa., who will handle Sporting Breeds, Hound Breeds, Collies, Non Sporting Breeds, miscellaneous classes and several variety groups.

Others include Roy Benbow, Glen Ellyn, Ill., who will judge all varieties of Cocker Spaniels; Ernest Crowley, Wells, Me., who will judge Working Breeds, Toy Breeds, several variety groups and Best-Dog-in-Show; Ray Perso, Royal Oak, Mich., who will judge the Boston Terriers; J. Bremner Proctor, Sugar Grove, Pa., judging all the Great Danes; Richard C. Salter, Covington, Ky., will work the children's handling classes, and William G. Worley, Summitville, Indiana, will handle the obedience trial classes.

Tickets for the canine classic, adults $1.00, children 25c, tax included, are now available at Walgreen's Drug Store, Calhoun at Washington Street, from members of the NEIKC, or from the office of the Fort Wayne Humane Society. They will be available at Baer Field on the day of the show.

Town + Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

Recently we devoted a column to farm mechanization and the man hours it saves, but we've set to thinking of the food our mechanical helpers save for us.

Did you ever stop to think that the population of this country has increased by nearly a third since the end of the first World War? And that farm land planted to crops has remained about the same? Yet people are eating better than ever before. Much of the reason is that farmers are using mechanical power instead of horses and mules, and this use of mechanical power increases our food supply in two ways.

First of all, with power machinery, we can do more and better work in less time. And, as you know, that's important when we have had a long stretch of bad weather. Second, power machinery releases millions of acres that formerly were needed to feed horses and mules. That land now can be used to grow food for the nation (and the world).

In 1918 it took 79 million acres to feed those in cities and coal mines; that's a total of 90 million acres for horse and mule feed. These power animals have disappeared so rapidly, however, that recently it has taken only 35 million acres to feed them.

We've learned that this has accounted for 30 per cent of the increase in human food supply. Better crops and livestock account for another 50 per cent of the increase. These are two good reasons why more people are eating better off the same amount of land.

On a smaller but equally important scale, people are eating more eggs than they were a decade ago; and the increased noise in the poultry yard indicates that you're hearing more cackles than you were. Back in 1936 the average production per hen was 121 eggs a year, and 10 years later hens were laying 155 eggs annually. That's an increase of 34 cackles a year, mostly due to efforts of the hatcherymen to give us better chicks. Good chicks, like good farm machinery, may cost a little more, but they keep your books in the black.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

ACUTE GOUT

ACUTE GOUT is an extremely painful condition. When it is typical, it starts in the middle of the night with severe pain at the base of one of the big toes. The pain is likely to be so severe that even the weight of the bed clothes is intolerable.

Gout is almost always a man's disease, though it has been found in women. It seems to run in families, to some extent, and is comparatively rare before middle age. Over-indulgence in food is likely to bring on an attack. Heavy meat eaters and wine drinkers are especially likely to develop this strange disease. Attacks of gout occur most frequently in the spring and fall.

Parts of food called purines appear to cause gout. Some foods, such as sweet breads, liver, kidney, squab and calf's tongue, contain purines in large amounts. Others like veal, pork, beef, sausage, gravies, and several kinds of fish, also have a higher purine content than is recommended for people who are afflicted with gout.

Acute gout can be relieved greatly by proper supervision and improved diet and general living conditions, under advice of a medical doctor. It is difficult for many persons with gout to refrain from some of the foods and liquors which they crave, but which are usually the ones which produce attacks.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Daniel 1.
DEVOTIONAL READING: 1 Timothy 6:11-16.

Daniel Stands By His Convictions

Lesson for May 30, 1948

"A picket frozen on duty—
A mother starved for her brood—
Socrates drinking the hemlock—
And Jesus on the rood."

SUCH a picture we have before us in Sunday's lesson. All you need to do to get this dramatic picture is read the first chapter of Daniel. You will then feel anew the meaning of that cherished statement, "'Tis conviction that convinceth."

BRAVE TO DO RIGHT

WE GET the first draught of this tonic in verses 8-9, 14-15 and 17. "But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank . . ."

Dr. Newton

He was brave enough to take a stand for what he knew was right. Which reminds me of the story told of Henry Ward Beecher, when yet a small boy. A teacher in the school he attended asked a boy a question which he promptly answered. The teacher appeared displeased, and told the boy to sit down. He asked several other boys the same question, and got the same answer. Finally he asked Beecher, and Beecher gave the same answer, but refused to sit down when the teacher frowned at him. Seeing that Beecher was going to defend the answer, the teacher said, "Boys, you were all correct, but only Beecher was sure enough to stand his ground. I was simply trying to teach you the lesson that you must stand by what you know is right."

DARE TO STAND ALONE

DANIEL knew that he was taking an unpopular position, but he was willing to be alone so long as he knew he was right. He knew that the consequences would take care of themselves. That is the quality of character which America needs today in her youth.

It is easy enough to be popular, if you run with the gang; but remember this—the gang is always heading downhill. Daniel stood by his convictions when it was costly. In the final windup, he was the head man.

ENDURING INVESTMENTS

DANIEL, winning his point, made every hour count toward victory. He not only abstained from strong drink, but used his superior strength to serve the king in such way that his talents were sought out and brought into larger fields of opportunity.

Standing by his convictions, he had won over those who at first were disposed to poke fun at him. By superb performance, due to clear thinking and high purpose, Daniel made enduring investments that paid off in big dividends. He did not do right for reward, but because he did right, the reward was inevitable. And so it will be with every young man and woman who purposes in his or her heart to do right.

GOD'S FAVOR

I WANT you to look carefully at verse 17. "God gave them knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom; and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams."

It is impossible to account for Daniel's fortitude apart from his implicit trust in God. Remember the incident of Daniel opening his window toward Jersualem in prayer?

God never fails those who stake their all on Him. He will not—cannot let them fail. It was because of God's favor that Daniel and his companions proved themselves ten times better than the young men who defiled themselves.

"Who sides with God must always win."

Scoffers Stay On

Even those who scoff at the Bible prefer to live in a culture in which the dominating ideas of the Bible have been influential.

The Bible is a very dangerous book—dangerous to all systems based on greed and prejudice and oppression.

People, Spots In The News

SPENCERVILLE STUDENT WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Beth Cornell, a current graduate of Spencerville High School, and daughter of Mrs. Garnet Cornel of R. R. 3, Auburn, was granted a $200 cash Educational Scholarship granted by the Elks Lodge of Garrett, Indiana. This scholarship was granted on the basis of high schoolastic and personality rating. The award may be used in any educational pursuits the donee may choose. Miss Cornell expects to continue her education in the commercial field.

Other members in the current graduating class who have made definite plans to continue training are Virginia Ulm, Phyllis Grogg, and Phyllis Nusbaum. Miss Ulm has been accepted as a student of medical technology in Indiana University. Pyhllis Grogg is enrolling in International Business College, and Miss Nusbaum has been accepted for nurses training in the St. Joseph's Hospital..

REPORT HIGH WAGES FOR FARM WORKERS

Indiana farm workers began the 1948 season with wage rates considerably higher than for the same period a year ago, as reported by Purdue University agricultural statisticians.

The average wage without board being paid was $116 per month as of April 1. This was an $11 increase over the rate paid a year ago on the same date, under the same conditions, and was nearly three times the wages paid in prewar years, 1939-41, which averaged about $40 at the opening of the season.

Day rates this year remained at nearly the same levels as in 1947. The increase for pay without board was 30 cents per day above a year ago. The average daily rate with board was $4.45 which is no change from a year ago.

Purdue statisticians report a five percent increase in the number of hired workers on farms on May 1, in the east north central region, in which Indiana is included. This increase is consistent with the four percent increase in hired workers on farms over the nation.

The number of family workers was down one percent as compared with a year ago in this region, but for the nation, the number of family workers was substantially the same as a year ago.

Uncle Sam Says

What would you say if you saw a groundhog emerge from his hole this month with a stock of Savings Bonds in his paws? Millions of my nieces and nephews, who own Savings Bonds and are adding to their bond holdings regularly through the Payroll Savings or the Bond-A-Month Plans, would say that Mr. Groundhog has at last acquired common sense as a prophet of an early spring. There is no better harbinger of a bright, happy future is there than the growing, safe, profit-making financial reserve of United States Savings Bonds.

TIME: The evening of April 9, 1948

1. The desk at which Mr. Hastings opened his monthly bills and wrote an indignant letter to the electric company, protesting against their advertising that the average family gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did twenty years ago.

2. The electric clock at which Mr. Hastings looked to see if he had time to mail his letter before dinner.

3. The family radio, with Junior parked close beside it, listening to "Jerry and the Jeeps."

4. The porch light which Mr. H. switched on to guide the dinner guests.

5. The percolator, ready and waiting to do dinner duty.

6. The electric range, filling the kitchen with appetizing aromas.

7. The refrigerator, from which Mrs. H. was taking trays of tinkling ice cubes.

8. The iron, with which Nancy was pressing a dress for her date.

9. The back porch, on which Mr. H. paused to think things over—realizing that his family did use a lot more electricity nowadays, and maybe the company was right.

10. The trash can into which he tossed his crumpled letter.

GENERAL TELEPHONE SYSTEM INSTALLS MILLIONTH PHONE

General Telephone System, comprising the largest group of operating telephone companies in the United States outside of the Bell System, installed its millionth telephone May 19th, 1948.

The System headed by General Telephone Corporation, controls Indiana Associated Telephone Corporation which operates the local telephone system. Mr. J. E. Clarke, District Manager for Indiana Associated at Angola, announced that the millionth installation had been made in Wisconsin by Commonwealth Telephone Co., also part of the General Telephone System. The instrument was installed in the home of Mr. Jack Pierick, living in the farming community of Richland Center, one of the original exchanges where the General Telephone System started twenty-eight years ago.

General Telephone System traces its history back to 1920, when its operations began with five small exchanges in Wisconsin, serving 1,500 telephones. Today General Telephone operates over 1,000 exchanges serving 1,000,000 telephones in 19 states. Indiana Associated Telephone Corporation operates 38 exchanges, serving 81,000 customers. It became a part of the General Telephone System in 1930.

The System's five-hundred-thousandth telephone was installed Dec. 1939. During the intervening eight years the number of System-owned telephones in service had doubled and the total assets have increased from $108,755,000 to $195,000,000. Part of the growth is the result of the System acquiring telephone properties, but more particularly by the addition of telephones at its existing exchanges.

There are about 6,000 non-Bell System telephone companies in the United States, serving 6,293,000 telepohnes through more than 11,000exchanges. The Bell System ser-28,507,000 telephones through more than 6,000 exchanges.

Many good things are in store for you. There will be a parade at 8:30, Tuesday June 8. Be sure and be sure and be present. All children, any age welcome.

GASOLINE TAXES PILE UP TO $111.00 DURING LIFETIME OF TIRE

During the lifetime of an automobile tire, the Indiana car-owner pays $111.00 in State and Federal gasoline taxes, according to Todd Stoops of the Hoosier Motor Club. This tax, he added, would amount to about 7 times the cost of the tire.

His figures were based on the estimate that the average automobile tire travels about 30,000 miles before it is replaced. At an average of 15 miles to the gallon of gasoline, this would mean a consumption of about 2,000 gallons of gasoline during the life of the tire.

"The State tax of 4 cents and the Federal tax of 1½ cents add up to a total of 5½ cents on each gallon of gasoline, or $110.00 on 2,002 gallons. Thus, he said, the gasoline taxes rolled up by an average-cost, average wearing tire in its useful life would be enough to pay for it about 7 times over."

"This gives us an idea of the tremendous amount of gasoline tax revenue contributed by the individual Indiana motorist in the ordinary use of his car," Mr. Stoops said. "In addition to these substantial gasoline tax payments, the car-owners of Indiana pay a multitude of other taxes on their motor vehicles. It is easy to see how the motorist has gained the reputation of being one of the most heavily taxed of all citizens."

He concluded: "The motorist feels keenly the pinch of these taxes. His only consolation is that the stiff gasoline and license taxes he pays to the State are building up record-breaking highway funds. These ample funds will provide a magnificent road system, incomparably better than any we have known in the past."

LOWER EXPENDITURES, INSTEAD OF INVENTING NEW TAXES; EXPERTS SAY

"Public officials once talked a-pledged lower taxes," said Harry bout economy in government and Miesse, Chairman of the board of the Indiana Taxpayers Association, "but now they seem to be clamoring for new sources of revenue. No longer is there any economy talk; instead there is an intensive search for new money to spend."

Mr. Miesse, in urging taxpayers to take a more active interest in their own affairs, cited the recent admission of various government experts that real property is carrying too much of the cost of government.

"The experts and the officials agree on one thing," he said, "and that is the fact that real estate and personal property have virtually been taxed to death. So they are looking for additional things to tax and the possibilities include many schemes that would have to be authorized by law. This would require action by the Indiana General Assembly, which convenes in January, 1949. Meanwhile the budgets for next year must be prepared by all governmental units. They must base expenditures and tax rates on laws not in effect and this means that real property will continue to carry the greater part of the tax burden. If there is any relief provided by the General Assembly next year it cannot be felt by the people until they pay their taxes in 1950.

"Therefore, despite any plans for new taxes or supplementary sources of revenue, the old property tax will be relied upon for the bulk of governmental costs in 1949 and what those taxes will be depends upon how much each budget total amount to when finally approved this year.

"The time for taxpayers to protect their own interests is before the budgets are adopted and the property tax rates fixed for 1949. That contemplates action during the next few months. Unless the taxpayers cooperate in this movement to hold down expenditures, their tax for the coming year will be appreciably higher than they are now--- and the property tax total for this year is the highest in Indiana's history. Complaint about high taxes avail no relief if they are posponed until tax-paying time. Now is the real moment for the taxpayers to begin an aggressive struggle for economy. Watch this year's budget hold expenditures to a minimum consistent with absolute needs and stop the ever-rising trend. Failure to act will mean a staggering property tax burden in 1949"

Appointment of Rev. Aron S. Gilmartin, Minister Unitarian Society of Ft. Wayne as campaign chairman for American Overseas Aid United Nations Appeal for Children, Fort Wayne, Indiana was announced here today by Lee Marshall, national chairman of AOA-UNAC which is conducting the Crusade for Children.

The Crusade --- a nation-wide appeal to raise $60,000,000 for relief of distressed war victims in Europe and Asia -- is being conducted under the banner of AOA-UNAC, a feleration of 26 major American voluntary agencies for foreign relief and the United States' share of the United Nations appeal for foreign relief and the United Nations Appeal for Children.

Acceptance by Rev. Gilmartin, of the campaign chairmanship in Ft. Wayne, was hailed by Mr. Marshall as "another valuable addition to the ranks of American leadership rallying to the cause of suffering humanity." The national AOA-UNAC head added that outstanding citizens throughout the United States are responding enthusiastically to the appeal by President Truman for relieving the tragic plight of million of children in war-ravaged nations.

In his recent plea to the American people, President Truman stated: "Millions of people, particularly children helpless and suffering in lands laid waste by war, need assistance now if they are to survive. We must try to help them through this crisis. I know of no better way than by supporting American Overseas --and the United Nations appeal for Children."

RALPH BRUCE WILL BE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR COUNTY CLERK

Ralph W. Bruce of Auburn, won the republican nomination for the office of county clerk after a recount completed late Wednesday gave him a nine-vote margin over Walter C. Manon of 415 West Seventh Street, Auburn.

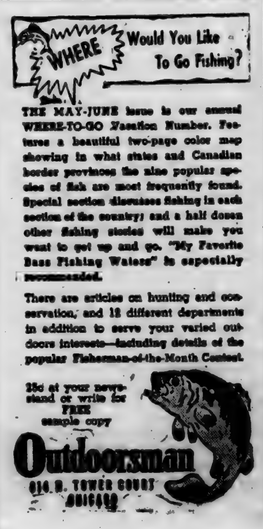
Official tabulation of the votes cast for Bruce and Manon at the May 4 primary had given each 1,117 votes.

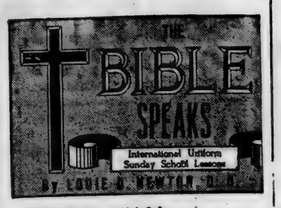
The commissioners appointed to recount the votes increased Bruce's total 13 votes from 1,117 to 1,130. Manon's total was also increased, but by only four votes to 1,121.

The commissioners, Russell Smith Wayne T. VanAuken and Claude P. Fitch, said most of the votes gained were due to ballots that were not counted by the precinct officers because of minor infractions of voting procedure but in which they decided the intent of the voter was clear.

In one precinct the total number of ballots was miscounted by the officials.

Bruce's victory places him in the race with Mrs. Mabel Kain of Auburn, the democratic nominee, for the county position. The recount was ordered on court approval of a joint petition by tne two deadlocked candidates.





SCRIPTURE: Daniel 3:6.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Acts 5:27-32.

Men Who Dared To Stand For God

Lesson for June 6, 1948

A FIERY furnace, and a lion's den. These are the tests to which Sunday's lesson will put our hero about whom we studied last Sunday, this young man Daniel. Three friends, Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego, will undergo the test of the fiery furnace, having been convinced by Daniel's example that God is trustworthy. And Daniel will spend the night in the den of lions. You will need to read chapters three through six to get the full story.

Dr. Newton

DANIEL IN THE BEN OF LIONS

THE sixth chapter must be read to have an adequate background for this study. Daniel had been chosen as the first of three presidents to rule over 120 princes who should govern the kingdom. The other two presidents and the princes could find no fault in this Hebrew, save that he believed and observed the law of his God. So, they conspired against him by persuading the king to issue a decree that no person in the kingdom was to make a petition to any God or man for 30 days, save to the king, on the penalty of being cast into the den of lions. This decree was issued by Darius, and Daniel's enemies reported to Darius that Daniel was opening his window three times a day, praying to his God. Darius was greatly troubled, but had to stand by his decree, and Daniel was cast into the den of lions. Darius spent a sleepless night, and hurried to the den at dawn to know about Daniel. Daniel replied, "O king, live for ever. My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me."

DARIUS REWARDS DANIEL

CONVINCED that Daniel's convictions had been miraculously rewarded by God, Darius ordered the other two presidents and the princes, together with their wives and children, thrown into the lions' dens. They were all destroyed by the lions.

Then Darius issued a decree to all the nations and people of all languages that dwell in all the earth. Hear this decree:

"Peace be multiplied unto you. I make a decree, That in every dominion of my kingdom men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel; for he is the living God, and stedfast forever, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed, and his dominion shall be even unto the end." So Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius and of Cyrus, the Persian.

COURAGE TO PUT GOD FIRST

LOOK now at the other test of faith—that of the three Hebrew children, Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had made a golden image, 90 feet high and nine feet wide, and set it up in the plain of Dura. On a certain day, when he was going to establish his state religion, he ordered every subject to fall down and worship this image.

But Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego refused to worship the image. Nebuchadnezzar was furious when he heard of their refusal. He summoned them into his presence, and warned them of their fate if they further refused to worship his gods. They answered him frankly that they would not bow down to the image. He ordered them thrown into the fiery furnace.

They decided that death was more honorable than apostasy. The men who cast them into the furnace fell dead!

UNSEARED AND UNSINGED!

BUT the three Hebrew children walked into the flames, unseared and unsinged! The king was astounded. The people were amazed. They had witnessed what the God of all the earth can and will do.

Then went forth the decree, "There is no other God that can deliver after this sort." Thus we have the golden text for Sunday's lesson:

"Be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up."

And what happened in the long ago when men dared to stand up and trust in God will happen today and every day.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

August always has been the No.1 vacation month, but July rapidly is catching up in popularity with American sportsmen. A recent nation wide survey of active sportsmen disclosed that 19 per cent of those contacted had selected August 18.7 per cent picked July.

And more and more sportsmen are selecting winter months for treks to distant fields -- some to the southland after fish and others to scattered places for upland and big game. From September through December, 24.3 per cent will hit the trail.

Where are the sportsmen going? The largest group, 17.5 per cent, will travel to Canada for summer fishing and fall hunting. Illinois, Mich. and Indiana will get 17.2 per cent. (Minnesota, Iowa, North and South will draw 10.7 per cent of the sportsmen, and the mid Atlantic states will get 8.4 per cent, with New England the choice of 8 per cent.

And how will they travel? The car, whether of pre-war vintage, or a new 1948 model, will carry 86 per cent, the train five per cent and all other modes of travel (bus, airplane) will carry nine per cent. Mostly there will be four-to-a-party, (27 percent), with two next in ine (25 per cent) and three tagging along with 14 per cent.

If you're planning a summer or winter vacation, we don't know what your family budget will handle, but 61 per cent of the sportsmen contacted in the survey will spend between $50 and $250, 18 per cent will spend between $300 and $500, and 8. 4 per cent will nick the bank account for between $600 and $1600.

And, quite a few of the boys -- and girls -- like "roughing it" for their vacations. A total of 21 per cent plan on camping out. But the largest group (50 per cent) will enjoy the comforts of cabins, and 14.5 per cent want the added comforts of hotel livng.

Anyway you add it up, there probably will be more vacationist this yeear fishing the trout streams, bass lakes and coastal salt water areas than ever before. The United States is a nation of fun-loving, sports-minded citizens, and that's the way it should be. So best of luck on your vacation.

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of

GEORGE W. GILLIE

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON—A thorough investigation of monopolistic practices and other unfair methods of competition" is being launched by the Congress, Rep. George W. Gillie of the Fourth Indiana District has announced.

Questionnaires are being sent to thousands of business organizations and individuals, as the first step in conducting this investigation which is under the supervision of the House Small Business Committee. The general survey and analysis work is being started at once by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Wm. Hillof Colorado, a Republican, and it will be followed with full dress hearings and a thorough investigation by the four subcommittees of the House Small Business Committee which is under the chairmanship of Rep. Ploeser, Republican, of Missouri.

Among those groups who have asked for the investigation are: the National Association of Retail Grocers, the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, the National Tire Dealers, the National Retail Farm Equipment Association and the Independent Bankers' Association of American.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE LABORATORY—Site for the U. S. Department of Agriculture laboratory recently authorized by the Congress from legislation introduced by Rep. George W. Gillie for research on foot-and-mouth disease has been selected tentatively. It is on Prudence Island, in Narragansett Bay, Rhode Island and has been proposed by the congressional delegation from that state, with confirmation awaiting final decision of state and local officlas and lvestock nterests.

With a staff of at least 300 persons the laboratory will be the largest and most complete of its kind in the world. Department of Agriculture officials predict it will take a year to get the laboratory in operation and total estimate cost will be approximately $30,000,000.

Taking part in the selection of the island were Rhode Island's Senators Theodore Green and J. Howard McGrath; the two state Representatives, Aime J. Forand and John E. Fogarty, also George W. Gillie, chairman of the House subcommittee on foot-and-mouth desease, and B. T. Simms ,Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, together with several of their advisers.

As a veterinarian having previous experience in outbreak of this dread disease, Dr. Gillie has participated actively in plans for the control of the present outbreak in Mexico.

"WASHINGTON ELM DIES" —A beautiful, historic elm on the Capitol grounds which it is believed George Washington planted has died of bark beetle and will be cut down. The tree is thought to be 160 years old and was first mentioned in the works of Frederick Law Olmsted in 1882, the man who laid out the Capitol grounds.

NOTE TO FOREIGN TRAVELERS Travelers from the United States to foreign lands this year may bring in $300 worth of goods, duty free, following th adoption of legislation by the Congress. Previously, the amount was $100.

MUCH OIL BEING SOLD FROM WELLS DRILED IN STATE

More than two million barrels of oil were sold from Hoosier wells during the first four month of this year, according to the Indiana Department of Conseravation

Figures announced by John H. Nigh, director of the department, showed a total of 219 oil and gas well completions in Indiana from January 1 to May 1. Of this number 142 were oil wells, 19 gas wells and 58 were dry. Sixteen of the dry holes were wildcat wells.

Pipeline runs (the amount sold) approximated 2,279,918 barrels of oil for this four-month period. Drilling permits totaled 296.

Drilling activity for the remainder of the year is dependent upon the operators' ability to obtain pipe, according to A. C. Colby, head of the Conservation Department's Oil and Gas Division. Created by the 1947 State Legislature, this new division began operations on April 1 of that year.

Among the activities of the Oil and Gas Division, located in the State Library Building at Indianapolis, is publication of a monthly drilling report which is available to interested persons. Colby said there are now approximately 300 subscribers to this bulletin.

HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS

By Lewis Walter

FIRST GAME NOTES—The Legion Softball team got off to a fairly successful start in their first game of the season Sunday night at Garrett. Although not a league game the locals handed the Depew Cleaners of Garrett an 8to 3 loss in their initial game. After the locals had pounded across two runs in the opening frame, Gerald Miller slashed a triple over third in the second inning to chase Keller and Walter over with what proved to be the wining tallies. Just to play safe, the locals went out in the 4th, 6th, and 7th, and added four more runs off Depew Pitcher, Payton and his successor.

Ridgway, after allowing the cleaners to score in the first three innings, settled down, with the aid of some beautiful defensive work by the local infield, to pitch 2 hit ball in the remaining four innings. He gave up 5 passes over the entire distance.

Here's the way manager, Fred Stemen lined the boys up for the first game: Shuff-1st; Miller-3rd; Deiderich-ss; Ridgway-P; Baker 2nd; Kelley-cf; G. Moore-lf; Keller rf; Walter-c.

Friday evening and all day Saturday, several of the legion boys, with Coach Tatlock and several members of the High School team, went to work on the local diamond preparatory to playing some Sunday and twilight games here.

Thursday evening the Coburn Corners Church team will come over for a few practice innings with the legion. On Sunday afternoon, June 6, at 2 p. m., the Baals Foundry team, formerly Donaldsons team from Auburn, will be present for play against the Legion.

. . . . . .

The High School Summer league got started last Wednesday evening with Harlan winning over Spencerville and Leo winning over St. Joe. Play will continue each Wednesday night with each of the four teams playing every week.

. . . . . .

NEW BAT, NEW STANCE—A new bat, stance closer to the plate and pulling the ball are three factors invoved in the home run power that has been developed by Ken Keltner of Cleveland. The bat is one that Al Rosen left when he was sent to Kansas City, which Ken picked up in batting practice and felt so good that he has used it ever since. The handle is thinner and an inch shorter than the bat Keltner wielded before

The other changes that Keltner thinks have helped him our entirely of his own making. Playing in old League Park with that short right field wall and the long haul in left made it necessary to hit straight away, Ken explains. "So, though I was a natural pull hitter, I tried to to push a lot of balls to right to take advantage of that shorter wall. Las summer, when we moved over to the Stadium, I began to go back to my old style. but I guess if just took a year to get the feel of it all over again.

Now Its In Writing

Yes those barbed wire remarks on every thing in general about baseball that Leo Durocher has been sounding off with for so long, have been put into print in "The Dodgers and Me". Harold Parrot, traveling secertary for the Dodgers has written most of the stuff under Durocher's name. But practically all of the stuff has come from the lips of the Lip sometime during his long and stormy career in the big game.

Former Dodgers as Luke Hamlin, Newsom, and McPhail, along with dozens of others take it on the chin in Leo's book: Of McPhail- "Larry didn't know one player from another even when in uniform and was constantly wondering who this was and who that was; and Newsom-one of the biggest windbags the game has ever known.

FUDGE CAKE

This cake is so-o-o good while it lasts, but we can guarantee that it won't last long. Always a favorite, this delicate, fine-flavored cake hits the bullseye for any occasion from party refreshments to family dessert. And what a delightful treat for an after-school snack!

Fudge Cake

- ½ cup fortified margarine
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 squares melted chocolate
- 1 2/3 cup flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup milk

Cream together margarine, sugar, and salt. Stir in melted chocolate and beaten eggs. Sift flour, salt, and baking powder together and add alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Bake in two layers (8-inch) or square flat cake pan (9-inch) in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Ice with chocolate icing (recipe below), and sprinkle top with coarsely chopped nuts.

Chocolate Icing

- 2 tbs. fortified margarine
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 squares melted chocolate
- 1½ cups confectioners sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons cream

Blend margarine, salt, and egg yolk together. Add melted chocolate. Stir in sugar, beating to a spreading consistency.

For other taste-tempting recipes write today for your free copy of the two-color, 32-page recipe booklet, "Mealtime Magic," to National Cotton Council, Box 18, Memphis 1, Tenn.

Grain Saving Plan

Livestock specialists point out that one way to save grain is to feed idle farm work stock and saddle horses a large amount of forage. Idle horses can be wintered satisfactorily on roughage alone, but good quality hay should be used.

Henry Schwartz of the Schwartz Auto Company, Grabill Ford dealer is shown here with W. W. HARNESS RACE ENTRIES SET STATE FAIR RECORD

Reserved grandstand seat tickets for the Indiana State Fair Grand Circuit Harness Horse race program were placed on sale today simultaneously with an announcement by L. Orville Miller of Goshen, speed superintendent, that the largest number of entries ever made in a fair's early closing events have been received this year.

"Last year, there were 75 entries in these four events. This year, there are 86 and it is a good early indication that a record-breaking field of horses will be on hand to try for the $134,000 in purses offered this year," Mr. Miller said. The purses have been increased nearly $10,000.

Reserved grandstand seat tickets for the harness events, Sept. 4, 6 through 10, may be procured by writing Orval C. Pratt, secretary-manager, Indiana State Fair, Indianapolis 5, Ind.

Boxes are $2.20 per person while grandstand seats are $1.80 and $1.20.

"Checks must accompany requests and tickets will be mailed beginning July 1, in the order that requests are received," Mr. Pratt said.

Here is the complete Grand Circuit program:

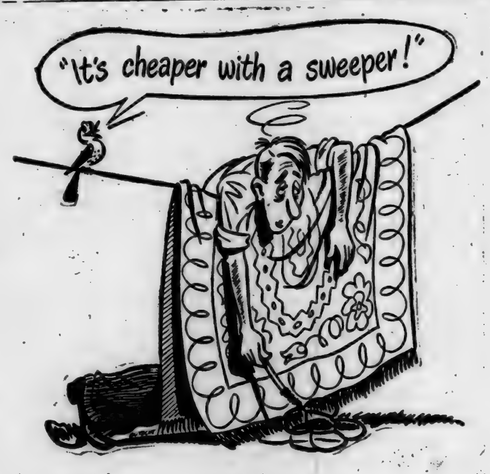
The state of Tennessee is rich in minerals, its livestock and agricultural intersts are varied and important, its lumber production is large, iits commercial interests are assisted by reason of its navigable waters, especially the Mississippi river.

Mt. Rainier National park, in the state of Washington, was established by act of Congress in 1899.

According to a recent announcement research developments offer reasonable promise that within a few years synthetic gosoline will be produced from coal at a cost close to that made from petroleum and natural gas.

When admitted to the Union, Oklahoma had a population larger than twenty-one other states.



It is, too, when you figure in time and energy and general wear-and-tear! As a matter of fact, one cent's worth of electricity will clean a large rug and 5 others like it in less time than it takes to drag them down to the yard for beating!

Electricity does dollar duty for penny prices, not only for rug-beating, but for countless other household tasks. It costs much more to make and deliver today, but the average family still gets twice as much electric service for its money as it got 20 years ago.

Yes, the cost of electricity is low—but not by accident. That's because you're using electricity for more and more tasks. Moreover, your friends and neighbors in this company—under sound business management—have used their skill and experience to make electricity the biggest bargain in your budget.

FOR ONE PENNY, YOU CAN

Light a 100-watt bulb almost 3 hours, or run a radio for a whole evening, or have the correct time for about a week, or wash 3 full tubs of laundry.

EDWIN GUTHRIE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT EAST OF SPENCERVILLE

Edwin F. Guthrie, 58, farmer and seed salesman of near St. Joe was painfully injured about 12:30 last Thursday afternoon in a two-car crash three miles east of Spencerville near the intersection of state road 101 and a county road.

Guthrie sustained a minor brain concussion, head and facial injuries and cuts and shock. He was treated at the scene of the accident by a Butler physician and taken to his home.

Edwin Fogle, 20-year-old Payne, O. youth, driver of the other vehicle told the sheriff that Guthrie made a left turn into the path of his car. Mr. Guthrie reported that he signaled for a left turn off the state road after observing the oncoming Buick driven by Fogle. Fogle said he thought Guthrie signaled for a stop. He slid his car several feet in an effort to avoid the collision.

Both cars were heavily damaged in the head-on collision; the 1942 Buick driven by the Payne youth, in excess of $500, and the 1937 Pontiac driven by Guthrie was damaged about $500.

CONCORD TWP. 4-H CLUB

The sixth meeting of the Get Together 4-H Club met May 31 in the Home Ec. Room of the school house. The meeting was called to order by the president, Audrie Trenary. Seventeen members answered the roll by giving their favorite game. After a short business meeting we adjourned. Recreation was led by Marlyn Washler. Refreshments were served by Gailanna Holman, Ruth Trenary and Opal Trenary.

4-H JUNIOR LEADERS SELECTED FOR CAMP TRIPS

State Junior Leader Camp and 4-H Club Round-UP Achievement winners have been selected by a 4-H committee to receive the trip awards. These trips were based on record of achievements and the number of points that each club member had. These are two of the trips that will be awarded to club members in home economics projects this year, according to an announcement made by Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent.

The trip to State Junior Leader Camp at Indiana Central College at Indianapolis will be held June 9-12. JoAnne Hartman is the junior leader representing DeKalb County. JoAnne has completed four years of junior leadership. At this camp, leaders receive training in discussion, leadership activities, and recreation. JoAnne will expect to come back into the county and give to the junior leaders some of the valuable information received at state camp.

Club members with outstanding records of achievement will receive a trip to 4-H Club Round-Up which lasts from June 16-18. At Round-Up girls will see outstanding demonstration and a charm school sponsored by L. S. Ayres of Indianapolis. They will also witness the Victory Varieties show in the Hall of Music, as well as participating in numerous parties during their three day stay. Those club members receiving this trip are Eleanor Fee, Franklin Twp.; Bernice and Berdetta Burns, Wilmington Twp.; Beverly Hathaway,, Richland Twp.; Jenovie Shipe, Fairfield Twp.; June Keller, Wilmington Twp.; Margery Hollabaugh, Spencer Twp.; Mary Lou Clark, Keyser Twp.; Sue Walter, Jackson Twp.

NEW ASSISTANT COUNTY AGENT NAMED

DeKalb County will have the services of an assistant county agricultural agent beginning June 16, as announced by LeRoy Hoffman, director of extension at Purdue University. Ernest J. Lesiuk, native of St. Joe County, Indiana, has been selected for the position. He will graduate from Purdue University School of Agriculture June 13. He has specialized in animal husbandry and has a background of activites in 4-H club work and Future Farmer activities.

He was born in Mishawaka, Indiana, and graduated from Washington Clay High School in St. Joe County. Mr. Lesiuk was an active member in 4-H clubs for seven years, participating in 4-H poultry judging activities, and was an active member in the Future Farmer chapter in Washington-Clay High School for four years. He served for thirty-sven months in the Army and after being released he continued his education at Purdue University. While at Purdue, Mr. Lesiuk was a member of the Intercollegiate Livestock Judging Team.

Mr. Lesiuk married the former Claire Drotos of Medina, Ohio. They have one daughter eleven months. They will reside in Richand Twp.

The assistant agent will participate in 4-H and Rural Youth programs in DeKalb County, along with other extension activities. He will fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Michael R. Jewett last September, who is now county agricultural agent in Fulton County.

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Allie Metcalf of Huntington, Indiana, spent the past few days here with Mrs. Lillian Buckingham.

Mrs. Marie Draggoo was a guest of her Aunt, Miss Mae Openlander of Sherwood Sunday and enjoyed a pretty birthday party for her aunt.

A Children's Day program will be given on Sunday evening, June 13, at 7:30 p. m. at the Concord Methodist Church.

The Wittenberg unit of the Student Army Training Corps, located at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, 1918, held their 30th anniversary reunion at John Byron Ohio State Park, Sunday June 6th. Those attending from this area (all formerly from St. Joe) were Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Hathaway of Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Milliman of Ft. Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull of St. Joe. The boys reported a very fine time. They also called on Bill Bilow at Meyers Hall, Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crow and two children spent a couple of days last week with their parents at Royal Center, Indiana. Mrs. Crow's mother as been in the hospital at Logansport for observation, and was returned to her home Friday.

The wedding of Miss Muriel Hendrickensen and Robert A. Wyatt will take place June 12 at 1 o'clock in the Lutheran Church of the Advent, 93rd and Broadway, New York City. Mr. Wyatt is a graduate of the St. Joe High School with the class of 1943, and is with the General Electric Company in New York City. He is the son of Robert Wyatt of Newville.

Herbert C. Willis, editor and publisher of the Waterloo Press for the past 53 years has sold his printing plant and says he will probaby spend his time keeping up his home, getting out of doors, and doing what ever he can to boost the town where he was born and has always lived, wants to remember his friends and hopes they will not forget him. Mr. Willis appears rugged and hale at 77 in spite of a lifetime studded with sleepless nights. He has many friends in St. Joe having attended several meetings of the local Lions Club and visited many times with the former editor, the late Fred B Leighty and wife, of the St. Joe News.

Two automibiels collided near head-on early Saturday morning in St. Joe causing considerable damage to both cars. The accident occurred on state road 1 in St. Joe, and cars driven by John Engle, farmer of near town and Ross T. McDevitt, a factory worker of R. 1, Butler. Mr. Engle driving his 1937 Ford, told investigators that he was following a truck on the state highway and made a left turn into a parking space when his machine collided with the oncoming 1940 Ford driven by McDevitt. Engle said his vision was obscured by the truck. McDevitt also told the officer that he was unable to see the other car in time to avoid the accident because of the truck. McDevitt's care was estimated to be damaged about $125, and the damage to Engle's auto was thought to be about $75.

WAYNE NICHOLLS SLIGHTLY INJURED IN AUTO MISHAP

Wayne Nicholls, 29, was slightly injured shortly before midnight Wednesday when a left front tire on his automobile blew out and the vehicle overturned on U. S. 6, about four miles east of Waterloo.

Nicholls, who was riding alone, returned to his home after treatment by a Waterloo physician, for a badly bruised right arm, and head and facial injuries.

Nicholls, told the sheriff, who investigated the accident, that he lost control after the tire blew out, and the car turned over on its side in the middle of the highway. The sheriff said it skidded for several feet on its side.

The accident occurred about 11:30 p.m. directly in front of the Waterloo rest park east of the town. Nicholls' 1941 Ford was estimated to be damaged in excess of $200.

TEACHERS URGED TO ENROLL IMMEDIATELY IN VERSAILES CAMP

Ten of Indiana's foremost conservation authorities will man the staff of the third annual Conservation Education Camp for teachers, opening June 21st at Versailles State Park.

Under the direction of Professor Howard H. Michaud, Department of Forestry, Purdue University, the camp will run for a six-week period, ending on July 29th.

Staff members will include Dr. Helmut Kohnke, J. L. VanCamp, Prof. T. E. Shaw, Prof. G. E. Lehker and Dr. C. M Kirkpatrick, all of Purdue University; Dr. J. E. Potzger Butler University; Dr. W. P. Allyn, Indiana State Teachers College; Dr. Louis A. Krumholz, Indiana University and Dr. Robert H. Cooper, Ball State Teachers College.

With opening day less than three weeks away, teachers who desire entering camp should contact Dr. Michaud immediately. The tuition is $95.00 for the six weeks but a number of scholarships are still available. Six semester hours of credit may be earned in this course and there is still room for thirty additional teachers.

Field trips lecturers and demonstrations will make up the course and nine main subjects covering every phase of conservation will be discussed.

This camp is sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction, the Indiana Department of Conservation and Purdue University.

TRACTOR MAINTENANCE CLASSES HELD IN COUNTY

The Beginners 4-H Tractor Maintenance activity has been completed by the instructor, Gerald Ladd of Simthfield Township. Sessions were held at the Dunn Brothers Implement Store at Waterloo each Monday and Friday night during April where 36 boys interested in this particular activity met and were instructed on the maintenance and proper operation of farm tractors.

Mr. Ladd stressed the importance of safe use of tractors, checking the fuel level in the carburetor for economy, regular checking of the battery, regular changing of the oil, proper cleaning of the air filter and oil filters, proper setting and adjusting the spark plugs and ignition proper lubrication, proper use of the manual which comes with each tractor giving the various specifications and points of lubrication, and adjustments necessary for the individual tractor.

A great amount of interest has been shown by the boys who were enrolled in this activity and an advanced class for further study of tractor maintenance and care will begin Monday evening, June 7, at the Auburn Courthouse assembly room. Gerald Ladd who was winner in the activity last year and who obtained additional training at Purdue University this spring will continue on with the advanced class. at the close of the advanced class a winner will be selected as outstanding in his work in this activity and he will be choosen as the instructor for next year's tractor maintenance courses.

Those completing the beginners' class are Lee Grate, Waterloo; Carl Dilley, Ashley; Harold Grate, Corunna; DuVern Carnahan, Waterloo; Jack Cobbs, Corunna; James Shilling, St. Joe; John Witt, Spencerville; Lavon Bender, Waterloo; Donald Dapp, Waterloo; Bill Wilson, Ashley; Forrest Rudolph, Waterloo; Harley Cobbs, Corunna; Dean Stoy, Waterloo; John Wilhelm, Waterloo; Carl Stout, Waterloo; Walter Clyburn, Waterloo; Stanley Grate, Waterloo; Jimmy Tuttle, Waterloo; Bob Harrold, Butler; Lyle Vian, Waterloo, Stephen Fribley, Auburn; Kenneth Parker. How to Save Gas

Driver Tests Show Conservation Easy

How to conserve precious gasoline and save money was recently demonstrated at Detroit when results of engineering tests showed savings as high as 70% possible through proper engine tune-up coordinated with correct driving techniques.

The tests were conducted by the Chrysler Engineering division at the instigation of W. B. Rice, director of service for the Plymouth division. They were made by technical experts with a 1948 Plymouth special deluxe sedan equipped with recording and measuring devices including a "fifth wheel" electric speedometer, gasometer, vacuum gauge, odometers, and batteries of stop watches.

No "trick" gasoline saving devices or special fuels were used. The secret of the savings obtained lay in (1) proper spring tune-up of the car, including ignition, carburation, cooling system, oil change and chassis lubrication, and steering and brake adjustments, and (2) employment of proper driving techniques in handling foot throttle and brakes.

A basic gas saving up to 10% may be secured by giving an out-of-tune car the approved dealer's spring tune-up, the tests showed. Past that point the driver himself holds the whip hand in achieving phenomenal gas savings.

The first test run was over a ten mile course in a section of Detroit where stop lights and stop signs were numerous. Here, reasonably moderate acceleration and braking showed a 60% greater gasoline mileage over the "quick stop and start artist."

Surprisingly, the safe driver who saved so much gas, arrived at the finish of the ten mile course only one and one-half minutes later than the "hurryup" man, made 50 per-cent fewer stops and spent 51% less of his time at those stops. He averaged only two per-cent slower speed and two per-cent greater elapsed time.

In a test run over the 165 mile highway from Detroit to Lansing, Michigan, the safe driver achieved a 50% saving in gasoline on the trip.

The surprising difference in gas economy was achieved by maintaining a normal speed of 50 m.p.h. on open highway as against one of 70 m.p.h.

Added to the advantages of conserving the nation's fuel supply for next winter's heating use and the saving in money accruing to the individual is the fact that safety statistics prove the "moderate" driver involved in fewer and less serious accidents than the speed-seeker, Rice pointed out.

WLS NATIONAL BARN DANCE TO BROADCAST FROM BEDFORD SQUARE

WLS National Barn Dance radio program will be broadcast from the Public Square, Bedford, Ind., Saturday evening, June 19, from 6:15 o'clock until 11:00 o'clock, climaxing a week-long anniversary celebration, the Indiana Limestone Centennial, which will start Monday, June 14.

John Baker, WLS Program Director, and Thomas Rowe, WLS Chief Engineer, met with Kent Bass, Bedford businessman and General Chairman of the Centennial, and John A. McGee, Centennial General Manager, yesterday and completed plans for the broadcast.

All the Barn Dance stars will be at Bedford and take part in the five-hour show which will be staged in full view of the audience and at no cost. In event of rain arrangements have been made to move the broadcast to the high school gymnasium and the public will be welcomed there.

Several other WLS featured radio shows will be broadcast that day from the Bedford High School gym and audiences are cordially invited to attend the shows. These extra broadcasts will be announced later.

WLS National Barn Dance is a revue—a presentation of all popular station acts on one program built around the barn dance theme—old fashioned entertainment, friendliness and informality.

An interesting sidelight to the radio show came up during the meeting of the radio and centennial officials. Mr. Baker, born in Brazil, Ind., was graduated from Purdue University. While at Purdue, Mr. Baker was a student in classes presided over by, then professor McGee, now the Centennial General Director.

Following the meeting and signing of the contracts for the Barn Dance appearance at Bedford, pupil and teacher sauntered away together to rehash school days and those who know the two, say, to cook up extra, unusual and unexpected pieces of business to be inserted in the main broadcast. McGee wrote the Centennial music which will be featured during the anniversary week.

Some of the WLS Barn Dance personnel to appear during the Bedford broadcasts are: Arkie (Arkansas Woodchopper), Rex Allen, Sage Riders, Jack Holden, Doek Hopkins, Lulu Belle & Scotty, Hal O'Halloran, Dizz Kids, Virginia Hams, WLS Rangers, DeZurik Sisters, Karl & Harty, WLS Orchestra, Maple City Four, Otto, Prairie Ramblers, Square Dancers, Grace Wilson, Jimmie James, Cousin Tilford, Mac and Bob, John Dolce, Little Genevieve, John Brown, and Red Blanchard.

WLS Barn Dance has been on the air for 24 years, originating in the Hotel Sherman studios, in Chicago. Since then after various moves to larger space more than 1,800,000 visitors have witnessed these broadcasts.

HOSPITALS TOO, FIND OPERATING EXPENSES HIGH

That the high cost of living is no respecter of persons -- nor of institutions -- Indiana hospitals are becoming more aware every day.

It's a rare person who hasn't found that the age-old problem of how to keep income ahead of expenses has been intensified during the last few years. And for hospitals the problem is even more difficult than for individuals. With them it's a case of struggling to keep up with expenses. For hospitals, whether municipally or private owned, have never (or rarely ever) been able to operate in the black.

The 25 county hospitals in Indiana had an overall average annual deficit of $5,611.00 from 1931 through 1945. Although rates were higher in 1946, these municipally operated hospitals had an average deficit of $6,367.32 for that year. And two of the counties had deficits of over $30,000.

Tax levies make up the difference when public institutions don't make ends meet. In the case of private hospitals, religious or other organizations or individuals must come to the rescue, checkbook in hand.

Yet most people, even though acutely aware of the difficulty of balancing their own personal budget, don't understand why hospitals lose money.

"Look how their charges have gone up! And look how much time is donated and how many gifts they get! Why can't hospitals make money today?" the public wants to know.

Here are some figures furnished by one of the largest private hospitals in the state. Its bills for heat, light, power and water went up from $25,000 in 1946 to $60,000 in 1947 -- an increase of 140 per cent. It spent 45 per cent more for drugs and 31 percent more for housekeeping services and supplies. 32 per cent increase in laboratory and 18 per cent rise in X-ray expense occurred. Food costs were up 19 per cent. Some increases were not as great as these, but everything the hospital bought cost more than it had the previous year. It has increased its rates to patients by 40 percent, but that isn't enough to put its operations in the black.

The hospital payroll is generally about 70 per cent of its cost. How payroll costs have mounted is illustrated by the increase in salary and value of allowances to nurses. In 1938, the average institutional nurse's monthly salary was $82. Today, her compensation is around $210 per month. And at that there is a shortage of nurses.

The average rate charged by Indiana hospitals increased 38.29 per cent from September, 1946, to Mar., 1948. But red ink is still used to paint the financial picture.

Today hospitals operate at about 98 per cent of bed capacity, whereas 40 per cent was the average only a few years ago. Such a marked increase in occupancy and use of services causes many people to wonder why hospital operation isn't profitable. But every additional patient means that more nursing, laboratory, laundry, dietary, pharmaceutical and administrative work that must be done.

Quality, as well as quantity of all services has grown. Whereas a generation ago only a few patients received complete physical examinations, now every patient gets a thorough physical examination and laboratory check-up. Equipment for diagnosing illness and administering health-giving measures is expensive and frequently becomes obsolete before it is fully depreciated. Highly trained personnel is required to maintain, operate and interpret its disclosures.

In addition to providing facilities for healing illness, and as opposed to the original concept of "a place to go to die," hospitals today practice preventive medicine. They can take credit for such things as helping to lower the maternal death rate, to prevent the spreadingof epidemics, to discover illness before it is dangerous to relieve pain and suffering, and to save lives. All very gratifying - - - but it doesn't pay the coal bill.

And the story is the same throughout the country. Figures vary from place to place, but the problem of rising deficits is universal. Some suggested remedies are: higher rates, appeals to the public for legacies, endowments and grants greater efforts by hospitals to cut costs, and more government contributions.

The New York Times said editorially on February 25, 1948:

"The problem at heart, belongs to pitals suffer, our community suffers. each one of us. If the voluntary hos- If they are forced to budget the amount of free care they can give, the medically indigent must be cared for in the municipal hospitals, which even now are staggering under a burden they cannot adequately carry. Certainly it is wiser to give immediate help to the voluntary hospitals than let them curtail services or collapse, one by one. The voluntary hospitals need the support of all of us, in order that all may benefit. They must become 'everybody's business.'"

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

PREGNANCY CARE

GREAT strides have been made by medicine in reducing the number of deaths of mothers and babies. Not more than fifty years ago half the babies born died in the first year. To guarantee safety, as soon as pregnancy is suspected, one should go to a medical doctor.

A careful examination early in pregnancy is essential. The physician will ask many questions in order to gain information to decide how to care for the prospective mother. The examination will determine the stage of the pregnancy and such related factors as the condition of the mother's blood, the teeth, weight, blood pressure, kidney function, pelvic measurements, and the condition of heart and lungs. The doctor will also give the mother advice on care of the breasts, diet, et cetera.

The doctor views each patient as an individual, determines the position of the fetus, makes provision for the best method of delivery and anticipates any probable complications.

The prospective mother should accept the advice of her physician and not that of well-meaning friends.

Cotton is the pricipal crop in Louisiana and the state has a large agricultural and fruit production, including strawberries, citrus fruits, sweet potatoes, sugar cane and other products. It is, also the third largest petroleum producing state of the Union.

Among points of historical interest in Virginia are Mount Vernon, Monticello and Richmond.

Yellowstone National park, established in 1879, was our first National park.

Crop residues such as corn stalks, etc., are worth three to four dollars per acre to bring about crop increases. They are worth even more in maintaining good soil tilth.

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of GEORGE W. GILLIE

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON—Congress is coming down the home stretch, with sights set on adjournment by the end of next week. Scores of bills are being passed but public attention is largely centered on the few controversial ones such as revival of the draft, reciprocal trade extension, various appropriation bills, displaced persons, pay increases for Federal workers, oleo tax repeal, housing and the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill.

When the smoke clears away, some form of Selective Service probably will be on the books, a modified reciprocal trade program will have a one year extension, a compromise will have been worked out on pay increases, and an expanded Social Security program, in modified form, will have been voted.

Most big spending measures other than for established government departments will go by the boards for this session. Held over for consideration by the next Congress probably will be Federal Aid to Education, socialized housing and medicine, large-scale revision of Social Security and various other proposals which, if adopted at this time, would unbalance the budget, increase the public debt and, perhaps, require increased income taxes.

These and other matters can be reviewed in Jan. By Congress, or sooner if need be.

PLEDGES KEPT—The average Congressman feels that he has kept his main campaign pledges to help stem the tide and reverse the trend of past years by:

(1) Striking a blow at domestic Communists and strengthening our weak policy towards the Soviet Union;

(2) Substantially reducing personal income taxes;

(3) Balancing the budget for the first time since 1929;

(4) Reducing the national debt;

(5) Reducing the number of Federal employees;

(6) Eliminating many of the economic controls which were preventing post-war production in farm and factory, and

(7) Passing a labor law which will protect the general public, make the government an impartial party in industrial disputes and places management and labor on an equal footing before the law.

Congressmen are now anxious to be home by July 1st, to set up local offices and get the home folks' views about what the next session of the national legislature ought to do.

CAMPAIGN TRIP—President Truman's "non-political" campaign trip which took him through Indiana last week, is being paid for out of public funds. The president has a $25,000 annual allowance for official travel expenses. The trip has been described by Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, as being "as non-political as the Pendergast Machine."

"His obvious purpose in traveling across the country accompanied by a retinue of newspaper reporters, photographers and newscasters is to bolster up the waning prospect of his Party and of his own candidacy," Reece remarked.

RANDOM NOTES—Rep. George W. Gillie of Indiana will be honored guest at the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia starting June 21. A total attendance of clase to 30,000 is anticipated. The annual competitive examination for West Point and Annapolis candidates in the Fourth District will be held at Ft. Wayne on July 12. Boys wishing to take the exam should write to Congressman Gillie in Washington without delay. The wife of one Gop. presidential candidate—Senator Vandenberg—is a Hoosier. Mrs. Vandenberg is the former Hazel H. Whitaker of Fort Wayne.

Dad's Day will be observed at both churches June 20

A game of soft ball will be played at the Lloyd Strong farm on Wednesday evening of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hose and Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Brown attended a wedding at Bippus, Ind., Sunday.

The Missionary Society had a meeting Tuesday evening, June 8, at the U. B. Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt and daughter of Ft. Wayne spent Sun. here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wyatt.

The third quarterly meeting of the Newville U. B. circuit, was held at Mt. Pleasant Monday evening.

Mrs. Nettie Abel, 90 years old, visited her brother, Cal Coburn, aged 93, in Hicksville, Saturday. She was accompanied by her daugther, Mrs. Blanche Tomlinson.

Janet and Judy Schondelmayer of Auburn spent the past week here in the Adrian Washler home, while their mother assisted in the care of a baby boy, born to Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bauer, May 27, in Ft. Wayne.

Charles Dean and Hugh Traxler spent last Wednesday at this place.

NEW TRAVEL SERVICE

The Farm Bureau expects the new travel service organization to be the connecting link between Indiana farmers and the transportation companies. The new company, it was explained, has been under consideration for many months. It is empowerd to conduct trips to any part of the world, affording farmers opportunities to take educational and vacation tours. Miss Marjorie Eads was named assistant manager and G. W. Sample, manager.

Town Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

There are more superstitions and old-fashioned ideas about food than any other material thing, and believers include folks who produce the food—the farmers. Many dairy farmers, for instance, have old-fashioned ideas about milk quality.

Take the idea of straining milk on the farm to improve milk quality. Dairy technologists tell us quality is not improved in the least by this practice. Properly drawn milk will be clean. The straining process should be a check only, the filter disc is not a cure-all for carelessness. Any foreign matter appearing on the filter disc should have been extracted earlier in the process.

Another horse and buggy idea is that of aeration of milk at the farm to remove off odors. This problem can be eliminated only by feeding odor-producing feeds to the cow after milking and by milking in a well-ventilated barn. Along with this mistaken idea runs the one that milk can absorb odors directly from the stable air. No idea could be farther from the truth, for warm milk, itself, gives off vapors and cannot absorb odors.

Off odors are introduced into milk through the respiratory system of the cow. The solution, therefore, is to keep feed odors out of the air which the cow breathes—and you will keep the odors out of the milk.

Two other outmoded practices have to do with the milk can. Don't be deceived into believing that a loose can cover is beneficial; this only increases chances for contamination of milk while cooling. Of course, taking off the cover completely to agitate cooling milk is not recommended. Instead, grasp the can by the top, and rock is back and forth. Keeping the lid on tight and giving attention to matters mentioned will assure everyone of a milk he likes to drink. To keep milk quality high, keep it CLEAN, COOL and COVERED.

Home of Fir Plywood

Douglas fir, from which plywood is made and which grows only on the western slope of the Cascade mountains, is one of the two strongest structural woods known and the world's most valuable commercial tree. It is easily cut or fit with ordinary carpentry tools and can be painted or finished the same as other wood.

Mealtime Magic

VEAL ROLL

They'll sing your praises loud and long when you serve veal in this unusual and palate-pleasing fashion. Not only does it taste good, but it looks good, too. Try this soon.

Veal Roll

shoulder of veal
salt, pepper
1 bunch watercress
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 onion, finely minced
dash red pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
1 qt. boiling water
½ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon pickling spices
1 teaspoon salt
2 tbs. fortified margarine
½ cup bread crumbs

Have bones removed from meat at market (but be sure to carry them home). Spread meat open and flat. Season with salt and pepper. Chop watercress rather fine. Add minced parsley, onion, red pepper, celery salt. Spread this filling over the cut side of the meat. Roll (like a jelly roll), folding in the "flying" ends of meat. Tie into firm roll. Cover with boiling water; add vinegar, salt, pickling spices, meat bones. Simmer, covered, 2 hours. Remove meat roll from water. Place in baking pan. Spread meat with the margarine, cover with the bread crumbs and season with salt and pepper. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 45 minutes, until crumbs are browned. Remove strings before serving. Serve hot or cold. Water in which meat was cooked may be used for a sauce to be served with hot meat, or, if meat is to be served cold, use as a base for soup.

Sauce from Broth

To serve with hot meat. Brown 4 tablespoons flour in frying pan (without fat). Add 2 tablespoons margarine after flour is brown. Mix to smoothness. Add hot broth; stir over heat until creamy. If desired, add a teaspoon of sugar to make a sweet-sour sauce.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE — Every spring since a female mallard duck first built her nest in the top of one of the pilings at the Grand Trunk Western docks in Milwaukee four years ago, carferry employees keep a close watch to see if "Carferry Carrie" will come back. And once she does return, the entire Grand Trunk staff worries until her eggs are safely hatched.

This year a 24-hour guard has been posted to protect the nest and strict orders issued that there must be no more "blowing down" of boilers in the slip while the eggs are hatching Here, Crescenzo Annunzieto, section foreman, takes a look to see how the eggs are coming along.

Carferry Carrie has caused a great deal of concern because of her frequent flights away from the nest, but Warren Dettmann, of the Milwaukee Public Museum, says that this will not harm the eggs. Carrie needs to take time out to get herself a bite to eat, he said, and in swimming around, she gets her breast feathers wet. The wet feathers keep the eggs moist, preventing the shells from getting dry and hard. Otherwise, the ducklings would have "a heck of a time" breaking out, he explained.

WATCH FOR APPLE AND PEAR TREE BLIGHT

A strange, mysterious blight often appears on the backyard apple or pear tree about this time of year. This blight, known as "Fire blight of Apples and Pears" makes its first appearance about two weeks after the trees have bloomed. Apple and pear trees infected with this "blight" looks at if they have been scorched by fire from a giant blow torch, Dr. Eric Sharvellie, plant pathologist of Purdue University explains.

The disease may be recognized, Dr. Sharvelle says, by the appearance of withered, blighted blossoms and later the ends of the twigs over the entire tree wither and die. Some apples varieties such as Johnathan Wealthy and Maidenblush are very suceptible to this blight, while other varieties are almost free from it.

Unfortunately, the only remedy blight cankers during the winter blight cankers during the winter months and to spray the trees in full bloom with Bordeaux mixture or any other fungicide containing copper recommended for fruit trees.

Fire blight is caused by a true germ or bacterium that lives over in cankers or large limbs. Bees, flies and other pollinating insects carry the fire blight germs into the apple and pear blossoms where they start the fire blight disease.

The fire blight disease of apples and pears is described in a new leaflet "Fireblight of Apples and Pears and its Control" of the Agricultural Extension Service of Purdue University. The leaflet is available free from the office of the county agricultural agent or the university.

FARM TOURS REUNION DATE AND PLACE SET

More than 2,000 Indiana farmers who have been passengers on past Indiana Farm Bureau through the West, and their families are expected to attend an all-day picnic-reunion to be held at Forest Park, edge of Noblesville, Sunday, July 25, it was announced this week by Glenn W. Sample, director of information, Indiana Farm Bureau.

Indications are that this will be the largest farmer picnic to be held this summer, giving the tour minded rural people an opportunity to re-live their trips and to renew acquaintances.

As co-host for the huge picnic, the Hamilton county Farm Bureau and Farm Bureau Co-op have appointed local committee to work with a special committee of the Indiana Farm Bureau, headed by Miss Marjorie Eads, assistant manager of the new Hoosier Travel Service, Inc.

After a brief program in the afternoon, ice cream will be served.

A similar picnic was held at Forest Park last year and nearly 2,000 persons from all parts of Indiana attended. Since then, 1,200 additional farmers toured the West last Sepember and are eligible, with their families, to come to the picnic.

Maximum travel opportunities and pleasures at lowest cost, tailored to fit the needs of Indiana farmers, will be the objecitve of the newly incorporated Hoosier Travel Service, Inc., it was announced this week by the Indiana Farm Bureau.

WARN AGAINST HAYING HAZARDS

Hoosier farm folk are asked by Purdue University agricultural engineers and safety specialists to give their attention to haying hazards which have caused tragic accidents and losses to Indiana farmers in past years.

The season is approaching when barn fires occur, as the result of storing damp hay in mows where forced ventilation was not provided to complete the curing of damp hay. Only well cured hay should be stored, unless some means is provided to complete the curing.

O. H. Lowery, Purdue University extension agricultural engineer, points out that there is a tendency to put up chopped hay, at a higher moisture content than is safe, in order to reduce the shattering loss through the blower. This practice should be avoided, the Purdue man emphasizes.

The peak of haying accidents as might be expected is reached in June and July, in Indiana F. R. Willsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist, reports. He urges farm people to take extra precautions to insure safety at this time of the year. Care with operation of haying machinery is especially important because it is usually used with high speed gears and cutting mechanism.

Willsey lists several safeguards that may be taken to reduce hazards All equipment should be carefully checked for defective hitches, ropes, pulleys, lifts, hay racks, or ladders. Loft floors should be repaired and hay chutes guarded.

Starts and stops should be made gradually in all haying operations. Care should be taken to avoid falls from hay racks, hay stacks, and hay mows should be watched.

Machinery should be stopped and thrown out of gear before oiling, adjusting or unclogging, and safety guards should be kept in place. Pitchforks never should be thrown and should be placed where they are in sight of all workers.

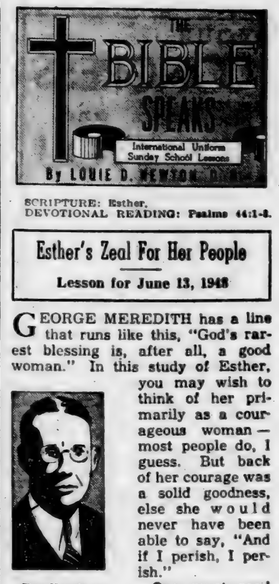
Loose and ragged clothing should not be worn as it may catch easily in moving machinery.

Release of the 1948 edition of the Official State Highway map, pictured above, was announced today by the State Highway Commission.

A limited supply of these maps will be received in the near future at the News Office, where they will be distributed to the public. Copies will also be obtainable soon at the various district and sub-district garages, at leading hotels throughout the state, and at the State House Annex in Indianapolis.

The new map cover is an attractive color depiction of four important phases of Inidana life: Agriculture, repersented by a typical Hoosier farm scene; Industry, represented by a typical Hoosier farm scene; Industry, represented by a Gary steel mill site; Education, a handsome high school building, a tribute to Indiana's high educational standards and recreation as shown by a fisherman and hunter, representative of the state's fine recreational facilities.

More than 2000 cities and towns are shown on the map as well as State Police posts, airfields, all Federal property, State parks, Forests, Game preserves and fish hatchries. Other features of the map are the handy mileage chart, a page devoted to the rules of the road, instructions on what to do in case of an accident, and spot maps of state routes through principal cities.



SCRIPTURE: Esther.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 44:1-8.

Esther's Zeal For Her People

Lesson for June 13, 1948

Dr. Newton

GEORGE MEREDITH has a line that runs like this, "God's rarest blessing is, after all, a good woman." In this study of Esther, you may wish to think of her primarily as a courageous woman — most people do, I guess. But back of her courage was a solid goodness, else she would never have been able to say, "And if I perish, I perish."

One must read the Book of Esther, of course, to have any grasp of this great story. It requires but a few minutes, and every reader will be richly rewarded. I have a lawyer friend, a prodigious reader, who tells me that once each month, for the past 50 years, he has read the Book of Esther.

A QUEEN WHO WAS BRAVE

DANIEL, we agreed, was a brave person; but not more brave than Esther. There is a verse in Hebrews 13:6 that serves admirably to interpret this first stage of Esther's manifest courage, "The Lord is my helper."

We go to the palace in Shushan, where reigned Ahasuerus. His kingdom stretched from India even unto Ethiopia. His queen, Vashti, refused to come before him when he had made a feast. As a result of this refusal, the king ordered young maidens brought before him that he might chose a new queen. There was in the court a Jew, Mordecai, who had been brought there from Jerusalem. He had in his care the daughter of his uncle, a beautiful maiden, named Esther. Mordecai saw here a great opportunity and he brought her before the king. She was chosen. This brief sketch accounts for her position.

A QUEEN WHO HELPED HER PEOPLE

HAMAN, who was next to the king in authority, discovering that Mordecai was a Jew and was not worshipping as Haman had commanded, caused a decree to be issued which would put to death all the Jews in the kingdom. Mordecai, learning of this decree, sent word secretly to Esther, urging her to intereede on behalf of her people to the king.

Here is the heart of the story. Space does not permit a detailed recital. It is sufficient to say that Esther, though still in her early twenties, managed this delicate situation with such skill that the gallows which Haman had built for Mordecai turned out to be the instrument of death for Haman and his sons. Instead of the Jews being slaughtered, those who had planned the death of all the Jews lay dead.

ESTHER RISKED ALL AND WON ALL

IF EVER there was a perfect illustration of staking one's all on one great moment, Esther provides such illustration. "Who knoweth whether thou art not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" said Mordecai as he bolstered her nerve.

It is such a challenge as young people may be facing today. Obviously, the moment now confronting us calls for great faith and great sacrifice if this world is to be saved from utter destruction. It may be that this situation calls for hitherto unknown tactics. And let us pray God there is somewhere an Esther.

THE MESSAGE OF ESTHER

WHICH leads me to suggest that racial hatred was never more bitter than at this moment. Unless the winds of God blow, unless some mighty manifestation of divine intervention is granted, the world will break up on the rocks of prejudice and selfishness and ambition and all the forms and fashions of sin.

"God moves in a mysterious way, his wonders to perform." Let us pray that we may early witness some mighty stroke of his mercy and deliverance, ere the night let down.

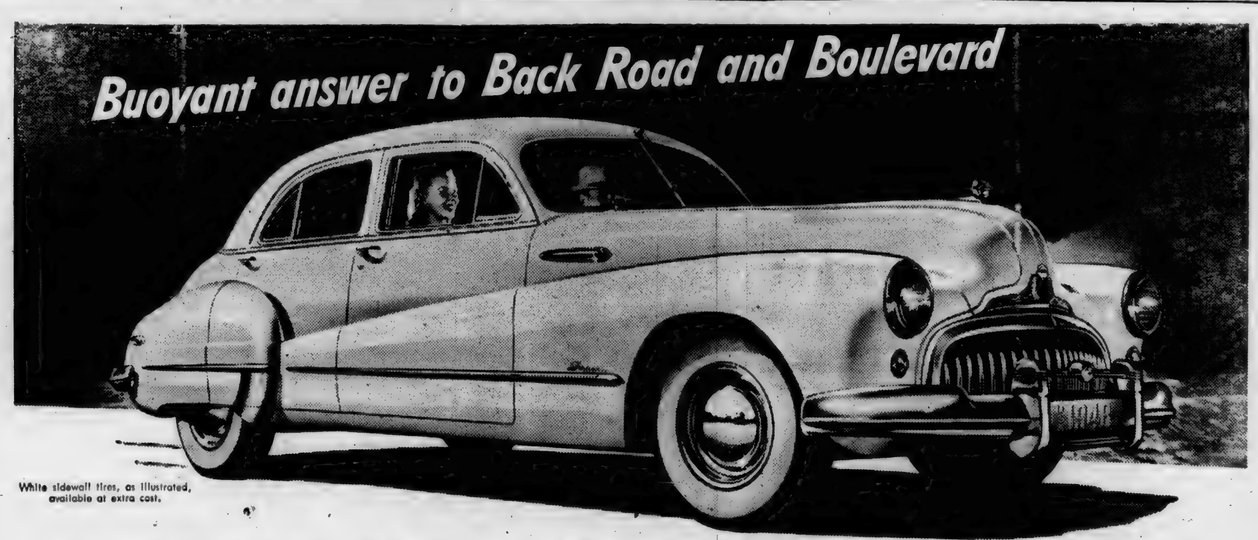
Atomic Hope

Terrifying as is the prospect of atomic energy running wild in the hands of a generation of men morally and spiritually unprepared to handle it, even more thrilling is the prospect of a Divine Will subjecting even such a diabolic thing as the atomic bomb to discipline and control.

When the Fish Hear

Fish can hear sounds inaudible to the human ear.

Buoyant answer to Back Road and Boulevard



White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

REMEMBER that rough patch of road up yonder where the ruts and ridges make a washboard seem smooth?

Recall the tiring tenseness brought on by the drum and hum of road noise and tremor even over smooth concrete highways?

Well, clock away the miles in this stunningly styled Buick — and meet up with the sweetest answer to such matters this side of cloud cruising.

"It's a ride that's soft and smooth as velvet," folks tell us. And we tell them it comes from a host of things.

It comes from the ample road-weight of a two-ton car built low and wide — and so beautifully balanced it handles light as a baton.

It comes from the leveling buoyancy of Buick's all-coil springing which puts a pillow of deeply coiled steel at each wheel to soak up the bumps and ripples.

It comes from the softness of bigger, lower-pressure tires that cushion away road tremors and roughness — from the sure-footed, swerve-free steadiness of Buick's extra wide Safety-Ride rims, widest in the industry.

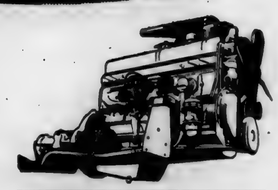
And it comes in special measure from a brand-new engineering gem we call Vibra-Shielding which banishes vibration build-up.

Here for the first time you're freed from the motoring fatigue brought on by tiny tremors piling up into bigger ones. Here your miles are made moss-smooth and quiet — long journeys become mere jaunts.

So why delay knowing the most buoyant answer to any road you ever traveled?

Come visit us now. Know at first hand the distinctive styling, the flashing action, the velvety ride over highway and byway that are Buick's and Buick's alone.

Then follow your heart's desire and get your order in promptly. We'll take it in proper sequence whether or not you have a car to trade.



REASON FOR THE VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE

Placed with scientific exactness, 3 fat cushions of special composition cradle the engine so as to control its vibration frequency. Engine vibration is thus kept "out of tune" with those that might come from other parts of the car. The result is to shield car occupants against tiring pulsations, cut road noise, make engine sensation almost imperceptible and motoring practically fatigue-free.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS

By Lewis Walter

NO GAME SUNDAY —The rains came last Sunday and the scheduled Legion and Baal's foundry game was called off. Last Thursday the Coburntown church team and the local boys squared off in a seven inning game that let little to be desired for a good, all-around ball game, that the Legion finally pulled out of the fire by a 6-4 score. Sheffel, tossing them in for the hit department. Coburntown led 3 to 0 in the third, and then the locals came around to score all their 6 runs in the 4th and 6th innings. The Coburntown boys threatend again in the 7th, but Deiderich, pitching for the Legion got out of what appeared to be a tough spot, allowing just one run in that frame.

. . . . . .

Depews Here Next Sunday

On Sunday Afternoon, June 12, the Depew Dry Cleaners from Garrett, will drop in at the local diamond, for a round with the Legion team. The game will start at 2 p. m. and the Cleaners will be looking for revenge for the 8-3 triming that the local lads hung on them several weeks ago at Garrett.

. . . . . .

League Opener Against Moose

The Legion softball team, playing in the Auburn Y. M. C. A. League, will for the second year engage the Auburn Moose in their first game at Arcor field at Auburn, Thursday evening, June 17.

On Monday evening, June 14 the locals will go to Butler to play the newly organized Butler Produce softball team at 8 p. m.

. . . . . .

Joe Vosmik, former Cleveland star and now pilot of the Dayton Indians in the new Central League, seemed to take the Saturday afternoon game with the Ft. Wayne Generals, a little more serious, than did his opponent manager, happy Walter (Boom Boom) Beck. Or maybe it was because, Ronnie Cook, little lefthanded General was mowing down the Indians right and left and aided by a timely home run clout, his team was leading 2 to 1, that made the ex-Phillie flinger so carefree, as he jovially conducted his boys from the dug out and third base line ---but then came the eight, and just like the rains, " it showered the earth with goodness", for the Dayton boys that is, as the well known roof fell in that inning on Walter and his boys, as the Ohio lads rattled base hits all over the park, and aided by not less than 3 General miscues, had trotted six big runs across, before Cook got the side out.

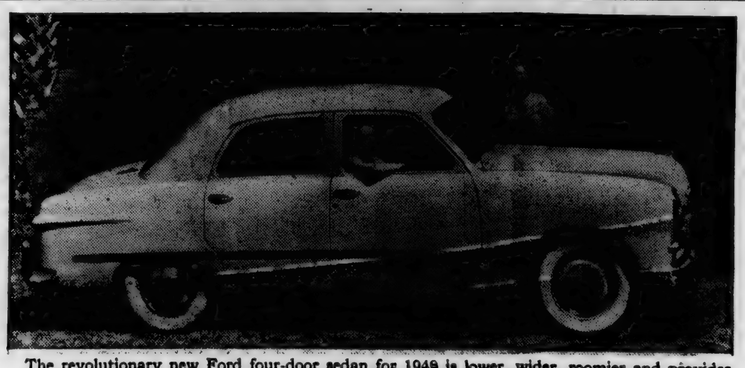
. . . . . .

Harlan, Spencerville Win

The St. Joe High School softball team lost to Spencerville by a 6-4 score last Wednesday at Harlan in the second round of summer league play. Because of a late start the St. Joe and Spencerville game, the first of the evening was limited to five innings. Harlan and Leo squared off in a real battle in the second game with the Hawks breaking a scoreless tie in the eight to clip Stanley Garman's boys 1 to 0.

The O'KAYS

By Jay Kay



The revolutionary new Ford four-door sedan for 1949 is lower, wider, roomier and provides nearly 25 per cent more visibility.

The 1949 Ford, which reveals a radical departure from traditional Ford styling and engineering, was made public today by the Ford Motor Company.

"New standards of beauty, comfort, economy and performance in the low-priced field," J. R. Davis, vice-president and director of sales and advertising, said. "Styling of the new Ford definitely establishes it as the car of the year."

To develop and produce the 1949 Ford passenger cars, Ford Motor Company has expended more than $37,400,000 in tools, dies jigs and fixtures.

Styling— The modern design has been molded along functional lines, resuting in a long, low sweeping silhouette. The grille is distinctive, the hood massive but shorter and body so wide the rear fenders have been eliminated. There are clean, unbroken lines from front to rear.

COMFORT—Comfort has been one of the primary objectives in the new Ford. There is more room in the "lounge care" interiors than in many cars with much larger over-all dimensions. Front seat widths have been increased six inches and the rear seat nearly eight inches. The body has been moved five inches forward with the seats cradled between the axles for a much smoother ride.

A new type of suspension system "hydra-coil" springs -- replaces the traditional transverse springs and the front axle. This system is centered around airplane type shock absorbers mounted within low frequency coil springs. In the rear, extra long longitudinal springs are complemented by airplane type shock absorbers.

The drive shaft tunnel has been decreased by adoption of the Hotchkiss drive and the hypoid rear axle. These engineering changes also minimized the transmission of road noises into the car.

Engine vibration has been reduced by litearlly floating the power plant on rubber mounts.

A new heating system available in the new Fords brings year a-ronud comfort to driver and passengers. Fresh air is scooped into the car through large intakes just behind the grille.

The system, which has an automatic temperature control, can be used as a fresh air ventilator, a fresh air heater or as a recirculating heater. Fresh air plus the pressure effect obtained by the car's forward motion reduces fogging and drafts.

ECONOMY—Economy of operahas been increased up to 10 per cent improvement in gasoline mileage for the new six cylinder engine and the extensively redesigned V-8. Both are offered as power plants in all Ford models. Other engineering features result in better performance and longer engine life.

A new intake manifold achieves better fuel distribution. It is attached to the engine so that it is horizontal to the ground, reducing the tendency of raw gasoline to flow toward the rear cylinders and smoothing engine operation.

The new "equa-flow" cooling system contributes to good performance under extreme conditions by improving general operating efficiency. Water flows in volume the full length of the block. Temperatures in "hot spots" in the six and eight cylinder engines have been decreased by as much as 12 degrees. There are larger pumps in the V-8.

Improvements in the ignition system also have contributed to increased economy and efficiency.

As much as 25 per cent improvement in gasoline economy may be achieved by taking advantage of the overdrive which is available as factory installed optional equipment.

SAFETY—New Standards of safety have been set up in the rugged construction of the chassis and body. The box-type frame is of all-welded construction. Although the frame is lighter, there is 59 per cent more rigidity when combined with the body.

Lowering the over-all height by four inches and placing the seats between the axles results in a lower center of gravity, an aid in safe driving.

The windshield has been increased in height and width and the rear window now provides "picture window" visibility for driver and passengers. The rear window is larger than the ordinary windshield. There is as much as 20 square feet of windows in the new cars.

All door hinge at the front. Inside handles push up instead of down to open the door. Both features combine to preclude accidental opening of the doors.

PERFORMANCE—Increased performance values are one of the highlights of the cars.

Steering has been greatly improved. The new Ford may be guided by a minimum of effort even under severe wind conditions. Road shocks have been minimized. This is the result of a newly designed linkage in which the pivot point of the tie rods is on the same center line as the wheels.

Engineering changes in the engines, some of them already mentioned, contribute to smoothness of operation. Thee include the new cooling system, intake manifold, redesigned combustion chambers and system as well as other features.

The 114-inch wheelbase, convenient for parking and in moving through heavy traffic has been retained.

The new six deveolps 95-horsepower, providing better acceleration in passing and heavy traffic. The V-8 develops 100-horsepower.

OTHER FEATURES — Interior styling is colorful and practical. Traditional, neutral-toned automobile fabrics have been discarded for new tweeds, broadcloths and mohairs which retain the ability to absorb hard family usage.

Hardware is massive and attractive. Door handles and other hardware are much eeasier to operate. The doors have new type locks which eliminate all possibility of persons being locked out of the car with keys inside.

The flight panel dash provides centralized grouping of instruments for quick, easy reference in line with the driver's view of the road. Fuel level, oil pressure, water temperature and battery charge indicators are placed outside the rim of the spedometer. The glove compartment on the right hand side has been enlarged.

Chrome trim, both inside and out, has been reduced.

There are two lines of cars, the Ford and the Ford Custom. Body styles in both lines include the four door sedan, two door sedan and club coupe. Convertible and station wagon models are obtained only in the Custom line and the three passenger coupe only in the Ford line.

There are eight durable new exterior colors--Bayview Blue Metallic, Birch Gray, Sea Mist Green, Arabian Green, Colony Blue, Gun Metal Gray Metallic, Midland Maroon Metallic and Black.

Two additional colors--Fez Red and Miami Cream--are available in the convertible only.

Limestone Centennial

Joe Palooka, famous comic strip loveable champion, created by Ham Fisher, will have his likeness carved in limestone by the Indiana Limestone Company and the statue placed on a bluff overlooking Bedford, Ind. Above is the sketch made by Mr. Fisher for the famous stone artists to fashion a likeness. The carving will be done on the Public Square at Bedford during the Indiana Limestone Centennial celebration, June 14 through June 19. The statue will be eight feet high, four feet wide and three feet thick and weigh over 15 tons.

His Interest

A man dashed into the police station at midnight.

"My wife," he gasped. "I want to find my wife! Been missing since eight this morning. Oh find her for me!"

"Particulars?" asked the sergeant. "Height?"

"I—I don't know."

"Do you know how she was dressed?"

"No, but she took the dog with her."

"What kind of dog?"

"Brindle bull terrier, weight 53 pounds, four dark blotches on his body, shading from gray to white, three white legs and right front leg brindled all but the toes, a small nick in his left ear."

"All right" yelled the sergeant. "We'll find the dog!"

Happy Days!

"I declare," complained old man Higgins, "how I miss the glorious days of the silent motion pictures."

"What was so good about them?" demanded Mrs. Higgins.

Mr. H. crept close to the door, and reached for his hat. On the threshold he turned and slyly observed, "I can still remember how wonderful it was to watch a woman's mouth going for two hours and not hear a single word."

WHERE Would You Like To Go Fishing?

THE MAY-JUNE issue is our annual WHERE-TO-GO Vacation Number. Features a beautiful two-page color map showing in what states and Canadian border provinces the nine popular species of fish are most frequently found. Special section discusses fishing in each section of the country; and a half dozen other fishing stories will make you want to put up and go. "My Favorite Bass Fishing Waters" is especially recommended.

There are articles on hunting and conservation, and 12 different departments in addition to serve your varied outdoors interests—including details of the popular Fisherman-of-the-Month Contest.

Uncle Sam Says

America's security begins right in your home. Make you future secure and you are helping make your country's future secure, too. That's what the Security Loan means to you. Your part in this bond drive is to sign up for automatic bond buying through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank if you are self-employed. U. S. Savings bonds are truly security bonds, which require the allotment of only a littel spare cash each week, and yet return a whopping big nestegg in 10 years. For example: as little as $2.75 invested regularly every week will bring you $2163.45 by 1958. AMERICA'S SECURITY IS YOUR SECURITY!

A WORKER'S SOCIETY?

If you are a tradesman, or skilled or unskilled laborer who works with his hands—if you call yourself a "worker"—you must indeed be thankful that you live in America. Not that you should be any more or less thankful being a doctor, lawyer, teacher, or whatever you are. But somebody has called this nation a "workers' Republic", and I consider that phrase a good way to describe what we enjoy in this land of plenty.

Indeed there is no other country, whether socialized, partly socialized, or even communistic, that has given its workers more. A capitalistic America has enabled even "common" laborers to live like kings were accustomed to live not many years ago. We produce and enjoy the fruits of production. We must never forget that this has come about because the American way of life makes it possible.

Glorious Future

Do you know of a better and happier workers' nation? Have the "isms" and ideologies of the experimenters produced anything better? Certainly they have not. No worker in the world comes anywhere close to drawing the pay or enjoying the comforts of the average person right here in America. There is hardly a nation today that is not begging us to send them goods, or to bolster up their lagging economy in some way.

Possibly there are shortcomings in the American method. But judging from the achievements of the past, and viewing the possibilities ahead—I can think of nothing more foolish than to discard any part of our American way.

We can have a future fully as glorious as our past. We have new worlds of atomic energy, jet propulsion, and electronics to explore. I can think of no other economic system, besides the kind we have in America, as being equal to the opportunities ahead.

Your Own Way

We have immediate needs, too. Our people could use perhaps five million new and improved homes in which to live. Millions of farm homes need electricity and running water. We need more automobiles, and our capacity for them seems never to diminish. More cars mean more roads. One advancement calls for many more. Friend, let me say that I know of no system that will bring these things to us—except that American way of initiative and enterprise.

In this workers' America, there are other things of great importance. As a worker, you are not told what you may do or how to do it. You are not the mere chattel of some state bureau. You can choose your job and your career, and so can your son. You can make your own decisions. Whether you work for an employer, or decide to work for yourself, you have a right to serve the world your own way. These things are important to you, and you are important to your nation.

No other land can show the progress America has made. Nowhere else is there such a high standard of living—that applies to everybody. Progress has flourished here as nowhere else. Why? We have been free to exercise ingenuity, incentive, competition, and thrift. We have been free to invest savings in more and better tools. We have not been subject to tyranny or despotism from government. What political dictatorship can match this achievement?

ENLISTMENTS IN NATIONAL GUARD EXPECTED TO SOAR IN NEXT SEVERAL MONTHS

Adjutant General Howard H. Maxwell revealed today that the Indiana National Guard is now making plans to handle an expected 4,000 to 5,000 enlistments within the next few weeks as students and younger men througout the Hoosier state indicate they intend to take advantage of the Guard's train-at home program. The Guard's training program will as the legislation is written now, exempt Guardsmen from the proposed two-years army training under a limited draft.

Virtually every unit commander of our units in more than 55 Indiana cities has had many phone calls, a flood of mail, and personal contacts from young men who will be affected by the proposed draft," General Maxwell said, "Inquiring as to the procedure for enlistment in the new Indiana National Guard.

"The great majority of these men have been informed that enlistment in the Guard means only two-hours training, one night each week, at an Armory in their residential area-for which they receive a full day's regular Army Pay in grade. As we have been given to understand, it is a pretty good certainty that men who are Guardsmen at the time the draft bill is passed will be exempted from assignment to two-year's training at regular Army Camp for the reason that they are getting their training in regular weekly sessions.

"The majority of the men we expect to enlist will be high school students and young men who want to continue their schooling or jobs uninterrupted by a two-year traning stretch at camp. As guardsmen, they do go right on with schooling or job plans and, if they should graduate from high school and go on to colleges, they simply transfer their Indiana National Guard affiliations to the Guard unit in or nearest the town where the college they choose is located.

"The attitude of the government towards Guardsmen, and the reason for exempting them, is simple-they are "available" in case of serious emergency - - they are being trained - - - and they are "organized". A draft is passed to get men into service to train them for emergencies.

"The obvious advantages of training sessions for two-nours only one night each week speak for themselves."

"The National Guard and the Army are not trying to "scare" anyone. Our nations' leaders in Congress evidently feel that we are in need of a draft to provide a trained reserve for any contingency.

"We in the National Guard are following this policy and the fact that we can offer a great many advantages, especially to younger men, is simply a policy we are fortunate to be able to offer.

The Indiana Adjutant General added that tentative plans are also being made to arrange evening interviews for interested Hoosier men in the areas where a National Guard Armory is located. Officers and noncams who will have complete information and procedure for enlistment will be scheduled to have offices in Armories open for interviews during evening hours when most interested men could drop in to talk over their individual situations.

JUNE 25 IS SECURITY BOND DAY IN INDIANA

To spur sales of U. S. Savings Bonds in the Security Loan campaign, Treasury Department officials today set aside June 25 as a day of mass solicitation of prospective bond purchasers.

"Purpose of the deadline is an attempt to make Indiana's $67,500,000 quota on that day," Orville R. Maxfield, state director of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division said.

County chairmen in the state's 92 counties are taking up the program and volunteer workers will make a business to business and house to house canvass in many places.

Announcement of the special bond day came from Maxfield after it had been revealed Indian's sales in the campaign so far have only been 30 per cent of the quota.

The Security Loan Drive, America's largest peacetime bond selling campaign, ends June 30.

FISH, FROG AND MUSSEL SEASONS OPEN THIS MONTH

Hoosier anglers were reminded today by the Indiana Department of Conservation that the season on all bass and pike opens Wednesday, June 16.

This means, of course, that game fish protected by law since May 1 again may be legally caught at any time after midnight on the 15th.

Bag limits are six bass and six pike per day. Minimum legal length is 10 inches for wall-eyed pike and all species of bass, but there is no size limit on northern pike.

With the abrogation this year of the closed season on panfish, only bass and pike have enjoyed the law's protection since May 1. The trout season will close September 1.

Conservation Department officials also pointed out that the 1948 frog season opened June 10 and runs until October 31. Bag limit on frogs is 25 daily.

Beginning June 13, minnows can be seigned legally for the remainder of the year. Retailers of minnows and persons possessing 500 or more minnows must have a special $10 license.

June 13 also is the open season on mussels for which clam dggers must have a special license. Fees for these mussel licenses, which are available at the Division of Fish and Game in the State Library Building at Indianapolis, are $2 for Indiana residents and $15 for non-residents.

TAFT WILL WIN ON EARLY BALLOT, SAYS REP. BROWN

Representative Clarence J. Brown, Chairman of the National Taft for President Committee, predicted today that there would be no deadlock in the Republican convention which opens on June 21 and that Senator Taft would win on an early ballot.

He said that he had just completed a re-check of Taft's delegate strength throughout the country and predicted that the Ohio Senator would lead his rivals for the nomination with 312 votes on the first ballot. He said that the Senator's technical position with all delegates was superior to all other candidates and that he expected a rapid swing to Taft on the second and third ballots, once the favorite sons had received their complimentary votes.

"Of course," he added "there is the strong possibility that some of the favorite sons would throw their support to Taft on the first ballot if the sentiment for Taft continues to run as strongly as it has in recent weeks.

"The issue is now plain enough for anyone to see. The preidential campaign will be fought on the record of the Reublican Congress during the past two years. If anyone had any doubt of that, it was removed when President Truman threw down the gauntlet with his attack on Congress and has established a noteworthy record on domestic issues. Who is better suited to represent the Republican Party on its record in Congress than Senator Taft?

"As Chairman of the policy committee of the Senate he has had the chief responsibility for legislation enacted by the Republican Party. His position on all important issues is clear. The Republcan Party received a mandade from the people in 1946 when it won control of both houses of Congress. We believe we have made a good record--the best in 16 years. The President and the Demcratic party disagree. We're perfectly willing to go to the people on that record and let them decide. For once, the campaign will be argued on clean cut lines. And Bob Taft is the man to lead our party.

"The Republican Party cannot afford to be split into warring factions at this time. Bob Taft is the one many whom every true Republican can support and his nomination will bring unity which will lead to a sweeping victory in November.

"The people recognize that Bob Taft's intellectual honesty, his ability and his unwavering adherence to sound principles of justice and liberty spell out the kind of leadership so despaerately needed in Washington."

Mrs. Brown said that "Bob Taft was one man all new Dealers fear more than any man in American. He has been bitterly attacked and viciously slandered by his enemies But all true Repubicans realize that the more Taft is attacked the more the Republican Party needs him."

LIONS CLUB

The Lions and their ladies met at the Spencerville Methodist Church basement, Monday evening to partake of a fine serving of food and hear Jay Gould, farm director of station WOWO. Lion President, Claude Laub presided. Lion Fred Quance of Auburn was present to advertise the county horse show at Auburn.

Mr. Gould was introduced as the farmers friend and brought an inspiring message on "The Home". He made a strong plea for better housing and more wholesome surroundings for the youth of our country. He presented some solid reasoning and as he says, he tries to irritate his hearers into being more interested in preserving our democracy and advancing our way of living. We invite this speaker back to finish his stories.

Jay declared that he usally says just what he thinks. We do that same thing so here goes: He is a darn sight better radio broadcaster than he is a public speaker. At that he pleased his hearers and that our private opinion and probably makes him tops as a radio man. This not of the other Lions and Lionesses.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Pres. E. H. Paschen; Vice Pres.-W. H. Zuber; 2nd vice Pres.-M. H. Hollabaugh; 3rd Vice Pres.-M. Kline; Sec-Treas. Dale C. Wicoff; Lion Tamer-Virgil Kimes; Tailtwister-Fred Stemen Directors-W. E. Winninger, Virgil Gerig.

BIG SAVINGS MADE

SIR Herbert Beerbohm Tree, English actor and manager, was interested only in the artistic merit of his productions. To achieve a desired effect, he spent money lavishly. On one occasion, he spent such huge sums that his backers protested vigorously. They threatened to withdraw their financial support unless he cut expenses immediately. Faced with this ultimatum, Tree looked about desperately for a way to effect economies.

For two days he went over the script with a fine comb. Finally he came up with a bright idea. It wasn't much of a saving, but it was the only thing he could think of. And what was this brain storm of economy? In the third act, one of his actors came on stage carrying a three cent newspaper under his arm. Tree ordered him to carry a one cent paper.

MADE POOR DEAL

The diner in the cafeteria rushed over to the manager. "I've been robbed" screamed the customer. "Somebody stole my topcoat. It was a brown coat, with raglan sleeves."

"Hmmmmmm," mused the manager, "now that you mention it, I just saw a guy walk out of here with that very coat."

The customer looked hastily toward the door. "Quick, quick!" he demanded. "What did the guy look like?"

The manager shook his head. "Terrible," he returned. "The sleeves were five inches too short!"

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

WE SEE from a recent Department of Agriculture survey that rural women, more than their city cousins, abide by the old saying, "A stitch in time saves nine." For that matter, farm homemakers do more sewing than any other group of women.

Sixty per cent of the rural farm women do home sewing—in comparison with 36 per cent of urban women and 53 per cent of non-farm women. Most of the sewing is for women, girls and infants, while very little is done for boys. Other than getting their pants and overalls patched or repaired, male members prefer to buy their clothes.

It seems that the most popular fabric for home sewing is cotton, while very few women in any group make articles from wool materials. Rayon and silk were purchased by quite a few—but far below the number buying cotton goods.

The size of the town or city, and the size of the family income, also seem to affect the amount of home sewing. As the size of the city increases, the amount of home sewing seems to decrease. This probably is due to increased competition in the clothing business and the resultant lowering of prices.

In respect to salaries, families at high income levels, seldom do home sewing since there is no need to economize through making clothes. Strangely, the families with low incomes cannot afford the initial outlay of money to buy sewing equipment, so the bulk of home sewing occurs in families with medium incomes.

The fact that farm women top all others in home sewing may be traced back to their school days or 4-H Club work. There is a certain satisfaction in designing clothes, cutting the patterns and creating what actually amounts to "tailor-made" clothes.

INDIANA TOURIST ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN IS PAYING OFF

The national tourist-vacation advertising campaign for the State of Indiana which was inaugurated this year is attracting much more attention than was anticipated, according to Lieutenant-Governor Rue J. Alexander, director of the Indiana Department of Commerce and Public Relations.

Mr. Alexander said the department hoped to reciev 15,000 direct inquiries for tourist information on Inana. The number is now approaching 20,000 and hundreds of inquiries are received weekly.

"The most surprising development of all," Mr. Alexander said, "is that we have received inquiries from twenty-eight foreign countries, scattered in all parts of the world."

WHY SAVE MONEY?

In 1776 a Scotchman named Matthew Boulton risked $200,000 of his savings to help James Watt develop a new device known as a steam engine. In 1948, the estimated capital expenditures of the nation's chief railroads (the railroads grew because of Watt's invention, though now steam is not the only motive power) approaches one billion dollars! Our Class 1 railroads expect to spend $319,958,000 during this quarter of 1948.

How our nation finances its industry is an interesting story. The American way of doing this explains the high standard of living we enjoy today. Not all nations do it as we do. In some countries everything is owned by the government. The government does everything. Of course the people foot the bill, but in these totalitarian countries rewards never come. In America anyone has the opportunity of investing and sharing in the progress of industry.

You May Share

Critics of "capitalism", who say that government is the only agency big enough to do things that have to be done in a progressive economy, really miss some important points. They just don't know their American system. Did you know that over fifty million Americans pool their savings to provide the tools for workers? Perhaps you are one of them. These men and women have saved up something for a "rainy day" and, meantime, have invested it.

Perhaps you have a share in industry you did not know about. If you have life insurance, it is quite likely that your insurance company invests the premiums you pay to provide tools for industry. Savings banks likewise invest deposits. In this way, the "capital" funds that our people own and invest actually turn the wheels of industry.

Unfettered Growth

Then too, industry itself saves and reinvests. Every live company or business will find it advisable to take a portion of its income and "plow it back under" right in the business. Of money that every industry pays out "for use of tools", only a comparatively small amount goes to the thrifty people who really own the tools. Most of it goes to buy the actual tools. Industry has constant need for investments for expansion and new facilities.

I say, let the people provide the savings to make our industry grow and grow. That way there's no ceiling on progress. No limit to the standard of living. Let us replace old-models, invent new machines, develop new methods. Our population is growing, and our needs will be tremendous in the future. We can continue to be great consumers, if we keep a system that permits us to be great producers.

Right now, there is an important reason why we should save, and save to invest. We must stop adding dollars that could be savings to the inflation stream, bidding up prices and damaging our economy. The railroads represent just one industry that is calling for capital. There are many other industries in which savings may be put to work. Under the American system, there will continue to be more jobs, more pay, and more security as well as opportunity for all.

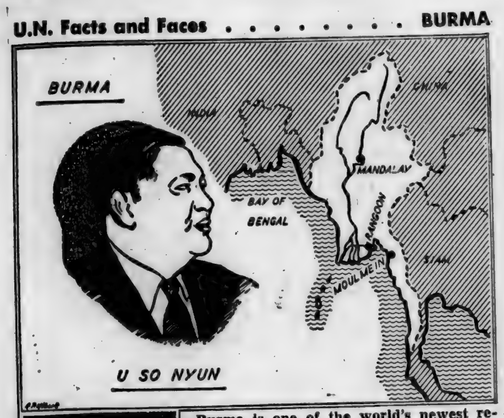
U.N. Facts and Faces . . . . . BURMA



Burma is one of the world's newest republics but not one of its newest nations. Under British influence since about 1612, it was administered as part of British India from 1826, becoming independent in January 1948. Burma saw some of the heaviest fighting in the last war. Much of the country's 262,000 square miles are heavily forested and her major products are teakwood, rice, cotton, minerals and oil. About 70% of her 17,000,000 people work in agriculture. Its capital is Rangoon and its representative to the U.N. is U So Nyun, Ambassador to the U.S.A. Her flag is red with five small white stars surrounding a large white one on a blue canton in the upper left corner.

NEW FARM MACHINERY TO BE ON DISPLAY AT STATE FAIR

Many new designs and radical changes in farm machinery will be presented to Hoosier farmers at the multi-million dollar machinery exhibit at the Indiana State Fair Sept. 3 through 10

Many manufacturers have already given previews of "things to come" in farm machinery including radical changes in tractors with engines in the rear, new type planters and countless other developments. These will be on display.

"Hoosier farmers can be assured that their Indiana State Fair will present the greatest machinery show in history," F. M. Overstreet of Columbus, director of this department, reported.

"We already have the largest number of exhibitors ever to show at the fair and only a few additional spaces need to be contracted for until the entire north side of the race track will be occupied," Mr. Overstreet added.

Two new tunnels, one for pedestrian and vehicular traffic and the other for pedestrians are being constructed this year at the east end of the race track to augment tunnels on the west end.

Every major manufaturer of farm machinery will exhibit.

MANY STUDENTS AT I. U. ARE CONTINUING THEIR EDUCATION THIS SUMMER

Four thousand students are expected to be attending classes at Indiana University summer school, many of them Hoosier school teachers who are returing to take advanced work toward degrees.

There will be one novel aspect to the 59th annual Summer Session in that some of the teachers getting credit for class work will be far from the Bloomington campus. One group of 20 is flying to Mexico City with Dr. Merrill T. Eaton by American Airlines for a two week stay. Others will go to Cuba, the Eastern Seaboard, Canada and the Northwest.

This is a part of the University's "Travel-study" program which combines a vacation trip for school teachers with study of customs and interesting aspects of far off places.

On the campus, 2,400 of the 4,000 summer students will be veterans who are striving to complete their school work in less than the usual four years, Dr. H. B. Allman, Summer Session director, said. One hundred more coures are offered this year than last for a total of 605. Thirty conferences and workshops are planned.

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of GEORGE W. GILLIE
FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON—In reply to the question: "do the people want economy in government?", the average Congressman would say "Yes"; but would add this explanatory note-"provided the economy is at the expense of the other person or group."

By this statement the Congress means that every pressure group demands that Congress cut taxes, reduce government expenditures and payrolls, and fight inflationary fires which are increased because of the government's high cost, but it does not want its government funds or functions touched. This action has created a tough job for Congress in cutting appropriations plus combatting the determined opposition of the spending agencies of the government.

Reviewing the situation in regard to public expenditures, the following facts are brought to light:
In 1933 Federal expenditures were $4,325,000,000. For 1949 the President estimated they will reach$39-669,000,000, an increase of 817 percent.

In 1933 Federal revenues were $2,079,000,000. For 1949 the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation estimates that revenues will amount to $47,300,000,000, an increase in excess of 2,000 percent.
In 1933 individual income taxes and corporation taxes totaled $746,000,-For 1949 the President estimates these Federal taxes at about $33 billions, an increase of 4,300, percent.

In 1933 our public debt was $22 billiones. Today it is $258 billions, an increase of 1,073 percent.
In 1933 there were 572,000 federal employes. Today the payroll for federal employes approximates six billion dollars, an increase of over 500 percent.

In 1933 the Executive Department of the Federal Government was a relatively small and closely knit organization. There are now more than 1,000 bureaus and more than 45,000 individual offices, according to latest information.

In 1933 federal aid to the states was almost zero. Since then it has amounted to more than $30 billions. For 1949 the grants-in aid to states and local governments is estimated by the President to require $2,250,-000,000. The cost of operating the Federal Government exceeds the combined costs of all our State governments by about seven times. For every dollar the individual taxpayer--you--pay to state government, about seven dollars must go to support the federal operation.

To date the 80th Congress has cut the President's budget estimates $3,367,550,803. Moreover, the Congress has taken back in "recissions" $4,017,332,946 from bureaus given that much more money than they could spend by "rubber stamp" Congresses in the past. The public's cooperation and realization of the problems involved in cutting appropriations would be helpful to a Congress striving for "governmental economy."

TO PROBE BIG BUSINESS — The Senate Rules Committee has approved a resolution and $50,000 for an investigation into the extent and and character of economic concention in this nation which was originally introduced by Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana. The original resolution called for a study of the effect of two recent Supreme Court decisions on consumer prices.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT FUNDS Congressman George W. Gillie voted for the legisation increasing railroad retirement benefits 20 perent and reducing the scale of unemplyoment insurance taxes and made a speech on the floor of the House urging the passage of the bill by his colleagues. The Senate also is expected to act favorably on the legislation.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

What is the most popular fresh water game fish with American anglers? More fishermen try for crappies, bluegills and other small fish, and if these are classed together under the "panfish" heading, they would rank first. But of the larger fresh water gamesters, the largemouth bass is head and shoulders above the others in popularity. And the reason is simple: The largemouth is found in each of the 48 states and at least four of the border provinces of Canada that annually draw large numbers of American fishermen to their streams and lakes.

Maybe other species are more fun to fish for than the largemouth, but we doubt that the merits of any fish are greater. But, regardless of this argument, the largemouth bass is a a "close-to-home" fish, wherever you live, and by sheer numbers outranks the others, consequently the No. 1 rating.

Second in popularity, at least geographically speaking, is the smallmouth bass, found in 40 states and six Canadian provinces. Brook, brown and rainbow trout fall in line next. Brookies are found in 34 states and eight Canadian provinces; 35 states and six provinces offer rainbow trout fishing.

The walleye, known by almost as many different names as the number of state in which it is found, finds the waters of 29 states and four provinces suitable to its taste. Northern pike are scattered throughout lakes and streams of 21 states and four provinces. Hard to please in habitat is the lake trout (this fish likes his water just 40-45 degrees). Lakers are found in 17 states and eight provinces. And the muskellunge is another species that has difficulty in selecting proper quarters, for this species is found in only 11 states and two Canadian provinces.

If you're planning a fishing trip this summer, selecting a spot will be simple, if the largemouth is the fish you are interested in. And, it's not too difficult planning a trip for smallmouth, or brook, brown or rainbow trout. But, if you are determined to outwit a muskie or tangle with a lake trout, your field of operations is more or less limited.

LOUISIANA CHICKEN GUMBO

From way down New Orleans way, where cooking becomes culinary art, comes this delicacy that's fit for a king. It's rich in both flavor and nutrition, so try

Louisiana Chicken Gumbo

(With oysters when they are in season . . . or shrimp alone at all seasons of the year)
4-5 Pound chicken, jointed
Salt, pepper
½ lb. ham, cubed
4 tbs. fortified margarine
4 tbs. shortening
½ cup onions
3 qts. boiling water
4 tbs. cornstarch
2 tbs. cold water
½ lb. okra
1 tb. minced parsley
¼ tsp. thyme
1 bay leaf
1 dozen oysters (when in season)
1 dozen raw shrimp, shelled and cleaned

Salt and pepper the chicken. Saute to golden brown with the cubes of ham, in the melted margarine and shortening. Add onions, turn heat very low and continue to saute gently until onions are soft. Add boiling water. Cut okra into inch-long pieces, dropping into the boiling pot, as you cut. Mix cornstarch with the cold water to smooth paste. Add parsley, thyme, bay leaf. Add oyster liquor, if oysters are to be used. Cover and simmer gently 1 to 1½ hours until chicken is very tender. Add seafood. Cook gently another 6-8 minutes. Serve steaming hot with boiled rice—or with boiled grits. Serves 6-8.

Use left-over bread in tempting bread puddings, for croutons to perk up soup dishes, as bread crumbs to garnish casseroles.

Dress up breakfast fare by serving crisp French toast with jam or sprinkle powdered sugar on top. Or, try this treat for breakfast: Place baker's sweet rolls or sliced coffee cake on a cookie sheet and heat in the oven. Serve with dabs of butter or margarine. Heated bakery rolls are delicious!

• • •

For an added note of interest to main course dishes, serve a variety of baker's rolls with tempting spreads. Choose poppy seed, salt sticks, parker-house and hard or soft rolls from your grocery bakery goods counter while marketing.

• • •

For that mid-night snack, prepare tangy cinnamon toast to serve with fresh fruit and milk. Toast the bread in the oven, butter, use sugar and a generous sprinkling of cinnamon for extra appeal.

• • •

Luncheon salads are extra satisfying when served with melba toast as an accompaniment. To prepare: Remove crusts from enriched white bread, cut in half and bake until golden brown.

• • •

Summer menus are interesting and easy to prepare when homemakers take advantage of quickie dishes and the friendly baker or grocer who supplies bread, rolls, sweet buns and a tempting variety of delicious desserts.

HINTS ON HEALTH

by the Indiana State Medical Association

BABY'S HEALTH

PARENTS have the important responsibility of safeguarding baby's health from the very first moment of life. Simple rules of hygiene must be followed by all the family, as:

1. Wash the hands thoroughly with soap before touching the baby, its food or clothing.
2. Keep away from the baby when you have a cold, or, if you must take care of it, wear a mask.
3. Keep baby out of crowds.
4. Protect it from flies and other insects with screens on doors and windows. Use netting over the carriage.
5. Cover foods to protect them from air-borne contamination. Refrigerate perishable foods.

Protect the baby from serious childhood diseases such as smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever and tetanus, through immunization. Consult your family physician when the baby is three months old so that inoculations may be started on time. It is the parents' responsibility to take the baby to the physician at the ages specified for immunization.

If your child did not receive the protection it should have had at an early age, a physician should be seen and immunization brought up to date.

A good time to "bud prune" Chrismas trees and thus produce a more saleable produce is this month.

HOOSIER DOCTOR GIVES I. U. ASTRONOMY OBSERVATORY

The generosity of a Hoosier doctor and his wife has provide the Indiana University astronomy department with one of the finest observatories in the nation and has put the department on the road to matching the best in the country.

The Indiana University trustees have announced the gift to the university by Dr. and Mrs. Geothe Link of Indianapolis of the observatory bearing Dr. Link's name, accompanied by property, the, income from which will be used to maintain the scientific installation.

Located midway between Indianapolis and Bloomington near Brooklyn, off Road 67, the Link observatory has a 36 inch reflector telescope which is one of the best in existence. The University plans to install additional scientific instruments. The Unversity has worked closely with the Link Observatory since it was completed in1939, providing the services of Prof. James Cuffey an expert on star elusters.

Dr. F. K. Edmondson, Astronomy Department Head said that the University will continue to use the observatory for field trips for the 150 students enrolled annually in beginning astronomy and for research by faculty members and advanced students.

In keeping with the wishes of Dr. Link, the policy of holding "public nights" when visitors can hear lectures and view the stars through the telescope will continue.

BACK IN STEP

By Harold Russell

War hero; star of the motion picture, "The Best Years of Our Lives."

In Hollywood recently, I was watching a movie being filmed. It was one of those super-duper dance spectacles with about a hundred girls going through their paces together. Many retakes were necessary before the director achieved the precision he desired. Well, each time they went through their routine, I found that my eyes were riveted on the girl who was out of step.

It's funny and even unfair, but that's the way it is. People usually manage to focus on the few mistakes that spoil an otherwise perfect picture. It's that way with our civil liberties too.

According to a recent survey, conducted by a committee of prominent Americans appointed by the President, we have a pretty solid record in the field of civil rights. In fact, the Committee on Civil Rights discovered, after investigating conditions for nearly a year, that the United States leads all other nations in protecting basic freedoms.

But even so, there are still a number of abuses that are all out of line with our record. For instance, there's the poll tax in seven states which prevents many citizens from exercising their right to vote. And the Committee found qualified students being rejected by some universities, simply because of their skin color or religion. It found some people unable to rent decent homes or find suitable jobs, only because of their race or creed.

Now, as anyone can see, this is no time to let other countries get the wrong slant on us. Not when a strong-arm political system, alien to our own free way of life, is trying to make millions of war-torn people yield to its domination. Not when these millions are depending on us for inspiration and guidance, through our leadership in the United Nations and the example we set here at home.

Harold Russell

We might find it a bit hard to convince these desperate millions that democracy tops any other system if we still deprive any of our own citizens of their rightful protections and privileges.

We might find it a bit tough to argue convincingly for an international bill of rights in the United Nations, unless it's clear that we're banning racial and religious discrimination on our own shores.

So, as I see it, we'd better get busy right now. Let's get rid of discrimination — in employment, in housing, in education and in all other areas where prejudice interferes with civil rights. Let's bring all our actions in step with the spirit and the letter of our own Constitution and the Charter of the United Nations.

EXPAND DRIVERS TRAINING PROGRAM

Anticipating expanssion of it's program of high school driver training to 200 schools this fall, the Chicago Motor Club in cooperation with colleges and universities is scheduling five 40 hour courses this summer and fall to train high school teachers as driving instructors, Charles M. Hayes president of the motoring organization, announced today.

Summer courses are scheduled at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana, June 14-19; Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., July 19-23 and Teacher's Training Institute, Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 9 to 13, a course restricted to Bluffton teachers. A fall course is scheduled at University of Illinois. Urbana, Sept. 27 to Oct. 1. Ball Teacher's College at Muncie, Ind., began a week's course June 7.

Since June 1947 similar courses sponsored by the Motor Club in cooperation with five Illinois and Indiana colleges and universities have qualified 244 teachers to instruct driver training in 127 Indiana Illinois schools participatng in the Motor Club's program of high school driver training and education.

During this period two courses were held at Purdue University, and cnc each at Northwestern University, University of Ill., Ball State Teacher's College, Muncie, Indiana, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill., and at Evanston, Ill., Township High School. Eight-seven high school superintendants and administrators also attended one-day conferences at the University of Illinois, Notre Dame University, and the Chicago Motor Club offices in Chicago.

SUPPLY OF SPRAYING INSECTICIDES MAY BE SHORT BY END OF SUMMER

Strong emphasis is being placed this year on insect control as one phase of the U. S. D. A. food and feed conservation program. Insecticides provided the key to most of the control work of such pests as insects in stored grain, insects annoying livestock and insects causing losses to growing crops, including the European corn borer and garden insects. Prof. J. J. Davis, head of the department of entomology, Purdue University says.

Davis pointed out that while the supply of a number of insecticide will be sufficient to meet the needs this year, in a few cases there may be tight supply situations toward the end of the growing year. Early orders placed by prospective users will help suppliers anticipate the demand, the entomologist said.

Prices for several kinds of insecticides, as well as for some of the chemicals used in insecticides have decreased some during the last few motnh, as is the case of DDT and insecticides using DDT. The price of lead arsenate, however, has increased. Significant reductions are not expected during the remainder of the season.

According to a report received of Agriculture by Purdue University adequate supplies are reported for DDT, pyrethrun and lead arsenate, and the new chemicals chloradane, chlorinated camphene and the fluorine containing compounds. Although rotenone inventories are now plentiful, there may be late-season shortages since further imports may arrive too late to meet the peak demand.

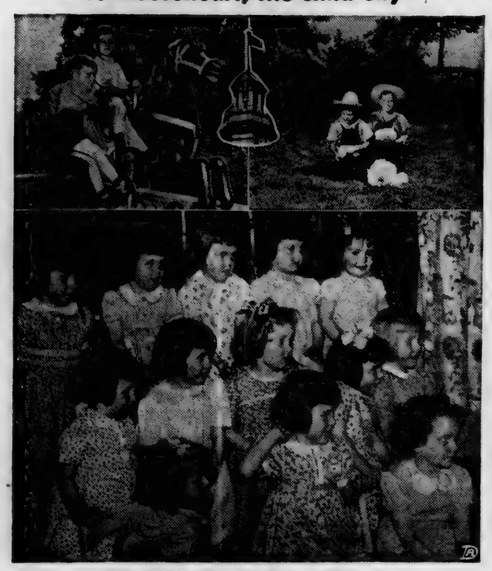
Amounts of calcium arsenate on hand are low, but no shortage is anticipated because of the expected use of DDT and benzene hexachloride to replace part of the usual demand in protecting cotton.

Benzene hexachloride, one of the newer insecticides is reported in good demand, but the situation may become tighter later. The nicotine compound situation is more favorable than it was i n1947, but is likely to continue below demand this year, according to the U. S. D. A.

Increase in Vending

Manufacturers of automatic merchandise equipment now are turning out machines to the tune of more than 100 million dollars per year. It is estimated that there now are in use about 200,000 carbonated bottle and cup beverage machines, 200,000 five-cent candy machines, 25,000 cigarette machines, 750,000 penny gum and peanut machines, 350,000 service machines, such as scales and parcel lockers. Within five years there will be a combined total of 3,800,000 vending machines at the present rate of increase.

Chicago Painter Leaves $100,000 To Mooseheart, The Child City



Some of Mooseheart's Happy Children

Mooseheart, Ill., the famed Child City owned and operated by the Loyal Order of Moose for children of its deceased members, became the recipient recently of a $100,000 fortune, bequeathed by the late Herman J. Englehard, 78, a painter and decorator, of Chicago, Ill. Mr. Englehard was well known in his own communty for his kindness to and love for little children. Although not himself a member of the Moose fraternity, he chose Mooseheart as the beneficiary of all the money he had saved as a hard working laboring man because, as he told his attorney prior to his death, "I want to help little children." Mooseheart is both a school and home for nearly 1,000 children. It is an entire city in itself, with 150 buildings spread over 1,200 acres of lush farm land in the picturesque Fox River Valley, 35 miles west of Chicago. Nursery, elementary and high school education plus a trade are provided to the students. Mr. Englehard's humanitarian gesture is saddened by the fact that he met a tragic death. He was found fatally beaten in his home by an unidentified assailant. The Supreme Council of the Loyal Order of Moose has offered $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of Mr. Englehard's slayer.

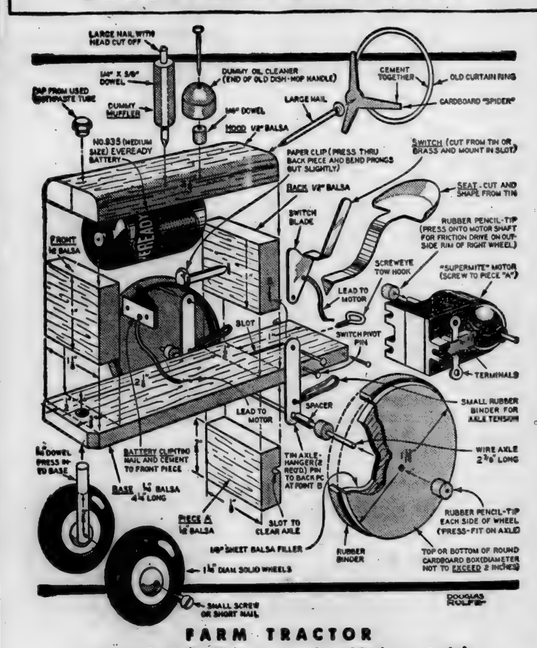
"PRISON MUTINY"

FATHER and SON



FARM TRACTOR

Budget: Dad, $3.00 for motor—Son, 35c for materials
Materials may be obtained at local hobby shop.

Dear Dad:

This little farm tractor is friction-driven and has plenty of power. The Supermite motor is operated by one No. 935 Eveready flashlight cell which fits snugly under the hood.

Front wheels may be purchased at any model store. These wheels, a few bits of balsa and a tube of model airplane cement (also obtainable at your local model supply store) are the only items you will have to buy for the construction.

Start by making the body. This is composed of a base piece and four bits of 1/16" balsa. Cut all pieces to dimensions given and assemble with pins and cement.

Now make a battery clip of springy tin or light brass. Nail and glue it to the back of the front piece taking care to place it so that it bears on the exact center of the No. 935 Eveready cell. This clip serves as one terminal point. For the other terminal, press a large paper clip through the back piece of the hood, also taking care to center it with the battery nipple.

The paper clip should project about 1/4" beyond the back piece. Bend the prongs out slightly so that when the switch lever is mounted in its slot the switch blade will engage the split prongs as the switch is moved forward.

Fasten the motor to piece "A" with 2 small screws and then hook up motor to the front battery clip and to the switch lever. Hook-up should be made so that the motor revolves in a counter clockwise direction. The direction can be controlled by reversing the leads to the motor.

Connections completed, slip the battery in place and try out the motor. Now remove the battery and get busy on the rear (drive) wheels assembly. A glance at the drawings will show that the rear wheels are mounted on tin hangers. These hangers are pivoted to the back piece and are pulled back by small rubber binders each side of the frame. Just enough tension is needed and no more than is sufficient to hold the right hand drive wheel gently but firmly against the rubber pencil-tip motor drive wheel.

In order for this drive gear to function smoothly, both rear wheels and motor drive wheel must be carefully centered on their respective shafts. The rear wheels are easily centered by using a compass to lay out the balsa reinforcing discs to the exact inside diameter of the cardboard box tops which form the wheels. The rubber-tip drive wheel is somewhat harder to center on the motor shaft but it can be done properly, if care is used.

Sincerely yours,

Doug Rolfe

The Hope For The Messiah

Lesson for June 20, 1948

THE hope for the Messiah first revealed to Adam in Genesis 3:15, and repeated to Abraham, Moses, David and Isaiah, was now proclaimed through Ezekiel, Daniel and Zechariah.

Dr. Newton

Here we have the hope of preservation, the hope of peace, the hope of security, the hope of usefulness, the hope of deliverance, the hope of dominion, the hope of service, the hope of sovereignty, the hope of redemption and the hope of purification.

A PROMISE FROM GOD

THIS is no fancied scheme of man, It is God's clear promise. "Therefore will I save my flock, and I will set up one Shepherd over them, and he shall feed them . . . and I the Lord have spoken it."

God goes on to promise them peace by ridding them of danger, and security through his blessing upon the land. "There shall be showers of blessing."

LOOKING FOR A BETTER WAY

LONG had the people looked for a better way. Now God would provide that better way. It would be vouched safe unto them through the Good Shepherd. He knows the way, he holds the key.

The wistful hearts of the people must have been lifted up as Ezekiel and Zechariah shouted their prophecies of the coming Messiah. Many of these very passages have been used for the anthems which our choirs sing today. Well may every Christian employ them to tell of that better way in the midst of this troubled, changing world about us.

DANIEL'S DREAM OF THE DELIVERER

THE passage in Daniel is resonant with hope. "I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven." This dream of Daniel was a vision of the Messiah, bringing dominion, glory and a kingdom—a kingdom for all people, nations and languages. It is the universal hope of the ages, brought nearer through this inspired vision of the prophet. "For unto us a child is born, and unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace."

This vision of the coming Messiah set every bell ringing in the heart of humanity.

SAVIOUR AND KING FOREVER

ALL THE promises are embodied in these passages—Jesus the Saviour, Jesus the King, Jesus the Sanctifier. Here was hope for the Jews, and for all mankind. It was proclaimed through Jewish prophets, and Jesus was born of a Jewish mother. Favored, indeed, was that race. And although there be many who have rejected the Messiah, he fulfills the deepest meaning of every man's hope.

With Charles Wesley we sing:

Hail, thou long-expected Jesus,
Born to set thy people free;
From our sins and fears release us,
Let us find our rest in thee.

Born thy people to deliver,
Born a child, and yet a King,
Born to reign in us forever,
Now thy gracious kingdom bring.

Christian Generosity

On occasions a collection is taken in a tavern designed to relieve some man's distress. For any such generosity let us be thankful. But let us also remember that that sort of thing is done only occasionally in a liquor joint and it is the regular habit in a church.—Roy L. Smith.

No Grim Struggle

To become a musician you don't grit your teeth for a grim struggle. The basic fact for successful living is that life is eager to serve you. Approach it, then, in faith. "Fear not, little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom'"—Virgil Kraft.

HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS

By Lewis Walter

HOW LONG CAN HE KEEP AWAY?—That seems to be the big question that is facing Jersey Joe Walcott, as far as we are concerned, as both Joe's put the finishing touches on their training for the big battle next Wednesday.

We're not going to hand out the old but nevertheless, quite true story of how Joe always "gets them early the second time. But we'll just stick to the plain old facts, that Walcott never was and never will be the all around boxer that the present champ is. And then will have to admit, how sad, but true, that Louis must have been in the worst shape of his career, to let the man from Jersey push him around like he did last winter.

And then last of all, our prediction of how a badly scared Walcott will be chased and stalked by the "Old Joe", trying to save his face for the last time out, and then tagging his opponent--but good, by at least the fifth, and possibly sooner--like the first.

Defeat Depews Again

The St. Joe Legion softball team defeated the Depews Dry Cleaners of Garrett for the second time this year, last Sunday afternoon. This time they turned in a 9-7 win at the High School diamond here, with a fair size group of on-lookers turning out for the first of several scheduled Sunday home games.

Deiderich went all the way on the mound for the Legion, with Dick Reed working behind the plate. Payton pitched for the visitors.

Play Moose Thurs:; Harlan Sun.

The locals meet the Auburn Moose at 7:15 Thursday, June 17, in their first game in the Auburn Y. M. C .A. League, to be played at Arcor Field in Auburn. On Sunday June 20 the Harlan American Legion will be here for one game at 2:00 p. m. On Tuesday, June 22, the locals again see play at Auburn in the first game of the evening, opposing Wible's of Auburn, one of the new teams in the league.

Spencerville High, Red Raiders softball team eked out a silm 15-14 victory over Leo High School, last Wednesday at Harlan in one of the highest scoring games of the season. Spencerville appeared to be just taking things easy in the first part of the game as they battered Stanley Garmans pitchers all over the "so called lot" They were also taking advantage of numerous errors and had scored 2 in the second, 5 in the third, 2 in the fourth, and 3 in the fifth. Leo, meanwhile could only pick up single runs in the second and fourth. In the last of the fifthxzfihffffl ,.:; the game wide open as they drove Fisher, Raider pitcher from the mound, and then continued against reliefer Akey as though nothing had happened. Most all of the damage came after two was out; and by the time the third Leo man was retired and a tally had been taken, the Lions had punched across 9 runs, and the Raiders 12-2 lead had been slimmed down to 12-11. The Raiders fearing another bad inning went out in the 6th and added three more, but Leo wouldn't quit and they added another in their half, to make it 15-11. Spencerville was held scoreless in the last frame. The Lions then put on a last inning spree in an almost successful attemp to pull the game out, scoring two runs before they were retired.

Harlan's ace fireballer, Gustine was just too much for the local youngsters, and Harlan won over them 15 to 0 in the second game of the evening

The O'KAYS

The 1949 Ford station wagon is new and revolutionary in every respect. It is the first to use two extra-width safety doors; the first full-size eight-passenger wagon to employ all-steel construction. Wood panels are bolted directly to the steel frame. Extra strength built into chassis and body assure quiet, trouble free operation.

Revolutioary changes in the 1949 Ford cars are reflected in the styling utility and ruggedness of the station wagon and convertible models.

The 1949 station wagon is the only one in the low-priced field with a two-door, all-steel body. Beauty of wood paneling has been enhanced by this modern design. Plywood veneer panels of selected hardwoods are bolted directly to the steel body.

A number of new and important safety feature have been engineered into the new station wagon. Outstanding is elimination of the rear door and enlarging the two front doors. Careless or playfull children can't accidentally lean against or bump aginst the door handles to open the doors while the car is in motion.

The new type of construction is designed to eliminate squeaks and rattles. Ruggedness has been achieved by transfer of all body stresses and strains to the all-steel construction as well as elimination of two doors.

To provide greater strength and safety, because of heavier loads often carried in station wagons, it is equipped with a special X-type frame. Ford engineers say there is enough built in protection in the 1949 station wagon to meet the exacting safety requirements for school buses.

Two rear seats may be removed easily so that large loads may be carried. The wagon also is equipped with end-gate easily operated lift-door at the rear. The 1949 convertible is long, low and graceful yet embodies all the advanced engineering provided in other body styles. There is greater comfort performance and economy.

Front seat is six and a half inches wider, and the rear seat two and a half inches wider than the 1948 models. There is ample room for three persons in each seat. Luggage space under the rear deck totals 28 cubic feet, nearly twice as much as in previous models and all usable.

The ride of the new convertible has been improved with low frequency "hydra-coil" springs in front and extra-long longitudinal springs at the rear combined with direct acting airplane type shock absorbers

According to a veteran Ford test driver: "It rides like a car five hundred pounds heavier and performs like a car five hundred pounds lighter."

SOCIAL SECURITY INFORMATION

The Social Security Administration is interested in leap year too, girls.

"If you change your name through marriage, be sure to change your name on our records," warns Christian H. W. Luecke, Manager of the Ft. Wayne, Indiana, Social Security Office.

"Unless the social security number matches your name on our records, we won't know to whom to credit your earnings," he said.

"Simply ask us for a Change of Name card, or better yet call at our office and you will insure correct wage credits and eliminate a lot of time and expense for the Government and your employer in making these corrections."

"Remember these wage credits will be used to figure whatever benefits you may be entitled to later in life."

Ringold Lady Dora, No. 753,056, with the litter with which she established a new production record for the Hampshire breed this spring. This sow is the first to have made a Six Star record in the Hampshire production registry. She is five years old and has raised 75 pigs in eight litters. In her six star litters she has raised 62 pigs, an average of 10.3. These pigs weighed a total of 418 pounds 56 days after farrowing. She is owned by William C. Goodheart, Jr. of Eaton, Ohio. She was fed corn, oats, alfalfa and pelletized milk by-products prior to farrowing. Her pigs were raised on a ration of seven parts corn and three parts oats with 8 per cent milk by-products added.

A new production record was established this spring by a five year old sow, Ringold Lady Dora No. 753, 056, the first Six Star sow in the Hampshire breed production registry.

To qualify for a star in the Hampshire production registry a sow must raise a litter of at least eight pigs, without fault or defect, to weigh 320 pounds within 56 days of farrowing. To gain a six star record she must repeat this performance six times. Ringold Lady Dora is the sow to have made the record for her breed.

She has raised a total of 75 pigs in eight litters and in her star litters has raised a total of 62 pigs, or an average of 10.3 pigs for each of six litters. (The national average for all pigs is reported at 6.18 per litter for spring pigs and 6.39 for fall pigs.) The fifth and sixth litters toward such a star record are the most difficult to optain. This spring, for her sixth star litter, this sow raised 10 pigs to weigh 418 lbs. in 56 days. Two additional pigs which she farrowed were given to another sow to raise.

The new champion is owned by William C. Goodheart, Jr., of Eaton, Ohio. The sow was fed on a ration containing corn, oats, alfalfa and farrowing. Her pigs were raised pelletized milk by-products prior to on a ration consisting only of 7 parts corn and 3 parts oats, with 8 per cent milk by-products added.

New Airport Plans

Congressional authorization of 500 million dollars in federal funds to assist in a nationwide seven year airport development program has been started. Congress has already appropriated 77½ million dollars. The program calls for 3,050 new airports and the improvement of 1,625 existing airfields. Present appropriation will cover construction of 908 airports. Of these, 736 will be relatively small ones.

Small-Fry Ocean

NEWEST and safest of wading pools is this clear Vinylite plastic pond that is easily inflated by either lung or bicycle pump power. Made entirely of plastic, its three cushiony rings protect young tots from bumps and scratches. Brilliant blue fish and sea horses painted on the bottom give a salty touch to this pint-sized sea. Between splashing sessions the pond folds into a small flat bundle that can be tucked away in almost no space at all. Its heavy duty plastic requires no special care and will not crack, peel or stick together even when folded and stored for long periods of time.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CURING FIDO OF PURSUING CARS

"How can my dog be trained not to chase automobiles?" is one of the most frequently-asked questions of the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City, these days, what with the extraordinarily great volume of traffic on our highways and streets and more and more dogs being killed—a great percentage of them because of their dangerous habit of pursuing passing motor vehicles.

Most drivers will do everything short of wrecking their cars to avoid hitting a dog, states the Center, but in heavy, fast-moving traffic a driver usually can't swerve out of the way of a dog that leaps suddenly from the roadside. The habit is too dangerous to be tolerated and, if necessary, stern measures should be used for breaking it. The Center suggests two proven methods for persuading Fido to abandon this suicidal pastime.

One system is as follows: For this method the trainer needs an assistant, a car, and a long carriage or buggy whip. While one person drives, the second sits by an open window of the car with the whip. When the dog charges toward the car, the whip must be used with full force on him and he must be shouted at in an angry voice to "Go home!" If the whip method does not prove successful, the same general procedure should be followed, but instead of a whip, the trainer uses a powerful squirt gun loaded with a mild solution of ammonia and water. Dogs hate the odor of ammonia, and if the squirt gun is well aimed, the lesson is usually learned after one or two sessions. If one method doesn't work the other usually will. The idea, of course, is to cause the dog to associate an unpleasant experience with the act of running after a car, to which is added his utter astonishment at having an automobile attack him, the Center states.

Simpler Word

Mrs. Smith was reading a letter at breakfast. Suddenly she looked up suspiciously at her husband.

"George," she said, "I've just received a letter from mother saying she isn't accepting our invitation to come and stay, as we do not appear to want her. What does she mean by that? I told you to write and say that she was to come at her own convenience. You did write, didn't you?"

"Er—yes," said George. "But I—I couldn't spell 'convenience,' so I made it 'risk'."

Cancer kills more mothers of school age children than any other disease

• Once, not too long ago—Mom heard her prayers at night, dressed her in the morning and got her off to school. . . . But Mom went away and didn't come back.

No home is safe from cancer. Last year cancer killed more mothers of growing families than any other disease. Tragic—but even more tragic is the fact that many of these deaths need never have happened.

Many of the mothers who now die could be cured—IF they learned to recognize cancer's symptoms and seek medical advice immediately—IF sufficient money can be found for the cancer research needed to discover the causes of the disease, to perfect its treatment.

The American Cancer Society, through its program of public education and medical research, is dedicated to the conquest of cancer. Will you help?

IMMORTAL PITCHER. Cy Young, who won 511 major league games in 22 years of diamond history, spent his 81st birthday doing chores on the farm of his longtime friend, John Benedum, near Peoli, Ohio. The first pitcher elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame, his record has never been equalled.

CHECKS HAY CROP. Robert Dush, work unit conservationist, examining Ladino-Alfalfa-Red Clover on Joe Lawler farm in Coshocton County, Ohio.

PINT SIZED PONY. Charles Stewart of Bargersville, Indiana, is proud of "Pistol" who weighed 30 pounds and stood 25 inches at birth last year. The mother, "Penny", is a 7-year-old Shetland and "Pistol" was her first foal.

BEATS INFLATION. William Houck, Jr., Williams County, Ohio, is beating inflation the easy way. Of the five grade Shropshire ewes which lambed this season, one has had quadruplets, two have had triplets, one twins and one a single lamb.

ARE YOUR HOGS GETTING ENOUGH SALT?

Try this simple test

Throw a handful or two of salt to your hogs. If they are getting enough, they'll ignore it. If not, they'll relish it, a signal to give them salt free choice.

Most hogs don't get enough salt. Yet, like all livestock, they need it. It is not enough to balance hog rations with tankage and other meat by-products, high in salt. Purdue tests show that hogs need additional salt. Today, when hog rations are balanced largely with vegetable proteins, low in salt, the need is even more acute.

Salt Stimulates Digestion

Livestock need salt for its sodium and chlorine — sodium for complete, economical digestion of fats and carbohydrates; chlorine for hydrochloric acid to convert feed proteins into body tissue. Salt is the most essential mineral.

Feed Salt Free Choice

The best way to feed salt is to feed it free choice. The best salt to feed is Morton's Free Choice Salt, especially developed for livestock, and now formulated to remain non-hardening under normal use and storage conditions. Ask your dealer for it by name. Morton Salt Company, Chicago 3, Ill.

MODERN FARMING

Taking the Backache out of Dairying

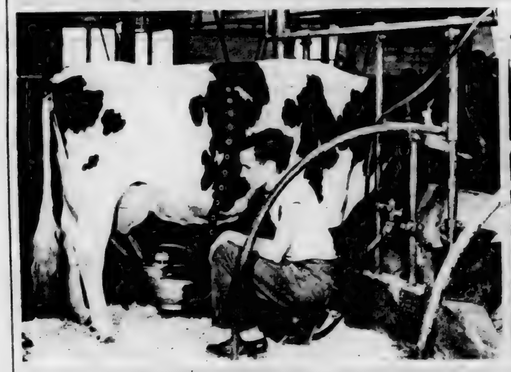
Install a time clock on every farm in the nation and likely you would find that dairy farmers, as a group, work longer hours and fuller days, the year around, than any other class of farmers.

Though their work week is a long one, chore time has been cut, dairy drudgery lightened, and the dairyman's work made more pleasant and profitable through the use of modern dairy methods and modern dairying equipment.

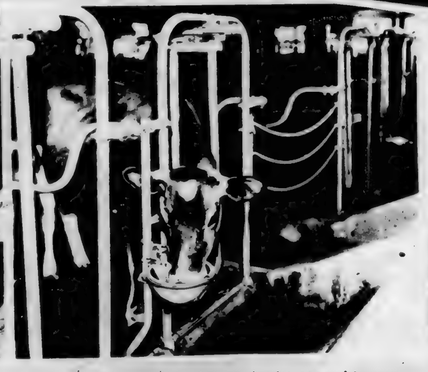
At the close of World War I, the majority of dairy farmers were still milking by hand, feeding cows by lantern-light, and spreading manure from wagon boxes a forkful at a time. Today, electricity, milking machines, rubber-tired manure spreaders, and other production equipment are taking the backache out of dairying and boosting milk production and profits.

The pictures shown here illustrate some of the ways new ideas and new equipment are lightening the dairy farmers work load.

Ready-mixed commercial dairy feeds have been growing in popularity as they help lighten the feeding chore, boost milk production and cut total feed costs. Feed trucks like this save time and accurate scales and scoops make it easier to feed according to production.



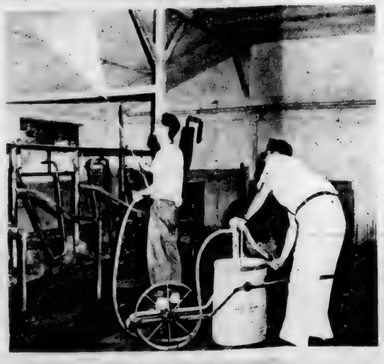
The milking machine is one of the greatest labor-saving inventions in the history of dairying. At first, milking machines were used in only large herds. Today, herds with as few as five or six cows can be milked economically by machine.



Formerly, the dairy farmer had to turn his cows out from their stanchions several times a day to water them at a central stock tank. With drinking cups, cows drink as often and as much as they want without leaving their stanchions, and produce more milk.

Electric milk cooling units like this one make it easier for the dairyman to produce quality milk. Note milk can truck that eliminates much lifting and carrying of heavy milk cans. The chart at top of truck shows production for each cow in the herd.

Washing and disinfecting milking machines, pails, milk cans and cream separators has been made easier and faster through installation of pressure water systems, hot water heating units, and new soaps, detergents and disinfectants.



Fly control has been made easier and less time-consuming by the discovery of new and highly efficient fly control sprays such as DDT. One application like this to a barn will give fly protection for up to several weeks.

Another important work-saver for the dairyman is electric fence. Electric fence lets the farmer make more efficient use of pasture, provide temporary paddocks for young stock, and reinforce weakened fence lines to protect growing crops from invasion by livestock.

VARI-MATIC MILKING

With its patented automatic vacuum adjustment, the Milk-Master milks all types of udders completely. Hard-milking quarters receive, full, fast-milking vacuum to get all the milk during the "let down" period. Reduced vacuum on easy-milking teats draws the milk gently, assuring full cooperation from the cow.

If your present milker operates with a fixed level of vacuum you may not be giving all your cows a chance to produce at capacity. Ask your Perfection dealer to explain more profitable Vari-Matic Milking.

BLUE RIBBON Canning Tips

Full shelves of canned delicacies like these and the "ohs" and "ahs" at our dinner table this fall and winter will be ample reward for the work we do now during canning season. Canning is an exact science, and following detailed directions to the letter is the big secret of blue ribbon winners at the fairs.

I am giving here a few tips on things that are important and a few that are new and may not be included in your canning book. Check your canning and freezing library and if it is not complete, I'll be glad to send any of the materials offered in the Bulletin Board.

Pick fruits and vegetables in top condition, handle carefully, wash thoroughly, be sure all equipment is clean, and can quickly. Even a little spoiled spot will ruin a jar.

Have a good canning book and follow instructions carefully. Be sure processing time and method is correct. If you do not have such a canning book, get one from your grocer, or see Bulletin Board below.

Low acid foods (meats and all vegetables except tomatoes, sauerkraut and ripe pimento peppers) should be processed by the pressure cooker method. Be sure you have the manual on how to use your pressure cooker and follow directions carefully. If you do not have such a manual, write me in care of this newspaper, giving brand of cooker you have and I will get you one.

Two of many important canning instructions are these which help insure a perfect seal.

1. Before filling jar, examine top to see that there are no nicks, cracks, sharp edges, etc. After filling, wipe free of all seeds, pulp, etc.
2. Test lids for seal as follows: When jars are cold, take a spoon and gently tap the lids. If properly sealed, they will give a clear, ringing note, and be slightly concave (curved inwardly) caused by the vacuum inside. If not properly sealed, the sound will be dull and low in key, in which case you have an opportunity to re-can contents and thus save your food. If food touches lid the sound will be dull, but not hollow or empty like unsealed jar.

A canning or freezing syrup made of light corn syrup, sugar, and water will give better taste and texture. The syrup blends can be thin, medium or heavy depending upon the fruit and your family's preferences. For directions in making and using these blends, see bulletin board or get such directions from your grocers.

Bulletin Board

The following can be obtained free of charge by addressing a postcard to Susan Lowe, in care of this newspaper.

A booklet of general canning instructions.

A booklet on canning and freezing fruits, including instructions on how to make and use the new syrup blends.

Fifty jam and jelly recipes.

General instructions in the use of your pressure cooker.

For a more complete canning book enclose ten cents. All other materials are free.

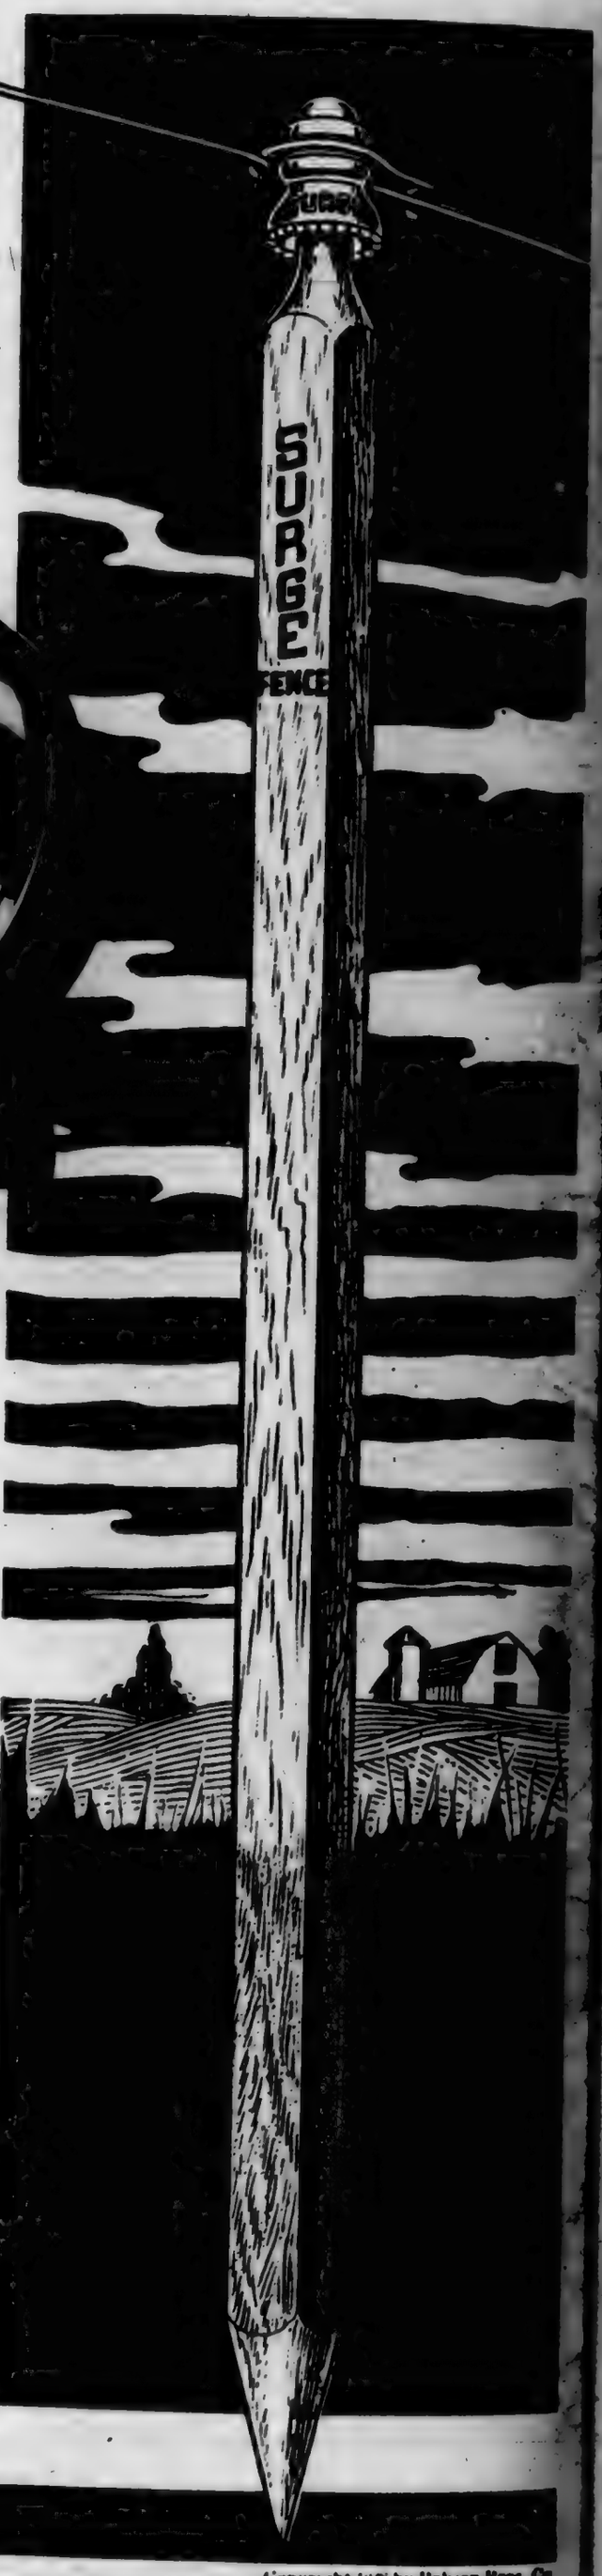
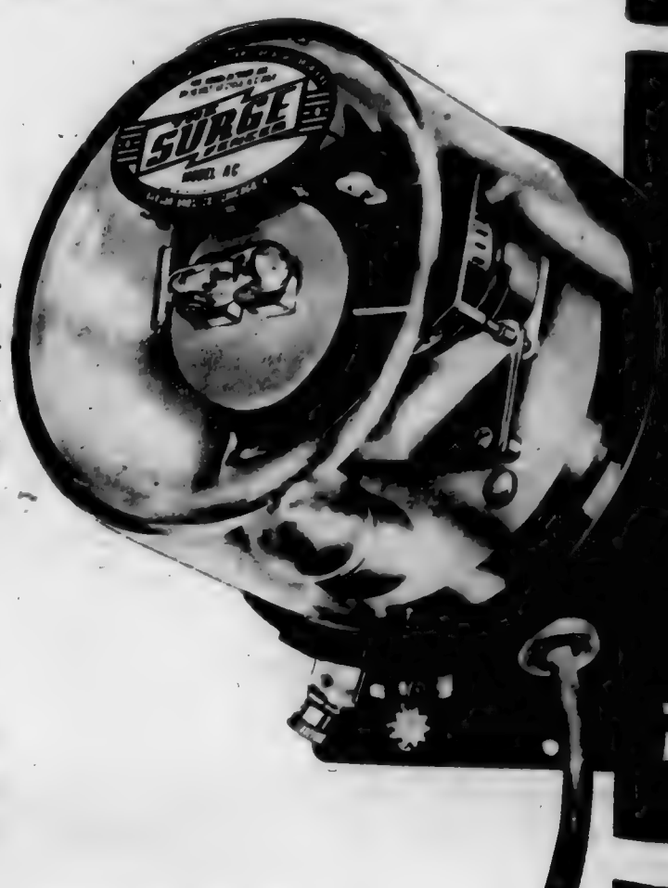
Electric Fencing Can be PROFITABLE

Successful Electric Stock Control is being done. All the time-saving, labor-saving and material-saving advantages of Electric Fencing can be YOURS, too . . . if you refuse to skimp on any one of these items:



1 An Approved, Dependable CONTROLLER



This is a Surge Controller, approved by the Wisconsin Industrial Commission, built to deliver a stock stopping sting with the dependability of a light meter. Designed to prevent points sticking or corroding, sealed against weather and dirt.

2 A GOOD GROUND

An iron rod or galvanized pipe driven at least 7½ feet into the ground and connected to the controller with at least #8 copper wire clamped or soldered at each end.

3 An INSULATED Fence Wire

Not just some rusty wire fastened up with common porcelain-type insulators that let the stock get away during a heavy dew. Surge All glass insulators on wood posts or brackets may cost more—but they LAST, don't short-out in most bad weather, can be used time and again. Use smooth galvanized wire—it's easier to move and work with—and DO make good splices and connections.

STATE FAIR TICKETS TO GO ON SALE JULY 12

General admission tickets will be hau at last year's price of 60 cents for the Indiana State Fair, September 3 through 10, Lt. Gov. Rue J. Alexander announced today.

Meanwhile arrangements are being made to distribute 250,000, 35-cent advance sale tickets throughout the state. These advance tickets will go on sale Monday, July 12, through local offices of county extension agents, banks, Farm Bureaus and other organizations serving agriculture.

The advance tickets are placed on sale each year to provide rain insurance for the fair.

Last year these tickets were sold out in a few days. More requests have already been received in the office of Fair Manager Orval C. Pratt than can be filled.

DEKALB COUNTY COUNCIL OF CHURCHES ORGANIZED

At a meeting at the Presbyterian Church in Auburn on Sunday, June 13, the DeKalb County Council of Churches was organized.

Mrs. Jesse Ober of near Garrett was elected president of the organization. Other officers who were elected at this meeting were Rev. Peter E. Soudah of Garrett, vice-president; Rev. Van W. Hinckley of Auburn, secretary; and Mr. Paul Brenneman of Ashley, treasurer. Mr. Ober then appointed Rev. John S. Hand of near Garrett as publicity agent.

Any church in DeKalb County which so wishes may become a member of the County Council of Churches. Each member church is entitled to five representatives on the Council--the pastor, the Sunday School superintendent, one lay man, one lay woman, and one young person under 25 years of age. Whenever these representatives are their names should be sent to the secrechurch as a member of the Council. These representatives may be elected in any manner which is suitable to the local church.

RENEW 4-H MEAT ANIMAL PROGRAM FOR 19th YEAR

For the 19th consecutive year, the National 4-H Meat Animal awards program is being continued in Indiana under the direction of the Extension Service.

502, 4-H Club members in this state have received county medals of honnor for superior records of achievement in meat animal projects.

The program is designed to encourage 4-H'ers to learn the part played by meat animals in the utilization of products of the soil; how to protect them against diseases and parasites, and how to handle and to market without injury.

As heretofore, the state winner gets a 17-jewel gold watch provided by Thomas E. Wilson, of Chicago. Eight state winners selected for sectional honors will each receive a Chicago 4-H Club Congress trip. Four of the sectional winners will be named national champions; each will get a $200.00 college scholarship.

Last year's state winner in Indiana was Eugene Martin of Cynthiana. There were 40 county medal winners in Indiana last year.

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL AT SPENCERVILLE A GREAT SUCCESS

The Daily Vacation Bible School closed with a program Sunday evening at the Lutheran Church with a good attendance.

Friday was the last day of school. At 11:30 a colorful parade was held through the streets of Spencerville with little wagons tricycles, Bicycles doll buggies and baby buggies with babys in them, all decorated in bright colors. Mr. Woodring followed the parade playing the music and he also played several numbers during the noon hour. The mothers brought baskets filled (and what a dinner). About 175 were present. Little Sharon Smith, thanked God and ask His blessing for the food, from the sound car, this was very tender and touched all who heard her.

We had an enrollment of 107. 77 received certificates for their good work and faithful attendance being present eight days or more of the ten.

44 of the group had perfect attendance. 19 received rewards for attending three years without being absent more than two days each year.

The boys and girls had a race to see who had the largest number present, the boys lead by two the first week, the second week they tied, but the girl's finally won by one.

We the teachers tried to do our best, hoping something taught will help each child to be a better boy or girl and they will become christian's and our communities will be blest by their lives through the coming years.

This was interdenominational and several children from other churches were present.

We were very glad for each one for all were welcome. We sincerely thank every one who had any part to make the school a success.

The children brought Mrs. Edith Akey their missionary offerings each day, which amounted to $38.25.

During the childrens parade on Friday the Universal Tool Company closed down and the employees watched the parade. Mr. Shilling took pictures of the group, and also took a movie of the first parde.

TO PREPARE REPORT ON PROPOSED LAKE MICHIGAN HARBOR

Governor Ralph Gates today announced the appointment of Kenneth L. Schellie to prepare a report on the economic value of the proposed Lake Michigan harbor at the mouth of Burns Waterway in Porter County.

Schellie, who resigned yesterday as director of the Indiana Economic Council, will make the survey under direction of the Council and of the Indiana State Board of Harbors and Terminals.

The project, estimated to cost $15,000,000, would link Lake Michigan with the Gulf of Mexico thru the little Calumet River, the Illinois Waterway and the Mississippi River. It also would pave the way for connection with the Atlantic Ocean thru the proposed St. Lawrence Waterway.

The U. S. Army Board of Engineers has delayed approval of the project, taking the position that there must be assurance of use of the harbor to a large-scale extent by commercial and industrial shippers.

It will be up to Schellie to show that there will be extensive use of the waterway by industrial concerns, according to the Governor.

Capt. O. F. Heslar, chairman of the Board of Harbors and Terminals has pointed out that Indiana harbor facilities on Lake Michigan are inadequate, consisting of a small port at Indiana Harbor, a privately owned harbor at Gary and a harbor at Michigan City.

The project is a 15 year old plan. In 1933 the Indiana General Assembly appropriated $50,000 for preliminary studies on the project. Of this sum, $10,000 has been spent. The project was shelved before the recent war because the Army Board of Engineers was not prepared to indorse it.

"THE GREATEST STORY EVER... TOLD" TO TAKE SHORT VACATION

For the first time since its inaugural 18 months ago, the ABC-WOWO broadcast of The Greatest Story Ever Told, heard Sundays at 5:30 p.m. CDT, will take a short vacation of 10 weeks during the summer months in order to give its creators, producers and cast a rest. This was announced by J. K. Hough director of advertising for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, sponsor of the program which goes on the air without commercial announcements.

The hiatus, the executive said, is to give a much needed vacation from the arduous task of preparing for a weekly broadcast of such high dramatic value.

The program will take its brief pause after the June 27 broadcast and resume on September 12. Based on the teachings of Christ and presented in modern language, the program remained on the air during the summer months last year, but it was felt that more than a year and a half of hard work necessitated a brief period of rest for all concerned.

Fulton Oursler, prominent authority on the Bible and a senior editor of the Reader's Digest, conceived the program. It is written under the supervision of Henry Denker and directed by Marx Loob. The original music is prepared by William Stooss and presented under his direction.

BAKED COD STEAKS

Fish is brain food, an old adage says. We can't promise that this tasty fish will make you any smarter, but it will give your family a taste-thrill plus a big supply of vitamins. They'll all like ...

Baked Cod Steaks

(With a Cereal Flake Crumb)

4 cod steaks
¼ teaspoon celery salt
4 tbs. fortified margarine
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon grated onion
½ cup flaky, prepared cereal

Place the cod steaks on a greased baking platter. Melt the margarine and then add the celery salt, mustard and grated onion. Mix well and brush top of the fish. Add cereal flakes to remaining seasoned margarine and toss together lightly. Spread over top of fish steaks. Cover bottom of baking pan with a little water or milk. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 minutes until baked through and the tops are browned. Serves 4. Serve with a creamed vegetable.

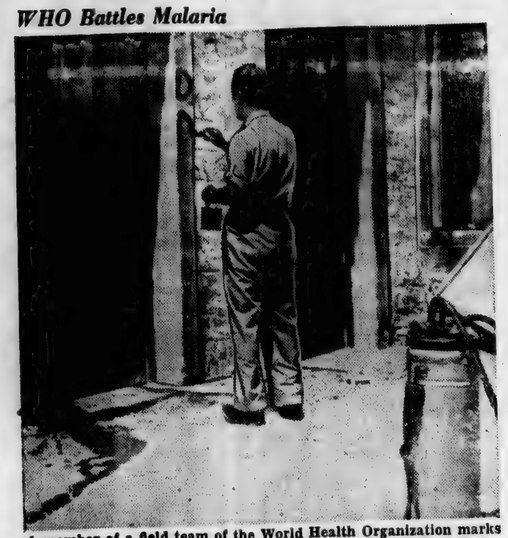
WHO Battles Malaria



A member of a field team of the World Health Organization marks a Greek house which has been sprayed with the insecticide DDT in the WHO's campaign against malaria. The disease, which attacks 100,000,000 persons annually, was virtually eliminated in large areas of Greece with the use of DDT sprays, at a cost of 50 cents per house per year. The World Health Assembly, meeting in Geneva, is expected to give first priority to elimination of malaria.

Trees Compete for Life

At the age of 20 years, the average fully stocked Douglas fir acre has 1,460 trees on it. At the age of 100 years, the number of trees is 184. Most of the lost 1,276 trees were starved out. The most vigorous trees outgrew and overtopped them, taking all the direct sunlight that Douglas fir requires. There also is competition for water in the soil.

WATCH YOUR SPEEDOMETER, MR. MOTORIST

HIGHWAY AUTHORITIES VIEW RADAR SPEED CHECKING DEVICE IN OPERATION

State Highway Commission Chairman, John H. Lauer and member Hartman were among several who recently witnessed a demonstration of the commission's newly-purchased radar speed checking device. Accurate to within 2 miles per hour up to seventy, the set is capable of registering the speeds of all vehicles moving into it's range. Mr. Laurer stressed the fact that the device was not purchased for the purpose of providing a "speed trap" but rather as an aid to the commission's traffic departmen in determining the effectiveness of existing speed zone also in checking the results of signal installation, flasher lights, new signs and in determining the need of such installation.

Extremely compact, considering it's performance, the set consists of three components; power supply unit, indicator unit and antenna unit. A fourth piece, the recorder, has not yet arrived. In using the recorder, no operator is needed once the set is placed and the switch turned on. The recorder will produce a graph showing the number of cars to pass and their speeds.

George Groves of the traffic department, has been operating the device since it's arrival, by noting the indication of the needle on the meter and checking the speed on his own chart.

The recent demonstration near Sunnyside on Ind. 67 revealed that even on the open road, most drivers operate at moderate speeds. The bulk of the cars checked traveled below 52 miles per hour. Only one car, a State Police car, attained 70 during the check.

How to keep a Champ in Trim!

YES sir, there's a championship caliber all through that Buick of yours.

It's caliber that calls for mighty little "conditioning"—if the attention it gets adds up to really knowing and understanding care.

For instance, these Fireball cylinders will keep on packing all the wallop they should, if you let us compression-check them in the Buick way. Steering will stay easy and light, tire wear will stay at the minimum, if you keep your wheels lined up on our special tracking gauges.

And when wear does take its inescapable toll, we have the parts—Buick-engineered for their job—that restore factory-new standards of performance.

Even our tools are specially designed to do a typical Buick job—and for the personal, interested, specialized attention that tops off genuine Buick care, you simply can't beat the Buick specialists in our shop.

Yes, give your champ real Buick care—Buick know-how, Buick parts, Buick interest in keeping your car at its peak. Costs no more than ordinary attentions—but what a whale of a difference it makes!

YOUR CONGRESS and YOU

NEWS From the Office of GEORGE W. GILLIE

FOURTH INDIANA DISTRICT

WASHINGTON—Rep. George W. Gillie of Fort Wayne charge that peacetime military conscription will "inevitably" lead to devasting war, enslave the nation and "wreck our free institutions" in a speech delivered on the floor of the house before he voted against the draft bill.

He also criticized the military leaders for their failure to follow recomendations for increasing voluntary enlistments as described in the report of the House Armed Services Committee. The report states that the Army deliberately refrained from making all-out efforts to utilize voluntary recruitment methods and failed to make the service attractive to the "potential soldier" he said.

The people are strongly opposed to the peacetime draft, he added, referring to the recent public-opinion poll he conducted in the Fourth District which indicate that 59.8 percent were against and only 37.8 for the question: "Do you favor compulsory military training."

"Peacetime military conscription has never prevented a war in the past," he declared." It has been weighed in the balance and found wanting in many European countries. In this atomic age it is a futile gesture toward preventing a future war. It is significant that every major nation in history which has had peacetime conscrption inevitably has been led into war and eventually to defeat and ruin.

"Compulsory peacetime military conscription is, as a matter of fact a breeder of wars.

"We are interested in preserving our American form of democracy and this can best be accomplished by devoting our energies toward the establishment and maintenance of world-wide lasting peace.

"I intend to vote against this bill because I believe, along with mamy other sincere Americans, that peacetime military conscription is a form of slavery, which will wreck our America into a militarist Nation and that, instead of insuring peace, it will surely and inevitably lead to another devasting war."

FREE AG BULLETINS, YEARBOOKS—Free copies of the list of publications of the Department of Agriculture, which are also free, are available by writing to Cong. George W. Gillie, 1532 House Office Building, Washington, D. C. The 1943-47 Agriculture Yearbook, called the best yet, aso may be had upon written request as long as the supply lasts. Many fourth District residents sent in their request for lists of the free agriculture bulletins but neglected to send their names and addresses. By sending in another request to the office with bulletins will be mailed out.

ANNUAL OFFICIAL TOUR—With the adjournment of Congress, Congressman George W. Gillie is making plans for his annual official tour to discuss and meet with his constitutents on governmental business ever since his first election to office. Adjournment also brings an end to this year's edition of "Your Congress and You" winding up the 80th Congress, and some of its activities as seen from the Office of Congressman Gillie.

INDIANAPOLIS MAYOR PROBES ACCIDENTS INVOLVING CITY OWNED VEHICLES

"Al Feeney, the questioning mayor of Indianapolis, may get the $64 answer to one of his questions, if he probes deep enough", says Todd Stoops Secretary-Manager of the Hoosier Motor Club.

The mayor asks "Why are traffic accidents involving city-owned vehicles always the other driver's fault?" Then he goes on to state that police cars constitue only about 10 per cent of the city's rolling stock of 700 vehices but figure in more than 75 per cent of accidents.

Also the mayor doubts the infallibility of municipal employees when behind the steering wheel and has asked insurance men to make an impartial probe of all wrecks involving city vehicles and make their reports to him.

"Traffic court judges should have access to the reports made by the insurance men. It seems that the private motorist alwas is guilty when involved in an accident with vehicles owned by the city, county, state or federal government," Mr. Stooops said.

"In the April issue of the Hoosier Motorist", Mr. Stoops said, it was cited that sometimes sirens can't be heard and that vehicles with sirens should be under control at all times and especially at preferential streets and where traffic lights are located."

"The editorial was based on an accident which occured March 9. The report said that a police car, its sirens wide open on an emergency run was speeding through a red light when a tractor trailer crashed into it. The driver of the truck was arrested for failure to give the right of way."

"There must be some reason why the private motorist always is guilty when involved in an accident with a vehicle owned by some governmental unit. It is hoped that the insurance men can find the answer", Mr. Stoops concluded.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

In the last year traveling around the country we have run across several farmers who have a so-called "parking fee" for sportsmen desiring to hunt or fish on their land. Mostly these fees are designed to bring in revenue the same as selling corn or wheat or other farm products.

Many farmers feel, and rightly so, that they have played an important part in producing the game or fish on their property and that they are entitled to get a certain price from harvesting the wildlife. Frankly, we don't blame them for this reasoning, especially if they have made an effort to provide food and cover for the game. And most sportsmen don't mind paying a small fee for a decent day's hunting or fishing.

Recently, however, we ran across the "parking fee" idea that had a new twist. On a fishing trip we ran into a farmer who charged twenty-five cents for parking. We handed him a quarter and he dropped it into a bank made from a tin can.

The small fee, plus the bank, aroused our curiosity and we couldn't help but ask: "What's the special bank for?"

"You know," said the farmer, "I don't mind a bit havin' you fellows park in my barnlot and fish that creek over there. Fish occasionally myself. But just as sure as shootin' some of my fences will be torn down before the summer's over and these quarters will be used to repair 'em."

Here was a farmer that welcomed strangers to his land even in the face of the fact that he knew that some of the more careless visitors would damage the fences, and possibly, do other damage to his property. You won't find many farmers like him.

Most farmers after many experiences with careless hunters and fishermen have posted their land. We can't blame them for putting up the "No Hunting" or "No Fishing" signs either.

We all can learn a lesson from the farmer with the tin-can bank. We should be careful always to follow the rules of good sportsmanship -- and these rules definitely include leaving a farmer's property as we found it exactly. And it's a nice gesture to stop by the house on the way out, thank the farmer for allowing you to hunt or fish and share your game with him. Chances are he'll enjoy a dinner of rabbits or quail or fish; for frequently his farm duties prevent him from enjoying the sport.

BEWARE OF CESSPOOL AND CISTERN PIRATES

If you have an itinerant outfit clean your cesspool or cistern, be sure to have an agreement in advance as to what the total cost of the job will be. It is best to have this agreement in writing. That is the advice given by Prairie Farmer's Protective Union in the June 19, 1948, Prairie Farmer.

An example is given from one Illinois farm where traveling cleaners said it would cost a "little over $10" to clean a cistern. When they finished, they told the farmer it would be $72 and collected that amount from him.

The best way not to get gypped by such outfits is to have the work done by someone in your own community.

LAND PRICES KEEP GOIN UP

If you want to buy a farm and don't have the cash to lay on the line, don't buy it. Tthat is what Prairie Farmer says in its June 19 edition, pointing out that farm prices have continued to climb in 1948 and that there is real danger ahead.

Illinois, Indiana and Michigan land has double in price and is well on its way to tripling. Winsconsin land has not increased quite so fast, as it is up to 69 percent from the 1935-39 levels.

Unexplored Plants

Today, one-third of the earth's surface is still botanically unexplored, and scientists estimate that in these unchartered areas 150,000 new kinds of plants exist.

PASSENGER CAR REGISTRATION SOARS

Indiana passenger car registrations during 1947 soared to an all-time record of 950,072, exceeding the 1946 registration of 894,058 passenger cars, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club reported today.

Comparable gains obtained in every state, Mr. Hayes said, bringing car registrations throughout the nation to a total of 30.75 million cars, an increase of 9.4 per cent over 1946. Total 1947 registrations, including commercial vehicels, were 37,883,265 ,a gain of 10.2 per cent, or 3,456,413 over the previous years.

Portending continuing increases in traffic congestion, especially in and around urban areas, is the startling fact that buses have increased 46.7 per cent and trucks 4 per cent over pre-war regis-34.2 per cent over pre war registration figures, compared to only a 4 per cent increase in passenger cars the motor club executive said.

Only 10 states and the District of Columbia have not recovered wartime losses in car registrations to exceed pre-war records. In contrast lagging raod construction, far from keeping pace with expanding traffic roads, has not even made inroads on the wartime deficit in highway construction and maintenance, Mrs. Hayes pointed out.

Habits of Flies

House flies are capable of flying distances up to 13 miles. They contaminate food with filth and germs from garbage pails and decaying vegetable matter in which they breed.

Hot Weather Treat

Spiced pecan squares are good to serve with refreshing soft drinks when temperatures are high.

Summer days are often long and lazy, with chummy gatherings of friends on that cool porch or patio. Good conversation flows more freely when there are refreshments—preferably amber iced tea and a platter of compliment-provoking cookies. The hostess can turn out a batch of keep-well spiced pecan squares in the cool of the morning to have this chewy cookie ready for an appearance at the afternoon refreshment session.

No fuss or frills are necessary, since the cookies are cut in self-decorating shape. To make these tempting diamonds, bake the cookies in an eight-inch square cake pan. When baked, cool before cutting. Then make diagonal instead of straight cuts to form diamonds. The corners will be triangles for the cook to sample, or to give little Johnny a promise of good things to come.

SPICED PECAN BARS

2 cups sifted enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup chopped pecans
½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons molasses
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Add nuts. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add molasses and eggs, mixing thoroughly. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with milk and flavoring. Mix to a smooth batter. Bake in greased eight-inch square cake pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes. When cool, cut in two-inch squares.

Yield: 16 two-inch squares.

UNDULANT FEVER

APPROXIMATELY 40,000 persons become ill with brucellosis, or undulant fever, each year, a disease that is acquired or transmitted through animals. The infection in animals also causes a big loss in milk, butter, beef, veal and pork output.

Five forms of the disease are recognized which differ in severity — ambulatory, milk, undulatory, intermittant and malignant. In the typical attack there is fever, a chilly feeling, loss of weight, profuse perspiring, headache and muscular pain. Sometimes a slight rash is present. The temperature goes up and down, which accounts for the common term of undulant fever. The majority of sufferers complain for months and sometimes years, of weakness, slight fever and aching joints.

Undulant fever is at times difficult to diagnose. Because its appearance is gradual and lacking in distinctive features, the disease may be mistaken for tuberculosis, typhoid fever or malaria.

Since farm animals are the chief sources of brucellosis, persons who work with livestock, particularly cattle and hogs, and slaughter house employees, should protect their hands when cuts or abrasions occur. The brucella germs may be present in the urine and fecal discharges of animals as well as in the milk. Farmers should have their stock tested by a veterinarian once or twice a year and animals found with brucellosis should be destroyed.

HAD NO CONSIDERATION

OLD Angus MacNab had been a hard, cruel man, and among his relatives the news of his suicide had been received with more rejoicing than sorrow. But his son, Sandy, in whose home the old man had met his quietus, persisted in moping over the affair.

"Sandy," admonished a brutally frank acquaintance, "why do you carry on so? The old man was a regular torment to everybody, and you know, down deep in your heart, you're glad he's gone."

"That I am," admitted Sandy. "It's cruel to admit it, but it's true."

"You're not thinking he suffered, when he took off, are you? He just turned on the gas and went to sleep. So what's eating on you?"

"Mon, oh, mon," groaned Sandy, "just look at this terrible gas bill the old coot left me!"

INTO THE NIGHT

Hubby — Darling, I think you spend entirely too much money getting your hand read.

Wifey — And, dear, I think you spend entirely too much money getting your nose red.

Mercenary Motive?

"Are you sure you love me?" sighed the buxom widow as she paused in her wringing.

"Sho' Mandy, sho'," Rufus assured her. "I loves you."

Mandy picked up another garment and meditatively rubbed it over the washing-board. In her mind, hope seemed to be contending with doubt. Suddenly she raised her head, and, fixing a wary eye on her waiting Romeo, she demanded:

"Look here, Rufus, you ain't lost yo' job, is you?"

Too Risky

Two nurse maids were wheeling their infant charges in the park, when one asked the other: "Are you going to the dance tomorrow night?"

"I'm afraid not," she replied.

"What!" exclaimed the other. "I thought you were so fond of dancing!"

"I'd love to go," explained the conscientious maid, "but to tell you the truth, I'm afraid to leave the baby with its mother!"

Legally Speaking?

"George," remarked a friend, enthusiastically, "that wife of yours is a remarkable woman—she certainly has a will of her own!"

"Yes," moaned George, "and let me tell you, Harry, I'm the sole beneficiary."

The distinctive styling of the 1949 Ford convertible features smooth, flowing contours, full fender-width body and luxurious interior appointments. Completely new, the convertible chassis is doubly reinforced.

A precedent has been established in the low-priced automotive field by combining handsomeness and beauty with durability and comfort in the interiors of the 1949 Ford cars

Ford has broken away from the neutral tones which have been traditional for mass production automobiles as designers have turned to textured fabrics popular in fashions and interior decorating.

Of the three new fabrics, the most unusual is a soft gray tweed mixture with a blue stripe which gives the 1949 Ford interiors a freshly tailored look. It has been combined with a bolster of blue-gray broadcloth to protect the upper section of both front and rear seats.

The same tailored good looks are obtained with other fabrics --a smooth green striped broadcloth and two new adaptations of mohair in a green and maroon stripe and green gray stripe combination. In proper combination, they complement the new Ford exterior colors such as Sea Mist Green, Birch Gray, Arabian Green and Bayview Blue.

The instrument panel of the new Ford has been simplified. All instruments are combined in a single cluster directly in line with the driver's view. Projecting slightly for better visibility, the large figures on a telescoped dial indicate speed, fuel level, rate of battery charge and oil pressure.

The clock dial has been centered on the panel and placed higher. Night glare is eliminated on all instruments by "black lighting".

Chrome trim throughout the car has been reduced. On the panel it is expressed in a neat arrangement of uniform knobs which control choke, windshield wiper, lights, heater and defroster.

On each door, the chrome strip makes a decorative arc over the heavy artificial leather kick pad at the bottom. Flame shaped center pillar lights provide plenty of illumination and for the interior and for stepping into and out of the car.

Interior door handes pull up instead of down to open the door. This eliminates the possibility of the car doors swinging open if the handle should be pressed down accidentally.

The new Ford's functionalism has been extended to the roomy seats--57 inches wide in front and 60 inches in the rear, plenty of room for six persons.

New windows demonstrate the new trend. The rear window is 88 per cent larger--as large as the ordinary windshield. The windshield is deeper and wider. They give a picture window effect to the entire car and greatly improved visibilty.

Reign of the Bureaus

"Bureaucracy" is a mossed-over but not outmoded term. Its popularity may have faded lately because politicians seem to use the term less and less. I fear that all too many folks have assumed that government by bureaucracy is here to stay, that no matter what brand of national administration you have, the emphasis will still be on Washington. Yet, to welcome an increasing reign of bureaucrats is to invite totalitarianism.

The battle against political encroachments upon the lives of our people still can be won. When the facts are carried straight to the bar of public opinion, I believe informed Americans will repudiate this reign of bureaucrats. For a generation, the scope of government's power has extended outward from the federal center. People are tired of abuses that come in the wake of bureaucracy.

Beyond the law

Do you realize that some 1,200 federal bureaus now exist to dominate, control, and restrain every manner of human activity? Back of these bureaus eleven government agencies funcas corporations and 44 actually exist as corporations. The majority of these have little constitutional justification. Compliance with constitutional law is not important to these bureaus and agencies. Neither is the spirit of individual enterprise, which is so much a part of American tradition.

These agencies feel they are beyond the law and the spirit of the constitution. While competing with the private enterprise of citizens, these federal corporations indulge in wasteful, extravagant, and corrupt practices. A screen of bureaucratic confusion, with the help of garbled records and false accounting methods, hides them from full public view. These methods resemble those of the monarchies of old!

No Rent, No Taxes

Federal corporations that compete with the enterprises of private citizens have rare advantages. They pay no rent, and decline to refer to this in their bookkeeping. They are simply "operating government property." They pay no taxes, like the corporations with which they compete. They are "the government," and their purpose is to consume taxes. Tax money is grist for their mills.

Despite having to pay no rent and no taxes, federal corporations are estimated by one source as having used up $5,500,000,000 more than they earned in the year ending last June. Moreover, they have a free rein on costs. Losses added to well-hidden costs are estimated to make up a full third of the annual federal budget. All this cost is a huge burden on the productivity of our citizens. Such wastefulness has no place in this people's republic!

Consider the effect on our nation now, if we could eliminate one-third of the tax requirement! Not only would we have needed money for world rehabilitation and for retiring the national debt. While establishing a sound federal economy by eliminating these needless government costs, we would increase the standard of living for everyone. But most important, by ending the reign of bureaucracy, we would halt the march toward totalitarianism!

NEW SCIENTIFIC DEVELOPMENTS FOR FARMERS

A new department in the June 19 Prairie Farmer, called "From Laboratory to Farm," tells about new things that have been developed for farm use.

A new photo-electric reflection meter to show leaf color in orchard trees so fruit growers can tell how much nitrogen fertilizer is needed a way to make insulation sheathing board on the farm or in small towns, and a new portable vacuum cleaner for dairy barns are among the items described.

REECE REBUKES TRUMAN'S "CAMPAIGN TOUR"

Republican chairman Carroll Reece sharply rebuked President Truman for the "Impropriety of using public funds for a campaign tour, "in a coast to-coast broadcast on the eve of his Party's convention.

Said Reece, "There is involved in this the more serious consideration that a man, who under the Constitution is the Executive Branch of our Government, has deserted his post of duty in Washington at a very critical period to roam across the country blackguarding the Legislative Branch. It is not a spectacle of which any American can be proud."

Asked to comment on Mr. Truman's assertion that the present Congress is "the worst" since the Civil War, Reece declared: "The record of the present Republican Congress needs no defense from the Chairman of the Republican National Committee--it speaks for itself.

"He (Mr. Truman) has been denouncing this Congress because it has refused to do the very things which his Democrat Congress refused to do prior to the '46 election --because it has enacted important legislation for the benefit of the Nation."

Referring to Mr. Truman's statement: "I like old Joe Stalin." Reece called it "the most revealing political utterance of the trip," and tabbed it as an obvious play to bring back to Democrat ranks the thousands of Communists and Fellow Travellers who follow Henry Wallace.

Quipped the Chairman, "Frankly, I think Mr. Wallace might consider suing Mr. Truman for infrigement of copyright."

Reece predicted that the Republican Nominee would be Mr. Truman's successor "though I do not know who that nominee will be. I do know he will be elected with the welcome support of millions of patriotic Democrats who are tired of the present fumbling leadership of their Party. I know that the Platform to be adopted by our National Convention will be a blueprint to restore the American government to the American People."

TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOUR PULLETS, SAYS PRAIRIE FARMER

If you started a bunch of pullets early this year, take good care of them--they're valuable.

That's the advice given by Prairie Farmer in its June 19, 1948 issue. It is predicted that the spread between prices received for eggs and poultry, and prices paid for feed will be great enough for poultry raisers to make a good profit this year.

Prices will be good because most farmers cut down on the number of pullets started this year. There just won't be as many hens to produce eggs next fall and winter, and if city income continues to hold as high as expected, the demand for them will continue good.

At the same time, given a good crop year, the price of feed should be somewhat reduced from their present high levels.

Because pullets will be more valuable than usual, they should be kept on good range in addition to feeding a growing mash, than a laying mash when they go into production.

Range-raised pullets, says Prairie Farmer, are bigger, healthier, and therefore better equipped to stand the rigors of winter egg production. Also, they start laying earlier in the fall, when egg prices are highest.

From Malachi To Christ

Lesson for June 27, 1948

Dr. Newton

THE interbiblical period, covering approximately four centuries, is one of the great silences of history, save as the prophecies of God offer flickering light upon the winding paths in western Asia, northern Africa and southern Europe. A remnant of Jews resided in Jerusalem, whilst many others were dispersed about the face of the earth. The Old Testament was translated into Greek—the version used in the time of Christ. The Talmud and the 14 books of the Apocrypha were written. The synagogue arose. The schools of Hillel and Shammai were founded and flourished. The sects of the Pharisees and Sadducees originated. Buddha, Confucius and Zoroaster were beginning to influence life in the Far East, while in the Near East Zeno and Epicurus dominated philosophical thought. The Caesars ruled the Mediterranean world.

To understand something of this period from Malachi to Christ, we are asked to read the Scripture passages listed above.

BEFORE JESUS CAME

"BEHOLD, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way for me; and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come in his temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in; behold he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts."

Did they fully understand the significance of these great words of Malachi? Hardly may we expect that they did, but they got their basis of hope, about which we studied last Sunday. Imagine the faces of the little children in the long ago as they heard of the coming Messenger!

THE COMING CHRIST

LOOK carefully at the above Scriptures and see how both the Old and New Testaments center upon Christ. These great phrases are suggested:

The promised Christ, the expected Christ, the heralding Christ, the presented Christ, the enlightening Christ, the judging Christ, the merciful Christ, the redeeming Christ, the restoring Christ, the guiding Christ.

Space does not permit the citations, but a study of the passages will reveal each of these gifts and blessings in the coming Christ.

BETWEEN THE TESTAMENTS

DIMLY only do we envision that period of four centuries, but we have sufficient light to trace the steps by which the faithful amongst the Jews were cleansing themselves of idolatry as the fires of God purged away the dross of paganism and secularism. One will find rich reward in the reading of the Apocrypha and Josephus. Also, one will find in the opening chapters of the New Testament light which falls back upon those dark ages.

There were synagogue schools, taught, in many instances by very able men, such as Hillel. There was a groping toward the light. Men were hungry for the fulfilment of prophecy. It was the darkness just before the dawn.

THE LIGHT BREAKS

"BLESSED be the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people," Luke 1:68. Thus does the golden text for Sunday's lesson flash upon the waiting heart of expectant humanity the Good News.

The fulness of God's time had come. Jesus was born. Peace had come to men of good will. James Montgomery puts the Good News in these lovely lines:

Angels, from the realms of glory,
Wing your flight o'er all the earth,
Ye, who sang creation's story,
Now proclaim Messiah's birth:
Come and worship, come and worship,
Worship Christ, the new-born King.

Preacher's Task

No religious doctrine has any redemptive power until it is translated into the terms of a specific situation or an actual problem. It becomes the task of the Christian preacher in this generation to do the translating. The question, "What would Jesus do?" is always with him.

SPLIT TWO GAMES IN LEAGUE:

The Legion softball team got off to a 506 start in the first week of loop play at Auburn. After dropping a 3 to 0 decision to the Auburn Moose in the first game last Thurdsay, the boys came back Tuesday evening to back up the beautiful three hit pitching by Gene Deiderich to pound out a 9-3 victory over the Wible Realtors of Auburn.

Red McKinley started on the mound for Wibles, and stayed until the 6th, when he gave way to Payton. The locals batted around in the third, pounding out 5 hits and aided by 2 errors, hammered over 5 runs which proved enough for the win. They added two more in the 4th and then jumped on reliefer Payton to pound across their final two in the sixth.

Deiderich, finding almost perfect control, appeared to be on his way to a one hit shut-out, until the sixth, but in that inning the Realtors coupled their only other two hits of the game with a walk and an error to score three runs.

Have Bad Fourth Inning

The Legion Softball team suffered a disastrous 4th inning last Thursday in their first league game at Auburn. They lost a 3 to 0 game to the Auburn Moose when they bunched three hits and were aided by two errors to send over three runs, the only runs of the game, to win by that 3 to0 verdict. Outside of that fourth inning, the game was a rapid-fire 45 minute affair that saw Jack James of the Moose and Russ Ridgway of the locals tangle in a pitchers duel, that left nothing to be desired from a spectators view-point. Both boys had some nice fielding plays turned in behind them. James got a little the best of the duel, allowing only three local baserunners to get as far as second.

Clip Harlan 8-7

The locals and the Harlan Legion battled back and forth for seven long, hot innings last Sunday afternoon at the St. Joe diamond. The loacls pushed over 2 runs in the last of the seventh to take an 8-7 game. Bleeks pitched the entire game for the home club. The locals pushed over the tieing and winning runs off relief pitcher Gustine.

Play At Angola Sunday

The Legion softball team will play at Angola Sunday afternoon, June 27, and on next Tuesday evening, July 29, at 8:30 they will again see action in the Auburn loop, taking on the Ball's foundry.

EXPENSIVE GRAIN CAN BE SAVED WITH SUPPLEMENT FEEDS

"The corn-fed pig is a half-fed hog," says the June 19 Prairie farmer, in telling of the grain savings that can be made by adding protein and mineral supplements.

Several examples are given from Indiana farmers who measured how much grain they saved when they fed supplement. They also found that gains were faster and they could get their hogs to market earlier.

SLED DOG TEAMS SERVE MANKIND

Indispensable in Arctic Regions for Transportation Over Land, Sea-Ice

In a world where all forms of transportation have been brought to a high state of speed and perfection, there are still sections of the globe where the colorful sled dog team reigns supreme, states the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

Sled dogs are still considered to be the only reliable means of transportation over land and sea-ice in the Arctic regions. Eskimos, trappers, traders, mail-carriers, explorers, police and missionaries all depend upon and use sled dogs for travel. The Army has successfully employed sled dogs for airplane salvage operations, rescue missions, and for normal travel and freighting. In the early days of World War II, the Army tested dog teams against three million dollars' worth of snow vehicles, and found the sled dog team indispensable for transporting supplies and equipment, and carrying on ambulance service over terrain where motor vehicles can not operate and in weather when aircraft is grounded.

A fine dog team is more than just a group of dogs. It is a hand-picked working unit of dogs which are matched in gait, size and stamina. The training starts at six months of age, when one or two youngsters are hitched with an older, experienced team of dogs and are taught by their example. The young dogs soon learn that they must keep their proper place in the team, must pull a fair share of the weight, and that the lead dog is the boss.

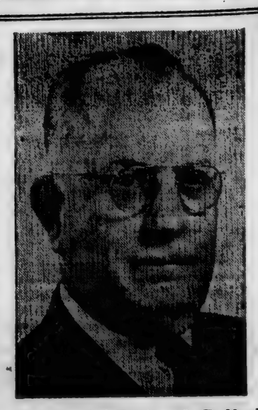
There are four distinct breeds of sled dogs, the Alaskan Malamute, the Eskimo, the Siberian Husky and the Samoyede. All are popularly called "huskies," but the name is applied properly only to the Siberian breed. While all four breeds do the same work, they vary considerably in abilities and characteristics.

Mrs. N. Demidoff, Fitzwilliam, N. H., and her winning sled-dog team.

There probably is no more dramatic story of the North than that of the heroic serum dash from Nenana to Nome, Alaska. A severe epidemic of diphtheria broke out in Nome in the winter of 1925, and the entire supply of antitoxin was completely exhausted. An appeal was sent out by radio for serum to be sent to the stricken city, but because of raging blizzards no aircraft could make the trip. A sled dog driver named Gunnar Kasson volunteered to make the over six hundred-mile dash with the serum. His lead dog, a Siberian Husky named Balto, was hitched with a team of twelve other dogs and the dogs and their driver set out in a raging blizzard. Under the most adverse weather conditions, a distance of 665 miles was covered in 5½ days, a record for speed which still stands Today Balto is immortalized by a larger than life-sized bronze statue in New York City's Central Park.

Wrote About His Father

Christopher Columbus' life was written by his son, Ferdinand.



Chester A. Davis of Bedford, Judge of the Lawrence County Circuit Court, will be installed Grand Chancellor of the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias at Indianapolis, on July 1, 1948. The ceremony which is open to the public will take place in the Pythian Center, 119 East Ohio Street, at 2:00 P.M.

Judge Davis, a former legislator, has been active in Fraternal and Civic affairs for many years. He is a member of Palestine Lodge No. 137, Knights of Pythias of Bedford.

Other members to be installed are: Joseph W. Van Briggle, Indianapolis, Grand Vice Chancellor; Ed Green, Van Buren, Grand Prelate; Louis E. Starken, Plainfield, Grand Master at Arms; Elton L. Marquart, Fort Wayne, Grand Inner Guard, and Guy Harris, Patriot, Grand Outer Guard. Harvey T. Ott of Wolf Lake, the out-going Grand Chancellor will have charge of the ceremonies.

A reception for Mr. Davis will take place July 16 at Bedford with a pitch-in dinner.

CHANGE IN HOURS OF SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE AT AUBURN

Word has been received from Christian H. W. Luecke, manager of the Ft. Wayne Social Security Office, that a change in office hours at -Auburn, Indiana, has become necessary.

Beginning with the first trip on July 1, 1948, the office hours in the Post Office will be from 10 to 11 in the morning. Please make a note of this change.

"Come in when you are 65 to find out just where you stand," Mr. Luecke said. "And where a wage earner employed under the Social Security Act dies, members of the family should call as soon as possible. They may be entitled to benefits."

Stressing the fact that no benefits under old Age and Survivors Insurance can be paid until an application has been filed with the Social Security Office, Mr. Luecke said; "Monthly benefits can be paid for only three months before the month in which a claim is filed. And if you delay longer than that after becoming eligible, you may lose benefits which after you have earned. So if you believe you are entitled, be sure to come in."

If you wish to see the Social Security representative about Social Security Account Numbers, Employers Identification Numbers, a change in name or correction of record about wage records, a claim for benefits, or any information on the Act, be sure to call at the Post Office in Auburn, any first and third Thursday, of the month. And don't forget the new time from 10 to 11 o'clock in the morning.

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION FEES SHOW INCREASE IN SATE

Indiana motor vehicle owners paid a total of $11,397,000 in registration fees during 1947, compared with $10,339,000 during the previous year, according to Charles M. Hayes president of the Chicago Motor Club.

Increased 10.2 per cent over 1946 these payments are exclusive of gasoline taxes, operator's permit fees, and other miscellaneous fees from motorists, Mr. Hayes stressed.

Collections for all states for motor registration taxes increased 16.8 per cent, with 1947 revenues totaling $516,261,000 compared to $441-910 during 1946.

Mr. Hayes estimated that complete reports for 1947 will show that motor vehicle owners paid a record-breaking sum of$2,923,650,000 in special taxes, compared with $2,-507,000,000 during the previous year.

NEW ECONOMIC COUNCIL DIRECTOR APPOINTED

Stephen C. Noland, chairman of the Indiana Economic Council, announced today that Kenneth L. Schellie had resigned as Council director to become a planning consultant.

Noland also announced that Schellie would be succeeded by Paul E. Middleton, who has served as assistant director of the Council since February.

The Economic Council, a non-political state agency, is in charge of co-ordination of local planning activities and special assignments, including relief of tornado stricken Coatesville and similar undertakings.

Middleton, a 52 year old Indianapolis planning engineer, was graduated from Shortridge High School and attended the University of Michigan and Purdue University. He was first lieutenant of infantry in World War I and a major in command of a military government detachment in France, Belgium and Germany in World War II.

Following World War I, Middleton was engaged in private practice of land surveying and construction in the oil fields near Amarillo, Texas, and Tulsa, Oklahoma. Then he returned to Indianapolis as engineer for H. B. Fatout Company, Engineers. He bought this company in 1922 and has operated his own civil engineering and surveying office since.

In 1937, Middleton was planning engineer with the National Resources Committee, assigned to the Indiana State Planning Board to make pilot studies and develop procedure for drainage basin planning.

During the next four years, Middleton was in Cincinnati and Indianapolis and became chief planning consultant of the Region Four Office of the National Resources Planning Board, serving eight Midwest states.

During the next two years, Middleton continued with the same organization in Indianapolis and Chicago.

Additional duties were providing consulting and staff assistance to war communities, in solving problems brought about through too rapid expansion and population growth and aiding state and local governments in planning and programing capital inprovements.

After World War II, Middleton was chief staff consultant with L. V. Sheridan, Indianapolis city plan consultant, on the preparation of master plans and zoning ordinances for cities and towns in the Midwest and South.

Then Middelton resumed active charge as president of P. E. Middleton Co., Inc., engineers, Inddanapolis, engaged in the general practices of civil engineering and city planning.

Middleton is married and has three sons and two grandchildren and lives at 140 Buckingham Drive. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Planning Officials, American Planning and Civic Association and Service Club of Indianapolis.

Core Stock From Waste

One of the most remarkable waste-saving operations in the lumber and woodworking industry is the process for manufacturing core stock from waste. A Wilmington, N. C., firm uses only discarded pine slabs and veneer log cores for raw materials. The former is used for softwood lumber core and the latter for hardwood cores. Three-quarter-inch-thick boards are salvaged from the slabs and log cores, kiln dried, ripped into strips, run through a glue spreader and processed through a homemade lumber core press. The finished product is a quality panel which has a fine reputation among consumers.

Controlling Speeding

New electrically controlled traffic lights have been tested on dangerous, twisting highways. They aid in preventing accidents by flashing red when motorists approach at speeds greater than 25 miles per hour.

THEIR PROPHET AND HIS COMMANDMENTS

Reprinted by permission of The Chicago Tribune

The strength of a civilization is measured always by the scope and tenacity of its obstructions to larceny. Those obstructions range from laws against your neighbor picking your pockets to statutes that forbid his counterfeiting your registered trade-marks and stealing your patented inventions, says American Fair Trade Council.

Incentive to individual enterprise springs primarily from assurances that the fruits of that enterprise will not be stolen. Men seldom plant gardens where thieves abound and police protection is inadequate. Thus our Trade-Mark Laws, our Fair-Trade Laws and our Patent Laws have been the strongest factors in persuading our people to that extraordinary effort to create and produce which marks the difference between a static and a dynamic economy.

Collectivism, by whatever name, is but organized larceny, aggrandizing and enriching a cunning few—out of declining productivity of the many. Therefore, Communism hates, and seeks to destroy, our laws against larceny. Henry Wallace, long before he so openly embraced his natural allies, said of our Patent System that it is wrong and that everybody should be permitted, without restraint, to make any and all patented products. Naturally, no one then would have much inducement to invent anything. Industrial momentum in America, and our strength for defense, would be destroyed.

OIL PRODUCTION IN STATE GAINS; NEW POOL OPENED

The sale of oil produced in Indiana continued to increase in May according to the monthly report of the Department of Conservation, while opening of a new pool in Gibson County sent June off to a promising start.

A total of 629,270 barrels of Hosier-produced oil were sold last month, according to John H. Nigh, director of the Conservation Department. April sales, previously the high for this year, were 627,518 barrels.

A new pool opened early this month in Gibson County was described as "Indiana's largest oil discovery in the past year" by A. C. Colby, head of the Conservation Department's Oil and Gas Division. This pool, about 2,000 feet east of the Wabash River, lies on the Indiana side, six and a half miles south of Mount Carmel, Illinois.

Colby said a discovery well, drilled by Olin Sharp and Associates of Evansville on land owned by Theresa Berry, had an initial daily production of 800 barrels. This well was completed in the Waltersburg sand at a total depth of 1,956 feet with the top of the sand being hit at 1,901 feet.

A second well, one-half mile north on land owned by J. B. and D. L. Lemert, is being put on production. The electric log indicates a larger production there than at the discovery well, according to Colby.

A total of 54 producing wells, out of 103 completions, was effected in Indiana during May. The report also shows that the state issued 75 oil and gas well drilling permits during that month.

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO GET $$6,6000 FROM STATE FUND

DeKalb county schools will receive $36,600 from the special $5,-000,000 state allocation of cigaret tax funds announced by Governor Ralph F. Gates today.

The special allocation is designed for buiding and equipment repair in an effort to relieve local conditions resulting from the terrifftic postwar strain on the school system, the Governor said.

The first allocation of $18.300 will be received August 1. A second payment in the same amount will be made next January.

The funds are being distributed, according to State Superintendent of Pubic Instruction Ben H. Watt, on the basis of 104% of the average minimum salary in each of the 1,194 school corporations in the state.

The statewide distribution brings the toal of state aid to the school system to -48 000.000 this year.

The school allocation follows by two weeks distribution of another $5,000,000 in cigaret tax funds to town, city and county roads.

As a result of the recent allocations, the State has now diverted approximately 75 per cent of its income to local units of government in an effort to relieve strains imposed by post war inflation and the heavy demands of an increased population.

PLAN EXPENSES BEFORE MAKING THAT MOTOR TRIP

Practical methods of computing the travel buget will enable motorist to pare down expenditures encountered when taking a highway vacation trip, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club announced.

Many motorists are planning their trips more carefully this year because the cost of food, lodging and car operation has risen considerably ,Mr. Hayes continued.

Planning on an early morning start is one means of cutting down on soaring vacation costs. An early start permits moderate road speeds which will save as much as 50 per cent in gas and oil consumption. This will also produce the greatest advantage of adequate time in which to shop around for good accomodations at reasonable prices according to the Chicago Motor Club's touring bureau.

Motor club surveys of vacation costs indicate the following as typical for motorists who plan to drive 300 miles daily on highway trips: Car operation, 1 person; 3 persons-persons-$5.50; Lodging, 1 person-$3.00, 3 persons-$9.00; Food and refreshments-$4.50, 3 persons-$13.50; Total, 1 person-$13.50; 3 persons $28.00

The average price of gasoline is twenty-five cents a gallon including taxes. If a car gets 15 miles per gallon and 300 miles is covered in one day, the cost of gas will amount to $5 a day. Oil consumption will depend upon the condition of the car and the average driving speed. However, it is best to allow fifty cents a day for oil.

Lodging will cost, on the average, about $3 per person. When staying at a hotel, tourist should figure on 75 cents to $1 for car storage and $1 to $1.50 for tips.

A generous allowance should be made in the vacation budget for food because traveling has a tendency to increase the appetite. Costs for three meals should be: 75 cents for breakfast, one dollar for lunch two dollars for dinner and 50 cents for tips, totaling $4.25 per person daily. Twenty five cents per person should be allowed for refreshments and roadside snacks, especially if children are along.

DOGS A FIXTURE IN WHITE HOUSE

23 of Nation's 32 Chief Executives Have Been Dog Lovers

Of the 32 men who have served as Chief Executives of the United States, fully 23 have been dog owners and lovers, reports the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

Undoubtedly, it states, the fact that the White House has been the home of many dogs has had its influence in making America the most dog-minded nation the world has yet known. Following the example of their Presidents, millions of Americans have come to feel that a home without a dog is incomplete, and that a child who grows up without the companionship and protection of a dog is underprivileged.

The tradition of the Presidents owning dogs started right at the beginning with George Washington, who was intensely interested in dogs, Foxhounds in particular. The current canine residents of the presidential mansion are Mike, a handsome young Irish Setter, and Feller, a silver buff Cocker Spaniel puppy.

Probably no family that lived in the White House had more dogs than the Theodore Roosevelts. With six children, all of them animal lovers, it was inevitable that many dogs should be part of the family life. A Rat Terrier, a Bull Terrier, several dogs that were frankly mongrels, and a St. Bernard named Rollo, were owned by the Roosevelts. In addition to the family pets, Theodore Roosevelt was always interested in the sporting and hound breeds, as would be natural to a man who was a noted sportsman and big game-hunter.

The Calvin Coolidges were devoted to dogs. During their occupancy of the White House they enjoyed the company not only of the Aireda'e

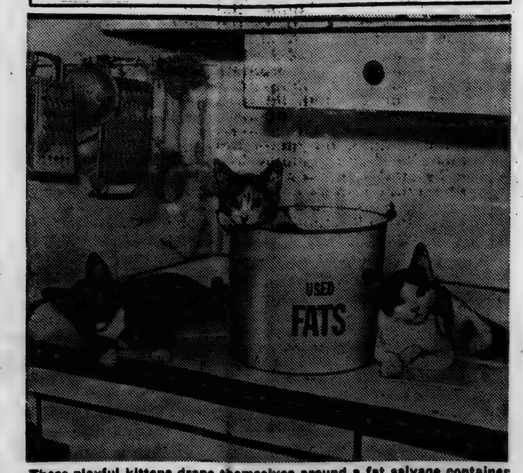
FAT KITTENS



These playful kittens drape themselves around a fat salvage container to remind women to save every drop of used cooking fat. After fat has been reused in cooking, it should be sold to meat dealers, home economists say. Used cooking fats saved and turned over to meat dealers help relieve the world shortage of fats and oils.

YES, pennies from a piggy bank are riches untold to a pigtailed six-year-old. Naturally, she wants to be sure they're safe.

Because even the smallest account is important to a bank, Nancy's pennies will be wisely invested. Some of them will go into utility securities—into business-managed electric light and power companies. Like our own. That will make Nancy one of our owners—an indirect owner. And, if you have a savings account or life insurance policy (most people do), it's almost certain that you're an indirect owner, too.

There are thousands of direct owners as well—people from all walks of life who have invested their savings in this company. All kinds of people—your friends and neighbors—the man across the way, the housewife next door, farmers, mechanics, doctors, industrial workers, teachers, craftsmen, nurses.

Yes, your electric light and power company is owned by the people it serves.

LIONS CLUB ANNOUNCES THAT DENVER DOCTOR WILL START PRACTICE HERE THIS FALL

The St. Joe Lions Club takes pleasure in introducing to the Tri-Township area Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Scantland now of Denver, Colorado

Dr. Scantland came here from Denver on June 29 to look over the possibilities of our area as a location for setting up his practice in General Medicine. He was shown around the community by various Lions and was so favorably impressed that before leaving the Lions Club had provided the ways and means by which he may become established as a practicing Doctor of General Medicine by Sept. 1 of this year.

Dr. Scantland was born and raised in Richmond, Indiana where he attended high schoot and Earlham College before entering the Medical School of Indiana University. He was graduated from Indiana University in 1944 and served his intern-ship at Muncie Ball Memorial Hospital. He then entered the service and was Medical Director of Public Health of the 9th Corps Headquarters in Japan for 18 mo. He is spending an additional ten months of training in the Presbyterian Hospital in Denver, and will come to our community from there.

The Lions Club has been working on this project for nearly a year and is glad to be able to bring about the union of a community that needs a doctor and a doctor that needs a community.

LUTHERAN LADIES AID ENTERTAIN

On Wednesday afternoon June 16, the Ladies Aid of the Spencerville Lutheran church entertained the ladies of the Methodist Church of that place at their regular aid meeting in the Lutheran Church. Sixty-one ladies and children spent the afternoon enjoying the program furnished by members of the host church. A play entitled "From Small Beginnings", which portrayed the founding of a missionary society was presented by several ladies dressed in the attires of the 1870's. It represented the beginnings of the manys tasks the women are now completing in church work and although comically played, its basis was a good christian act among women. Phyllis Chaney presented the selection "Danny Boy" as a vocal solo. Mrs. Mumma of Harlan, formerly the Lutheran ministers wife of this place gave the devotions and then on behalf of her guest group. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by all present and the ladies departed feeling that on this spirit of love and cooperation was the future hope of all Christian groups. The Methodist Ladies say "Thanks" and the Lutherans reply "You're very welcome, please come again".

ENROLLMENTS IN I. U. OFF-CAMPUS CENTERS SHOWS INCREASE

Hugh W. Norman, associate dean of the Indiana University Division of Adult Education and public services, announced today that the University's eight off-campus centers, which includes the Fort Wayne Center, increased in enrollment during the past school year 22.7 per cent over the 1946-1947 enrollment and 81 per cent over that for 1945-46.

During the past year 2,742 students were enrolled in the Fort uayne Center, Dean Norman's report shows.

A total of 15,261 students were enrolled in the off-campus centers last year as compared with 12,440 for 1946-47 and 8,433 for 1945-46. A total of 1,950 classes were organized during the school year to meet the demands for off-campus work.

The majority of the University's off-campus centers are now conducting summer session programs, and will open their fall sessions the latter parts of September.

MUCK CROP SHOW WILL BE HELD AT WALKERTON IN NOV.

The Northern Indiana Muck Show for 1948 will be held Nov. 9 to 12 at Walkerton, it was announced today by Roscoe Fraser, Purdue University, extension specialist in horticultural crops.

STATE POLICE OFFER SAFETY TIPS FOR HOLIDAY

Prevent tragedy by practicing safety. That was the Fourth of July message from Col. Robert Rossow, superintendent of State Police, who today warned that traffic, boating, swimming and flying accidents kill or maim many holiday vacationers this week and "unless each person makes liberal use of common sense extra care and courtesy."

He offered several safety tips for the four-day holiday, beginning Friday:

1. Be sure your automobile, airplane or boat is mechanically safe.
safe.
2. Start earlier, don't hurry and observe all regulations.
3. Drive defensively; be alert for the other fellow's mistakes.
4. Swim in obstruction-free water in the sight of others, and not until an hour after eating.
5. Distribute the load evenly in boats; don't stand up. Watch out for sudden storms.
6. Take the sun in easy doses. Wear sunglasses.
7. Fireworks are unlawful, and homemade pyrotechnics dangerous.
8. In case of an accident, ask the telephone operator to connect you with the nearest police or sheriff's department, or State Police post.

Colonel Rossow emphasized motor travel as the greatest safety hazard this week end, due to anicipated heavy travel. July 4 holiadys in 1946 and 1946 claimed 30 lives in traffic crashes in four-day periods each year he said.

Dr. Willis W. Carey, of Ft. Wayne was host to a most enjoyable party of old school mates and friends, present and fromer residents of Spencerville, Tuesday, June 22,. A delicious chicken dinnner was served at the Chapman Restaurant, at Spencerville, the guests included: Mrs. Nellie Bishop, Bluffton; Mrs. Geraldine Hart, Garrett; Mrs. Rosamond McCrory and Mrs. Margaret Snyder, Ft. Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Erick, Mrs. Minnie Tyndall, Mrs. Winnie Shook, Mrs. Audrey Wade, Mrs. Frances Chapman and Mrs. Golden High of Spencerville. Dr. Carey bagan the practice of medicine at this place,he is now engaged in writing a history of the old home town from its earliest days. After the dinner the party assembled at the home of Mrs. Shook to enjoy a very pleasant afternoon, reminiscing and living over the old days of years gone by. A buffet supper was served by Mrs. Shook, assisted by Mrs. Wade. Later the guests departed for their various homes, thanking Dr. Carey and Mrs. Shook for a most delightful day.

ST. JOE VALLEY 4-H CLUB

The St. Joe Valley 4-H Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Woodcox on June 9th, eighteen members being present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Connie Fisher.

John Carpenter gave an interesting report on "How to Care for Pigs". Neal Wisler was chosen for next meeting to give a report on "The Training of Pigs".

After playing several games a nice luncheon was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Harold and Carlton Curie east of St. Joe.

STRAIGHTENING OF 'S' CURVE ON STATE ROAD 8 NORTH OF ST. JOE BEGINS THIS WEEK

The long proposed project of straightening state road 8 at the sharp S curve 3 miles north of St. Joe, was finally begun this week when highway department workmen began breaking ground for laying of a culvert for the new bridge that is necessiated in rerouting about ⅛ mile of the old highway.

The new right-of-way which will cut through the Goodall and Walter property, was purchased about 10 years ago when the proposed project was first surveyed.

The straightening of the somewhat dangerous curve, which also intersects a gravel road, which presents a particular winter time hazard, will begin about 200 yards west of the curve, and the new lay of road, with the aid of a new creek bridge, will cut diagonally across the Walter and Goodall strips of land and will join with the old highway near the Wabash railroad crossing.

MERRY MONTH OF MAY STARTS OUT WET, CLOSES DRY

Although Indiana crops were threatned bv drough conditions during the latter part of May, precipitation for the month was almost normal, according to state government researchers.

The Indiana Department of Conservation's monthly water resources report today pointed out that heavy rainfall in the early days of May evened up for the later "dry spell". Percipitation averaged out over the state, the report stated except in the Norhwest corner of Indiana, where rainfall totalled between 50 and 100 percent above normal. In the Valparaiso-Laporte area, a May 10th cloudburst produced more than three inches of rain. At the Conservation Department's principal North and South gauging stations--Marion and Shoals--precipitation was checked at barely below normal.

LOOKING AHEAD

By GEORGE S. BENSON

President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

"Aid" or Waste?

Suppose your doctor should say, after having drained off about three quarts of your blood: "Why, my poor man, you look anemic. I'm sorry for you. Out of my well-known generosity I am going to give you a half-pint of blood." You wouldn't consider his reasoning to make good sense. Yet, the backers of federal aid to education, arguing that "poorer" states are not able to support adequate educational programs within their borders, fall back on that sort of thinking.

For the federal government to take from Arkansas $98 million a year in income taxes and then offer back $6 million in "aid" because of Arkansas' poverty, just doesn't make sense. If the federal government would eliminate its present wasteful spending and reduce income taxes by only 10 per cent, that alone would be worth more to the "poorer" states than passing back to them this proposed "aid."

Operation: Wasteful

It must be remembered that Washington has no money to give anybody. The federal government can hand out only that which it collects. It can only tax the states to get money with which to "aid" the states. We should remember, moreover, that such aid will always be weighted with bureaucrats and political hangers-on, to be paid for by the same states that get the "aid." The local way is not only the responsible way, it is also the economical way.

The federal government has no record for the economic operation of anything. Should our public school system become federally controlled, I would definitely expect it to become a wasteful operation. (Most of our Indians are educated in federal schools. The cost per student is several times greater than in our regular schools.) A federally operated school system would show the same waste and inefficiency that is typical of federal operations in general.

How to Become Poorer

We have a national debt so monstrous already that there is mounting concern whether we shall be able to meet present obligations and maintain economic stability. Therefore, I look upon federal economy and efficiency as an issue of prime importance. The same thinking that begs for federal aid to education can be allowed to wreck the government by adding financial burden upon financial burden, when the treasury has more debt than anything else.

As an Arkansas citizen, I am fully aware of our own educational problems, in one of these "poorest" states. Yet, we have tripled our per capita income since 1939. Scores of new industries have been started in the state, and our agriculture is prosperous. We can support an adequate school system. What Arkansas needs most is a suitable reorganization of our outmoded system, not federal aid as a crutch for all present weaknesses.

What America actually needs today is deep moral purpose in her education, rather than a more extravagant system. Our educational advantages have increased greatly in the last 40 years, but the juvenile crime rate has increased just as fast. There are those who would make federal aid the answer to juvenile delinquency, a problem which goes back largely to home and parents. Yet, the moral purpose that America needs so much suffers a real set-back every time we hand individual freedom to federal bureaucrats.

COBURNTOWN

Ruth and Esther Fetters, Patty and Joyce Current, Mary Lou Trenary, Tahoma Jean Laughmon, Gailanna Holman, Darlene Wisler and Robert Jarrett attended a birthday party for Janet Jarret celebrating her ninth birthday, Wednesday afternoon, June 23. Most of the afternoon was spent playing games, then Janet opened her packages which revealed many lovely gifts. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Her grandmother Gee was a guest in the home for the day.

The Home Builders class taught by Mrs. John Crothers spent a very pleasant afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jarrett, June 27.

The Loyal Hustlers class taught by John Cook had a picnic at Pokagon park following the Sunday morning church services. All of the young people enjoyed the afternoon in spite of the all day rain in that territory.

Mr. and Mrs. Edver Coburn of Kokomo, Ind., visited from Friday until Sunday with their uncle Floyd Coburn, and family and other friends. Edver was recently married. Neale Coburn and family were also Sunday dinner guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Zook of Butler were callers in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart Sunday afternoon.

Tommy Hart went home with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Cook and sons to spend a couple of weeks visiting at Columbus, O.

The Young People's Class taught by John Cook spent Sunday afternoon at the lake.

Keith Woodcox of Chicago, Ill., is spending a couple of weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox.

A group of relatives from Fort Wayne and Garrett, came to the home of Harold Kagey and gave him a birthday surprise and pot luck supper Saturday evening. About 25 were present.

Paul Crothers and family of S. Bend are visiting his parents for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fike of Garrett were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kagey

Patty Hook returned home after a six weeks visit with her aunt at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Another Winter Job

All "mummies" — rotten, dried peaches—on the trees and ground should be gathered and burned. In these "mummies" most of the rot spores live through the winter to start a new crop of rot next year.

Saving Room Heat

Placing insulating material or board behind the radiator will cut down the loss of heat through the wall. It is especially desirable to install the insulation where radiators are recessed in walls.

SOUTHERN WAFFLES

Here's the way to make breakfast something special — waffles make even the dreariest morning bright, providing just the necessary energy to get the family off to an early morning start. Serve steaming hot coffee as the perfect companion for

Southern Waffles

- 1½ cups flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sweet milk
- 4 tablespoons melted fortified margarine

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together twice. Separate eggs, beat egg whites until very light, and the yolks until thick. Add milk to egg yolks and stir in dry ingredients, beating well. Add the melted margarine. Mix well. Fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron and serve with a generous supply of melted margarine or margarine squares. Yields 5 or 6 waffles.

HINTS ON HEALTH

By the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

SWIMMING ADVICE

THOUSANDS die in the United States every year from swimming accidents. Two hundred of these die from injuries sustained while diving. Two-thirds of those fatally injured in diving fail to find out the depth of the water before they jump, and the cause of death in these cases is not drowning but a broken neck.

Don't take chances when you go swimming. Here are some suggestions:

Don't go swimming alone, or at night.

Don't swim across lakes or rivers or dangerous waters unless accompanied by a boat and a companion trained in life saving.

Learn how to rescue drowning persons and administer artificial respiration.

Don't swim for at least two hours after eating, and never swim beyond your depth in cold water.

Learn how to enter and leave boats and canoes and how to manage them properly.

Don't duck or tease your friends who are not good swimmers. This may create a panicky mind which may result in death.

Teach your friends who are poor swimmers to go bathing in pairs, to stay in shallow water, to beware of hidden holes, and to avoid heavy breakers and undertows.

If you cannot swim, resolve to learn how this summer. For safety's sake, every able-bodied person should master this healthful sport.

FIRES BURN NINE THOUSANDS ACRES SINCE JANUARY 1

Although the 1948 spring fire season is practically ended, Indiana Department of Conservation officials also warned today that carelessness still can cause serious fires in heavy wooded areas dry enough to burn.

During this year's spring fire season ---January 1 to May 1-there were 293 outdoors fires reported. These blazes burned 9,000 acres and did $37,390 worth of damage. Of the areas burned, 3, 623 acres were forest land. Seven persons were arrested and convicted for starting outdoor fires.

The figures approximately were the same as those of the 1947 spring fire season but Department of Conservation officials expressed concern over the heavy increase of false alarms:

Fire wardens of the Division of Forestry made 225 false alarms runs spring- at great expense to the state which represented a 10 per cent gain over last fall's fire season. Most false alarms resulted from harmless and guarded brush pile fires being spotted and reported.

For this reason, cooperation of farmers is being requested by the Division of Forestry, which said that farmers, before burning brush, should notify their nearest fire towerman, warden or district forester's office.

Warning against burning brush proper precautions are taken however, agains was issued. Nearly 40 per cent of this spring's outdoor blazes were blamed on careless debris burners while thoughtless smokers caused 26 per cent and railroad trains eleven per cent.

With general carelessness being responsible for most outdoor fires, the Division of Forestry stepped up its educational program on fire prevention to high schools, veterans' groups, conservation clubs and Boy Scouts.

Uncle Sam Says

Seeding time on the farm calls for the use of strong, pure seed able to meet weather and pest attacks and still come through with a good harvest. United States Savings Bonds are like good reliable seed. They grow a crop which can be left to full, rich maturity in ten years at the rate of $4 for every $3 invested. Take a tip from the wise farmer who is storing up a crop of security by investing now in Savings Bonds. He is growing more money, security for himself and his family and security for his country. Your security is America's security.

COOL, FLY-FREE CALF MAKES PROGRESS

If summertime means exposure to the mercy of sun and flies for young calves, they will not make the fast progress of calves which have spent the summer in a cool comfortable, fly-free barn.

The young calf has a thin and tender hide and hot sun can cause the young stock considerable discomfort particualrly when flies are added to the situation. Fly sprays have been a boon to stock but care should be taken to avoid skin injuries due to irritation of the fly repellants, Purdue University extension dairymen say.

Another reason why young calves should be kept indoors until they are several months old is that they do better on a ration of milk and concentrates and a little high quality hay than they do on grass. The dairymen explain that at birth the calf has a single stomach. Until the paunch has developed, the calf cannot consume and properly digest enough grass to make satisfactory gains.

Calves born after February or March usually do better if kept in a clean, well-bedded pen during the summer months. Any grazing allowed should be at night. A good grain mixture for calves at this time is whole oats, shelled corn, and a protein supplement. After six months of age, thirty pounds of ground corn, thirty pounds of ground oats, thitry pounds of wheat bran, and ten pounds of linseed oil meal is recommended.

4TH OF JULY HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS WILL EQUAL AND POSSIBLY EXCEED LAST YEAR'S

Fifteen men, women, and children will die in automobile accidents on Indiana highways over the Independence Day Holiday July 2 to the 6th if last Fourth's traffic toll repeats itself, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club warned today.

Strengthening this tragic probability, Mr. Hayes said is the likelihood that automobile holiday traffic will equal and possibly exceed the all-time record established over Independece Day weekend 1947.

All 15 persons meeting death on Indiana highways will be Indiana residents, if last years experience repeats. Another statistical oddity is that no fatalities will occur during the holiday period in the Calumet region, normally a heavily traveled and hazardous highway district.

Ages of the traffic victims, majority of whom will be bound for holiday destination and pleasure pursuits, will range from one year to 63. Four wil be women. One baby boy, age 1, and a girl, age 7, will be among the fatalities if last years statistics repeat.

Occupations of the victims will range from house wife to student. Fatalities may number 6 students, age 14 to 21, one housewife, one farmer, a carpenter and a laborer. Last year an Indianapolis police officer was killed in the line of duty while attempting to direct holiday traffic.

MANY SQUIRRELS FOUND DOWNSTATE SURVEY REVEALS

Southern Indiana will provide the state's best squirrel hunting this year, the Department of Conservaion has predicted.

A recommendation that an open season on fox and gray squirrels be declared from August 14 to October 12, both dates inclusive, has been made by Donald R. Hughes, head of the states's Fish and Game division. A public hearing on this matter will be held at 10 a. m. on June 23 in the office of John H. Nigh, director of the Conservation department, who will make the final decision.

Interesting information on Indiana's squirrel population was revealed in a survey taken by Pitman-Robertson Act research men in cooperation with conservation officers and farmers.

This research indicated a poor supply of squirrels in the northern section of the state, a fairly large number in the central portion and a greatly-increased population in the downstate counties.

Pointing out that the 1948 squirrel crop is affected by the amount of mast (acorns, hickory nuts, walnuts and beechnuts) produced last year, the investigators learned that extremely small quantiies of this squirell food were available last fall in northern Indiana. Medium to heavy mast crops were found in the southern half.

This mast production survey was taken last fall in forty counties. Examinaton of squirrels throughout the winter showed them well fed in the south, but a different condition prevailed in th enorthern third of Indiana. There, according to indication, large numbers of squirrels starved to death during the winter. though many adults did survive the winter, there has been little evidence of young squirrels.

So, the Department of Conservation's conclusion is this: The farther south in Indiana you go, the more squirrels you will find.

4-H Girls Enter Talent Hunt

Photographs of members of 4-H Clubs in more than 30 states are pouring in to Hollywood offices of Glenn McCarthy Productions as a nationwide search is begun for a girl Club member to participate in a forthcoming film, "The Green Promise."

Above, Robert Paige and Monty Collins, co-producers of the film, are looking over one day's mail. Paige, star of many Hollywood productions, will enact the role of an agricultural extension agent in the film, which portrays the life of a farm family. Collins is author of the original story and has written many other successful screen plays.

The girl chosen for the part must be not more than 12 years old and must be a regularly enrolled member of a 4-H Club. Four girls will be selected from the photographs submitted, one from each of four sections of the United States. The four will be taken to Hollywood for screen tests and final selection made following those tests.

"The Green Promise" will emphasize the importance of soil conservation and the great value of 4-H Club work in the struggle of a farm family to a higher standard of living. Participation of club members in the talent search has been approved by national extension headquarters and the state offices in the states where the search is being conducted.

The film will be produced by a new independent company formed by Glenn McCarthy, Houston, Texas, industrialist who has a keen interest in better farm living and better farming methods.

BOND SALE NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the Town of St. Joe, in DeKalb County, Indiana, will meet at the hour of eight o'clock p. m. on the 16th day of July, 1948 at the usual meeting place of said Board at the Town Hall, for the purpose of receiving and considering bids for the following described bonds:

An issue of additional waterworks revenue bonds of the Town of St. Joe, DeKalb County, Indiana, in the amount of $2,500.00. Said bonds are to be dated as of June 1, 1948, and bear interest at a rate not exceeding 5% per annum, which interest is payable on January 1, 1949, and semi-annually thereafter. Said bonds will be in the denomination of $500.00 and will mature as follows: $500.00 on July 1, 1975, and $500.00 each year thereafter to and including July 1, 1979. Subject to the prior redemption of all of the now outstanding waterworks revenue bonds, the bonds of this issue shall be redeemable at the option of the Town on January 1, 1967, or any interest payment date thereafter, in their inverse numerical order at the face value thereof, plus a premium of two per cent of such value, and the accrued interest thereon to the date of redemption.

Bidders for these bonds will be required to name the rate of interest which the bonds are to bear, not exceeding five per cent (5%) per annum. Such interest rate must be in multiples of one-fourth (1/4) of one per cent (1%) and not more than one interest rate shall be named by each bidder. The bonds will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder who has submitted his bid in accordance herewith. The highest bidder will be the one who offers the lowest net interest cost to said Town, to be determined by computing the total interest on all of the bonds to their maturities and deducting therefrom the premium bid, if any.

Each bid must be submitted in a sealed envelope, marked "Bid for Waterworks Revenue Bonds" and addressed to the "Board of Trustees, Town of St. Joe, Indiana", and must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of $100.00, payable to the "Town of St. Joe". In the event the bidder to whom said bonds are awarded shall fail or refuse to accept delivery of the same within ten the bonds are ready for delivery, (10) days after being notified that said check and the proceeds thereof shall become the property of said Town of St. Joe, and shall be considered as its liquidated damages growing out of such default. No bid for less than the par value of said bonds, including accrued interest to the date of delivery at the rate named in the bid, will be considered. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Said bonds are being issued under the provisions of Chapter 76 of the Acts of the Indiana General Assembly for the year 1913, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, particularly Chapter 190 of the Acts of 1933, and for the purpose of making extensions and additions to the municipally owned waterworks of said Town. Subject to prior payment of the waterworks revenue bonds issued under date of October 30, 1946, now outstanding in the amount of $63,000.00, the bonds hereinabove described will be a charge upon the net revenues and a lien on the property of said waterworks, and will not constitue a debt of Town within the constitutional provisions and limitations, but will be payable only from the Bond and Interest Retirement Fund heretofore created. All bidders will be presumed to be familiar with the property of said waterworks, its financial condition, and the terms and provisions of the ordinance authorizing the issuance of the bonds.

The approving opinion of Ross, McCord, Ice & Miller, bond counsel of Indianapolis, Indiana, will be furnished to the successful bidder at the expense of said Town.

EIGHT LARGEST TREE OF SPECIES GROW IN STATE

The largest known living trees and shrubs of eight different species are to be found in Indiana.

This information was reported by the American Forestry Association of Washington, D. C., to John H. Nigh, director of the Indiana Department of Conservation, and Kenneth Cougill, director of state parks.

Six of these "largest living specimens of American trees" are located in Dunes State park and two in Turkey Run state park. They were listed by the forestry association as follows:

At the Dunes: Speckled Alder, Bigtooth Aspen, Common Juniper, Staghorn Sumac, Viburnum (Nannyberry) and Common Witchazel.

At Turkey Run: Black Maple, Euonymus (Eastern Burningbush).

The American Forestry Association launched a campaign in Sept., of 1940 to locate the largest living specimens of American trees, and the results were announced after several years of diligent research.

In listing its "champions", the association stated that it also was issuing a challenge to locate trees larger than those reported.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

When you can't fish, Skish! That's a new slogan created by Better Fishing, Inc., a national, non profit organization exclusively devoted to the improvement of fishing.

Probably some of you have tried Skish, others possibly are not acquainted with the new game for fishermen; consequently, this column is being written to tell you a bit about the sport that was started in 1939 and has been making rapid strides since in popularity.

Skish is similar to tournament casting in that you toss your flies and plugs at "targets" instead of fish. It is different from tournament competition in that your regular fishing equipmen is used in Skish, not the special gear that is considered a must for tournament wrok.

Actually, you don't even have to have water to start the sport; a few old bicycle or automoblies tires tossed on the lawn is sufficient for a Skish range. Then get out your bass casting or fly fishing equipment, call a few fishermen friends over to your home and start shooting at tire hoops. That's how simple it is to start Skish. Naturally, there is a set of rules governing the sport, and this code has been nationally established to add uniformity to Skish competition. The rules are simple, however, and quite easy to conform to.

Skish has two big attractions in our opinion. First, any sort of friendly competition among fishermen is grand sport, and second, work on a Skish range will prove valuable practice in sharpening in your casting accuracy and the tance you can obtain with lures. This, naturally, will pay big dividends when fishing your favorite lake or stream. In addition, Skish work will teach you the proper balance to seek in your equipment, the line that best fits your particular rod, the weight of lures that you can handle advantageously. Skish truly is a sport for fishermen; we think you'll like it.

In organizing a Skish club in your community, it would be wise to write - National Skish Board, Better Fishing Inc., 509 South Wabash Ave. Chicago 5, Ill. You'll get all the dope on how to start.

Confident Republicans Choose Dewey-Warren Team for 1948

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA—Bowling over all opposition in an unchecked power drive toward the coveted goal of 548 votes, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, swept to victory on the third ballot at the Republican National Convention.

After a night of speculation on vice-presidential candidates which included the names of Charles Halleck, of Indiana; Senator John Bricker, of Ohio; Governor Warren was put forth as the Dewey choice for the post.

Governor Earl Warren, governor of California, was nominated to the vice-presidency by acclamation after Arizona had withdrawn the name of Harold E. Stassen.

Actually the colorful New Yorker's nomination came by unanimous vote after he had demonstrated unprecedented strength on the first ballot over six other contenders for the nomination. Governor Dewey polled 434 votes on the first ballot to 224 for Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, his nearest competitor, with former Governor Harold E. Stassen trailing in third place with 157 votes. Senator Vandenburg, of Michigan, polled 62; Senator Raymond Baldwin, of Connecticut, 19; Speaker Joe Martin, of Massachusetts, 18; Carroll Reese, of Tennessee, chairman of the GOP national committee, 15; General of the Army Douglas McArthur, 11; Governor Dwight Green, of Illinois, 56; Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, of New Jersey, 35; Governor Earl Warren, of California, 59, and Congressman Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois, 1.

Although it was evident that Governor Dewey's managers were shooting the works for a bandwagon drive, his coalition opponents failed to take action and the second ballot saw him gain 81 scattering votes while Senator Taft gained 50 from Illinois and Stassen lost eight with the others still trailing. With Dewey's total standing at 515 only 33 short of a majority, Governor James Duff, of Pennsylvania, made the first move to stop the parade when he offered a motion to recess the convention. His motion was seconded by Congressman Clarence Brown, of Ohio, Senator Taft's campaign manager, and after the New York delegation offered no objection Speaker Martin, the convention chairman, gavelled the motion through over a chorus of "noes."

Governor Dewey won the nomination because he had the best organization, because his opposition underestimated his strength and despite the fact it broke a Republican party precedent of never having nominated a losing candidate.

The two-time nominee, he was the party's standard bearer in 1944, was given a tremendous ovation when he came into the convention accompanied by his personable wife. His nomination came swiftly after Senator John Bricker, of Ohio, had withdrawn Senator Taft's name and Stassen had himself gone to the platform to withdraw in favor of Dewey. They were quickly followed by Governor Warren, of California, and the others.

Governor Dewey told the delegates he accepted the nomination "unfettered by a single obligation or promise to any living person." His acceptance speech, which evidently had been prepared in advance, since it was delivered in mimeograph form to the press before he made it, was on a high plane of a "spiritual upsurge."

"Our problem," he said, "is most of all spiritual. Our problem is not outside ourselves. Our problem is within ourselves . . . we have devised noble plans for a new world. Without a new spirit, our noblest plans will come to naught."

THOMAS E. DEWEY

Dewey In Center Of Early Activity

Governor Dewey came into the convention as the leading candidate, with approximately 350 votes pledged to him on the first ballot and possibly some 50 to 75 votes as a reserve upon which he could count after favorite son candidates had been moved out of the picture. The New York governor's managers decided, however, after they failed to improve the governor's position in the first two days of the convention, to shoot the works on the first ballot in an effort to start a bandwagon stampede of delegates for the New Yorker. The maneuver, clever phsychologically in many instances, became known as the Dewey "blitz."

It had one effect, however, it united the other leading candidates in a move to "stop Dewey." Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, second man, with some 250 or more delegates on the first ballot and former Governor Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, with some 175 delegates, along with the Connecticut state chairman, Governor Kem Sigler, of Michigan, and some other delegate leaders held a meeting at which they canvassed the situation and decided that Mr. Dewey did not have the votes he claimed.

Further, the Dewey "blitz" brought Senator Arthur Vandenburg from out of his cocoon as a dark-horse and into the picture as an active candidate to be nominated on the first roll call of the states.

First show-down was a split in the Pennsylvania delegation of 73 votes resulting in the withdrawal of Pennsylvania's Senator Edward Martin as a favorite son candidate in favor of Governor Dewey, throwing roughly half of the delegation to the New Yorker. This did not change the picture in the total vote, however, since it meant only that the other half of the Keystone state delegation controlled by Governor James J. Duff would go to Senator Vandenburg on the first ballot instead of waiting until a later ballot.

Then the Missiouri delegation split with Senator James P. Kem, of that state going to Governor Dewey with his following of the delegation and Senator Forrest Donnell holding out for Senator Taft with his Misouri delegates. Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, of New Jersey, who had been flirting with the Vandenburg candidacy for several weeks then pulled into the Dewey camp with his 35-vote delegation. Up to this point before the balloting started, Governor Dewey had reached the peak of his claimed strength.

Confident Spirit Highlights Sessions

Until the demonstrations for candidates started the wild and tumultous session which lasted long into Wednesday night, there had been little enthusiasm and actually small crowds attending the convention. There was an air of tenseness and responsibility about these delegates which did not lend itself to hilarity or horse-play to any large degree.

These delegates gathered here were all convinced they were naming the next President of the United States . . . that 1948 is a sure winner for the Republican party.

The best demonstration up to the roll call of states came when Herbert Hoover, former president and GOP elder statesman was escorted to the platform by Alf Landon, of Kansas, the 1936 nominee. Mr. Hoover was given a 16-minute demonstration, and he made a sturdy, if aged picture there with the kleig lights beaming upon him.

Foreign Aid Plank Features Platform

Highlight of the 1948 GOP platform and chief bone of contention in sessions of the resolutions committee was the foreign relations plank. The all-out approval, however of the European recovery program and support of the United Nations was a clear-cut victory for Senator Arthur Vandenburg, of Michigan, and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, the chairman of the resolutions committee. While ERP was not mentioned by name the platform plank was clear and strong.

The platform was all-inclusive covering the field of domestic issues including conservation of natural resources, farm price supports, economy in government, against high prices, abolition of useless government bureaus, maintenance of an adequate armed service for sea, land and air; reduction of the federal debt and taxes, elimination of monopoly to aid small business, a sound soil conservation program, development of sound farm credit, encouragement of family-sized farms; progressive development of the nation's water resources for navigation, flood control and power; a comprehensive reclamation program; recognition of the nation's obligation to all veterans and a realistic and adequate adjustment of benefits; housing by private enterprise at lower costs, but federal aid for local slum clearance and low-rental housing; extension of the federal old age and survivor's insurance program and increase of the benefits to a more realistic level; strengthening of state-aid programs to provide more adequate hospital facilities, to improve methods of treatment of the mentally ill, to advance maternal and child health.

The civil rights platform plank included an anti-lynching law, abolition of the poll tax as a requisite for voting, opposition to racial segregation in the armed services and "equality of all individuals in their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness . . . right to equal opportunity to work and to advance in life not limited because of race, religion, color, or country of origin."

The platform also pledged new legislation against communism, revision of the procedure for election of president and vice-president to "more exactly reflect the popular vote." This plank referred to the Lodge constitutional revision resolution to change the vote procedure of the electoral college. Equal rights for women, equal pay for equal work regardless of sex, educational opportunities for all and giving title of tideland oil lands to the states completed the document.

Convention Hall Sidelights . . . .

Governor Dwight Green, of Illinois, the convention keynoter who delivered one of the able speeches of the convention, definitely had the lightning rod up on the vice-presidency. However, when the Illinois delegation broke from Green, it went, not to Dewey, but to the hopeless candidacy of Senator Taft. Green couldn't deliver.

For the first time network television carried the live scenes of this convention to the eastern seaboard from Richmond north to Boston.

All television networks "pooled" their shots and fed through a central broadcast station so that all networks received the same coverage.

"Canned" television took the story inland. Around Philadelphia every television set was tuned into convention hall and even in the lounges at the meeting outside the convention floor, the television was for many a much more popular and comfortable method of "covering" the proceedings than the actual convention itself.

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR DEVELOPMENT OF SHADES PARK

With the Shades now Indiana's 15th state park, the Department of Conservation today disclosed its development program for this 1,450-acre wooded region southwest of Crawfordsville.

Conservation officials pointed out that much of the Shades expansion program will be a long range affair but they added that some improvements will be carried out there this summer.

The present trail system is scheduled for immediate improvement by making the trails safer, installing adequate markers and extending some trails to make outstanding points of beauty more accessible.

More adequate parking and picnic facilities wll be added this year. Additional tables will be installed and a new road, providing better access to the picnic areas ,will be constructed.

As funds become available, the department's additional development program will include improving the water plant; constructing a modern comfort station and shelter house in the picnic area; building necessary roads to various centers of activity; developing youth center with group camping accomodation and adequate playfields; construction of overnight cabins for family use, improving the park service area.

With the $250,000 purchase price raised by public subscription, all Save the Shades donations now received are being used for improvements there.

Although no check was made of all contributing organizations Conservation Department officials said that small donations from Indiana's school children produced $11,500 to the Shades fund.

ENTOMOLOGISTS GIVES CONTROL METHODS

A good job of controlling insects on the farm is a four-way matter--cleaning out the weeds selection of insecticides according to the type of insect causing the damage, the use of sanitary and cultural practices, and selection of crop varieties that are resistant or tolerant to insect attacks.

During the next few weeks, the ditch banks, in fence rows and n adjoining pastures and waste land are going to serve as ideal places for the breeding of many pests. These weeds should be controlled by cultivation, sprays and other means. Purdue University extension entomologist advise.

If the insect control job demands spraying or dusting, it is important to know how the insecticides act. Some chemicals kill by contact with the bodys or legs of the insect and this type of poison is uesd to kill sucking insects such as plant lice. The second type of insecticide is a stomach poison for the insect and these chemicals destroy those insects that chew. In this class are grass hoppers, caterpillars and beetles. Therefore some information on the habits and methods of attack o fthe pests is needed.

Control by prevention includes clean cultivation, summer fallowing, early fall plowing and good crop rotation. Another practice which should have been considered in the planning of farm operations is the resistant or tolerant to insect attack.

LET'S BLOW OUR OWN HORN

The Saturday Evening Post recently devoted a lead editorial to an interesting example of the inefficiency of socialism. Fare for commercial plane flights across the Atlantic recently went up $25. The American airlines involved had been showing a profit on their overseas business, and they didn't want to raise the rate. However, the British and French lines, which are government-owned monopolies, had been taking heavy losses and they insisted on the boost. Inasmuch as the American system's right to fly to foreign nations rests on agreements which could be abrogated, there was nothing they could do but go along and charge the higher tariff.

Commenting on this, the Post suggests that the American plane tickets carry a legend such as:"This ticket would have cost $25 less if Socialism were working the way Socialists say it is." It then goes on to make this observation: "Never do these apostles of anti-free enterprise explains just when and where Socialist economies have delivered the goods. They content themselve with pointing out that a 'planned society' ought to deliver the goods because it's a planned society. What's the matter with asking for details of ho wthey do it; and what's the mattheyter with blowing our own horn, just softly, when we do it?"

This matter of the airplane fares isn't an isolated example. As soon as Labor government took over the power industry the rates were raised. Everyone knows of the doldrums her coal industry has been in. And even those businesses which are theoretically free in England are so bedeviled with red-tape, regulations rationing schemes, and so on, that they are in a pitifully low state of efficiency.

News reports say that the Labor government seems to be slowing up in further nationalization of industry. Plans for taking over the iron and steel industries have been sidestepped by leaders. Perhaps some of home with impact to the socialists.

The countries which have whole hog,, and fallen for the Communist line, are in far worse shape still. At best, their peoples--save for the ruling class, which never lacks the luxuries-live on a subsistence basis.

In the meantime, the United States struggles along with much abused free enterprise, and puts up with an unrivaled standard of living, more individual freedom than any other nation has ever know, and a government which, for all its shortcomings, is answerable to the people.

Town and Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

BEWARE of termites — two kinds! If you have termites in your buildings, you had better be careful. That is, you should be careful how you get rid of them. There are also quite a few two-legged "termites" on the loose.

There are some "termite control" operators at large who make life more miserable for the farmer and home owner than the termites they are supposed to control. Now, while most termite control companies are reliable, there are some rotten apples in almost every barrel.

Well, you ask, how can I tell a reliable operator from an unreliable phony? The questionable operators are usually in a hurry —they warn you that the termites will eat up your house in a matter of days if you delay treatment. They try to force immediate action, and are especially attracted to widows and elderly couples.

It's ridiculous to think that termites will eat up your house in a day, or in a month. So if you know that you have them, don't be stampeded into action. Take time to investigate the operator, if you've never heard of him before. See your local better business bureau, the chamber of commerce or your local implement dealer and ask them about the operator's reliability.

If a termite man tells you that he has a secret chemical for killing off the termites, put him on your questionable list. Do the same thing if he claims to have the endorsement of a federal or state agency. Remember, the best chemicals are not secret, and no company has the right to claim special endorsement by a state or federal agency.

While on the subject of insecticides, sprays and such, let me sound a word of warning to home flower gardeners about the chemical killer, 2-4D. It has come to my attention that a woman, proud of her rose garden —worth hundreds of dollars, used a spray can that had previously been used for 2-4D on them. Enough of the chemical had been left in the can to kill every rose in her garden. Be sure and keep a separate can for 2-4D, and use it for no other spray!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

SCRIPTURE: I Kings 22:1-40.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 138:1-8.

Micaiah, A Prophet of Israel

Lesson for July 4, 1948

Dr. Newton

WE BEGIN a new series of studies this quarter—a series of lessons based on less known Bible characters that have much to offer us. Such a character is found in Micaiah, about whom we learn in I Kings 22:1-40.

Ahab, king of Israel, planned an expedition to recover the city of Ramoth in Gilead, which the Syrians had taken. He invited Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, to join him. Ahab relied upon his court prophets to predict victory; but Micaiah, the prophet of God, whom Ahab had shut up in prison, when he was summoned, at the insistence of Jehoshaphat, told Ahab the truth—the unpleasant truth—which subsequent events verified.

BRAVE ENOUGH TO TELL THE TRUTH

THE first blessing in the study of this obscure Bible character, Micaiah, is to discover a man who was brave enough to tell the truth when he knew it was unpopular.

It is always the best policy to tell the truth, though there be many in today's world who deny this principle. It is not enough to say that we will tell the truth because it pays. That is true, but it is a by-product of doing what is right. One must tell the truth because it is right to tell the truth. Men swear with their hand upon the Holy Bible that what they testify is the truth and nothing but the truth. But, alas, such men often tell anything but the truth. They have been carefully coached to evade the truth.

Micaiah told the truth, because he was speaking for God. It hurt him, but it must needs be the truth which he spoke to Ahab.

TRUTH DISREGARDED

AHAB scorned the words of Micaiah, and ordered him thrown back to prison. But scarcely had the prophet of God been thrust again into prison, until Ahab was bleeding to death in his chariot.

Men not only take their own lives in their hands when they disregard the truth, but, like stubborn Ahab, they bring grief to countless others. Had Ahab heeded the words of truth which Micaiah proclaimed, Ahab might have lived. Indeed, had Ahab heeded the words of truth, he might have recovered Ramoth, and more beside.

Truth may appear forever on the scaffold, wrong forever on the throne, but time always proves a hard taskmaster to the man who regards wrong instead of truth.

THE SOURCE OF TRUTH

GOD is the source of truth—all truth. If we miss this, we miss the lesson of the lesson. Note the words of the golden text, "As the Lord liveth, what the Lord saith unto me, that will I speak," said Micaiah.

Let us remember that it was God speaking through his prophet. Ahab could not have doubted that Micaiah was speaking what God had told him to speak. But Ahab did not want to hear the truth. He wanted to hear pleasing words that would encourage him in his evil plan.

God speaks the first and last word on every subject, because God is truth. "I am the truth," said Jesus. And he went on to say, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

THE PENALTY OF DISOBEYING THE TRUTH

HORRIBLE, indeed, was the penalty which Ahab suffered for disregarding the truth. The way of the transgressor is hard—always hard. The wages of sin is death. Be sure your sins will find you out.

Take down your cherished books of history. What do they say to you? That the straight line of truth is the only safe way in which to walk. It is applicable for the individual, for the family, for the community, for the nation, for civilization.

Thus every great prayer must be "Thy will be done." God's will is the way of truth. Micaiah declared it. Every true prophet must declare it. It is the only way to peace and joy in this world.

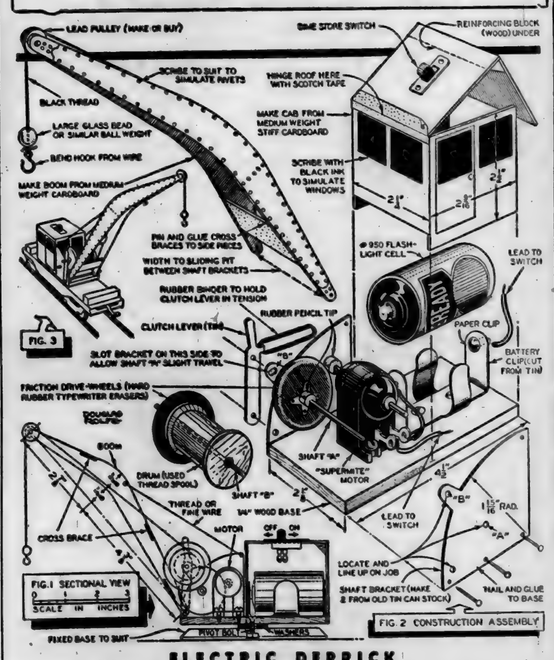
FATHER and SON



ELECTRIC DERRICK

Budget: Dad, $3.00 for motor—Son, 45 cents for materials
Materials may be obtained at local hobby shop.

Dear Dad:

This little power-operated crane works like a charm from one standard Eveready flashlight cell and has plenty of lifting power besides, since the cable drum is stepped down by two simple friction gears which insure a slow, steady and positive hoist.

Parts needed besides the motor include a 10¢ switch (obtainable at any electrical supply or dime store), a sheet of stiff cardboard (2-ply illustration board is admirable for the purpose), two circular typewriter erasers, two ordinary rubber pencil tips, a discarded thread spool, a bit of ¼-inch wood, a tube of model airplane cement, some pieces of tin which can be cut from any old tin can, and a 10¢ Eveready flashlight cell.

Drive from the motor is taken off by centering one of the rubber pencil tips on the motor shaft and mounting an idler shaft "A" complete with friction wheel (one of the typewriter erasers) between the shaft brackets so that the pencil-tip drive pulley engages the eraser wheel firmly yet without binding. Another pencil tip is mounted on the idler shaft flush against the friction wheel and this in turn engages a second friction wheel (your other eraser) which is mounted on the drum shaft "B". Shaft "B" is mounted in one plain bearing and one slotted bearing (see Fig. 2). The shaft extends through the slot and into and beyond the clutch lever. Reason for this is so that when it is desired to lower the hoist cable the clutch lever can be moved forward and thus disengage the drum shaft, which then is a free-wheeling unit and lets the cable lower itself for a fresh hoist. Care should be taken in aligning the shaft bearing holes, and this is best done by punching or drilling the holes in both shaft brackets as one piece after carefully determining their position, which of course will depend upon the exact size of the typewriter eraser friction wheels available. As these vary in size, no exact dimensions can be given at this point.

Sincerely yours,

Doug Rolfe

HERE 'N THERE IN SPORTS

By Lewis Walter

THEY HAVENT FOLDED YET—Yes, thats one of the big surprises o fthe American League and the whole of the major leagues; not just that the Philadelphia Athletics started out like a house-a-fire and led the whole pack for the first month---they have done that before. But now its rolling along in the race where you could in the past years pick up your paper, see the city name of Philadelphia, appearing at the bottom of the American League standings, and just say to yourself, "I knew that was coming".

. But here it is with the first week of Juy coming up, the month, some of the men who have been around baseball a long time, say will tell the flag winners, And that the club that is leading by the Fourth of July are usually a "shoo-in" for the top spot.

And look-heres the A's, led by Connie (just one more pennant) Mack, who manages his boys from the dug-out dressed in his best suit, right up there breathing down Lou Boudreau, and the Cleveland Indians neck; a comparatively young manager, who is also trying to bring home a Cleveland winner for the first time in over 20 years.

The A's path however, that had brough them to within 11 percentage points of Cleveland, after last Sunday's game, hasn't been all easy They had a perfect excuse to fold just several weeks ago when the grand old man got a little bit irked when it appeared several of his pitchers weren't giving everything. He released Bill Deitrich, when it appeared that his usefullness was end-and then just several days laters in the heat of blowing a game to St. Louis, told veteran Nels Potter, to pick up his pay if he couldn't do any better. And this, added to a already overworked staff of "unknown miracle hurlers", who were being plagued with the minor ailments that befall the best of the flingers gave a lot of the forecasters adequate grounds to predict that the Quaker City boys were ready to take the long chute --- destination--second division. They started that way but quickly snapped out, and that's what makes them look like real contenders. Sunday afternoon saw the Mackmen extend their newest winning streak to 7 games when they clipped the Chisox twice, 6 to 5 and 6 to 2. Barney McCosky's big bat was the telling story in both games. He slashed out a two run triple in a big 4 run, fourth inning, and then just to keep things rolling he salmmed out 3 hits in the nightcap.

. . . . . .

The St. Joe High School Softball team will make their first appearance on the home diamond, when they will meet the Journal Gazzette newsboy team from Ft. Wayne, here at the High School diamond, Friday evening. The game will get under way at 6:30.

Balls Foundry Wins 6-4

The Balls Foundry of Auburn over came a seemingly good 4 to 1 lead that the legion held at the end of 3 inninings to score at least one run in the last three frames, and thus handed the locals a 6-4 loss in the third round of play at Auburn, Tuesday evening. The Foundry boys pushed their first tally across in the second, but the locals came back in the third to do their only solid hitting of the evening, when they bunched 4 hits and a walk for 4 runs. That was the end of the local scoring and Ed Grimm, tossing them in for the Auburn boys, had a fairly easy time of it from there on out.

Play Auburn Legion Next Tues.

The locals will be matched against the Auburn American Legion in their next league game at Auburn, Tuesday, July 6, at 7:15 p. m.

INDIANA AUTO CENSUS UP 22.1% SINCE 1944

Indiana, with its automobile population up 22.1 per cent since 1944, ranks thirteenth among the states in recovering from the wartime low in car registration, Powel Crosley, Jr., pioneer lightweight car manufacturer ,pointed out here today.

Such a gain in the Hoosier State is especially significant," he said, "because car registrations have dropped considerably in the industrial east, midwest and grain states, with marked shifts of population to the south, southwest and Pacific Coats.

"Indiana appears not only to have held its own against this trend but also to have improved the economy of its people."

Motor vehicle ownership in this state rose from 942, 854 in 1944 to 1,151,157 last year. Continued progress in this direction, Crosely said is reflected in the growing demand for small cars which provide economical transportation for many families who have hitherto been priced out of the automotive market.

Based on recent census figures, there is one passenger car for every four persons in Indiana ,the state ranking seventeenth in the nation in this respect.

A GOLDEN LINING

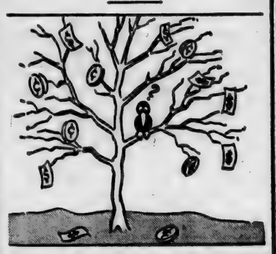
IN OUR town, the Nolan sisters, Samantha, aged 98, and Agatha, aged 96, had lived alone in their ancient mansion for many years. When Samantha passed away, sympathetic neighbors, for the first time in ages, ventured to intrude upon the Nolan mansion—for the purpose of consoling Agatha and assisting her in her hour of tragic loss.

Agatha accepted the assistance willingly enough, but for sympathy and consolation she seemed to have little need.

"Agatha," one neighbor was bold enough to remark, "you don't seem to be very much affected by your sister's passing."

"Well, mebby not," acknowledged the surviving Nolan. "Guess it's 'cause I've just realized—now I can have my tea made as I like it!"

KEPT PRICE DOWN



"Pop, I'm fully aware that money doesn't grow on trees and that when you were my age you were earning your own living, but can I have a nickel?"

Dangerous Crop

In the hills of Idaho during prohibition many a small farmer, who'd never heard of Sir Oliver Lodge, eked out his income by materializing some highly interesting, if slightly illicit, spirits. Shortly after repeal, a group of farmers was conversing in a store in one of the communities where this risky business had not been unknown. A heated discussion was in progress as to whether or not any money could be made by farming in that vicinity. A newcomer joined the little gathering.

"Henry," someone asked, "you've made money farming in these parts, haven't you?"

"Well, yes," Henry replied cautiously, "I did make some. But I come close to being caught a couple of times."

Poor Teacher

Police Judge—Well, Sam, about your son stealing those chickens, I've decided to let him off this time, but why don't you show him the right way?

Sam — Ah done tried hard, Judge, but he goes and gets hisself caught anyhow.

Accurate Figures

There was quite a gathering of local hunters in the restaurant. Two more arrived and were asked how many rabbits they'd bagged that morning. The younger of the two said, "Ain't got nothing to talk about. Three hours hunting and we only got 99 rabbits."

"Cripes," somebody said, "why'nt you say a hundred?"

The older of the pair, after a moment's thought, said, "Brother, I've hunted these mountains for 20 years, and I've got my first hunter to meet who'd tell a lie for one measly rabbit!"

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS TO HOLD TRY-OUT CAMP AT LOGANSPORT, INDIANA

The St. Louis Cardinals, always strong contenders for the National League Pennant, will conduct a three-day try-out camp at Riverside Park, Logansport Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 8, 9, and 10. The camp, made possible through the cooperation of H. A. Eisenbise, of the Logansport Chamber of Commerce, is one of more than 60 scheduled by the Cardinals this summer.

Workouts, which will get under way at 11 o'clock each morning, will be under the superivsion of George Silvey, former Pacific Coast League first sacker and minor league infielder. These two experienced scouts will put the aspirants through regular drills in running, fielding, hitting and throwing, giving each player a real chance to show what he has to offer the major leagues. To wind up the camp activities, several games will be played between teams made up of players in attendance at the camp.

Players are requested to bring their own gloves and baseball shoes. Those who have uniforms are asked to bring them along, although they are not required. All expenses incident to attending the camp will be refunded to those players who are signed to contracts to any of the 21 minor league clubs comprising the Cardinal chain.

The door to big league baseball is open to those who qualify. It is an opportunity that boys between the ages of 17 and 23 cannot afford to miss. For further information, write Logansport Try-out Camp, c-o St. Louis Cardinals, St. Louis, 7, Mo.

DEADLINE NEAR FOR REINSTATING NATIONAL SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE

The Veterans Administration office today reminded veterans that July 31, 1948, is the final day for reinstating National Service Life Insurance with taking a physical examination.

Veterans who have allowed their term insurance to lapse can reinstate until that date simply by paying two monthly premiums at the same rate they paid while in service and stating that they are in as good health as they were at time of lapse.

After July 31 a physical examination will be required at the veteran's expense, unless given by VA doctor in one of the VA hospitals.

Farm Reforms Urged for Poland

A Polish woman worker shovels apples dumped in an outdoor bin. A mission of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) reports that Poland's food supply is in a state of emergency and has recommended sweeping reforms to raise food production. Among the measures suggested are improvements in the home and commercial processing of fruits and vegetables and a system of rationing.

Safety Measures Eliminate Bull Hazards

When it comes to handling bulls, every week is National Farm Safety Week at the Curtiss Candy Company farms in northern Illinois.

While all good safety practices are encouraged during National Farm Safety Week from July 25 to 31, special emphasis is placed upon the careful handling of bulls which still represent one of the greatest hazards in farm operations. For years therefore, the Curtiss farms have worked to develop standard practices which have now completely eliminated the danger of casualties often experienced from those animals.

All outdoor bull pens on the Curtiss farms are constructed to allow a 2-foot open space between the fencing or railing and the ground. As shown in the top picture, this feature enables a man to roll out of the pen almost instantaneously should he be attacked. Too many farms still build solid fences which prevent escape from an enraged animal. The bull in the background behind the rolling man is Curtiss Candy Levity Heir, undefeated two-year-old Guernsey bull at 1946 shows.

The left bottom picture shows a special chain attachment hooked onto the ring in the bull's nose, passing up his face and thrown around his horns. Even though an individual is knocked down and the bull's head lowered for a charge, a man can readily grab the chain and gain immediate control of the animal from a prone position on the ground. The bull wearing the chain is Curtiss Candy Signal Ned, grand champion Brown Swiss bull wherever shown in 1947.

Another important safety feature is the self-opening door on the bull barn shown in the lower right picture, with Signal Ned making his exit. By means of this door, which is pivoted above the center and protected below with metal sheathing, the bull can enter and leave his quarters without the necessity of having his keeper operate the door for him. Besides this obvious safety feature of eliminating the possibility of contact between the animal and a person, it also saves the farmer the necessity of letting the bull in or out of his barn when the time might be entirely inconvenient for him owing to other duties elsewhere.

Canning Liquid Loss

Loss of liquid in processing may result from cooking food too short a time to drive out the air that's in it before packing it in the jars, packing jars too full, leaving air bubbles in the jars, not keeping pressure steady in a pressure canner and by lowering pressure too suddenly at the end of the processing period.

Fire Fights Fire

North Carolina is fighting fire with fire. A state fire warden has perfected a special flame-thrower for use in quickly setting back fires when forests are threatened.

The Treasure State

Montana is known as the "Treasure State." It is richly endowed with raw materials essential to industrial production. Coal reserves have been estimated at more than 400 billion tons.

SAFETY PROGRAM GIVEN FOR HOLIDAY DRIVING

Traffic accidents will mar the holiday pleasure of one Indiana family out of every 65 taking motor trips during the Independece Day week-end, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club warned today.

One family in every 500 will suffer a traffic fatality or serious injury as the heaviest holiday traffic in history produces a toll of 15 deaths and 570 serious injures on Indiana highways July 2 to 6th, Mr. Mr. Hayes said that holiday drivers might reduce this highway toll indicated by past accident experience and present travel volume if they would adopt and apply the following four point program of safe holiday driving practices:

(1) To schedule trips so as to avoid fatigue ,night-driving ,or the necessity for fast driving. Two-third of all fatal accidents occur at night. Excessive fatigue combined with excessive speeds are almost equally fatal.

(2) To increase the margin of driving error, especially distance allowances in passing or following cars and control of speeds at intersections, railroad crossings, bridges approaches and other hazardous points.

(3)To condition the car for holiday driving, double checking all safety equipment, including brakes, windshield wipers, lights, and tires.

(4) Local traffic to avoid overcrowded main highways and arterial streets particularly at the beginning and close of the holiday period Monday afternoon and evening.

Declaration of Independence!

He's on his own. It's a wonderful feeling. He can go places now. And he'll keep on going places all his life—as long as he keeps his sense of independence.

That's America's richest resource—not forest, field or mine, but the spirit of her people. Ambition, energy, self-reliance are the reasons why individuals—and industries—grow great from small beginnings.

Take the electric industry—this company, for example. A few practical dreamers strung the first lines. People of faith and vision risked their savings. Other folks combined skill and hard work to produce better and better service—at lower and lower cost—creating more and more jobs—and carrying the benefits of electric living to more and more people.

That's the American way of progress. Free enterprise, vision and hard work. They are what built America and the highest standard of living in the world.

No nation has ever found a satisfactory substitute for that combination. No nation ever will.

Services Friday For Mrs. Argel Sechler

Lukemia Fatal After Long Illness To Former St. Joe Resident

Mrs. Geneva P. Sechler, aged 47, wife of Argel Sechler, died Tuesday night at 10:15 at the family home 5 miles north east of Hicksville. She had been ill for more than two years with Lukemia and had been bedfast for over two months.

Mrs. Sechler was born February 28, 1901 at Independence Ind., and was a daughter of Vincent and Nancy Smith Martin. When a small girl she lived for a short time in Arkansa. Later they lived at Auburn and Spencerville, before coming to St. Joe, where she was united in marriage with Argel Sechler on June 25, 1921. After their marriage they lived in DeKalb Co., and Williams Co., Ohio, before moving to Milford Twp., 16 years ago.

She was a member of the West Milford Church of Christ and the Milford Township Community Club. Surviving her are the husband, one son Keith at home, 3 daughters, Mrs. Carmen McBride of Coldwater, Mich., Miss June Sechler of Fort Wayne and Marjean Sechler at home a grandson; her mother, Mrs. Nancy Martin of St. Joe, a sister, Miss Freda Martin of Ft. Wayne; five brothers, Paul Martin of St. Joe(Cecil Martin of Cadillac, Mich., Woodrow Martin of Auburn, Gerald Martin of Huntington, Indiana, and Gordon Martin of Garrett.

The body was taken to the Perkins and Reeb funeral home in Hicksville where it will remain until the funeral hour. Service will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the West Milford Church of Christ. Rev. William Nice will officiate.

Burial will be in Riverview cemetery at Newville.

AUBURN LIONS CLUB AND BAR NONE SADDLE CLUB TO SPONSOR HORSE SHOW AGAIN THIS YEAR

The Auburn Horse Show for 1948 will be held at Arcor Field on Sunday, July 11th. The program will include nine events in the afternoon, beginning at 1:00 p. m., and seven events in the evening, commencing at 7:30 p. m.

An elaborate show ring will be erected in Arocor Field and tent facilities to accommodate in excess of 200 horses will be provided. The Committee reports that entries have been received from many of the top notch exhibitors in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Illinois, and this year's show promises to be the largest and finest exhibit of good horses ever presented in DeKalb County.

Seventeen local merchants are sponsoring the sixteen events. $1500 in cash prizes wil be awarded and beautiful gold trophies will be presented to the winner of each event in addition to the ribbons for the various classes .

Northeastern Indiana is individually honored by having the Lions Inidana All-State Band to appear in connection with the horse show this year. This band, of over 75 pieces, is made up of outstanding musicians from all parts of the state and has appeared at various International Lions Club meetings and conventions for the past several years. Wherever this band has been presented it has been acclaimed one of the finest musical organizations of its kind in the United States.

The Grounds Committee reports that the show area is in excellent condition, adequate lighting has been provided, and plenty of parking space is available.

Reserved box seats are available the day of the show or may be obtained in advance from any member of the Auburn Lions Club.

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL AT ST. JOE CLOSES

The Daily Vacation Bible School of the Church of Christ was held from June 21st to July 2nd and closed with a recital Friday evening at 8 p. m.

The school was quite successful with an enrollment of 85 girls and boys and an average daily attendance of 69. The classes and teachers were as follows: Kindergarten-Josephine Kees; Primary-Evelyn Shaffer; Juniors-Loretta Keesler;; Intermediates-J. L. Sennett.

The teacher's helpers were Anita McMaken, Paula Harts, Kathleen Fogle, Connie Stewart, Willard Hurni and Mrs. Harry Strong.

Friday evening the girls and boys presented a nice program to their parents and friends showing the accomplishments of the two weeks. At the close of the program, cetrificates and pins were presented to the girls and boys. A missionary offering was taken and the full amount will be sent to further the work of an orphanage.

COUNTY HOME EC GROUP HOLD PICNIC

The DeKalb County Home Economics Picnic met at the Eckhart Park in Auburn on June 24. Grant and Franklin townships were hostesses for the day. The Grant township president, Mrs. Mildred Gregg, and her club were in charge of the tables and the food for the day. Mrs. Luella Gurtner, president of Franklin township, and her club were responsible for the program. Serving on the program were the first half of the local township home economics clubs.

Preceding the delicious dinner served at the noon hour, the Home Economics Council held a business meeting in charge of the county home economics president, Mrs. Grace Laub. Camp cards for the Home Economics Women's Camp to be held August 22-24 were distributed. These cards are available at the county extension office. It is expected that DeKalb County will furnish a large group of home economics women on this three-day vacation at Epworth Forest on Lake Webster. The County Home Economics Association voted to send three 4-H club members to State Fair School during the first part of September. Preliminary plans for the Home Economics Achievement Program on November 4 were discussed by the group. Plans are being made for a very interesting all-day program. This achievement program will be held at the Butler High School gymnasium.

The DeKalb County Home Economics Chorus furnished three songs for the afternoon program and special guests for the day were the Allen County Home Economics Chorus with Mrs. Dortha DeForest as director. The group thoroughly enjoyed the program furnished by the county and guests. Approximately 175 were in attendance at this all-day function.

INDIANA FACTORY PAYROLLS STAY AT SAME LEVEL FOR 30 DAY PERIOD

Conflicting forces in industrial activity maintained Indiana factory employment and pay rolls at approximately the same level from mid-April to mid-May, according to a survey released today by the Indiana Employment Security Division in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistic.

May manufacturing production worker employment was estimated at 338,300 workers, up 0.5 per cent from mid-April, but 2. 4 per cent weekly pay rolls were estimated at $17,359,178 drop of 0.2 per cent from mid-April, but a 0.7 per cent rise above previous year levels.

Relative stability in the employment and pay roll picture resulted from a wide range of counterbalancing changes, within individual industries and groups. The survey shows a seasonal upswing in construction activity which stimulated employment and pay rolls of plumbing supplies and lumber and timber products industries. However, these gains were offset by seasonal reductions in agricultural equipment and furniture industries.

LUTHERAN LADIES AID ENTERTAIN

On Wednesday afternoon June 16, the Ladies Aid of the Spencerville Lutheran church entertained the ladies of the Methodist Church of that place at their regular aid meeting in the Lutheran Church. Sixty-one ladies and children spent the afternoon enjoying the program furnished by members of the host church. A play entitled "From Small Beginnings", which portrayed the founding of a missionary society was presented by several ladies dressed in the attires of the 1870's. It represented the beginnings of the manys tasks the women are now completing in church work and although comically played, its basis was a good christian act among women. Phyllis Chaney presented the selection "Danny Boy" as a vocal solo. Mrs. Mumma of Harlan, formerly the Lutheran ministers wife of this place gave the devotions and later in the afternoon brought greeting and reminiscence to her old and new acquaintances. This was a very pleasant part of the program as Mrs. Mumma with her secret personality and disposition found herself among many old friends and her return and kind words was a happy moment for old and young alike. Following the program the ladies moved to the basement where a color scheme of pink and white prevailed. Zelpha Steward, president of the group and Flossie, vice president, presided at the serving table laid in lace, centered with a bowl of American Beauty roses, and with tall pink and white tapers burning at each end of the table. There the guests were served grape punch and white cake, iced in delicate pink. Large pink and white mints, and nuts in pink baskets, completed the menu. While the guests seated themselves at the tables, Mrs. Stevenson very ably presented a toast aptly fitted to the occassion. Lois Fisher presented the response and expressed her thanks on the behalf of her guest group A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by all present and the ladies departed feeling that on this spirit of love and cooperation was the future hope of all Christian groups. The Methodist Ladies say "Thanks" and the Lutherans reply "You're very welcome, please come again".

HOGS IN PASTURE STILL NEED SALT

Even though Hoosier hogs are roving through lush alfalfa pasture, they still need extra salt just as did when they were being fed dry lot rations which were low in salt, during the winter months.

The 1947 tests made at the Purdue University experimental swine farm with growing and fattening hogs on alfalfa pasture showed that the rate of gain was increased and feed requirements reduced by feeding a mineral mixture of limestone and steamed bone meal. Further improvement was noted by feeding loose salt free choice with the mineral mixture, when the basal ration corn and soybean oil meal, C. M. Vestal of the Agricultural Experiment staff, reports.

For each pound of salt consumed, there were eight pounds of extra gain and a saving of $1.40 worth of feed. The average daily consumption of salt was two-thirds of an ounce per hog, which was more than was eaten by hogs on a similar ration in previous dry-lot experiment.

Vestal adds that hogs without minerals did more rooting of the pasture than was observed in the other lots. Although these hogs had a thrifty appearance and gained uniformly, it was the comparison with other hogs receiving the salt and mineral mixture that showed how inefficiently the hogs that were denied salt were being produced.

FOOD TRAIN HEAD

President Frederick L. Hovde of Purdue university has been appointed state chairman for a Hoosier Food Relief train which will be assembled in the state this fall. The announcement was made by Dennis R. Anderson, state director for the Christian Rural Overseas program (CROP), which will sponsor the train.

CROP is supported by Catholic and Protestant church groups. All major agricultural organizations are cooperating. Gifts in kind—especially whole grains and livestock—will be solicited from Indiana farmers. County chairmen will be appointed soon.

Uncle Sam Says

There are few Americans who cannot get a thrill out of watching crops or flowering plants grow. And by the same token there are few who cannot feel the satisfaction of planting their money where it will grow. Invest in U. S. Savings Bonds and your money will grow, producing $4 for every $3 put into these bonds. Your country needs your money and you will need money to do the things you dream of today. If you are a wage earner see to it that your name is included with those already enrolled for the payroll savings plan.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

Kenora, Ontario—By the time it takes you to count from one to 10, a scheduled airliner will either have landed or taken off from some airport in the states. Planes flying the domestic routes take off or land on an average of 400 times each hour 'round the clock.

You don't find that much air activity up in this country, primarily because there aren't as many planes. But if it were not for the small airlines and the capable bush pilots, travel today would be no better in this wilderness than in the days of the Voyagers. Back then trappers spent the entire summer on the canoe-portage routes taking their furs to market and returning home. Today they fly the same distance in a few hours, even a few miuntes in some cases.

When we first arrived in this Ontario town, we looked up Gordon Hollingsworth of Ontario Central Airlines, a small organization that has been in business only a couple of year and asked for a ride out to our headquarters for a fishing trip.

Within an hour we were aboard a Norseman aircraft, along with several hundred feet of lumber, food supplies and other items, on our way. They haul all and everything.

By automobile, train and canoe-over a five portage route--it would have taken us 12 to 18 hours to reach camp. In the Norseman it was only a 35 minute flight.

When mining activites are booming, much of the airline's business is to and from the mining camps. But with mining at a low ebb now, the principle business is hauling fisherman and supplies back into the bush country.

The operators of these small airlines have the business worked out to a fine schedule, too. To show a profit it is necessary to fly "payloads" both ways. When they take in only one or two fishermen, they fill out the balance of a safe carrying weight with supplies, groceries and other items for resorts. And they calculate their in-going trips to mesh with out going parties.

If ever there were a combination of passenger conductor, freight hustler, grocery delivery boy, sportsman's guide, and postman it is the bush pilot of this north country. And from what we've seen in recent days they do all the jobs equally well.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

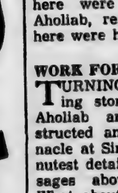
By LOUIS D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Exodus 31:1-11; 35:30—36:1; II Chronicles 1:5.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Exodus 20:1-17.

Bezalel, The Craftsman

Lesson for July 11, 1948

THE dignity of labor, the source of artistic ability, the secret of mechanical skill, and the service of good workmanship—these are the facets that break across the ages, pointing us to worthier effort, as we study again the achievement of Bezalel and his associates in the construction and furnishing of the Tabernacle at Sinai.



Dr. Newton

You will wish to read the scripture passages for the lesson and the devotional reading, Exodus 20:1-17, and the golden text: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might," Ecclesiastes 9:10.

A MAN WHO DID FINE WORK

BEZALEL, grandson of Hur, son of Caleb, was called of God to superintend the building of the Tabernacle. His name means "under the shadow of God." He knew how to do fine work, having been trained in Egyptian art and handicraft—metallurgy, carpentry, weaving, embroidery, leather-dyeing, gem-cutting and confections. He even knew the art of apothecary.

Best of all, he loved to do fine work. It is one thing to possess the know how, it is yet another thing to love the execution of a great design.

TRAITS OF CHARACTER

BEZALEL possessed knowledge as a fine craftsman, but back of this technical knowledge was spiritual discernment. He was filled "with the spirit of God." He worked at the temporal, but he worked for the eternal.

He possessed wisdom — wisdom which comes only from God. Wisdom which means understanding in the sense in which Solomon speaks in Proverbs.

Picture life with every workman filled with the spirit of God, and possessing an understanding of his task in the light of God's eternal will. Here, I fancy, Henry Van Dyke may have got the inspiration for his great poem on "Work."

HANDS THAT SERVE GOD

AHOLIAB, meaning "the father is my tabernacle," was called of God to help Bezalel in this high and holy task. He was of the tribe of Dan—which tribe furnished Hiram as chief artist in building Solomon's temple. Aholiab, "given of God" for this divine task, gladly dedicated his skillful hands in helping Bezalel.

And there were many others who helped—"wise hearted," we read. Here was a task, God's task, and here were leaders, Bezalel and Aholiab, ready to serve God; and here were helpers, wise hearted.

WORK FOR EVERY DAY

TURNING now from the fascinating story of how Bezalel and Aholiab and their helpers constructed and furnished the Tabernacle at Sinai, according to the minutest detail as outlined in the passages above cited, let us ask What about our work?

There is work for everyone every day. "To every man his work." And every task is essential in bringing to pass the Kingdom of God on earth. God did not make us for idleness. He made us for a purpose—that purpose to do our particular work. None other can do what God has ordained that we should do.

"My Father worketh hitherto, and I work," said Jesus. "Work, for the night cometh when no man can work."

Will my work be done ere the night come?

"Time worketh,
Let me work, too,
Busy as time my work I ply,
Till I work the work of eternity."

New Generations

God is the infinitely peraistent experimenter, and when one generation fails him he always tries another. Always there is a new generation as fresh and multitudinous as morning dew, to hear again God's gracious gospel and have an opportunity to respond to his inspiring challenge.—E. M. Walker.

Missions

Whether we like it or not, we have been thrust into a world that has been crowded up into such close quarters that there is no longer any "home mission" field or "foreign mission" territory. The needs of all the world are our problem.

OUTSLUG LOCALS Auburn American Legion Post 97, power at the plate was just too much for the local Legion team and after a last inning St. Joe rally fell short the Auburn vets were holding at 10 to 8 win, Tuesday evening in league play at Auburn.

Shuff, Miller Hit Home Runs

The hit parade started early with the Auburn boys doing the stick work, with local pitcher Deiderich, on the receiving end. Quance's home run featured the first inning which saw no less than 5 Auburn Legionaires cross the plate. In the third inning the locals hit the score column when P. Moore dropped a long triple near the foul line in left field, and then walked home, when Miller, slammed a line drive over the left field fence. The locals again hit pay dirt in the fifth, after Auburn had punched across their sixth run in the bottom of the fourth. Ridgway just missed getting a four-bagger, but was held at third as the locals chased Geisinger from the mound with a three run outburst. Daub came in with none out to retire the side without further damage. Auburn added three in the last of the fifth on their second round tripper of the evening, and then picked up a run in the sixth to lead 10 to 5, going into the last frame.

Comes With 2 On

In the last inning, Ridgway walked after two were out, and when Miller's ground smash handcuffed the Auburn shortstop, both runners were safe, setting the stage for Shuff's screaming line drive circuit clout in right field. Daub settled down after that to retire the last man, and get credit for the win.

2 HIT PITCHING, TIMELY HITTING told the winning story Sunafternoon, as the Legion shut out the Butler Produce by a 2 to 0 score at the diamond here Sunday afternoon. Miller and Bleeks combined a fifth inning hitting attack, as Ridgway, pitched near perfect ball to set the Butler boys down wiht a neat two hit job. The two teams turned in one of the best performances of the game played at the local diamond in many a year.

Ridgway, finding almost perfect control, and Riser of Butler, who got out of several early inning jams, leaving a number of local baserunners on the sacks, hooked up in a scoreless pitching duel that wasn't broken untill the fifth.

Slams Long Home Run

Riser, appeared to be having one of his best inning on the mound for visitors in the fifth. P. Moore flied out, and Ridgway was throw out at first. Miller, however, slashed a single through center, and then raced home a few steps ahead of Bleeks a moment later when the latter caught one of Riser's fast ones and slammed it hard and far into deep left center for the only runs of the game.

Return Game at Butler

The locals will play a return game at Butler next Sunday afternoon, playing the Produce team their third game of the year. The locals suffered an early 16-13 defeat under the lights there.

Play Auburn Clutch July 15

The Legion's next league game will be played on Thursday night July 15, at 7:15, at Arcor Field in Auburn. They will take on the Auburn Clutch for their first meeting of the season.

Hawaii and Alaska are now running neck and neck in the race for Statehood. Last week Hawaii sent Guy Cordon of Oregon enough fresh pineapple to supply the retaurant tables of the Capitol. Alaska's "plug" was several hundred pounds of salmon. BOND SALE NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the Town of St. Joe, in DeKalb County, Indiana, will meet at the hour of eight o'clock p. m. on the 16th day of July, 1948 at the usual meeting place of said Board at the Town Hall, for the purpose of receiving and considering bids for the following described bonds:

An issue of additional waterworks revenue bonds of the Town of St. Joe, DeKalb County, Indiana, in the amount of $2,500.00. Said bonds are to be dated as of June 1, 1948, and bear interest at a rate not exceeding 5% per annum, which interest is payable on January 1, 1949, and semi-annually thereafter. Said bonds will be in the denomination of $500.00 and will mature as follows: $500.00 on July 1, 1975, and $500.00 each year thereafter to and including July 1, 1979. Subject to the prior redemption of all of the now outstanding waterworks revenue bonds, the bonds of this issue shall be redeemable at the option of the Town on January 1, 1967, or any interest payment date thereafter, in their inverse numerical order at the face value thereof, plus a premium of two per cent of such value, and the accrued interest thereon to the date of redemption.

Bidders for these bonds will be required to name the rate of interest which the bonds are to bear, not exceeding five per cent (5%) per annum. Such interest rate must be in multiples of one-fourth (1/4) of one per cent (1%) and not more than one interest rate shall be named by each bidder. The bonds will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder who has submitted his bid in accordance herewith. The highest bidder will be the one who offers the lowest net interest cost to said Town, to be determined by computing the total interest on all of the bonds to their maturities and deducting therefrom the premium bid, if any.

Each bid must be submitted in a sealed envelope, marked "Bid for Waterworks Revenue Bonds" and addressed to the "Board of Trustees. Town of St. Joe, Indiana", and must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of $100.00, payable to the "Town of St. Joe". In the event the bidder to whom said bonds are awarded shall fail or refuse to accept delivery of the same within ten (10) days after being notified that the bonds are ready for delivery, said check and the proceeds thereof shall become the property of said Town of St. Joe, and shall be considered as its liquidated damages growing out of such default. No bid for less than the par value of said bonds, including accrued interest to the date of delivery at the rate named in the bid, will be considered. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Said bonds are being issued under the provisions of Chapter 76 of the Acts of the Indiana General Assembly for the year 1913, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, particularly Chapter 190 of the Acts of 1933, and for the purpose of making extensions and additions to the municipally owned waterworks of said Town. Subject to prior payment of the waterworks revenue bonds issued under date of October 30, 1946, now outstanding in the amount of $63,000.00, the bonds hereinabove described will be a charge upon the net revenues and a lien on the property of said waterworks, and will not constitue a debt of Town within the constitutional provisions and limitations, but will be payable only from the Bond and Interest Retirement Fund heretofore created. All bidders will be presumed to be familiar with the property of said waterworks, its financial condition, and the terms and provisions of the ordinance authorizing the issuance of the bonds.

The approving opinion of Ross, McCord, Ice & Miller, bond counsel of Indianapolis, Indiana, will be furnished to the successful bidder at the expense of said Town.

INDIANA NOW SECOND IN TOMATOE GROWING

The Indiana Department of Commerce and Public Relations will assist a committee of Indiana canners and tomato growers in winning for Indiana first place among the states in tomato production and canning, according to the director of the department, Lt.-Governor Rue J. Alexander.

Mr. Alexander said that Indiana ranked first in tomato production until recent years, but has now taken second place behind California. He praised the determination of the industry to win back the leading position.

"It is recognized nationally among the experts that Indiana tomatoes are the finests and we are glad to see the canning industry begin to make plans to advertise that fact to the nation. Our department intends to help the campaign along Our canned vegetable crops bring our farmers an income of around $19,000,000 annually, while labor receives about $12,000,000 and suppliers about $14,000,000. This is big business for everyone concernd and it is to the state's best interest to try to conserve this income and expand it if possible."

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE URGES GREATER SALVAGE OF USED FATS

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that fats and oils production in 1948 will probably be less in the U. S. this year than in 1947, due to a decline in animal fat production, less copra (dried coconut kernels) imports and re stricted whale oil imports.

"With supply prospects down," the Department of Agriculture states, "the need for fat salvage goes up. Industry still needs salvaged fat. Millions of pounds of used cooking fat saved under the fat salvage program in past years have gone through commercial channels into industrial use. Kitchen fat this is edible has many used in thrifty kitchens. If this used fat is inedible or no longer needed in the household ,to be sure all of it finds its way into the fat salvage can. It can then add its weight to poundage already collected to meet industrial prewar.

"For 1948," the Department of Agriculture says, "the total output of fats and oils may be 300 to 400 year. There may be some decrease too, in net imports of all fats, oils, oilseeds into the U. S. in 1948." (Last year, USDA figures show, the U. S. imported 400 millions pounds more fats and oils than it exported, but prewar net import salvaged 1 billion 5000 million pounds which means that current net imports are more than 1. 1 billiond pounds below prewar.) Whale oil imports are restricted under international agreements, and currently its production is only 60 percent of prewar, while copra production in the Netherlands East Indies is only 25 percent of requirements."

CARDINAL TRY-OUT CAMP ALL SET FOR THURS., FRI., AND SAT., AT LOGANSPORT

As has been previously announced, the St. Louis Cardinals will conduct a three-day try-out camp for young baseball hopefuls at Riverside Park, Logansport, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 8, 9, 10.

Two of the Red Bird's ace scouts, George Silvey and Jack Sturdy, will be in Logansport to supervise the workouts. There will be drills in running fielding, hitting a ndthrowing. The camp activities will be concluded by a game between teams made up of players in attendance at the camp. Drills are scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock each morning and continue throughout the day, enabas they go through their paces. All ling the scouts to wacth the players those found qualified for professional baseball will be offered contracts. Such Cardinal regular as "Red" Schoendienst, Marty "Mr. Shortstop" Marion, and Enos Slaughter were discovered in Red Bird try-out out camps, and the scouts are continually on the lookout for more potential stars.

All boys between the ages of 17 and 23 are invited to attend. Those who have not yet graduated from high school are requested not to attend, for the Cardinals wish to comply with the Indiana High School rule, and do not want to affect any player's eligibility. Those who do attend are asked to bring their own glove and baseball shoes, and uniforms if they have them. The Cardinals will supply bats, balls, and any youngster that is signed to contract will be reimbursed for any expense incurred in attending the camp.

CLERK STEELE CANNOT FIND MEN FOR DEKALB COUNTY DRAFT BOARD

County Clerk Murray A. Steele reported last Thursday that he has dumped back into the lap of the Indiana selective service organization the problem of selecting a DeKalb draft board to determine inductions for the forthcoming draft.

Mr. Steele, after a futile search for several weeks to gain the consent of six male residents over 35 as nominees for the position, notified the state organization their selection of a board would have to come from other means.

County clerks were requested to send the state six nominees for the board, from which a group of three was to be selected. The local clerk said he was unable to find eligible persons in the county who were willing to serve.

The notification was sent to Lt. Col. F. Lyle Summers of Fort Benj. Harrison, Indianapolis, a possible choice to head the peacetime draft. The first draft registration is set for Aug. 16.

L. B. Shackleford, an assistant to Summers, said recently that "a large percentage" of draft board memebers have indicated that they are willing to served again if needed

When the DeKalb board closed its office in May of 1947, the board members have indicated that they burn, chairman; Rev. Van W. Hinckley, Auburn, secretary; and Ira C. Williams, Auburn, member. Mr. Wiliams died several months ago. When the draft office was closed the local members, along with other board members, were put on an inactive status.

HUGE OUTLAYS PLANNED IN COUNTY FOR REPAIRS

An estimated $793,000 will be spent in repairing and modernizing non-farm home in DeKalb county during 1948 ,according to a report just released by the Tile Council oo' America.

That sum will be expended largely expended largely on paintings, repairs to heating equipment, new roofs and plumbing, the report disclosed. "Greater availability of building materials will make possibe a record amount of home improvement throughout the nation this year," declared Malcolm Schweiker, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee.

About 30 of every 100 homes in Indiana will be painted either inside or out, during 1948 and 11 will have heating equipment overhauled or replaced according to the report. Nine will be reroofed and 8 will have plumbing repaired, bathrooms tiled or showers installed, the report revealed.

"To meet demands for material for both new homes and home repairs, productions has been stepped in practically every type of material," said Mr. Schweiker. The output of ceramic tile for bathrooms and kitchens, for instance, is now at the highest rate in history, government reports show.

Throughout the nation between $2,000,000,000 and $3,300,000.000, will be spent this year on home repair, according to the Tile Council report. Every expended for such work. This is belived the largest amount

Town + Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

ONE of the most dangerous farm tools is the ladder, even though it is safer than using boxes or machinery to climb up on to reach high places. The ladder should be set firmly on the ground or floor, and at a safe angle. Place the bottom out one-fourth the ladder's length from the wall. If you plan to use it in one place for a while, it's a good idea to tie it at the top. And when you store your ladder, hang it horizontally on pegs so it won't sag, and so it can be reached easily in case of fire.

Farmers can make their barn work more efficient, and their farms more safe, by applying a few sensible haymow tips. Haymow stairways and loft openings should be equipped with hand rails, and the hay chute frames should be extended to the top of the hay in a full mow. Make new hay chutes if necessary, and avoid using ladders and stairways as chutes. Hay on ladders and stairsteps makes falling easy.

Before city cousins come for a visit, put all hay-handling equipment where no one will trip on, or bump against it. Pitchforks should not be carried up and down the ladder, either. Have separate forks for barn floor and haymow use. Additional safety tips for the haybarn also make sense: do not put wet hay in the barn, don't smoke or light matches in the barn and, if kerosene lanterns must be used, use them with care.

At first glance, last year's campaign to cut down farm accidents appears encouraging, but the over-all picture of 1947's record was rather gloomy. There were 20,000 fewer farm work injuries as the result of accidents in 1947 than 1946 but—the net loss in dead and injured was exactly the same as in 1946—19,500 killed and 1,600,000 injured. Don't say "It can't happen to me!"

In 1789 the attorney general of the United States was paid $1500 a year and he was expected to provide his own office, fuel stationery and clerk.

AUTOMOBILE CHECK PROGRAM PRODUCES REDUCES

Indiana's statewide vehicle safety check produced immediate results in a 21 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities during the period May 15 to June 26, according to figures released today by the Indiana Traffic safety commission.

During the similar six week period last year, when there was no safe car conditioning program 124 persons were killed in traffic accidents, while this year, in spite of the increased traffic, fatalities dropped to 98, according to state police tabulations.

During the "Check Your Car-Check Accidents" Program, local police and sheriff departments and state police gave a comprehensive safty check to approximately 200,000 of Indiana's nearly one million passenger cars. Many other car were checked at repair shops.

Preliminary tabulation of the final week's reports from police checks all over the state show that in spite of an intensive direct contact and pubicity program to correct far too many cars being driven in an unsafe condition, James D. Harrison, Safety Commission director said. The percentage of cars showing hazardous defects dropped from 38 of every 100 the first week of every 100 in the final week of the six-week "check" program.

"Therefore, while 'Operation CY-CCA' can be called a real success," he said, "it points up that there must be year-round vigilance on the part of local and state police to protect the driver and pedestrian from bad brakes; obscured glass; bad rearview mirrors; non-operating or missing windshield wipers; dangerous tires."

One Last Meanness

Old Angus MacNab had been a hard, cruel man, and among his relatives the news of his suicide had been received with more rejoicing than sorrow. But his son, Sandy, in whose home the old man had met his quietus, persisted in moping over the affair.

"Sandy," admonished a brutally frank acquaintance, "why do you carry on so? The old man was a regular torment to everybody, and you know, down deep in your heart, you're glad he's gone."

"That I am," admitted Sandy. "It's cruel to admit it, but it's true."

"You're not thinking he suffered, when he took off, are you? He just turned on the gas and went to sleep. So what's eating on you?"

"Mon, oh, mon," groaned Sandy, "just look at this terrible gas bill the old coot left me!"

RITES FOR LT. OTTO KAELLNER HELD HERE WEDNESDAY

Funeral rites for Lt. Otto E. Kaellner, son of Mrs. Herman Kaellner, of Lake George, were held at Freemont and at the Lutheran church at St. Joe, Wednesday afternoon. Burial was made at the Riverside Cemetery here.

Lt. Kaellner was killed in 1943 while serving with the Army Air Force in Europe. He was awarded two Distingushed Flying Crosses, an Air Medal with 11 oak leaf clusters, and the Purple Heart.

Lt. Kaellner enlisted in the Army in 1937 upon his graduation from Freemont High School and served for three years. He re-enlisted in 1941. Kaellner, along with his brothers attended school at this place before moving to Fremont. He is survived by the mother, four brothers and three sisters.

The Freemont American Legion post conducted the services.

DEKALB COUNTY FARMERS MAY OBTAIN WHEAT LOAN

A loan rate of $2.09 per bushel for No. 1 wheat is being offered to DeKalb Coupnty Farmers, $2.08 for No. 2 wheat and $2.06 for No. 3 wheat.

To obtain this loan the farmer may furnish storage for the wheat or if he does not care to store the wheat himself he may deliver the wheat to the Auburn Grain Co., who in turn will ship the wheat to an approved warehouse.. In this case the farmer will be given a warehouse receipt for the number of bu. of wheat that he delivered to the elevator and he may obtain a loan on this warehouse receipt by presenting it to the DeKalb County AAA office.

We have been promised storage for 15,000 bushel of loan wheat and any farmer wanting a warehouse loan should notify either this office or the Auburn Grain Company as to the approximate number of bushel they will want storage for.

The farmer may pay off his loan and sell the wheat, whether stored on farm or in warehouse, at anytime before May 1, 1949.

There will be no purchase agreement offered to the farmer by the Government this year.

For additional information contact the County AAA office.

FARM BUREAU

The July meeting of the Tri-Twp. Farm Bureau was held at Alton Park. The meeting was called to order by chairman, Carl Carpenter. Devotions followed the song "Church in the Wildwood". A reading was given by Janet Jarrett entitled, "The Church". It was decided to hold the annual outdoor meeting at Alton Park, Aug. 3. Ladies are asked to bring cakes.

Paul Hanna chief chemist at Swifts, will speak on "Weed Control by use of 2-4D."

After the business meeting, Jay Olinger showed pictures taken on a recent trip to Florida, also of the tulip gardens at Holland, Mich. Refreshments of soft drinks and cookies were served.

INDIANA FARMERS BUILD TWO THOUSAND FARM PONDS IN 2 YEARS

More than 2,000 Indiana farm ponds have been built during the past two years, according to Outdoor Indiana, official publication of the Indiana Department of Conservation. The article points out that these are "farm ponds alone --- figures are not available for the number of lakes built for recreational and other purposes (of which) there have been a great many, which is not surprising when the advantages of such bodies of water are considered."

Outdoor Indiana's views on manmade lakes and ponds are summed up in the June issue as " A Farm Pond is more than a Hog Wallow". To quote: "Water stored in farm ponds in times of plentiful rainfall for use in times of drought is now a common practice, and pasture land not the water supply, has become the limiting factor in stock raising. Among the hills of little Ohio county there are a total of 524 farms and 300 ponds."

Other material in this month's issue of Outdoor Indiana includes and unusual article which should appeal to both the country boy and the city boy——"A Business Man's View of Conservation." Rounding out the magazine are such subjects as forestry, stream pollution, conservation clubs and our number one Hoosier game bird, the bob-white quail.

Some Fish Lore

Did you ever wonder why fish choose gravel beds instead of sand flats in which to spawn their eggs? One reason is that the casings of the eggs are so soft that particles of sand would puncture them, but the pieces of gravel, in proportion to the eggs, are blunt and will not cut.

TRAFFIC OFFICIALS CONDUCT A SPEED SURVEY NEAR EDGEWOOD, INDIANA

Traffic Department officials of the State Highway Commission in cooperation with the State Police recently conducted a speed survey on Ind. 431 in Edgewood, south of here, using the commission's newly purchased radar Speed meter. The section checked is a 30 M. P. H. zone and Patrolman issued warning stickers to individuals found traveling in excess of that speed.

Conducted between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m. the survey revealed that a large percentage of motorists passing through the zone exceeded the ilmit. However, only those drivers proceeding 40 M. P. H. or more received warning tickets. State Poilce officals stressed the fact that although a warning ticket does not require an appearance in court, a copy is filed with the Department of Public Safety thereby giving motorist a "record" which may be used against him in the event of future arrest.

According to Highway Traffic Engineers, the prime purpose of the new radar device is to assist them in determining the efficiency of existing speed zones and the need for any new zones.

For this type of survey, in addition to the radar set, there are three "three-way-radio" police cars used. This type of radio equipment permits patrol cars to communicate directly rather than through headquartors. One car is stationed at the point of pick-up by the radar set the other cars are stationed two miles down the highway from that point one in each direction.

When a car passes through the zone at high speed; (1) the Speed Meter automatically registers it's exact speed: (2) The patrolman on duty there notes the indication of a violation (the meter reads directly in miles per hour', and radios a description of the speeder's car to one of the waiting patrol cars: (3) The speeding motorist is flagged down and receives a warning ticket.

Using the radar device in this manner is an experimental project o fthe State police and the Traffic Department of the State Highway Commission. Indiana is one of the first states to own and operate equipment of this kind.

Left: George Groves, of the State Highway Traffic Department and Corporal Paul of the State Police, watch for indications of a violation on the Highway Commission's radar Speed Meter. Center: Corporal Paul after reading the speed of a violator, radios a description of the car to Patrolmen waiting two miles down the road. Righ: Patrolman Funk, after receiving the message, hails down the driver of the speeding car. Some violators were found to betraveling 48 M. P. H. in a 30 M. P. H.zone.

GUM INFECTIONS

GUMS are normally pink and firm and cling closely to the teeth. Sometimes a collection of tartar around the teeth starts irritation and the gums become swollen and reddened. Tartar accumulates rapidly in any mouth that is not regularly cleaned, and even brushing regularly may not eliminate all of it. The teeth should be cleaned by a dentist.

Most of the tartar forms near the places where the saliva comes from the salivary glands. When tartar accumulates in large amounts, the gums bleed easily. Then the germs which are continuously present in the mouth attack the affected tissues. If the infection becomes more serious, chronic pyorrhea, which means chronic pus infection of the gums, may occur. If the damage has been too severe, the complete cure of pyorrhea may be difficult, if not impossible. The pockets under the gums increase in depth and tartar continues to increase in amount. Portions of food as well as bacteria get into the teeth and clog the openings of the pockets, permitting the formation of small abscesses.

Sometimes trench mouth, also known as Vincent's angina, occurs. These germs spread easily from one person to another and cause epidemics. Proper control of Vincent's angina demands the best possible care by your dentist, or if needs be, by your physician.

Lack of Oxygen

Lack of oxygen, or asphyxia, kills some 50,000 persons annually in the United States. Of these, 30,000 are newborn babies. The rest, children and adults, succumb to choking, submersions, gases, electric shock, diseases and accidents that cut off the oxygen fanning the spark of life.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

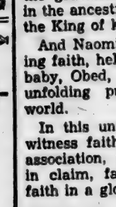
By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Ruth.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 23:6-9.

Naomi, Woman Of Faith

Lesson for July 18, 1948

IF WE are to understand Ruth, cherished heroine of the book bearing her name, we must know Naomi, her mother-in-law—woman of faith in God and surpassing patience and sacrifice in service to her day and generation.



Dr. Newton

It is the Book of Ruth which we have for Sunday's lessons, with Psalms 23:6-9 as the devotional reading. The golden text, "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God," Ruth 1:16.

IN SEARCH OF BREAD

FAMINE in Judah, where Elimelech and his wife, Naomi, and their sons, Mahlon and Chilion, dwelt, drove them to Moab, in search of bread. Elimelech died, and the sons married young women of Moab, Ruth and Orpah. And then the sons died. Naomi, feeling that she must not longer remain in Moab, announced her intention to return to her native land, and bade Ruth and Orpah farewell. In one brief decade Naomi had lost husband and sons, and now she longed for home.

"INTREAT ME NOT TO LEAVE THEE"

ORPAH accepted Naomi's suggestion, and turned away to her own people; but not so with Ruth. She loved Naomi. She could not give her up. Naomi had done something for Ruth in those years of sorrow and loss.

"Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou diest, I will die, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me."

With these sublime words, Ruth lashed herself to Naomi, and together they started on the long trek to Bethlehem.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS

HERE we witness conquering faith—conquering faith in the hearts of Naomi and Ruth. And they come to Bethlehem. It was the harvest season, and Naomi directed Ruth to glean in the field of Boaz, a wealthy and generous-hearted citizen of Bethlehem. Faith in action! And the world loves the story of Ruth becoming the wife of Boaz, and thus the mother of Obed, the grandfather of David the king in the ancestral line of Jesus Christ, the King of kings.

And Naomi, through her conquering faith, held in her arms the little baby, Obed, and dreamed of God's unfolding purposes to bless the world.

In this unsurpassed romance we witness faith in adversity, faith in association, faith in conduct, faith in claim, faith in confidence, and faith in a glorious climax.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS

LIFE is always ennobled when faith conquers. It is easy to imagine how history might have missed this beautiful love story, had not Naomi been a woman of conquering faith. She might have given up and over to her great sorrow and pined away in grief and defeat.

But Naomi followed the gleam. And her trust in God shed its gentle glow into the lonely heart of the Moabite widow, Ruth. Ruth clave unto Naomi. She could not do otherwise. "Truth is stranger than fiction."

And all history was enriched. It is ever so when faith conquers. Thus the poet states the case:

"God moves in mysterious ways,
His wonders to perform,
"He plants his footsteps on the sea,
And rides upon the storm."

Faith

I cannot conceive that God could make such a species as the human merely to live and die on this earth. If I did not believe in a future state, I should believe in no God.

—John Adams.

Where there is no faith, there can be no endeavor.

Believe In Life

To believe in immortality is one thing, but it is first needful to believe in life.—Stevenson.

What is the highest secret of victory and peace? To will what God wills, and strike a league with destiny.—W. R. Alger.

KLINE'S DAIRY

As shown in the picture, the plant of Kline's Dairy here in St Joe is clean and sanitary throughout and it has been the endeavor of Mr. Maurice Kline, the owner, to offer the people of this region the best that can be had in pure pasteurized milk, cream and other dairy products.
